One Phase OF THE New Woman

It is quite the thing just now to make sport of the aggressiveness of the new woman, but there is one thing that the new woman is fitting herself to do, for which she mus be commended, and that is, either to earn her own living or to implement her ordinary income. If the inclination of the new woman is towards independence and freedom from restraint, it is equally in the direction of improvement of her condition and betterment of her surrounding. In various honourable ways she earns money without resorting to drudgery. The Song of the Shirt has no place in her vocabulary. She may work with her pen or her brush, or her voice or her musical touch may be made to contribute to her creature comforts; but by far the larger number of women of all ages and in various walks of life earn their livelihood, in part or in whole, from the skillful employment of their needle. Knowing how to do it is the great secret, and every lady of ordinary intelligence can learn how to do the most artistic and elaborate crocheting, knitting and embroidery by following up the simple lessons in the Corticelli Home Needlework Magazine. The spring number of this admirable quarterly is now ready for delivery, and, like its predecessors, is a marvel of usefulness and beauty, and furnishes valuable instructions in the art of French lace embroidery, modern lace making, embroidered shirt waists, new centrepiece designs, crocheted purses and bags, etc.

The magazine is profusely illustrated in coloured and black prints, and is sold for 10c a number or 35c per annum. Address

THE GOSPEL OF PROSPERITY.

From the Toronto World (Conservative.)

As someone has observed, if the nineteenth century was marked by marvelous material advancement in the United States, the twentieth century, judging from the signs of the times, will be characterized by momentous developments in Canada. Last century belonged to the Republic, and this appears to be the special property of the Dominion.

The United States is perhaps nearing the zenith of its prosperity, its agricultural lands have all been occupied, and it is estimated that the American farm population is overflowing into Western Canada at the rate of 40,000 per annum. There is also noticable in other parts of Canada an infux of United States capital and labour for the development of our mineral, forest and other natural resources.

Manitoba and the Territories last year yielded 65,000,000 bushels of wheat, and it is estimated that within ten or fifteen years our great Western plains will annually produce 200,000,000 bushels. The verification of this forecast to the extent of even one-half would suffice to build the prosperity of the nation upon, and we have besides the important developments, agricultural and otherwise, proceeding in New or Greater Ontario, the exploitation of our pulp forests, and the erection of pulp and paper mills with the wide world as the market for their output, and the immense industrial operations going on in connection with our coal and iron deposits in the far east, our iron mines in the middle west, and our coal fields in the far west.

So rapid in fact, has been our commercial and industrial expansion of late that neither our banks nor our railways, have been able to cope with the increased business with which they have been taxed. The result is seen in the increased capitalization of old banks and in the establishment of new banks on the one hand and in the projection and construction of important new railways on the other.

We Canadians ourselves and the outside world have begun to recognize this country's immense natural resources, and we think that the wave of prosperity will gather momentum from year to year for a long time to come.

We preach the gospel of prosperity, and venture the opinion that this generation of young Canadians will possess material wealth beyond all the imaginations of their fathers. If this much-favoured generation gets along with this material wealth a proportionate sense of its accompanying moral ,national and imperial responsibilities the future has much greatness in store for Canada.

A TIME OF DANGER!

Thousands in Peril From Blood Diseases and Nerve Troubles Developed During the Winter Months.

Paine's Celery Compound

The Great Spring Blood Purifier, Nerve Bracer and Health Builder.

Paine's Celery Compound is the wonder of the age! Its marvellous virtues are discussed amongst interested medical men, and its cures are talked of at every fireside.

As a spring health-giver, Paine's Celery Compound stands far ahead of all other known remedies; it has no worthy competitor in the vast field of medicine.

To a large extent, the present popularity of Paine's Celery Compound is due to the fact that it has accomplished some of its most astonishing cures in the spring season—a time when men and women usually complain of ill health, loss of vitality, tired feelings—a time when people feel dull, listless, despondent and ambitionless.

To-day, there are thousands of business men, mechanics, farmers, and dear wives and mothers too, who, though able to walk around, are nevertheless sadly "out of health."

At this season, Paine's Celery Compound is the great health restorer and strength-giver for the "out of health" people—for those who are perilously nearing some organic disease. Paine's Celery Compound used at once, will quickly remove every trace of poison from the blood, brace up the weak nerves, build up the tissues and tone the digestive organism.

If you, dear reader, feel that your health is not as robust and vigorous as it should be, let us honestly suggest the use of Paine's Celery Compound that has so wonderfully blessed your neighbours and friends. Be assured, "it makes sick people well."

Roy Williams of Winona was brought to the Hamilton General Hospital Thursday, where one of his legs was amputated. His foot caught in the hind wheel of a wagon he was hanging on behind, and he was carried around on it for some distance. The boy's right leg was terribly torn and broken, about four inches of the bone protruding.

After taking three boxes she was able to eat anything without the slightest distress. Sixty tablets, 35 cents. 24

PEACE SAYS THE MAIL

London Paper States That Boers Accept the British Terms.

BOERS ARE MORE REASONABLE

The Boers Abandon Objections on the Three Points of Disagreement—No Communication Yet Had With Mr. Kruger—Spion Kop Despatches Published—Lord Roberts on One of Buller's Messages.

London, April 18.—The Daily Mail claims to have authority to announce that basis of peace have been practically agreed upon at Pretoria, but it says that some little time will elapse before the details of the plan can be perfected. The paper adds that, upon finding on Wednesday that the British Government refused to modify its terms with regard to amnesty, banishment and responsible Government, the Boer delegates met again on Thursday. The British decision practically leaving them the alternative of accepting the British terms or breaking up the conference was then communicated to them, and the delegates proved much more reasonable.

When Lord Milner, the British High Commissioner in South Africa, promised the delegates one or two seats on the legislative council, subject to the approval of the Government and pending the restoration of a responsible Government, they practically agreed to accept the British terms.

Some details, continues The Daily Mail, which are not likely to create difficulty, still remain to be settled.

Lord Milner has summoned an Australian expert from Johannesburg, who is to assist in estimating the cost of rebuilding and restocking the Boer farms.

The delegates, the paper concludes, have acted so far quite independently of their representatives in Holland.

Dr. Hans Sauer, a loyalist Afrikander, who spoke at Bradford last night, was not optimistic about the Boer-British peace negotiations. He said he thought it quite probable that the Boers would ask Great Britain for £50,000,000 or £90,000,000 and agree in return to clear out of South Africa altogether.

Extreme Demands Abandoned.

London, April 18.—The Paris correspondent of The Times quotes the views expressed by Boer exiles in Holland and Belgium. He says the Boers in Europe know that sacrifices must be made, but cannot consent to sacrifices amounting to a kind of suicide. The Boers must be able to live freely and proudly, not as the slaves of anybody and not bearing humiliations.

SPION KOP DESPATCHES.

Extreme Bitterness of the Controversy Again Shown.

London, April 18.—All the official despatches referring to the defeat sustained by the British troops under Gen. Buller at Spion Kop, Natal, January 24, 1900, were given out yesterday morning. Those hitherto unpublished merely emphasize how hopelessly muddled were the preparations for that engagement. The controversy between Gen. Buller and General Sir Charles Warren is proved to have been even more bitter than previously hinted at, while a new extract from one of Lord Robert's despatches brings additional censure on General Buller.

Lord Roberts declares that General Buller's endeavor to put the responsibility for the defeat on General Warren was not justifiable. Roberts holds that it was Buller's duty to intervene when he saw things were going wrong. This remark was caused by a despatch from Buller, in which he says: "I saw no attempt on the part of Warren to either grapple with the situation or command his forces himself. We lost our chance by Warren's slowness. He seems to me to be a man who can do well what he can do himself, but who cannot command. I can never employ him again on an independent command. I ought to have assumed command myself when I saw things were not going well. I blame myself now for not doing so."

Buller explains that he failed to supersede Warren because it might have discredited the latter with the troops, which was an especially serious matter, as, if Buller had been shot, Warren would have succeeded to the supreme command.

The question of the responsibility for the actual retreat from Spion Kop is shrouded in a maze of despatches proving that a mistake was made in sending out a heliograph message, and that there was a general desire to shirk the onus.

Lynch Led Boer Forces.

London, April 18.—Although there is no indication that Col. Arthur Lynch (who formerly fought on the Boer side in the South African war, and who was elected to represent Galway City in Parliament in November last) has any intention of placing himself within reach of the British courts, the Government is bringing witnesses from South Africa to testify in support of the charges brought against Col. Lynch. Lewis Handley, an American by birth, but a naturalized British subject, and a farmer of the vicinity of Glencoe, Natal, landed in England yesterday morning. He says Col. Lynch was the leader of a Boer force, principally composed of Irishmen, which raided his farm in 1900, confiscated his stock and other movables, and destroyed his crops. Lynch informed Handley that he was a British subject.

This morning a contingent of 80 to 100 men is expected to arrive in Montreal, and will leave here with the Montreal men. Preparations for transportation have been completed. The men are turning out splendidly. Capt. Andrews, who has charge of the firing examinations, stated yesterday that the men had given good satisfaction. Wednesday 26 men were examined, and yesterday morning 13 men were put through the test. In the afternoon there were about 20 more.

CHINESE REBELS WITH MAUSERS.

Hold Over 30 Towns and Villages in the Province of Kwang Si.

Hong Kong, April 17.—A Chinese banker who fled from the Province of Kwang Si and has arrived here, says the rebels in that province hold over thirty towns and villages, and that they are well armed with Mauser rifles and revolvers, which were smuggled into Kwang Si from the French Protectorate of Annam by contrabandists disguised as opium merchants. The rebels have adopted the name of the Hung Siu Chuen, the famous leader of the Tai Ping rebellion. They have placarded the country with announcements that the present dynasty has sold parts of China to foreign powers. These posters urge the people to resist the collection of taxes for the payment of the international indemnity.

Died on the Street.

Guelph, April 18.—Mr. Alexander Murray of London, electrical inspector of the G. N. W. Telegraph Company, died almost instantly yesterday morning in front of ex-Mayor Hewers' flour and feed store, on MacDonnell street. At the request of the Lyons Electric Company, Brantford, he came here to inspect the wiring of the Massey building at the Ontario Agricultural College. At the station he was met by Mr. Arthur Lyons, and they walked up the street, chatting together, when suddenly Murray was taken with hemorrhage of the lungs. He sank to the pavement and expired in a few minutes. Medical aid was promptly summoned, but it was of no avail. Mr Murray was about 35 years of age. He leaves a widow, but no family.

Nothing Like Malt Breakfast Food

For Nourishing and Making the Little Ones Happy.

The proper feeding and nourishing of the child just after weaning should engage the most serious attention of the mother. The great majority of prepared foods produce irritation of the stomach and bowels because of their improper and unscientific manufacture. This irritation of the digestive organs develops into serious complications that often prove fatal.

Malt Breakfast Food is the ideal health food for our little ones. It is entirely free from starchy substances, easily digested and assimilated, is richer in flesh and bone producing elements than all other foods, and has a deliciousness that at once captivates the taste of every child. If you desire to see your child grow up strong, try the effects of Malt Breakfast Food for a few weeks, and note well the grand results. Your grocer can supply you.

Provincial Acts Upheld.

Toronto, April 18.—The Attorney-General's Department has received the decision of the Court of Appeal on the case stated for their opinion regarding the constitutionality of the Ontario act respecting the profanation of the Lord's Day. The court upholds the act, Chief Armour dissenting from his colleagues. The act was questioned as transgressing upon the domain of the Dominion Parliament's right to regulate communications between the provinces. The decision given out by the Court of Appeal makes it plain, however, that corporations acting under legislative authority from the Dominion Government, or their employes, did not come within the provisions of the Ontario act.

Judgment was given out by the Court of Appeal on the case stated by the Attorney-General as to the Legislature's power to enact the law allowing municipalities the right to prohibit the issuing of trading stamps. The court upholds the act.

EARNEST ADVICE.

A Quebec Gentleman Offers a Plain, Straightforward and Truthful Statement of His Case and its Cure for the Benefit of Other Sufferers.

There can be no more worthy motive than desire to help another.

There are but few who after having suffered and found a cure hesitate to give their fellow sufferers the benefit of their experience.

As there are many to-day whose lives are being rendered miserable by the tortures of Dyspepsia and other Stomach Troubles, the story of Ademard Coderre, of St. Jacques de L'achigan, Que., which he declares is told for the sole purpose of helping other similar sufferers, will be read with interest.

Mons. Coderre says:

"I certify to having suffered the greatest misery for two years with Dyspepsia, caused by inflammation of the stomach.

"I have taken many medicines and treatments but failed to find anything that would give me any relief.

"I was very low spirited and discouraged, and many times felt like giving up.

"At last one day I chanced to read an account of the cure of Dyspepsia performed by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and after thinking the matter over I decided to commence a treatment.

"I bought two boxes and began to use them at once. I noticed an improvement almost from the very first, and was thus encouraged to continue till now I can confidently assert that I am completely and satisfactorily cured.

"I have not the slightest symptom of Dyspepsia or any form of Stomach Trouble left.

"I can eat and drink as heartily as ever and experience not the slightest distress afterwards.

"I desire to make my case known to the public so that all who may be suffering from that awful malady may know that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured me of this very serious case, and that they may be led to use this remedy which I believe to be the only one that will perfectly cure Dyspepsia."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets promptly and effectually cure even the most serious and aggravated cases.

Infants too young to take medicine may be cured of croup, whooping cough and colds by using Vapo-Cresolene—they breathe it.

Wear "Slater Shoes" and you will get nothing else but Goodyear Welt shoes, because no other kinds of shoes but Goodyear Welts are made in the "Slater" factory.

Be careful that you get a real "Slater Shoe" with the slate frame on the sole or the lining—the words "The Slater Shoe" and the price—nothing more. Sold only by "Slater Shoe" agents—$3.50, $5.00. "The Slater Shoe."

Well Patronized.

Bradburn's opera house was crowded to the doors last night when the comedy-drama, "Side-tracked" was put on the stage by a strong company of artists. Scammon's plays always take well in Peterborough and last night's production was no exception to the rule; the audience being kept in roars of laughter from start to finish. The specialties were all high-class and the demands for repeat numbers were continuous.

St. Luke's Church.

To-night the adjourned vestry meeting will be held, and all the members and adherents of St. Luke's are invited. The rector will read his annual address, and reports from all societies will be received. A large attendance, both of ladies and gentlemen, is looked for. After the meeting refreshments will be served. The Mission Band meets to-morrow at 2 p.m.

A Great Singer.

The following is taken from the St. Johns, N.B., Daily Telegraph concerning Miss Maclachlan's appearance in that city; "There never was heard in St. John a concert so thoroughly enjoyed by so many people as was that at the Opera House last night. It was in fact a great singer giving with all her soul the songs of the land she loved."

BANQUET AT McCALLUM'S.

Privates Vic Hamilton, Tom Anglesyc, Jas. Judd, C. Frost and V. Wilson Dined.

The dining room of McCallum's Restaurant, was the scene of a farewell banquet last evening tendered to Ptes. Thos. Anglesyc, Jas. Judd, V. Hamilton, C. Frost and V. Wilson, prior to their departure for the scene of hostilities in South Africa.

The banquet was given by a number of the intimate friends of the young heroes, and was a most enjoyable affair in every particular.

The chair was occupied by Mr. W. Crowley, and the vice-chair by Mr. Jas. O'Brien. Seated around the festive board together with the soldier guests were noticed Messrs. J. Dennaird, Wm. Grady, George Lynch, H. Hogan, John Sheridan, E. Dillon, S. Hoolihan, D. McCabe, H. Dunsford, R. H. Leary, F. Derocher, H. Gunsolis, T. Meredith, W. Cox, John Gorham, R. Walsh, E. Doherty, John McCabe, E. Mahoney, Jas. Anglesyc, R. Gobeen, B. Anglesyc, F. Whaley, F. Hurley, John O'Brien, Raymond Stortz, W. O'Brien, B. Gibson, Joe O'Brien and T. Glover.

After ample justice had been done to the good things provided, an excellent toast list was run off. "The King," was the first toast on the list and was duly responded to. The toast, "Our Guests," it is needless to say, was responded to by the brave young men to whom the banquet was tendered. Neat speeches were made, which breathed the spirit of gratitude and thanks to their friends for the tribute of the evening. They were determined to do their duty as Canadians, and as representatives of the banner town of the Dominion.

As several of the soldier boys were members of the different athletic organizations of the town, the toast "Vatican Lacrosse Club and Kindred Sports," followed. It brought speeches from H. Dunsford, J. Anglesyc and D. McCabe. "The Ladies" had two eloquent champions in Mr. W. Grady and Mr. G. Lynch.

"Our Host" was fittingly responded to by Mr. McCallum, and the affair was brought to a close by the singing of "God Save the King."

During the evening Mr. Sam Houlihan and Mr. George Lynch furnished the gathering with several excellent vocal numbers. A pleasing feature in the programme was the presentation of a handsome ring to Mr. Vic. Hamilton by some of his friends.

The presentation was made by Mr. Ed. Dillon, whilst Mr. Jack Gorham read the following address :

To Victor Hamilton, on the eve of his departure for South Africa, as a member of the Fourth Contingent, Canadian Mounted Rifles;

Dear Sir,—We, your friends and companions, take this opportunity of manifesting our appreciation of your devotion to the interests of that Great Empire of which we form a part.

You will be missed, not only by the members of your own immediate family, but by many friends and companions to whom you have endeared yourself by your kindness and genial desposition. You have always taken a deep interest in sports and all matters pertaining to your native village, and your departure will be a serious loss to the Athletic Lacrosse Club, which will be hard to fill.

We most heartily approve of the patriotic spirit which has prompted you to respond most nobly to your country's call for duty, and we feel confident that you will uphold the honour of your native village as well on the parched veldts and stony kopjes of South Africa, as on the athletic field.

We ask you to accept this small gift not for its intrinsic value, but as a mark of appreciation of your friends.

We trust that the God of Battles will watch over you and guide you in all your actions, and at the conclusion of this great war bring you safely back to your home and friends.

THE BANQUET AT THE Y. M. C. A.

A Highly Enjoyable Affair Last Night.

A BRILLIANT TOAST LIST.

Mr. F. D. Kerr Occupied the Chair—Some Excellent Speeches Made—The Work of the Local Association.

The Annual Members' Banquet of the Y.M.C.A. was held in the gymnasium of that institution last evening, and from every point of view was a hugh success—indeed, it was but a fitting close to a season that, as far as results are concerned, has known no equal since Y.M.C.A. gymnasium work was inaugurated.

The decorations in the gymnasium were even beyond a pen-picture. It looked as if the Decorating Committee, with Mr. W. Barrie at its head, had worked all day for several days, and spent their nights devising schemes, the result of which could not have failed to please even the most critical. Not only were flags and bunting in evidence, but every game in which the members of the Association indulge was represented. Canada's heroes were not forgotten either, for at one end of the gallery there hung the picture of the late Dan Spence, and round about it pictures of prominent British generals, besides rifles, etc. The many compliments paid the Decorating Committee must have repaid them for their labours.

The tables and bill-of-fare, under the control of the Ladies' Auxiliary, was, of course, the feature of the evening. The Auxiliary plays no inferior part in the affairs of the Association, and the good things provided last night raised up the standard of efficiency on the part of the ladies even higher than it has been in times past, if raising it was possible.

The grand attack on the eatables was commenced shortly after eight o'clock, and the dishes so carefully prepared by the ladies gradually decreased in size until the chairman, Mr. F. D. Kerr, called time, and proposed the first toast, that of the King. He said there wasn't any doubt about the loyalty of the Y.M.C.A for its members were fighting the battles of the Empire, and at present the local Association had four members at the front. The toast of the King was drunk, and followed by loud applause.

"Canada—It's Place in the Empire," was next on the list, and ably handled by Mr. R. M. Dennistoun. There was a time, he said, when Canada had not the place in the Empire it enjoys to-day. The high position it now holds is due to the men—Canadians—who have given their all to the building up of a great nation, and in this class there were three prominent men, who, although adverse in their political opinions, had united to build up a nation. These men were Sir John A. Macdonald, Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, and Sir Wilfred Laurier. He paid a glowing tribute to these men, and hoped in the future that race and religious differences would be forgotten, and that Canada would show the world how to live in peace and harmony.

The name of Col. E. B. Edwards was coupled with this toast, and he, in an able manner, gave his views on the federation of the English speaking people.

A solo by Mr. Gilbert Scott, in the form of a witty parody, brought forth loud applause from the audience.

The names of Messrs. Ackerman, J. H. Smith and F. H. Dobbin were coupled with "The men who make the town." These gentlemen united in eulogizing the work of the Y.M.C.A. as an institution that was helping men to fight the battles of life.

Mr. Stanley followed by favouring the gathering with "The Holy City," played on the piano with his wonderful apollo.

"All Round Men" brought to his feet Rev. J. Bastow, who held up Gen. Washington as a man who had no particular virtue shining out, but was developed evenly—all round. The rev. gentleman's remarks were to the point, and called forth the applause they well merited.

Mr. G. H. Williamson, the popular local secretary, thanked all who were so kindly aiding the work, and invited the older members, and strongly urged the younger men, to attend the classes. He said the present association was due to a great extent, to its former secretary, Mr. Colville, who would follow him.

Mr. R. J. Colville, secretary of the West End Y.M.C.A. at Toronto, returned thanks to the Social Committee for inviting him to be their guest at the banquet. He took his hearers back to years gone by, and spoke of those who had borne the brunt of the battle when the association had existed in its darkest hours. Mr. G. M. Roger was mentioned as a gentleman who had played no minor part part in the building up of the Association, and Mrs. Nicholls was not in the least forgotten, inasmuch as the financial part of the work was due to her generosity. He said the Y.M.C.A. was a great union—a federation of young men who desired to improve themselves, and that a true member never failed to give out some of what he received. His address was such as is seldom heard, and the way in which he brought out the different phases of the work, shows that he is an expert and understands his business.

"The Men Who Study," was answered, first, by Mr. A. C. McCallum, who said he owed what education he had to the Y.M.C.A. of Glasgow, Scotland. He said that there were many Scotchmen throughout the world today who could look back to the time the Y.M.C.A. had started them aright in life.

The chairman of the Education Department, Mr. Dixon, and also Mr. Collier, spoke on this subject, their remarks being well received.

Mr. W. D. Campbell followed with a reading on "La Grippe, or Mr. Dooley's Idea of Microbes."

The reading was followed by an instrumental selection by Mr. Stanley's Apollo.

"The Men Who Exercise," brought forward Mr. R. F. McWilliams and Mr. J. Connal, both of whom paid a high compliment to Mr. H. E. Ayers, the Physical Director. The work done had been thorough and the interest the directors had taken in the work had been fully appreciated by the men attending the classes. The senior leaders were also thanked for their co-operation.

Mr. H. E. Ayers, so well and favourably known by all Y.M.C.A. men, did not think the result of the work accomplished was due to his efforts alone, but said that the success of the physical department was attributable rather to the men who had attended the classes so regularly.

While this may be so to a certain extent still there is little doubt but that Mr. Ayers has been the direct cause of all the good work that has been done, and in Mr. Ayers, Peterborough has a young man of exceptional talent, and whose efforts are being appreciated by one and all.

The toast of the Ladies' Auxiliary was ably replied to by Mr. Knapman and Mr. W. S. Robinson, who spoke highly of the work of that body, and said that without them the association would be much lacking. The existence of the Boys' Department was due in a large measure to their efforts, and the Social Committee had much to thank them for. It was the ladies who looked after the furnishing of the rooms, and their work was visible on all sides.

Among the Auxiliary ladies who are deserving of special mention are Mrs. Hamilton, convenor of the Banquet Committee, Mrs. Frost, convenor of the Decorating Committee, and Mrs. Sheriff Hall, convenor of the waiters.

The most successful evening that the Y.M.C.A. has known for some time was then brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem, and the broad smile which Mr. R. Merrill will wear for a few days may be attributed to the fact that the Social Committee, of which he is chairman, feel that their highest anticipations were fulfilled last night.

PETERBOROUGHITES GETTING POINTERS.

Deputation in London to Learn how to Best Manage Water-works System.

(From the London Free Press.)

Peterborough this year took over the waterworks system which a private company had operated in that bustling town since 1883. The city paid $230,000 for the system, but think they have a good thing. There are now 1,100 consumers, and by a judicious extension of the mains it is hoped to double the number. Rates have been high, but will be reduced. The system is operated comparatively cheaply. There is an unlimited supply of water, and not a pound of coal is required to pump it. A dam 650 feet wide stretches across the Otonabee River and affords magnificent power. The town supply also comes from the river, but the water is said to be of great purity, owing to the fact that for nine miles it rushes down the Otonabee rapids.

The Peterborough Water Commission arrived in this city Tuesday night to look over London's famous system of water supply. The party came direct from Peterborough, and comprised Mayor T. H. G. Denne, Commissioner, W. H. Hill, Town Solicitor, E. H. D. Hall, Supt., W. Henderson, and Town Clerk S. R. Armstrong. At 8 o'clock yesterday morning they made the trip to Springbank, and were very greatly pleased with what they saw. The river park delighted them. Engineer Henderson thought the new hydraulic pumps were very much needed. An inspection of the office management was a pleasant surprise. Clerk Armstrong thought the methods there could not be improved upon, Secretary Ellwood having explained these very fully.

The deputation left yesterday afternoon for Windsor, and will also go to Brantford.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mr. Patrick Killen of Ennismore.

The death occurred last week in Ennismore of Mr. Patrick Killen, one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of the Township.

The deceased was born in County Down, Ireland, in March, 1831. His parents came to Canada when he was three years old and settled in the Township of Cavan; there his mother soon died. After this his father moved with his family, into Ennismore, and purchased the farm on which the subject of this sketch died last week. Mr. Killen, some fifty years ago, carried on tailoring in partnership with his brother Samuel, and is yet favourably remembered by old residents. It was here he married Miss Elizabeth Lemansey, who now survives. After his marriage some forty-eight years ago, he commenced farming, and continued it successfully until incapacitated by failing health some two or three years ago. Of his three brothers, and four sisters, only one brother, Mr. James Killen, sr., of Lindsay, survives him. The family consisted of seven sons and one daughter, all of whom, excepting one son, survive him. His funeral was one of the largest ever seen in Ennismore, bearing testimony to the respect in which he was held. He was a devout Roman Catholic, a good neighbor, a loving husband, and an indulgent father, and as such will be missed by many. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, the esteemed pastor, conducted the funeral services. He also referred kindly to the good feeling toward the deceased, at high mass on Sunday. Interment took place in the Roman Catholic cemetery in the afternoon, his six sons acting as pall-bearers. Relatives from Lindsay, Peterborough and Ops were present.

OBITUARY.

(Port Hope Guide.)

Another old and highly respected resident has been called to her long home. Sarah Horner, the subject of this brief notice, was born in the County of Armagh, Ireland, on the 13th of May, 1809, and died on Tuesday, April 15th; was married to her late husband, William McKeown, in 1831, and came to Canada with her husband and young family in 1844. They settled in the Township of Hope, where she has resided until her death. Her husband died seven or eight years ago. Two sons, Robert McKeown, Garden Hill; William McKeown, Manitoba; five daughters, Mrs. Thomas Chalmers, Hope; Mrs. Joseph Jones, Peterborough; Mrs. J. S. McElroy, Hope; Mrs. John Boyd, Manitoba; Mrs. Benjamin Maybee, Hamilton, mourn her departure.

Mrs. McKeown was from early life a consistent member of the Presbyterian church, and as a neighbor highly esteemed by all her acquaintances.

The funeral will take place on Friday, 18th inst., from the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Benj. Maybee, to Knoxville cemetery.

SAID FAREWELL TO "MACK" AND "TOM"

A Rousing Send-off at the Crown Hotel.

TWO PRESENTATIONS MADE.

Pte. Burnham and Pte. Morden Entertained by Their Friends—The Toast List—Songs and Speeches.

The Crown Hotel was the scene of much enthusiasm last night, it being the occasion of a complimentary banquet to Messrs. Thomas H. Burnham and H. M. Morden, on the eve of their departure to South Africa, on the fourth Canadian contingent. There have been many such affairs of the kind in Peterborough, previous to the departure of the many young men who have gone before to serve in the same cause on the South African Veldt, but it is doubtful if any of these little gatherings could compare with the farewell supper that was given Mr. Burnham and Mr. Morden last night. The banquet was given by a number of the personal friends of the two young men. "Mack" and "Tommy" were chums and those who were friends of the one were friends of the other. Under these circumstances the arrangements last night were carried out under the most favourable auspices.

Every person knew Tommy Burnham. He was born and raised in our midst, and during the seven or eight years that he served with the Peterborough Hardware Company he came in contact with many people, all of whom found him to be a man of warm heart, of genial manner and, speaking generally, a real jolly good fellow. His enthusiasm over military matters was known to all and his determination to go and fight the Boers was not a surprise to his most intimate friends. His comrades of No. 4 Company of which there was no more enthusiastic member than Pte. Burnham, and other of his personal friends could not think of allowing him to leave town, more particularly under the present circumstances, without giving him a send-off fitting to the occasion.

It is seldom indeed that a young man becomes so popular and so widely known in a town in the same period of time as it was Mr. Morden's fortune to reside in Peterborough. When he came here one year and three months ago to join the staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce he proceeded forthwith to make himself at home, and he succeeded. Mr. Morden's humour, which was his chief characteristic, drew to his side a wide circle of acquaintances who soon became fast and true friends, and found the young bank clerk to be a man of many sterling qualities.

It is not to wondered at then that the banquet to these two volunteers which was held last night, was attended with so much success. Songs, speeches, presentations, story-telling, etc., made up a most delightful programme and Mr. Burnham and Mr. Morden leave Peterborough assured that they have the best wishes of all classes of citizens.

The chair was occupied by Mr. Harold B. Burnham. To his right sat Pte. Burnham, and to his left sat Pte. Morden. Seated around the table were Messrs. A. J. McClellans, W. T. Hall, Jim Hamilton, P. O. Dumble, P. N. Bell, R. M. Glover, R. Henderson, Frank Bradburn, Stanley Burton, Walter Nicholls, W. K. Hall, A. W. Spence, F. A. Paddon, Dickson Davidson, Harry Rush, Ross Cameron, E. S. Clarry, Geo. C. Burnham, Jack Erskine, Watson, E. O. Bradburn, Llewellyn Hall, A. Terrill and Harry Thompson.

The time for running off the banquet was necessarily short, so after a hurried supper was partaken of the toast of the King was duly honoured, and was followed by the toast of "Our Guests," which was proposed in suitable terms by the chairman.

Pte. Morden and Pte. Burnham, in their replies, thanked the boys for the honour they had done them, and assured those present that their kindness was appreciated. They hoped that they would return again to their native land, but in the meantime they would think of the present associations they had left behind them.

Ptes. Morden and Burnham made their replies amid many demonstrations of enthusiasm and accompanied by three rousing cheers.

"The Army and Navy" was responded to by Lt. W. T. Hall, of the 3rd Dragoons, and Lt. Jim Hamilton of the 57th Regiment, both of whom paid glowing tributes to the two guests of the evening.

Mr. E. S. Clarry, secretary of the C.D.A., presented Pte. Burnham with a handsome pipe. Pte. Burnham was one of the most enthusiastic members of this club, and his departure from town would be keenly felt by the members.

The recipient of the little present replied in suitable terms, after which Mr. A. J. N. Terrill, on behalf of the Knickerbocker Club, presented Mr. Morden with a well filled purse. He too replied in terms of appreciation.

The pleasing duty of proposing the health of the ladies, as usual, fell to Mr. Dickson Davidson, and was replied to by Mr. Burton, who said there were not two more popular men with the fair sex in town than Pte Burnham and Pte. Morden, and the company applauded approvingly.

Messrs. Morden and Burnham had to leave at this juncture, but the banquet proceeded a few minutes longer. Lt. Hamilton proposed the toast of "Success and Promotion to our Representatives," which was replied to by Mr. A. W. Spence, an intimate friend of both young men.

"The Press" was responded to by local representatives present, and Sgt. Miller and Corp. Biggs, who had just entered the banquet hall, were given a warm welcome. They replied in appropriate terms, after which the affair broke up by the singing of the National Anthem.

"B" COMPANY'S SUPPER

In Honour of Sgt. V. LeBar, Corp. Alf. Kemp and Pte. John Bulla.

The members of "B" Company, 57th Regiment, gave a banquet last evening at Harry Long's to two members of the Company, who were leaving for South Africa, viz.—Corp. Alf. Kemp and Pte. John Bulla. Sgt. Vass LeBar was also one of the guests of the evening. The chair was occupied by Captain Clegg and the Vice-chair by Lieut. C. H. Bradburn. After disposing of an excellent menu, a brief toast list was run off, during which short addresses were made by the departing recruits, Capt. Clegg, Lieut. Bradburn and Rev. J. C. Davidson. Vocal solos were also contributed by Rev. J. C. Davidson and Sgt. Edwards. The affair proved to be a most pleasing one and the evening proved all too short.

You see the doctor orders his own medicines for the disease, and has his patient use Vapo Cresolene at the same time. It destroys all germs of diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, and other contagious diseases; and there is no remedy its equal for croup, sore throat and hard colds. You now see why it often cures whooping-cough in a few days. 15

London Butchers Petition to Have Restrictions Removed.

MR. HANBURY STILL REFUSES

Similiar Petitions Are to Be Presented From 130 Cities to Parliament—Meat Famine Feared During Coronation Season—Retail Butchers Going Out of Business Owing to the High Prices.

London, April 18.—A meeting of the Butchers' Association here last night, at which representatives of the entire retail meat trade of London were present, unanimously petitioned Parliament to remove the existing restrictions on the importation of cattle from Canada and Argentine.

The meeting asserted that in view of the reduction in the American meat supply, the action they petitioned was imperative in order to prevent a meat famine during the coronation of the King.

Resolutions similar to those adopted last night will be presented at a meeting of representatives of the meat trade from 120 cities of the United Kingdom, which will be held at Manchester April 22.

In replying to a question in the House of Commons last evening, R. W. Hanbury, president of the Board of Agriculture, said the Government had no reason to apprehend a serious meat shortage, and that it could not entertain a proposal to remove the restrictions on cattle imported from Canada.

Meat Prices Soar.

London, April 18.—The critical condition of the meat trade is by no means over. Prices are still showing an upward tendency, and many retail butchers have declined to purchase at the regular markets.

One of the biggest traders in the Smithfield market said: "We can't sell meat at the prices we are compelled to ask for it."

For the first time in many years some retail butchers are actually closing up their shops, as they are unable to sell meat at the present prices with any margin of profit.

TELEPHONE BILL RESTS.

Senate Committee Appointed to Draft a Clause at Ottawa.

Ottawa, April 18.—The Senate Railway Committee had the Bell Telephone bill before it yesterday.

Senator Beique suggested a clause providing that the Government appoint a commission to enquire into the whole matter. He afterwards modified this and moved an amendment to Senator Miller's amendment that the rates and services be under the control of the Governor-in-Council and that a sub-committee be appointed to draft such an amendment to the bill.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell moved an amendment to this, that the matter be laid over to next year in view of the Government's promise to bring in legislation dealing with the subject next session.

After some discussion as to the status of these amendments Sir Mackenzie Bowell's motion was put and lost. The vote was 13 for and 21 against.

The committee then divided on Senator Beique's motion, in spite of the strong protest of Senator Kirchhoffer, who said it would kill the bill for this session, and it was carried by 23 for and 10 against.

A sub-committee was then appointed consisting of the following members: Senators Bowell, Miller, Loughead, Pelletier, Kirchhoffer, Beique and Fiset, to draft a clause giving the Governor-General control of the rates and services.

NOMINATIONS YESTERDAY.

Thursday night West Toronto Liberals unanimously nominated Ald. Urquhart as their candidate against Mr. Thomas Crawford. He came out flat-footed in favor of public ownership in his speech of acceptance.

By acclamation the Liberal-Conservatives of East Toronto selected Dr. R. A. Pyne as their candidate for the Legislature at the convention held Thursday evening in Dingman's Hall. Others were nominated, but all retired in the doctor's favor.

The Conservative convention for East Nipissing was held in the village of Bonfield. Three nominations were made, namely: Geo. Smith of Mattawa; Alfred Limoges of the Township of Widdifield, and J. M. McNamara, president of the association of North Bay. Messrs. Limoges and McNamara retired, and Mr. Smith's nomination was made unanimous.

THE GROWING TIME.

The Record For a Week's Bank Clearings in Montreal Broken—Brantford Gets G.T.R. Main Line.

The strike in the Brussels district has practically ended.

There is a great rush of immigrants from the South into Manitoba.

The Presbyterian Creed Committee will report on May 13. Their statement contains 16 articles.

Grand Trunk Railway system earnings, April 8 to 14, 1902, $555,073; 1901, $590,342; decrease, $35,269.

The C.P.R. traffic for the week ending April 14 was $704,000; for the same week last year it was $611,000.

The portion of the new British war loan offered for public subscription (£16,000,000), has been over-subscribed thirty to forty times, and is now quoted at one per cent. premium.

The Brantford bylaw to give the G.T.R. $57,000 to divert the main line through Brantford and have all trains stop here was carried by a majority of 1,369, 544 votes over the required number.

The body of Frederick J. Mann, accountant, who disappeared nearly six months ago, was taken from Toronto bay Thursday afternoon. Jas. Ward, a fisherman found the body floating in the slip at the foot of West Market street.

The remains of John Wright, an engineer on the steamer Glengarry, wintering on Wolfe Island, near Kingston, and who disappeared on the night of March 18, were found Thursday in a fence corner on O'Brien's farm, about two miles from Marysville, where he lived.

The record for a week's bank clearings in Montreal has been broken, with a large margin to spare. In round figures, the clearings of the week ending Thursday were $26,000,000, an increase of $8,000,000 over the same period a year ago, and $14,000,000 two years ago.

A sad drowning occurred at Washago. Mr. Thomas McNabb, jr., from near Copper's Falls, about 26 years of age, while walking across the end of Mr. Marshall's mill flume, lost his balance off some loose boards and fell on a rock, about eight feet below. The body was found about an hour later.

A Sluggish Inactive Liver

Brings Biliousness, Indigestion and Most Painful Bodily Derangements—The Wonderful Curative Influence of

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Not only is the liver the largest and one of the most important organs in the human body, but when deranged it becomes the source of endless suffering. When the liver is clogged by the inactivity of the kidneys and bowels it, becomes torpid and fails to filter the bile from the blood, thus producing biliousness and a general impairment of the digestive system.

The tongue is coated, the head aches, digestion is imperfect; there is aching of the limbs, and back, feelings of fullness, weight and soreness over the stomach and liver; the eye becomes yellow and jaundiced, and the complexion muddy; the urine is scanty and highly coloured, and the bowels irregular, constipation and looseness alternating. There is little use of treating the liver separately, as it can never be set right until the kidneys and bowels are made active in removing the waste matter from the body. It is for this very reason that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have always proved so wonderfully successful in curing the most chronic cases of liver complaint, biliousness and complicated ailments of the kidney, liver and bowels.

Mr. James Clark, Consecon, Prince Edward Co., Ont., states:—"Eleven years ago I was taken with pains in my back, settling in my hips and extending up my spine. The pain was very severe, and at times almost unendurable, and many days I was not able to do an hour's work. My weight was reduced from 190 to 160 pounds, and though I had consulted many first-class physicians and tried several advertised medicines, I could get no relief.

"At this time my father-in-law told me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and said he knew they would cure me. I secured a box, and great was my surprise when I began to feel better after using only the one box. I continued their use until I had taken four boxes, which made me a sound man, and I also regained my usual weight, 190 pounds. I cannot say too much in favour of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which have done so much for me. I have recommended them to a number of my friends and have never met with one case where they did not meet with good success. My daughter, Mrs. Chas. Philips, has also been cured of a severe stomach trouble by the use of these pills."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 9

A DAY ON ESTIMATES.

Depression in the House Wednesday Equalled the Exhilation of British Budget Debate on Tuesday.

Ottawa, April 17.—After Tuesday's full-dress debate on the Imperial budget, yesterday's proceedings were lacking in interest, and last evening the attendance was exceedingly small. A number of minor Government measures were introduced, Mr. Fisher's estimates were finished, and some progress was made with Mr. Paterson's. The House rose at midnight.

Mr. Guthrie introduced a bill to amend the Railway Companies' Incorporation Act, by providing that, upon application for charter, a company shall deposit $200 per mile, to be refunded upon the work of construction proceeding, the object being to prevent speculation in railway charters.

An act introduced by Mr. McCarthy has for its object the securing of the better inspection of hides.

A bill, introduced by Mr. Sifton, to amend the Immigration Act, gives the Government authority to prevent the landing in Canada of diseased immigrants.

A bill was also introduced to increase the salaries of two stipendiary magistrates in the Yukon to $4,000 per year, with $1,800 for expenses, and to provide for appeals to the Yukon Court of Appeals from decisions of the Gold Commissioners; also to provide for appeals from the Yukon Court of Appeals being taken to the Supreme Court of Canada.

A bill to further amend the Canada Evidence Act, introduced by the Minister of Justice, limits to five on each side the number of expert witnesses who may be called, unless the judge thinks that, under the circumstances, more are required.

Charles Marcil (Bonaventure) asked if the Government had received a resolution of the St. Jean Baptiste Society of Ottawa, protesting against the action of Magistrate O'Keefe, in refusing to hear the evidence of a witness in French. The Minister of Justice replied that the Government had no control over Magistrate O'Keefe or the proceedings that took place in his court.

In Committee of Supply, Mr. Fisher explained that the item of $80,000 was the usual vote for experimental farms; it had been found insufficient, and he would ask a further sum in supplementary estimates.

The following private bills were read a third time and passed:

To incorporate the Cosmos Cotton Company, respecting the Dominion Cotton Mills Company, Limited, respecting the Vancouver, Victoria and Eastern Railway Navigation Company, to incorporate the Medicine Hat and Northern Alberta Railway Company, respecting the Central Counties Railway Company, respecting the Ottawa, Brockville and St. Lawrence Railway Company, respecting the Medicine Hat Railway and Coal Company, respecting the Temagami Railway Company.

With the exception of the census vote, the agriculture items were passed.

The committee then took up the estimates and passed one item.

Mr. Boyd, on the next item, again brought up the matter of the inferior American coal oil distributed throughout Manitoba last year, the inspection of which the collector of customs was said to be responsible for.

Mr. Paterson promised to give explanations later on, and so the item stood.

The House rose at midnight.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

John Lee, Highgate, was unanimously elected to contest East Kent at the coming election, at the East Kent Liberal Convention at Thamesville, Wednesday.

Thomas Crawford was unanimously nominated on Wednesday night as the Liberal-Conservative candidate in West Toronto. Seven other gentlemen who were nominated retired in Mr. Crawford's favor, all pledging him their hearty support.

J. W. McKee, the Liberal member of the Local Legislature for the North Riding of Essex in the last Assembly, was nominated unanimously as the candidate of the Liberal party at their convention, held in Windsor Wednesday afternoon.

At one of the most enthusiastic and harmonious meetings ever held in North Oxford Mr. Andrew Pattullo was Wednesday afternoon renominated as the candidate of the Liberals for the Legislature. Every subdivision in the constituency was well represented, and there was never a more harmonious meeting. In accepting the nomination, Mr. Pattullo made an excellent speech.

Casts and Sets Single Type.

Berlin, April 17.—A new typesetting machine, which casts and sets single type through the operation of a perforated paper ribbon produced on a typewriter, is soon to be established in the United States. It is called the "electro-typograph," and is the invention of a Hungarian engineer named Rozar. It is said that the superiority of the new machine over the linotype include ability to correct individual letters without recasting the whole lines, the capacity to create the ribbon on an ordinary typewriter, proofs before casting, setting and justifying the lines by touch of a key. The speed of the machine is about equal to that of the linotype.

Leaves on July 1.

Ottawa, April 17.—A cablegram received by the Minister of Militia from the War Office last evening announcing that the request of the Canadian Government for an extension of the period of office of Major-General O'Grady-Haly had been acceded to. The Major-General will accordingly continue in command of the militia of Canada until June 30 next.

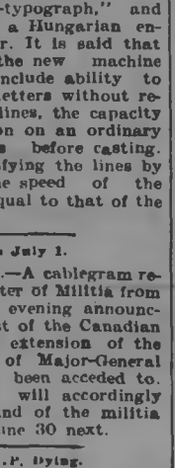
The Truth

Is told by most people. If it were not, the whole commercial and social fabric would fall to pieces. There are thousands upon thousands of people who testify to the cures effected by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. They are representative people in their communities. You would believe their word on any question of knowledge. They speak the simple truth when they testify that Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia, "weak" stomach and other diseases of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures when all other remedial means have failed. It cures perfectly and permanently.



There is no alcohol in the "Discovery" it is free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

Accept no substitute for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. There is nothing "just as good."

"I was a total wreck—could not eat or sleep," writes Mr. J. O. Beers, of Berryman, Crawford Co., Mo. "For two years I tried medicine from doctors, but received very little benefit. I lost flesh and strength, was not able to do a good day's work. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and when I had taken one bottle I could sleep, and my appetite was wonderfully improved. I have taken five bottles and am still improving."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, paper-covered, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CRIMES ACT ENFORCED.

Earl Cadogan Has Issued an Important Proclamation.

Dublin, April 17.—Three sections of the Crimes Act have been put in force in a large number of the districts in Ireland by proclamation, issued last night by Earl Cadogan, the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

These sections provide for summary jurisdiction in cases of criminal conspiracy, intimidation and unlawful assembly, for trial by special jury and for change of venue at the option of the Crown.

The counties scheduled to enforce the foregoing sections of the Crimes Act are Cavan, Clare, Cork, Leitrim, Mayo, Roscommon, Sligo Tipperary and Waterford, as well as the boroughs of Cork and Waterford.

These are the districts in which the United Irish League has been most active. The league itself has not yet been proclaimed, but it is believed that this step will be taken shortly.

In Honor of Cecil Rhodes.

Cape Town, April 16.—A meeting of citizens, to establish a national memorial in honor of the late Cecil Rhodes, was held here to-day. A committee, composed of Sir Gordon Sprigg, the mayors of Cape Colony, and a number of other prominent persons were appointed. The committee will issue an appeal for funds throughout the British Empire, for the purpose of erecting an immense cairn on Devil's Peak, overlooking the Cape Peninsula. The cairn is to be surmounted by an heroic bronze figure of Cecil Rhodes, looking to the north.

Gas Caused Death.

Montreal, April 17.—A sad accident took place at the Diamond Glass Works yesterday. Two young boys, Armand Plante and Rudolph Marien, who were employed on the night shift, remained behind after work was concluded, and fell asleep in a room. They were not discovered until last night, when Marien was found dead and Plante was in an unconscious condition, caused by escaping gas.

Brockenridge Dies.

Hamilton, April 17.—Robert Breckenridge, whose skull was fractured at the Barnes' Quarry at Rymal on Monday evening, died at the General Hospital as a result of his injuries. Coroner White has ordered an inquest, which was opened yesterday afternoon. George H. Evans was elected foreman. After viewing the remains, the jury adjourned till next Monday night.

Mounts For South Africa.

Toronto, April 17.—There is no truth in the rumor that the commission now engaged in the purchasing of horses for the South African contingent expect to find difficulty in obtaining enough animals for the regiments. Mr. Robert Beith, M.P., who is superintending the operations of the commission, states that the work is steadily proceeding, and that from present appearances there will be absolutely no lack of good mounts obtainable.

Falconi Definitely Selected.

Rome, April 17.—Archbishop Falconi, the Papal delegate in Canada, has been definitely selected to succeed Cardinal Martinelli, the Papal delegate to the United States. This appointment will not be officially announced, however, until the meeting of the consistory next October.

Mr. Brodie in Algoma.

Massey, April 17.—The Algoma Liberal Convention held at Bruce Mines Tuesday, had the largest number of delegates ever assembled in the district. Mr. Brodie of Massey Station was the unanimous choice. No other name was brought before the convention.

MASSACRED 2,000 TROOPS.

Chinese Rebels Ambushed Them in a Narrow Defile.

Hong Kong, April 16.—A courier who arrived at Canton yesterday reported that more than 2,000 Imperialist soldiers, sent by Marshal Su against the rebels, were ambushed in a narrow defile, and were all killed or captured.

The situation in the rebellious districts of Southern China is increasingly alarming. The Viceroy of Canton has telegraphed to Pekin, urging the immediate forwarding of reinforcements. Lack of news from Gen. Ma and Marshal Su is taken to indicate that the rebels have surrounded the Imperial troops, and cut off communication with these forces.

770 Accounted For.

St. Petersburg, April 17.—An official despatch received here from Port Arthur, dated Saturday, April 12, announces that serious fighting has occurred in the vicinity of the boundary of the Provinces of Mukden and Kirin (Manchuria) between Russian frontier guards and Chinese robbers, who had been raiding railroad stations. The Russians surrounded 800 Chinese at Kiang Tai, and only 30 of them escaped. The Russian losses were very small.

Questions for Women.

Are you weak, nervous, irritable, easily worried and fatigued? Do you dread your daily work and feel like letting your duties go undone. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will restore your nervous system and send the thrill of new life and energy through the body. It is above all a woman's medicine, as its invigorating influence on the nerves insures regularity in the functions of the bodily organs.

An Example.

"The chimney is smoking," he said.

"Yes," she retorted; "that's the effect of bad example. Usually the chimney has consideration enough to do its smoking outdoors."

Thus it came about that he finished his cigar on the back porch.

Pointed.

"Why are you crying, little boy?"

"One of them artists paid me a dime to sit on the fence while he sketched me."

"Well, is there any harm in that?"

"Yes, s-sir. It was a barb wire fence."

Advice to Mothers.

If your little boy or girl comes home with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Polson's Nerviline. Don't be afraid to use Nerviline freely—a whole bottle full wouldn't burn or blister the tenderest skin. Rub in until all taken up by the pores, and just before the child goes to sleep give him a glass of hot water into which 30 drops of Nerviline has previously been stirred. This is a sure, pleasant and speedy cure. Large bottles 25 cents.

Unique.

A Chicagoan had been taken around Boston all day to observe her bulwarks, but had failed to exhibit any of those symptoms of paralysis which are acceptable to the Bostonian mind.

"Now, confess," said the Bostonian host after the burden and heat of the day, "isn't Boston a unique town?"

"Unique?" mused the westerner. "I believe that word is derived from two Latin words—unus, one, and equus, horse. I think Boston is a unique town."

A Cough Leads to a Coffin.

There's a striking similarity in these two words. Both are to be dreaded. Coffins cost many dollars whereas 25c buys a bottle of Four T's and cures the cough in 24 hours, making the coffin unnecessary. Four T's is acknowledged by all to be the best lung remedy in existence. Large 25c bottles at Ormond and Walsh's drug store.

Had Her Revenge.

"He told his wife she ought to take cooking lessons."

"Did she?"

"Well, yes. She sent for her mother to come and give her a three months' course."

An Unkind Retort.

"You made a fool of me!" exclaimed the angry husband.

"Call yourself a fool if you wish, my dear," calmly rejoined his wife, "but remember you have always claimed to be a self made man."

TORONTO WON THE SECOND.

London, April 16.—(Evening Telegram Special.) — A crowd of twelve hundred people assembled at the Spotted Dog Grounds at Forest Gate, to witness the lacrosse match between the touring Canadian team from Toronto, and the Essex team. The weather was fine, just like an ideal Canadian summer day. The grounds were in excellent condition and the crowd witnessed a fast and exciting contest. The English team kept the Toronto lads busy from the start. At the end of the first quarter both teams had scored a goal and at half time the tally had been increased by the Torontos to four, while the Essex men had only added one goal.

After a brief rest the Torontos jumped into the game with a vim, and it was not long before they had the Toronto players badly beaten. At the end of the third quarter the score stood Toronto, 12, Essex, 2; Toronto putting the ball behind the flags eight times, while the English players failed to score in the entire twenty minutes.

The last quarter was keenly fought the Essex team scoring one more goal, while the Torontos added two. The match thus ended in a complete victory for the Torontos by 14 goals to 3.

The People Sympathize With a Programme of Enterprise and Development.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, was in Ottawa on Tuesday, and the Ottawa Free Press of April 15th, contained the following:

"Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, was in the city to-day on private business, and a representative of the Free Press, in the course of an interview, asked him regarding the political situation in the province.

"Mr. Stratton said that from the Government point of view the situation was one of the most encouraging character. He had had special opportunities for observing the condition of public sentiment upon the issues that entered into the coming, or, rather, present, contest and, without anything like optimism, he felt that there was every reason to hope that the Ross Government would be returned to power with a larger following than what was behind it in the last parliament. He spoke from personal knowledge of the feeling in many of the constituencies he had visited, and from reliable reports in regard to others received and he was sure he was not making the outlook any more encouraging than the circumstances warranted. He found that amongst the electorate there was a feeling of confidence in the Government, both for what it had done and what its policy promised for the future. In all the various departments of administration the affairs of the province had been admirably conducted. Public service had been performed with adequate but not extravagant expenditure. An honest effort had been made to deal justly and efficiently with the interests of all classes. The people recognize that the Ross Government had served the people most efficiently and on the score of past services were prepared to give the Government another opportunity to give even larger measure of energetic administration. Not only on this score, but the forward policy of the Government commended itself to the admiration of the enterprising electors of the province, who would show their faith in the Government that had faith in the province and its resources. Their development policy was understood and appreciated by the people. They saw that it was only by starting out boldly and bringing the immense resources of our new country into commercial use and in touch with the commercial and industrial activities of settled Ontario, that the unbounded possibilities of our natural resources could be realized upon and made subservient to the growth and wealth of the province at large. Every dollar of capital put to work in New Ontario had a reflex effect upon the Older Ontario. Every settler meant a demand upon commercial resources and trade of Older Ontario. These two multiplied by millions and thousands gave some idea of what the policy of the Ross Government meant to both the new and the old portions of the province.

"We are bound" Mr. Stratton said, "to keep things in motion. We can't afford to stand still. Everything we can do as a Government to apply a policy which will open up the new country to settlement, give employment to capital and labour, and promote trade with all parts of the province will be done by us. We have reason to know that the people are in sympathy with a policy of action, a practical policy worthy of this great province, which is beginning to feel the stirrings of new life, and realize that the day of small things is past. The people demand a positive and progressive policy such as the Ross Government offer, and have no sympathy with a negative and standstill policy such as Mr. Whitney and the Opposition present."

"Such generally were the features of the main issue upon which the electors would pronounce, and there was no doubt of the choice the electors would make."

"Then you think Mr. Stratton, that the Government will be sustained?"

"There is no question of their being returned to power; the only question is that of the size of the majority that will be behind the Ross Government in the tenth parliament of the province."

STOCK MARKETS.

The Market's Safety Assured.

New York, April 17th.—As the facts gradually come to light it becomes patent that the safety of the immediate future of the market is assured. The L. N. has been turned over by its accumulators to J. P. Morgan & Co., and the point is given out that no merger with Southern Ry. is contemplated. It is obvious that matters were worked as they were by adroit stock interests in order not to antagonize the State of Ga and other southern commonwealths. While the parties to the deal can now pose as becoming interested in order to obviate all dangers of panic, the fact nevertheless remains that the people now dominating L. N. also control the Southern Railway and can operate both systems without state opposition. The speculator who accumulated the stock was apparently utilized by these interests in order to bring about what has happened. It was the strength of the market in London yesterday and the excellent market afforded for such of the public, as held Southern Railway at that time and who desired to dispose of it on account of the newspaper accounts of no coalition between the two systems, bears out these views. As the one party dominates these two systems, it can be relied upon they will be operated in absolute harmony, with the view to making both as productive and valuable as possible. Had the public been the heavy buyer on Tuesday last on Southern Railway, upon the idea of the securing of control of that company of the L. N. Wednesday morning upon the published report that no such control had been secured or contemplated, Southern Railway stock would have broken wide open, probably falling below the figures from which the rise first started.

Many people last week sold out their holdings when L. N. commenced to soar, fearing another May 9th. These people have lost their stocks, and large quantities of them will now be in the market to re-secure them, as they were extremely bullish, and merely parted from holdings, fearing a possible squeeze in L. N., with its possible consequences. Activity continued, and as we have frequently stated, reactions are more frequent than heretofore. You should take advantage of the reaction by purchasing.—Haight & Freese Co.

MR. ANDERSON'S CAMPAIGN.

He Held a Successful Meeting at Stewart's Last Night—The Speeches.

Mr. William Anderson, the candidate of the Ross Government in East Peterborough, held two very successful meetings this week. The first meeting was held in School House, No. 3, Douro, on Wednesday evening. The chair was occupied by Mr. W. Leeson, and the speakers were Mr. Wm. Anderson, the candidate, Mr. R. F. McWilliams, Mr. J. H. Campbell, Mr. G. M. Roger and Mr. Archibald Weir.

The meeting at Stewart's Friday night was very largely attended, and was most enthusiastic. The chair was occupied by Mr. Dawson Kennedy, who made a rousing speech, in which he declared that although he was an independent in politics, he considered that the Ross Government had administered the affairs of the country in a satisfactory manner.

Messrs. William Anderson, R. F. McWilliams,, G. M. Roger, Archibald Weir, and George Stewart were the speakers.

Mr Stewart in his remarks, expressed the high esteem in which Mr. Anderson is held by the people of Otonabee, a municipality which he had represented in the township and county councils continuously for the past twenty-five years.

WAS APPRECIATED.

The Presbytery Speaks Kindly of Rev. Joseph Hamilton.

The following minute anent the resignation at Mimico, has been adopted by the Presbytery of Toronto: "This Presbytery in parting with the Rev. Joseph Hamilton, who has recently been released from his pastoral charge in Mimico, desires to put on record an expression of its regret. Mr. Hamilton is admittedly endowed with preaching gifts above the average. He has acquired distinction as a writer and his wide range of reading has made him a full man in the best sense. His gentlemanly bearing as a member of this Presbytery has won him the respect and esteem of all the brethren. Our prayer is that he may soon find a suitable place in which to exercise his varied gifts, and that the Head of the Church may abundantly bless him wherever he is called upon to enter." It sometimes happens that Presbyterial resolutions anent a minister's qualifications on the acceptance of his resignation, are too eulogistic; but in this case every word of commendation is well deserved. Mr. Hamilton should not have far to seak in order to secure another charge.

COMMISSIONERS RETURNED HOME.

They Visited Several Western Ontario Cities.

THE WATERWORKS SYSTEM.

The Plants in London, Windsor, Brantford and Other Places—Valuable Information Gained.

The Water Commissioners and their officials who went west on a quest of information in regard to waterworks and methods of conducting them, returned last night, and are well pleased with the results of their trip.

The party went first to London, where the works have been managed for a number of years by Commissioners for the municipality, and where many years of experience has perfected the methods of operation. They reached London on Tuesday night at about 8 o'clock, and were fortunate in finding Mr. O. Ellwood, the very efficient and courteous Secretary of the Commissioners, in his office, and plans were laid for collecting information next morning. The pumping station is four miles from the city, at Springbank, a park owned by the City and of which it is justly proud. On Wednesday morning at six o'clock a street car ride took the party to Springbank, where they found a unique system. From the bank of the Thames River, where the pump-house is stationed, a hill rises nearly three hundred feet high, and this mountain is full of springs of clear water. This spring water is gathered in galleries (large ponds, constructed for the purpose) and is from them pumped to the city. On the top of the hill, which is much higher than the city, the reservoir is situated. This reservoir holds a reserve supply, and when the pumps furnish more water than is required it flows up to the reservoir, and when the supply from the pumps fall short the reservoir makes up the deficiency. The water is clear and hard, and is good water for drinking and culinary purposes, but rather hard for other domestic uses. The station is furnished with both stream and hydraulic pumps, and the water power is developed by a concrete dam across the Thames constructed at an expense of $50,000 and built by Mr. Robert Grant, who had the first contract for sewer construction in Peterborough. Mr. Thomas Summer, the veteran caretaker at the station, took a pardonable pride in showing the visitors the intricacies of the system and spared no trouble in doing so. Among other specialties he pointed out was a fish way at the end of the dam. It is a slide, which is wholly enclosed, and from both sides of the flume project boards or steps which reach a little more than half way across, and are not directly opposite each other. These break the force of the rush of water so that it flows down slowly and the fish easily swim through it and over the dam. Perhaps the only drawback to this waterworks system is that the supply is limited, and as there are in the city nearly 10,000 consumers, stringent rules to limit the quantity used have to be enforced. On returning to the city, where they arrived somewhat famished, and getting breakfast, the party visited the City Hall, and enquired into the office methods, which in London are simple and complete, and from which valuable information was obtained. In their relations with consumers it has been found that it is best for all concerned to have the rules strictly adhered to, and consequently they are carried out to the letter. The city pays the Commissioners a fair price for all the water used for public purposes. The private rates are somewhat lower than those at present in force in Peterborough, and they are enabled to do this because, while their system is more expensive, they have a much larger number of consumers. All applications for water must be signed by the owners of the property, or their agents properly authorized, and the property is, under the law, held responsible for the rates so that there are no losses. The blank forms used are complete, and the Secretary of the Peterborough Commissioners was give a full set of them.

From London, the Peterborough party want to Windsor, a city of over 12,000 population. The water for the Windsor system is taken from the Detroit River above the city, and steam power is used. Here the rules and methods differed in some respects from those in London, as the local circumstances and conditions of each place leads to variations in methods. In London, as in Peterborough, the Commissioners carry the private service from the main to the street line, and in London they carry it a few feet farther, but in Windsor the property owner must lay the service from the main. The Commissioners make the connection at the main, but this is paid for. All property which a main passes pays a water rate, the rate on vacant property being based on the frontage, and as soon as a house is erected the house rate is charged. The rate is not a high one for house services, and is lower than in most places, the difference apparently being made up by the property rate and the fact that the department is at no expense for laying services. Here the plumbers are licensed by the Commissioners. The arrears amount to more than in other places visited, owing largely to the rate on vacant property. The office work is in charge of Mr. W. A. Hanrahan, the secretary, and the office system is a good one, and well carried out, and the genial secretary is a pleasant gentleman to meet. Here as in London, valuable information was obtained as to methods and as to the relations of the Commissioners and the City Council. The Walkerville plant was also visited by the Superintendent of the Peterborough Waterworks, and he found it to be a thoroughly equipped station.

Across from Windsor loomed up Detroit, and while the Peterborough party would have been pleased to visit the waterworks of the City of the Straits, they thought more available information would be obtained in cities nearer the size of their own town. The fire boats lying at their wharves at Detroit, attracted attention, for these floating fire fighters not only attack fires at the river front, but also pump water up through special mains to assist in extinguishing a blaze in the city.

Leaving Windsor, and regretting that time would not permit an inspection of the Detroit system, the party headed for Brantford, and reached there on Thursday night. Here they found some municipal excitement, as a vote was taken that day on a bylaw to raise $57,000 to secure the diversion of the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway through the city. The bylaw was carried by a very large majority, and before the summer is over all through trains on the Grand Trunk System are to run through the Telephone City. Brantford has put new pumps in its pumping station and they are working well. The pumping stations visited at the various places, however, did not make the visitors envious, for Peterborough has a well equipped pump-house and a good system.

At Brantford City Hall on Friday morning the visitors were received by Mr. Buanell, City Treasurer and Treasurer of the Water Commissioners, and Mr. Frank, the Secretary of the Water Commissioners, and furnished with complete information as to Brantford's methods. The office system here is very much like that of London, with some variations to meet requirements as they arose, and it is thorough and thoroughly carried out by the officials. Here, as in London and Windsor, applications for all services are signed by the owners of the property, and there are no lost accounts, and before any change is made in a house the plumber must receive a permit from the waterworks department, and if a change is made without the permit the rule is impressed by a police court summons. The department lays the new services to the street line and two feet farther, and beyond that point charges the owners for the work at a fixed rate, from which a profit is derived. The time was pretty fully occupied until train time, when, with the pleasing burdens of further valuable hints and information, the party took the train for home, arriving in the evening.

Much information of a most useful character was collected, and those of the party who are connected with the Town Council also picked up hints as to matters municipal. The City Clerk in London, Mr. C. A. Kingston, and of Brantford, Mr. H. F. Leonard, were called on and most courteously furnished information respecting some points in municipal management.

Despite the hurrying from place to place the trip was a pleasant one. From Peterborough to Toronto it was a "personally conducted tour," for the big bodied and big hearted up-town agent of the Grand Trunk Railway accompanied the party that far, and at Toronto they were indebted to Mr. Dickson, the District Passenger Agent, and his staff, for courtesies. At each of the places visited they were pleasantly received and the work of gathering information was brightened by the pleasant and courteous manner of the waterworks and civic officials.

Ladies and gentlemen who take Miller's Compound Iron Pills always grow younger in appearance and spirits. Sold by all druggists.

GENERAL ELECTIONS.

Ontario Nominations May 22, Polling Thursday, May 29.

FORCES ARRAYED FOR BATTLE.

The Issue Is Between the Experienced and the Inexperienced, Between the Tried and Trusted and the Uncertain—How the Government Has Built Up Ontario—The Government Leader, Mr. Ross.

Toronto, April 19.—The Ontario elections will be held on Thursday, May 29, with nominations a week earlier. The Order-in-Council was signed yesterday by Sir Oliver Mowat, Lieutenant-Governor.

The Issues Clearly Defined.

Toronto, April 19.—It is announced that the general elections for the Provincial Legislature will be held on May 29, and the electors are asked to renew the confidence they have wisely reposed in Premier Ross and his colleagues.

The issue is between the experienced and the inexperienced, between the tried and trusted and the uncertain, Mr. Whitney, who is once more appealing to the Province as leader of the Opposition, has now the temerity to differ from the Government on a very few lines of policy, and on these lines he is wrong. He would remove the tax on financial corporations, levied by the Government as an eminently fair revenue measure, In many other vital matters he practically accepts the Ministerial policy. No doubt he fancies that he would walk faithfully in the footsteps of the Ross Ministry if successful in attaining power, but there is no adequate reason to make experiments.

The policy of the Government has been conspicuously successful not only in saving and conserving our inherited wealth, but also in its progressive development. In the older and settled parts of the Province trade and industry have been stimulated by the best possible methods. As soon as the time became ripe for the development of new Ontario the Ross Ministry rose to the occasion, and we have not only the establishment of gigantic industries, but a growing source of public revenue. The way the Liberal Ministers resisted all demands for the disposal of this public heritage in the hope of premature development proves them worthy to be classed as able and farseeing statesmen. This territory, destined to be a source of wealth for years, would have been surrendered by the Conservative leaders of Ontario to please their party allies at Ottawa. This magnifying of the party contest—this elevating of it to the dignity of an end in itself rather than a means of improvement—seems a besetting weakness of Mr. Whitney and his followers. The electors realize more fully than the active Conservative politicians the importance of a sound and stable Provincial administration. Did they magnify party interests, as Mr. Whitney and his immediate followers do, the Province would have met financial disaster long ago.

Our school system, our municipal system, the civil law, the improvement of agriculture, the care of the afflicted and the lightening of public burdens are among the most important matters that now engage the attention of the electors, although such things may not appeal so strongly to the imagination as the more showy department of public business. The electors of Ontario appreciate the need of discretion in committing their heritage to the care of public men, and they can be trusted to sustain those whose ability, firmness and discernment have been proved by the test of experience.

Mr. Ross very particularly deserves the support of the Province of Ontario. Canada has few more eminent public servants. He has been throughout all his public life a strenuous Canadian and an eloquent exponent of the British spirit of Canada. He is a national rather than a Provincial statesman. No other figure in this Province stands out with such distinctness, and in any Parliament in the world he would take a foremost position. We believe the people of Ontario of all classes recognize his great qualities, and will take care on May 29 to continue in his hands the vigorous policy of development upon which he has entered, and give him full opportunity for the display of that great resource and capacity which has already proved of such signal benefit to this Province.

CAMPAIGN ADDRESS.

The Provincial Secretary to Speak at Hastings.

Hon. J. R. Stratton will address the electors of East Northumberland upon the political issues of the hour at Hastings on Monday evening, April 21st.

A Big Egg.

Mr. Gabriel Learmouth, of Sherbrooke street, brought a hen's egg into the Examiner office, last evening, which it would be hard to equal in size or weight. It measures eight inches round one way and seven the other. The weight is exactly four ounces. A fine Plymouth Rock pullet laid the egg and Mr. Learmouth would like to hear of one which can beat it.

A NOTED PHYSICIAN,

Doctor Wanata, of Lansing, Mich.,

Says There is Nothing in the Materia Medica that Equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the Cure of Woman's Ills.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—The honest, intelligent physician is above the 'School.' Whatever is best in each case should be used, no matter to what school a physician belongs. I, as a matter of conscience, can only prescribe the best, and as I know and have proven that there is nothing in Materia Medica which equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female disorders, I unhesitatingly prescribe it, and have never yet been sorry.

"I know of nothing better for ovarian troubles and for falling of the womb or ulcerations; it absolutely restores the affected parts to their normal condition quicker and better than anything else. I have known it to cure barrenness in women, who to-day are happy mothers of children, and while the medical profession looks down upon 'patents,' I have learned, instead, to look up to the healing potion, by whatever name it be known. If my fellow physicians dared tell the truth, hundreds of them would voice my sentiments."—DR. WANATA, Lansing, Mich.

DR. WANATA.

As Dr. Wanata says, if physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience that it can be relied upon to effect a cure.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhœa, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. No living person has had such a vast and successful experience in treating female ills. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering woman should ask for and follow her advice.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has carried hundreds of women through the periods of child bearing and change of life in perfect comfort and safety.

A medicine that has restored so many women to health and can produce proof of the fact must be regarded with respect. This is the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which cannot be equalled by any other medicine the world has ever produced.

It is well to remember these facts when some druggist tries to get you to buy something which he says is "just as good." That is impossible, as no other medicine has such a record of cures as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so do not experiment with untried medicines.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letter is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

PROHIBITION AND PARTY CAPITALISTS.

The Toronto Telegram, a Conservative journal, comments upon the action of the recent prohibition convention in Waterloo county which refused to pass a resolution condeming the alleged unfair conditions of the referendum. The Telegram among other things says:

"The Waterloo county prohibitionists will permit the Ontario Government to kill, maim and bury prohibition, but will not permit prohibition to inflict the slightest injury upon the Ontario Government."

What right has the Telegram or any organ which quotes the above remarks approvingly, to assail the prohibitionists of Waterloo or any other county, with the virtual charge that they are insincere, corrupt and politically biased, because they have views which differ from the party organs?

Professed prohibitionists may denounce the referendum and the Government, and the party hacks applaud their course; but the moment other prohibitionists, professedly as sincere, refuse to condemn the terms of the referendum, then they "are playing a party game."

Is not this a free country? May not a man, or a convention of men, speak their minds? We find Opposition organs and politicians posing as the friends of temperance, who never breathed one moment of sympathetic existence in the matter of moral reform.

They and the professed prohibitionists that are at one with them, can condemn the referendum and the Government, and are all doing so from high moral motives.

But a prohibitionist or other person who dares to express anything like approval of the referendum is all that is vile.

An Opposition speaker at the Opposition meeting in the opera house on April 5th, declared that all who spoke a word of approval of the referendum were "whited sepulchres."

This is nice language to apply to ministers of the gospel who have been "whited sepulchres" enough to advise the temperance people to accept the referendum and work heartily for its success.

The South Perth prohibitionists on April 15th, took a sensible view of the situation. They passed a resolution not to bring out a prohibition candidate unless both of the party candidates refused to promise to support prohibition if the people carry it through the referendum. They also passed the following resolution:

"That this convention of temperance workers, while differing in their views as to the referendum, call upon all who believe in the cause of temperance to vote for the referendum, and pledge themselves to all the efforts in their power to carry it, as being the most feasible way of obtaining prohibition, which we all seek."

That was precisely the advice which two or three of the most respected ministers of the gospel in Peterborough gave at the convention held here about a month ago. Of course, according to the Opposition orator, they are "whited sepulchres," but who will dare to publicly accuse them by name with being political trimmers or "whited sepulchres?"

Who is it that at this moment are posing as the widest mouthed friends of temperance reform? Party newspapers which have been always opposed to anything having the least resemblance to a temperance movement, and party politicians with a political axe to grind, who have not the slightest desire for, or interest in, prohibition. Among these are scoffers at prohibition and temperance; men of well known intemperate habits, who stand on political platforms and with tears urge the electorate to punish a Government which has betrayed the sacred cause which lies so near their political hearts and so far from their personal stomachs.

Faugh! These are the advocates who are having the most to say about temperance just now and are loudest in their condemnation of the "loaded" referendum; and at a time when they could, perhaps, tell the referendum how it feels to be "loaded." These men are not inconsistent; they are playing a political game and their cue is to discredit the Ross Government if possible.

Not that all opponents of the referendum are of this stamp—there are large numbers who are earnest and sincere—even if they are mistaken—in regarding the referendum as requiring a hard effort to make it effective in bringing prohibition.

Nothing good in this life but the direct bounty of Providence comes without effort. The fruits of the field are a response to arduous toil; the gospel itself is planted in heathen lands at the cost of the lives of the planters. Surely earnest prohibitionists cannot reasonably complain of the necessary effort required to bring about an effective prohibitory measure.

And effort is necessary in any event. But is the effort required unreasonable? If 200,000 out of the 600,000 electors of the province say at the polls that they want prohibition, then a prohibitory law comes into effect; a law which the Government which passed it, subject to popular approval, is pledged to enforce, and can enforce, because, if passed by a substantial majority, it will have the evidence of public sympathy behind it.

Do earnest and sincere temperance people shrink from a necessary contest, such as accompanies all reforms? One of the old hymn writers—probably Isaac Watts—in reference to the struggle necessary in the Christian life, asked, with saintly sarcasm:

Must I be carried to the skies
On flowery beds of ease,
While others fought to win the prize
Or sailed through bloody seas?

If there must be a fight made to win the Kingdom of Heaven, why should there not be some effort made to win prohibition, which will be, by no means, the Kingdom of Heaven, unless there is a sufficiently substantial majority behind it to ensure its effective enforcement.

If politicians choose to complicate the issue with politics, that is not the fault of the Government, which has provided for deciding the question on a day apart, a day when no political, local or personal considerations, can be legitimately associated with the voting on the question.

If prohibitionists prefer party politics to prohibition — if they choose to sacrifice prohibition to party — they have only themselves to blame, if prohibition comes out second best.

The great body of the prohibitionists may not do so, but there are some false friends to prohibition, who are using that issue as a means to party advantage.

This class of prohibitionists welcomes anything that may damage the Government, as a grand prohibition expedient; they denounce any approval of the means the Government provides to secure an effective popular verdict on the question as a high crime and misdemeanor.

Prohibition may well say of these persons — "Save me from my friends."

NARROW-GAUGE.

Narrow-guage souls take a narrow-guage view of things. The activities of a loyal and energetic Canadian citizen are not confined to the immediate circle in which he lives. A public man may be earnest and successful in building up his own province, and at the same time take an interest in other parts of the Dominion family homestead. "Build up Ontario," is the motto of the Ross Government, and its policy is directed to that end. That is what the people are concerned with, not with keyhole discussions of the private affairs of its members.

WILFUL IGNORANCE.

Mr. Crawford, the Opposition candidate in West Toronto, is a creditable member of the Opposiron — that is, he is inconsistent enough to do credit to its well known inconsistent stand on provincial questions.

He excused his hostility to the Temiscaming Railway, which involved his hostility to the trade interests of Toronto and Ontario generally, by saying in his nomination speech that he was not prepared to sit in the House and vote large sums of money, without knowing what the money was spent for. That's an old excuse.

The members of the Opposition, it seems, prefer to remain wilfully ignorant of the details of proposed legislation, so that — there being no grounds of objection on the merits of measures — they will have something to find fault about.

Because the Government does not start a Kindergarten class to instruct the members of the Opposition, the latter failing to take any steps to to supply themselves with information regarding legislation, think they are justified in opposing it, no matter how momentous and ho wgreatly of public utility it may be.

Mr. Crawford no doubt felt that he was justified in a course that would as he thought, embarrass the Government, and score a political point for his party — he doubtless reasoned that his party supporters in a Conservative hive, would place party above city interests and excuse him for showing hostility to a railway in the interests of Ontario and Toronto, so long as he dealt a political opponent a blow.

"Party first," is the cry of the Opposition — "let us get into power" is the first consideration; the interests of the country are a secondary matter.

A TALK WITH GIRLS.

How to Obtain Bright Eyes and Rosy Cheeks.

Pale, Anaemic and Easily Tired Girls Often Fall a Prey to Consumption.

In young girls we look for abundant health and strength, rosy cheeks, bright eyes, firm, plump flesh and constant cheerfulness. How often, however, we meet young girls who seem prematurely old, feeble, pale, listless, thin and irritable. These abnormal and dangerous conditions are due to a general weakness of the blood, and should be cured just as promptly as possible or the whole life of the patient will be ruined, if, indeed, decline and consumption do not speedily follow. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the natural, logical and sure cure for weak girls. These Pills make rich, red blood with every dose. They strengthen the nerves, act upon the whole system and bring health, strength and happiness to those who use them.

Mrs. Hiram Rinkler, South Pelham township, Welland county, Ont., says:—"It is with pleasure that I give this tribute to the health-restoring virtues of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When my daughter, Lena, began the use of your medicine she was in a most wretched condition. In fact, we were seriously alarmed lest she might not recover. The symptoms were a feeling of langour and weakness, gradually growing worse. She became pale, lost flesh, had little or no appetite and was apparently going into a decline. Finally the trouble became complicated with a persistent sore throat, which gave her great difficulty in swallowing. She was placed under the care of a doctor who said her blood was poor and watery, and her whole system badly run down. The doctor's treatment did not help her much, and then acting on the advice of a neighbour, I began to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The confidence with which this medicine was urged upon us was not misplaced, as I soon noticed a distinct improvement in my daughter's condition. The use of the pills for some weeks completely restored her, and from that time she has been a cheerful light-hearted girl, the very picture of health."

These pills never fail to restore health and strength in cases like the above. Through their action on the blood and nerves they also cure such diseases as rheumatism, sciatica, St. Vitus' dance, indigestion, kidney trouble, partial paralysis, etc. There are many so-called tonic pills, but they are all mere imitations of this great medicine. Be sure that you get the genuine with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on every box. If your dealer does not keep them they will be sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A JUMP INTO POLITICS.

About seven years ago Jones quietly became a citizen of Toledo. At that time he was described by his neighbours as a man with odd notions about the eight hour day, equal rights, the golden rule, and common brotherhood. He had fashioned a dress suit philosophy out of homespun theories. The fit was good but hands that write checks were held up in fear lest it should become stylish. He lived in a fashionable part of the city and rode down the avenue in a rubber-tired equipment. From the environment of a monopolist he declared himself the friend of all the people. Politicians caught the flash of a solitaire.

When the Toledo Republican convention met in 1897, there was danger of a deadlock between the two factions. In a spirit of compromise, necessity lashed the wits of Jas. M. Ashley, one of the leaders, to rack his brains for an eligible dark horse. "I name Samuel M. Jones," he shouted above the din; "he is a friend of all the people."

Jones' career as a publicist dates from that day.—From an article on Mayor Jones, of Toledo, in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for April.

'TIS A PITY

TO SAY "NO."

ANY SICK ONE WRONGS HIMSELF WHEN HE FAILS TO GET MY BOOK

NO MONEY IS WANTED

Tell me the name of a sick one and I will mail the book that is needed.

That is all I ask—just a postal card.

I have spent a lifetime in learning how to cure chronic troubles, and you should know what I learned.

Then, if you think me right, I will let you take the treatment at my risk.

I will even do this;—

I will send with the book an order on your druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He will let you take it for a month; then, if it succeeds, the cost is $5.50. If it fails, I will pay your druggist myself.

I will leave the decision to you.

You cannot afford to say "no" to that offer.

A remedy so sure that it can stand a test like that must have remarkable merit.

Don't be incredulous, nor let prejudice deter you. Remember that your health is at stake, and all I ask is a postal card. Find out what I know.

My Restorative strengthens the inside nerves, which no other remedy reaches. My book explains why.

I don't doctor the symptoms, nor the organs themselves. But I bring back the nerve power which alone makes all vital organs act.

If an engine was weak, you would give it more steam. That is what I do with weak organs. I give them more power; more nerve power. They do their duty then.

That is why I succeed where other treatment fail.

Sometimes I fail, but not often. Only when a cause, like cancer, makes a cure impossible.

In the past five years I have furnished my treatment to over 600,000 sick people on terms like those. My records show that 39 in each 40 paid for it.

There are 39 chances in 40 that I can cure you. If I succeed you are permanently well. If I fail, I alone am the loser.

Those who need help, and who don't get my book, do themselves an injustice and a wrong.

Simply state which book you want, and address to Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

NICKEL AND BINDER TWINE.

Mr. Charlton Favors an Export Duty on Nickel and Countervailing Duties on Binder Twine--Northwest Finances--Interesting Discussion on Granting Provincial Autonomy to the Territories.

Ottawa, April 19.—A rather dull day in the House yesterday was brought to a close by an exceedingly interesting discussion on Provincial autonomy for the Northwest Territories. At 12.30 a.m the item in which this discussion took place was passed, and half a dozen members left the chamber. Mr. George Taylor then called the Chairman's attention to the lack of a quorum, and Dr. Macdonald could not see twenty out of the 213 members, so the House was "counted out," a most unusual occurrence in the Canadian House.

The Nickel Question.

On motion to go into supply Mr. Charlton brought up the question of nickel export from Canada. For fifteen years Canada had been the chief source of supply of the world for nickel, but the business had been managed by our United States friends in such a way that they have succeeded in getting nearly all the advantages that can be obtained in this extensive and lucrative enterprise. The United States policy was to admit the matte of refined ore free of duty and to impose a heavy duty on refined nickel, equivalent to $120 per ton. The results had been that our nickel deposits had been worked by the companies owning them, and the matte exported to the United States and refined in that country. The policy which we had permitted the United States to pursue towards us in this matter had not been conducive to our own interest.

The use of nickel, he continued, promises to be much more extensive, and the control of the industry to be of much greater importance in the near future than at present. The manufacture of nickeliferous pig iron would constitute an important element in manufacturing operations in connection with our minerals. Nickel was not only essential in the manufacture of armor plates, but was used with advantage in the manufacture of structural iron of various kinds, such as iron for bridges, buildings, etc., and the control of this business would be a matter of great importance to the country which obtains it.

Now, United States capitalists and business men were quite wide awake to the advantages that might be derived from the control of this business, and within the past few days a great nickel company had been formed in the United States, entitled "The International Nickel Co.," largely controlled by the American Steel Trust. This new company, according to The Engineering and Mining Journal of April 5 had been incorporated during that week, with a capital of $34,000,000, of which $18,000,000 would be issued at once to buy up the chief nickel deposits of the world, including the properties of the Canadian Copper Co., the Anglo-American and the Vermillion. in Canada.

Mr Charlton submitted that there was this evidence of the formation of a nickel trust with a capital of $34,000,000, allied with the billion dollar steel trust to control the nickel business of the world. Under present conditions Canada can only export nickel in its lowest prepared form, namely, in the matte, while the United States charges a heavy duty on refined nickel. The trust had already purchased the Copper Cliff nickel property for $4,875,000, and other Canadian properties at a valuation. It behooved the Government, therefore, to deal with the question, and, by putting into operation the present law in regard to the imposition of export duties, have the refining done in Canada. It was an important matter for England, too, as the possession of this nickel meant a serious factor in the manufacture of armor plate.

Another matter in which our respected and highly-esteemed Uncle Samuel had been a little smart for us was in the imposition of an export duty of $7.50 on Manila fibre exported from the Philippines, the export duty being imposed upon the Canadian manufacturer or importer of Manila, while the United States manufacturer is free of this duty. There was supposed to be reciprocity in binder twine between Canada and the United States; but, while Canada admitted all binder twine free, the United States charged a duty of 40 per cent., on all twine containing Manila. It would, therefore, be seen that both as regards importation of raw material and export of finished product, the Canadian manufacturer could not compete with the American. The only remedy for this, Mr. Charlton thought, was a countervailing duty of half a cent per pound.

Mr. Fielding's Reply.

Mr. Fielding replied that both questions raised by Mr. Charlton were of an important character, and had already engaged the attention of the Government. As regards nickel, the Government, two years ago, took power to impose export duties, but, after investigation, it was felt not to be in the interest of the mineral development of Canada to carry it into effect. The question of the export duty on Manila had been brought to the attention of the Government within the past day or two by the press, and by the Governments interested in the matter. It was an entirely new and unprecedented question, and was now engaging the attention of the Government. Whether or not it was a subject which required immediate attention, would be decided in a few days. More than that, he could not say at present.

Autonomy for the Territories.

In supply, during the discussion of the estimate of $425,359 for expense of government of the Northwest, Walter Scott urged an increase of the vote for the Territories in view of the necessarily growing expenditure. He expressed regret that the question of establishing provincial governments in the west had not been taken up by the administration. To illustrate the growth of demands upon the Territorial treasury he said that the number of school districts had increased from 480 in 1896 to 684 last year. The increase in 1899 over the previous year was 44 districts, in 1900 the increase was 52 and last year 108. The Territorial Governments' expenditure on schools last year was $204,000, so that educational and public works took up the entire Federal grant.

This precipitated an interesting debate on the question of granting provincial autonomy to the Territories. Mr. Douglas (East Assiniboia) backed up Mr. Scott's plea for autonomy, while Mr. Oliver (Alberta) declared the need was not imperative. Mr. McCreary, as a Manitoba representative, endorsed the claims of the Territories for a larger grant. Messrs. Ingram (East Elgin), Boyd (McDonald), and Dr. Roche (Marquette), censured the Minister of the Interior for failing to comply with the request of the Territorial Government for autonomy.

R. L. Borden said that the Territories required better financial treatment, and pointed out that the money spent in Drummond County railway deals would have far more than satisfied the financial requirements of the Territories.

Mr. Sifton claimed that the Territories were getting better treatment from the present than from the previous Government, and held that there was no need to be in a hurry over the granting of autonomous powers. One thing the Territories could not do he said if given provincial autonomy and that was furnish adequate police protection; they would have to come back to the Dominion to supply this service. It would be well, therefore, for Parliament to take a couple of years to consider this matter.

After some further discussion the item passed. Then occurred a most unusual incident.

House Counted Out.

The item of Dominion surveys was then taken up, but in a few minutes Mr. George Taylor, Conservative whip, rose to the point of order that there was not a quorum.

Mr. Fielding said it was no use trying to proceed without a quorum, which is twenty out of 213 members, less than one-tenth of the House.

The committee immediately rose and the House adjourned.

Progress of 'Phone Bill.

Ottawa, April 19.—The Bell Telephone bill came before the sub-committee of the Senate, to which it was appointed to draft an amendment embodying the placing of the rates under Government control. There was a lively and animated discussion. A motion by Senator Miller to adopt the amendments submitted by him at the full committee was negatived. The law clerk was requested to draft a clause providing for the reference of the question of rates by the Governor-in-Council to a judge on the application of either the company or municipalities.

NEW COMBINATION.

Ocean Liners Which Are to Run Under One Management.

London, April 19.—The Daily Telegraph announces this morning that prolonged negotiations have resulted in a new combination among the steamship lines, involving no change of flags and little change in management.

The lines involved are the White Star, the Dominion, the Leyland, the Atlantic Transport, the American and the Red Star lines. The joint control of these amalgamated companies, says The Daily Telegraph, will be practically in the hands of the men who guide their separate destinies, the intention being to reduce working expenses to avoid ruinous competition and to secure harmonious working relations with the great American railways.

The Times confirms The Daily Telegraph's announcement of the formation of a shipping combination. The Times adds that Mr. Pirie of Harland & Wolf and J. Pierpont Morgan have been the principal agents of the affair, and notes that the Conrad and Allan lines maintain their independent position.

Buried Himself Alive.

St. John, April 19.—A remarkable case of suicide is reported at Hartland, this county. Yesterday afternoon the body of Ambrose Crouse was found buried, and evidence points to his having buried himself alive. Crouse was 22 years of age. He disappeared from his home on Tuesday. One hundred men have been searching since Wednesday, and yesterday they found the body. Evidence pointed to his having smothered himself; that he had dug for himself a grave on the hillside, lay in it and worked at the overhanging bank, until it fell in on him. An inquest will be held.

Rumor of a Royal Elopement.

Vienna, April 19.—An important newspaper here reports that the Grand Duchess Helena of Russia recently eloped with a student, that they were arrested at Warsaw, and that the student was sent to Siberia. The report is discredited here.

The Grand Duchess Helena is the only daughter of the Grand Duke Vladimir, uncle of the Czar. She was born Jan. 29, 1882.

The G. T. R. Telegraphers.

Montreal, April 19.—Four weeks ago a committee representing the Grand Trunk Telegraphers arrived in Montreal, and at once went to work on the preparation of a schedule embodying the scale of wages and other conditions of employment sought by the men. The document was finished ten days ago, and a copy of it duly delivered to Mr. F. A. McGuigan, manager of the company.

Mr. McGuigan sent for the committee, and informed them that their claims were much greater than he had believed they would be; that the company could not consider them until each of the contentions had been carefully thought over and their full bearing understood, and that as it was plain to him that the negotiations would be of a lengthy nature, he would suggest that the members of the committee return to their respective homes and come back to Montreal on May 11.

After debate, the committee acceded to the request of the company.

Yukon Delegates Satisfied.

Ottawa, April 19.—Hon. J. H. Ross, the Commissioner of the Yukon, was interviewed yesterday regarding the results of the consideration given by the Government to the terms of the Treadgold concession.

The matter, Mr Ross says, has been settled to the satisfaction of all parties. The monopolistic rights respecting the furnishing of water and the closing up of the abandoned claims are done away with; the charter is to be rescinded, and a new charter is to be granted, from which the objectionable features have been eliminated. Mr. Ross says that the Dawson delegates have expressed themselves as being satisfied with what has been done.

More Exiles From Hayti.

Kingston, Jamaica, April 19.—Another batch of nine Haytian exiles arrived here yesterday. They were ordered to leave Hayti for conspiring against the Government. A feeling of unrest still prevails on this island.

Rubidge Street.

MRS. SMEATON, 191 Rubidge street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is employed with the Canadian General Electric Co., states,—

"My little son was very much run down in health, had no colour in his face, and was quite nervous. As his appetite was poor, and he seemed tired and listless, we became anxious about him, and began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It was not long before I noticed a marked change in his appearance. His appetite improved, his colour became better, and his health generally was very much better than it had been for a long time. I have much pleasure in adding my testimony to the hosts of others who are praising this medicine."

Reid Street.

MRS. B. J. HUFFMAN, 258 Reid street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is employed at the Canadian General Electric Company, states,—

"For over a year I suffered with nervous headache and feelings of weakness and dizziness would come over me. My nervous system seemed weak and exhausted, and hearing of the success of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I began using it. I am now pleased to state that the headaches do not bother me any more, and my system is entirely built up and restored."

Charlotte Street.

MRS. D. HOBBINS, 420 Charlotte street, Peterborough, Ont., states,—

"My daughter was troubled with a weak fluttering heart. The least excitement seemed to aggravate her trouble, and at times she had severe racking headaches. She became so bad that it affected her nervous system, and she felt miserable most of the time. Through the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food her condition is entirely changed. Her nerves are steady, the action of her heart is strong and regular. We have every reason to give the credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

George Street.

MR. WILLIAM LEE, retired carpenter, 710 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states,—

"For some months I was not in good health. My system seems to be run down, I was troubled a good deal with indigestion, and suffered from headaches and liver disorders. I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and Dr Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, and am pleased to state that I found both of these preparations exceedingly beneficial. In fact, I can confidently say that they have done me a lasting good, and I cannot praise them too highly."

Dublin Street.

MRS. M. A. SHARP, 316 Dublin street, Peterborough, Ont., writes,—

"For some years I was troubled with indigestion, which developed into nervous dyspepsia, and besides suffering from nervousness, strange dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed, and as a result of its use I am quite restored to health."

Reid Street.

MRS. G. H. WILLIAMS, 567 Reid street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is a machinist with the Peter Hamilton Co., states,—

"I was all run down in health; had attacks of nervous headache, and my nervous system generally seemed to be quite unstrung. I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and must say that I found it to be a wonderful help. It seemed to study the nerves, relieve my head, and generally built up the system. We have also used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in our family for years and consider them a most excellent medicine."

McDonel Street.

MRS. NICHOLLS, 227 McDonel Ave., Peterborough, Ont., states,—

"Anyone who suffered as I did with nervous, sick headaches, and pains in the back of the head, can appreciate my feelings now when I say that I am entirely free from this trouble. The credit for this cure is due to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I began to use some time ago. I have no hesitation in recommending the Nerve Food to anyone suffering as I did."

Bethune Street.

MRS. J. DEROCHER, 435 Bethune street, Peterborough, Ont., states,—

"I was troubled a great deal with nervousness and sleeplessness, and began a treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can say for a certainty that it is a splendid medicine, for besides steadying my nerves, it built up my system wonderfully, and enabled me to sleep and eat well. We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills and Ointment in our family for years, and consider them excellent. For skin diseases I think the Ointment cannot be equalled, and the pills are a most satisfactory laxative."

Sherbrooke Street.

MRS. R. WAREHAM, 267 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, Ont., states,—

"One of my children suffered a great deal with nervous headaches, dizziness and sleeplessness, and in fact was all run down, pale and languid. These troubles we attributed to over study and confinement at school. She began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I can say that we have found this treatment exceedingly helpful. It has relieved her of headache, steadied her nerves, and built up her system wonderfully. We can see a great change in her, as the colour is returning to her face and she is gaining in flesh and weight."

Rubidge Street.

MRS. GROSE, 148 Rubidge street, Peterborough, Ont., states,—

"I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in my family, and have found it to be a great nerve builder. One of my children had been troubled with nervousness for a number of years, and suffered greatly from dizzy, nervous headaches. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has entirely freed her of these symptoms, and to-day she is real strong and healthy. We do not lose an opportunity of recommending this splendid medicine."

Lake Street.

MRS. GEO. F. BRISBIN, Lake street, Peterborough, Ont., states,—

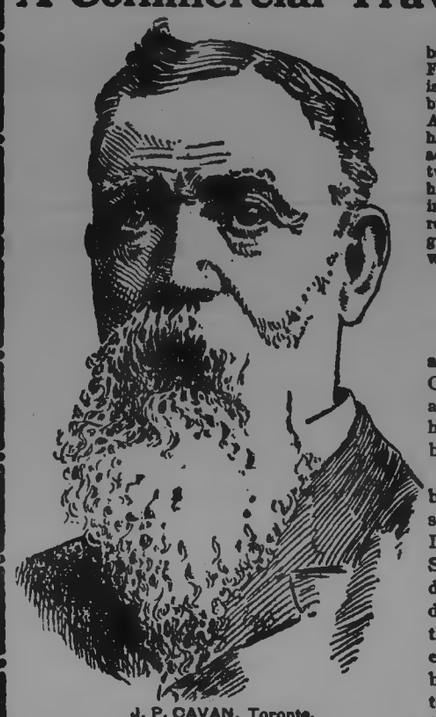
"One of my children, a boy of about fifteen years, did not have good health, for a year or more. He seemed to have no energy, was weak and languid, and suffered from nervousness. The doctors said that he was growing too fast, but we became alarmed about him and began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It was not long until we noticed a great change in his condition,—his appetite improved, he had better colour, and soon became stronger and healthier. He is still using the Nerve Food, and we are perfectly confident that he is improving right along under this treatment."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is imitated. Every box of the genuine bears portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase. 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Blood Trouble Cured

Without Drugs.

A Commercial Traveler's Experience.



J. P. CAVAN, Toronto.

I have much pleasure in giving my testimonial on behalf of your grand tonic and blood purifier, Ozone. For twenty years I was a commercial traveler, and as is well known, such a life, unless you are very careful, brings a great amount of trouble to the human frame. And so it was with me. I would have dyspepsia, heartburn, headaches, and swollen limbs. My headaches were so bad that I would have to lay off work for two or three days, only to have a return before many hours. I have been using Ozone for two years, and during all that time I can truthfully say that I have had no return of any of my former troubles. It is truly a grand product and especially valuable for spring. I will always continue to speak of it in the highest terms.

Wishing you every success. Yours very truly,

(Sgd.) J. P. CAVAN,
268 Dovercourt Road, Toronto.

We would like above all things to have you accept our statements about Powley's Liquified Ozone, but we believe the suggestion that we are interested would mar the main object we have in view in advertising Ozone—prevent your benefiting from its use.

There is nothing on earth that will cure blood disorders as pimples, carbuncles, boils, old sores, etc., as quickly and thoroughly as Powley's Liquified Ozone. It is the very best product for Spring use. We have had cases where the blood disorder was of over thirty years standing and discharging matter copiously, cured quickly by the use of this natural blood food. Its action is effective because it is natural. It purifies the blood, disinfects it thoroughly, and brings back to the skin that clear, deep bloom so much valued by everyone. Powley's Liquified Ozone will cure you quickly too. It does not take very long for it to demonstrate its beneficial action.

ST. LUKE'S VESTRY.

The Adjourned Annual Meeting Held Last Evening.

Reports Received From Various Church Societies Show a Prosperous Condition of Affairs.

St. Luke's Vestry Meeting held last evening, showed the affairs of the church to be in a very flourishing condition.

The meeting was attended by a very goodly number of the members bers of St. Luke's, who were much pleased with the good reports they heard of the church's work.

The Rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, was in the chair, and opened the meeting with reading of Scriptures and prayer.

The minutes of the previous meetings were read and confirmed.

The Auditors' Report, presented by Mr. F. J. Jameson, was as follows:

Total assets...	$23,738 40
Total liabilities	1,250 00
Total receipts on current expense account	1,710 83
Total expenditure...	1,705 31
Receipts from other sources for missions, improvements, etc.....	645 82
Total receipts	$ 2,351 13

The buildings are all in a very good condition, and insured for $15,-000.00.

The Rector read his annual report and address. This being his first Vestry meeting he took occasion to thank his congregation for the unanimity with which they had called him to become their pastor. He said that as a corporation and as individuals, they had much cause for thankfulness to Almighty God, and he hoped that they would show it by a Christ-like walk and in loving and serving God better than ever. He recommended that the 26th anniversary of St. Luke's should be kept this year, since the silver jubilee was forgotten last year on account of the unsettled state of the parish. Since he took charge of the parish, in September last, he had preached 62 sermons, delivered 42 addresses, baptized 21 children, and married 9 couples. Eleven persons were removed by death.

The Rector pointed out that St. Luke's had the proud distinction of having three of her boys in the South African war—Percy Price, Reginald Turner, and Thos. Burnham. He asked the congregation to remember them in their prayers.

The offertory on Easter amounted in all to $368.45; 208 persons partook of the Holy Communion.

The report then went into details as to the work of the different societies, for all of which the Rector had some kind words and warm appreciation of their help.

In conclusion, the Rector said:—"Let me thank you for your many kind words, and deeds bestowed upon me and mine, and let me trust that another church year now begun may be a true harbinger of the continuance of that 'unity, peace and concord,' which has always existed in St. Luke's between Rector and people, and between each other, and which is so important a feature of a happy and successful ministerial and congregational life. I trust that this new beginning of another church year will bring to you and yours every pleasure and joy and blessing which a loving and all-wise Father sees best that you should have."

Reports were then submitted from all the different organizations, each one showing earnest work and much zeal in the cause of Christ.

The Sunday school receipts amounted to $170.22, and the expenditure $140.09. New books had been bought for the library amounting to $42. There were now 650 volumes on hand.

It was decided to begin at once and build a cement walk at the church.

The probable appointment of a choir leader was referred to a committee.

Refreshments were then served. The National Anthem and Auld Lang Syne being sung, a happy and profitable evening was brought to a close.

Whither Goest Thou?

The Passion Play.

The Passion Play Pictures to be shown in St. Peter's T. A. S. Hall, on Monday and Tuesday, April 21st and 22nd, come well recommended from all parts of Ontario. The Guelph Herald says the Passion Play Pictures are a dramatic representation of the suffering of Christ. It originated from a vow made by the inhabitants of the little village of Oberammergau in 1623 with the hope of staying a terrible plague then raging. The Passion Play illustrates the chief events of the life of our Saviour while on earth. The pictures and descriptive lecture are given with a reverence that produce a highly elevating effect on the audience. This entertainment is highly spoken of by both press and public, and should have a large audience. Proceeds in aid of funds for House of Providence.

LAWN BOWLERS' ANNUAL MEETING.

Mr. Robt. Kerr is the new Presiding Officer.

WAS LARGELY ATTENDED.

Dr. Boucher, the Retiring President, Made a Number of Most Pertinent Remarks The New Officers.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, last evening, in the Board Room of the Toronto Savings & Loan Co., was marked by a very large attendance of the members.

The chair was occupied by the President, Dr. Boucher, who made a most comprehensive address to those present concerning the position occupied by the club financially as well as from the standpoint of one who had marked the progress made by the players on the green. The season, he thought, had been a most fruitone. From sixteen to eighteen players had been developed who, he felt certain, the club would not have reason to be ashamed to see compete in either the Ontario or Dominion championship matches. In the course of his remarks he mentioned that since the last general meeting, the club had been given reason to deplore the death of Mr. R. C. McHarrie, the Vice-President. He was a gentleman to whom the club was much indebted, as the chief instrument in causing the formation of the organization. He was fond of athletics in all forms and his loss to the club would be one which would be hard to fill. He had been a most enthusiastic supporter of all clean sport in every way and all would join with him, he felt sure, in deploring the loss which the club had sustained by his untimely death. Passing on, Dr. Boucher referred to the fact that, owing to the great expense which was entailed in fitting up the grounds, the executive had found that a deficit would have to be faced at the close of the season. It had, therefore, been decided that a ball should be held and, he was convinced that all would agree with him in saying that, when the committee had decided to hold a ball, it was a step which the members would endorse as a unit. The function had been a success in every respect and as a result instead of a deficit the executive could announce that there was a balance of a few dollars on the right side of the ledger, some thirty odd dollars having been derived, as a profit, through the holding of this function, which cleared the club of debt. The matter of extending the lawn to the north was then brought up by the President, who explained that if ten feet was added along the side, it would be practible to play from both sides and thus be the means of saving the lawn, to a very considerable extent, at the ends, where it was liable to become worn. Some fault, he stated, had been found with the lawn on account of a certain amount of roughness. This was due to the fact that in the spring many of the players had neglected to supply themselves with rubber shoes and in consequence, indentations had been made which it was impossible to remove, and the members were themselves to blame for this. The matter of the reimbursement of the caretaker was then touched upon by Dr. Boucher, who went on to say that the salary would have to be increased, if Mr. O'Keefe, the present capable man, was to be retained, and more liberal terms would have to be made. Dr. Boucher also advised that a provision be made, insuring the payment of all fees by June 15th. This, with the matter of engaging a caretaker, he left to the consideration of the members. In conclusion he urged that several rinks be entered by the club in the annual tournaments of both the Ontario and Dominion Associations, stating that from what he had witnessed during the season, the Peterborough Club would reflect credit on the town in any company.

Mr. A. J. N. Terrill, secretary-treasurer, then presented a detailed statement showing the club's standing to be as appended:

Receipts	$170.80
Expenditure	168.78
Credit Balance	$ 2.02

Gentlemen,—You will observe in the first place that although our membership was supposed to reach almost the 100 mark, yet the receipts do not bear out that statement, but show the membership to have been about 70. This is explained by the fact that quite a number of those proposed as members never actively identified themselves with the club, and did not think it was reasonable that they should be asked to pay for benefits which they did not receive. However, all of those who used the green were very prompt in making a remittance for their fees.

Financially, the season should be regarded as most successful, as the cost of resodding the lawn, building the club house, purchasing the hose, jacks, and mats, putting in the light and water works, are all permanent improvements, and the amount involved should be divided between the two years for which we have rented the grounds. If half of the cost be transferred to this year's account, it would show a handsome balance on the credit side of the ledger for last year's operations, and the members should therefore feel much encouraged by the showing which is made.

Electric lights were placed on the grounds by some of the members who endeavoured to defray the cost by subscription. The expense involved was $26.60, and as only $12.00 was raised, the Executive thought it within their power to assume the debt of 14.60. There is only one other outstanding account—a matter of $6.00, owing Mr. A. Hall for the hydrant. Through the fact of your Executive deciding to hold a ball, they were enabled to raise $32.80, which was very acceptable to the treasurer.

The report was then adopted.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Patrons — Hon. J. R. Stratton and Mr. Jas. Kendry, M.P.

Hon. Pres.—Dr. Boucher.

Pres.—Mr. Robt. Kerr.

Vice-Pres.—Dr. Moher.

Sec.-Treas.—Mr. A. J. N. Terrill.

Lawn Committee—Messrs. H. Rush, M. Green, J. M. Brooks, and G. Giroux.

Executive Committee — The officers and members of the Lawn Committee.

The mode of choosing the skips was a matter of very interesting discussion. It was finally decided that the same method as followed last year be adopted, supremacy being decided by individual competition among the members.

Messrs. H. LeBrun, Dr. Boucher, and Frank Bell were added to the Executive Committee to assist in soliciting membership for the Club.

The matter of extending the green and engaging the services of a caretaker, was left to the Executive.

A large number of the members present expressed themselves very strongly in regard to players using the Green without supplying themselves with rubber shoes, and a resolution was passed holding the skips responsible for allowing any member to play who had not an "understanding" in compliance with the rules.

The Executive will meet at the green on Monday evening at 7 o'clock.

OBITUARY.

The death of Mrs. W. Alford occurred on Tuesday last at her home in Lakefield. Mrs. Alford had suffered for some years past from attacks of heart failure, and to this cause, combined with chronic bronchial trouble, her disease is directly attributable. Mrs. Alford was born in Low Trenchard, Devonshire, the home of Rev. Sabine Baring Gould, on August 12th, 1826. She was married on March 30th, 1851, to Mr. Wm. Alford, and came to this country with her husband in 1871. The whole of her life in Canada was passed in the village of Lakefield. She leaves surviving her, her husband, Mr. Wm. Alford, and two daughters, Mrs Donald McLean, of Moose Jaw, N.W.T., and Mrs. Gunn, of Peterborough. Also a brother, Wm. Hockaday, who is a resident of Dawlish, Eng., and six grandchildren. Mrs. Alford was much honoured and respected by all those who knew her. The warm sympathy of the community is extended to those who she left behind, and more particularly to the one who for so many years has been her partner in life.

The men will therefore leave on the "Midnight" Sunday. The list of those who go down is as follows,—

An opportunity is afforded for enlistment this afternoon, and any who may care to go to South Africa from here will be given their last chance.

The Militia General orders issued today contain an announcement in connection with the 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons, of much interest. It is the announcement of a number of promotions consequent upon the re-organization of the Dragoons upon the basis as announced in these columns some time ago. According to the re-organized basis, the strength of the Regiment is increased by over one hundred men, although the number of squadrons remain the same. Each squadron is, however, commanded by a Major and he has under him a captain and three Lieutenants.

To-day's Militia General orders announce that Capt Syer, of Millbrook, and Capt Rogers, of Grafton, are promoted to the rank of Major. They are both young men and it is safe in saying that there are no younger majors in the Canadian Militia. Lieut W. T. Hall, of town, who holds a commission in the Millbrook squadron of the Dragoons, is promoted to the rank of Captain, and he, too, is to be congratulated on the advancement he has made since joining the Dragoons. The other promotions are, to be Lieutenants—Second Lieutenants G. Hall, A. E. Shaw and Percy B Price. To be Second Lieutenants, provisionally, Sgt. Major Armstrong, of B Squadron. A. G Willoughby and J. D. Raddock.

There are few regiments that can boast of as good a showing on the Canadian Contingents to South Africa as the 3rd Dragoons. Besides a great many many non-coms. and privates, the 3rd Dragoons have no fewer than four officers serving in the ranks. They are Major Brown, of Colbourne, Capt. C.H. Rogers, Grafton, Lieut. Percy Roberts Price, and Lieut. Hayward. This is an exceptional record, and one of which the Dragoons should feel proud. It might be said that Capt. Rogers, who is a son of Lieut.-Col. Rogers, Grafton, and who is well known here, enlisted a few days ago for the Fourth Contingent.

Owing to the impending departure for South Africa of some junior officers of the 45th Victoria Regiment, Lt.-Col. Sam. Hughes, commanding officer of that Regiment, entertained the officers of his Regiment at dinner at the Benson House, Lindsay, last night.

The announcement that five hundred men will be taken from Canada to be present at the Coronation ceremonies, has caused a flood of applications to pour into the Militia Department from South African veterans. It is understood that a preference is to be given to those who served in South Africa.

The third drill of the season of the 57th will be held on Tuesday night next. The drills so far have been very well attended, and the companies are being well filled up.

The funeral took place on April 10th from the family residence, 491 James street, north, to Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

RETAIL MERCHANTS.

An Important Meeting was Held Last Night Resolutions Passed.

A meeting of the Retail Merchant's Association was held last night, the President, Mr. Robert Fair, in the chair.

The chief object of the meeting was the consideration of the advisability of sending a letter to the District Passenger Agents of the Railway Co's., stating that they believed it would be in the interests of the Companies and the Retail Merchants to grant the latter a reduction of fares for the purpose of allowing the merchants to visit more frequently the manufacturing and wholesale centres.

It was decided to forward a letter to the District Passenger Agents to this effect.

Another matter that came up was the adoption of a resolution which will be forwarded to the Minister of Inland Revenue, asking the Government to abolish the present system of inspecting weights and measures. They recommended that the cost of inspection be paid direct by the Government.

The meeting decided to recommend to the Town Council that in view of the 24th of May falling on Saturday, that the market day be advertised for the Friday previous.

The matter of the Retail Merchants holding an excursion, was discussed, but no action was taken thereon.

Come, let us Reason Together.

You will readily acknowledge the fact that defects and derangements of digestion are amongst the most common of human ailments. These digestive derangements not only complicate almost every form of disease, but they constitute by themselves serious torments to a vast number of otherwise healthy people.

If you are unfortunately numbered amongst those who are users of common oatmeal and other starchy and indigestible grain foods producing stomach irritations, eructations, water-brash, heartburn, heated blood and skin eruptions, why continue to use such grain foods when the use of Malt Breakfast Food perfectly maintains digestive vigor and robust health?

Malt Breakfast Food has proved a revelation to the dyspeptic; it has banished his troubles and given him a natural and healthy appetite. Malt Breakfast Food is predigested, readily assimilated, delicious, appetizing and strengthening. Its use in the home for one week will gladden your heart, and you will never have a desire to give it up. See your grocer.

THE MINISTER ANSWERS MAYOR.

Hon. Mr. Stratton's Reply to Mayor Howland's Charge.

MAYOR WRONG IN HIS LAW.

No Proper Subjects for Asylum Treatment in Toronto Jail—Hon. Mr. Stratton on Toronto's Negligence.

For sometime a section of the Toronto press has been finding fault with the Provincial Secretary's Department and complaining of the number of insane persons who were confined in the Toronto gaol. On Thursday evening a letter appeared in the evening papers from the Mayor of Toronto attacking the Provincial Secretary and the Ontario Government for their neglect and for the condition of the unfortunate insane persons alleged to have been kept in the gaol instead of being sent to an asylum. In reply to the Mayor's letter the Provincial Secretary, Hon. Mr. Stratton, writes as follows in the Toronto Globe, the letter being addressed to Mayor Howland:

Dear Sir,—I acknowledge receipt of your letter of 15th April (which, it may be remarked, was published in the press before it reached me,) with its accompanying enclosures from the National Council of Women and your legal department, concerning "the deplorable state of the large number of insane persons confined in Toronto Jail." In reply, I have to say that your letter unmistakably discloses an unpardonable lack of accurate information as to the character of the inmates of your jail, as well as of the city's responsibilities regarding the care of indigent idiots and imbeciles.

A QUESTION OF LAW.

You say:—"I am advised, as regards the legal aspects of the case, that there is no authority on the part of a Magistrate to commit for intermediate detention to any other institution than the common jail."

I beg to draw your attention to section 527 of the municipal act, which provides that cities may pass bylaws for establishing, and that Magistrates may commit to, a house of refuge, house of industry or home for the poor, aged or infirm, disorderly persons, drunkards, vagrants, indigent persons and such description of persons as are set forth and described in section 526, namely, inter alios, all poor and indigent persons and idiots.

HOUSE OF REFUGE NEEDED.

I have to inform you that there are not in your jail any insane inmates of long detention, except such as ought properly to have been committed to such a house of refuge as the city is by said section authorized to provide, but which it has, for some unknown reason, as yet neglected to provide. As to the dangerous lunatics who are committed temporarily to jail by Magistrates pending arrangements for their removal to asylums, where else, may I not ask, except to the jails could such dangerous lunatics be safely or properly committed?

I am informed by the Government's medical officers, who have carefully examined every so-called insane patient in your jail, that not one of the long-term cases is a fit and proper subject for asylum treatment. They all belong to the imbecile, weak-minded and idiotic classes, the burden of whose support falls, in the opinion of everyone, properly upon the municipalities, and it is exactly the burden which the City of Toronto has for many years evaded, to the surprise and sorrow of all charitably disposed persons the whole province over. I have good reason to believe that the Magistrates who have committed these unfortunates to the jail at the instance of the city, and presumably on the advice of the legal department, will find it extremely difficult to justify their action.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE.

Your memorialists, the National Council of Women, have the entire sympathy of myself and my colleagues, as well as of all good people everywhere, in their efforts to alleviate the lot of these unhappy persons, and, speaking for myself, my sympathy is mingled with surprise that an effort has been made to mislead your memorialists as to where the responsibility for the existing regrettable condition of affairs really lies. I regret very much that you should, either thoughtlessly or deliberately, mislead the public by writing and causing to be published the following sentence, "The responsibility, then, rests with the Lieutenant-Governor in Council to provide for removal to a more suitable place."

If your legal department has advised you to that effect it must have been upon exceedingly hasty and ill-considered instructions. There is no authority in this province to commit to the jail for lunacy any other but a dangerous lunatic. The complaint of your memorialists, the National Council of Women, concerns the long detentions of persons, and as to this class there is actually no authority whatever to commit them to jail. The authority to commit such persons is found in section 527 aforesaid, and it is not to jail, but to a home or place of refuge, which the City of Toronto has for many years, much needed as it is, neglected to provide.

"MAY" OR SHALL"?

It can be said to the honour of many of our municipalities, financially straitened, compared with Toronto, that the word "may" in the Act has been sufficient to induce them to do their duty. Your letter is calculated to force the Legislature to consider whether as respects the wealthy city of Toronto the word "may" ought not to be replaced by "shall." It may be that your letter was written with the object of bringing about such a change in the law.

A VOTE OF BURGHERS

Boers Leave Pretoria to Arrange for Peace Referendum.

THE TERMS NOT ANNOUNCED.

The Taking of the Peace Vote, Which is in Accordance With Boer Law—Recruits Are Pouring In—Ranks of Fourth Contingent Fast Filling Up.

London, April 19.—The Government leader, A. J. Balfour, in the House of Commons yesterday made the following important statement: "After two conferences between Lord Milner and Lord Kitchener and the Boer delegates at Pretoria, Lord Kitchener, while refusing to grant an armistice, on military grounds, has agreed to give facilities for the election and meeting of representatives of the various Boer commands to consider the position. The Boer leaders have, therefore, left Pretoria, to carry out this plan."

Mr. Balfour added that it was not expected that communication between the British authorities and the Boer leaders could be resumed in less than three weeks' time.

Mr. Balfour's statement made a generally favorable impression. It is felt among the members of the House of Commons that the action of the Boer leaders demonstrated that, at any rate, a majority of the delegates favor the acceptance of the suggested British peace terms. The submission of the question to a plebiscite of the burghers is according to Boer law, which requires the leaders of armed forces in the field to take the opinion of their followers before concluding peace.

Hamilton Captures 64 Boers.

Klerksdorp, Transvaal Colony, April 18.—Gen. Ian Hamilton, in a further drive, has captured 64 Boers.

Seddon's Short Way.

London, April 19.—Mr. Seddon in a recent speech at Wellington said, addressing a meeting of natives, that if Lord Kitchener had 5,000 Maoris, gave them their own way, and told them that he wanted them to put down the Boers, he thought the Boers would very soon be put down. There was, he added, too much kid-glove business in South Africa; the authorities seemed afraid of hurting the enemy. The Maoris never allowed their enemies to trouble them again.

5 KILLED, 22 WOUNDED.

Belgian Chamber Will Not Revise Constitution to Provide Universal Suffrage—Socialists Shot Down.

Brussels, April 19.—The Chamber of Representatives yesterday by 84 to 64 votes rejected the proposal to revise the Belgian constitution so as to provide for universal suffrage.

Great excitement followed. A serious riot has occurred at Louvain, near Brussels. Socialists held a demonstration in front of the residence of M. Scolaert, the president of the Chamber of Deputies. When the police attempted to disperse them they were received with a shower of stones. The civic guard then fired on the mob. A similar riot occurred in another part of Louvain, and altogether five persons were killed and twelve wounded. Some of the members carried the dead and wounded to the Maison Vles Prolettarios. Another riot is reported to have occurred in Bruges, Flanders. Here the police charged the Socialists with drawn swords, and ten of the latter were wounded.

EARNEST ADVICE.

A Quebec Gentleman Offers a Plain, Straightforward and Truthful Statement of His Case and its Cure for the Benefit of Other Sufferers.

There can be no more worthy motive than desire to help another.

There are but few who after having suffered and found a cure hesitate to give their fellow sufferers the benefit of their experience.

As there are many to-day whose lives are being rendered miserable by the tortures of Dyspepsia and other Stomach Troubles, the story of Ademard Colerre, of St. Jacques de L'achigan, Que., which he declares is told for the sole purpose of helping other similar sufferers, will be read with interest.

Mons. Coderre says:

"I certify to having suffered the geatest misery for two years with Dyspepsia, caused by inflammation of the stomach.

"I have taken many medicines and treatments but failed to find anything that would give me any relief.

"I was very low spirited and discouraged, and many times felt like giving up.

"At last one day I chanced to read an account of the cure of Dyspepsia performed by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and after thinking the matter over I decided to commence a treatment.

"I bought two boxes and began to use them at once. I noticed an improvement almost from the very first, and was thus encouraged to continue till now I can confidently assert that I am completely and satisfactorily cured.

"I have not the slightest symptom of Dyspepsia or any form of Stomach Trouble left.

"I can eat and drink as heartily as ever and experience not the slightest distress afterwards.

"I desire to make my case known to the public so that all who may be suffering from that awful malady may know that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured me of this very serious case, and that they may be led to use this remedy which I believe to be the only one that will perfectly cure Dyspepsia."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets promptly and effectually cure even the most serious and aggravated cases.

New Commander Has Arrived.

Halifax, April 19.—Major-Gen. Sir Charles Parsons, the new commander of the British troops in Canada, arrived here yesterday afternoon on the royal mail steamer Ionian from Liverpool. Fell Six Storeys

Buffalo, April 19.—John Metcalfe, 50 years old, a passenger on the Lehigh Valley, fell from the sixth floor to the basement of the Erie County Bank Building yesterday and landed head foremost on the marble top of a steam radiator, breaking it into small pieces. He died at the hospital an hour later.

A PRINCE ALBERT LADY SAYS: "I Have Great Faith in Diamond Dyes."

To the wise woman who buys good material, Diamond Dyes are a necessity to the economy of the household, and by using these dyes many perplexing problems are solved. It is here that good judgment and management can save much, while the thoughtless and the extravagant keep themselves hopelessly poor.

Mrs. G. S. Pook, Prince Albert, N. W. T., says, "I am very pleased with the success I have had with Diamond Dyes. I have used the Black for Wool on many occasions and always got a lovely fast black, that kept its bright and full colour as long as the goods held together. I dyed a heliotrope cashmere dress for my little girl; it took a rich Cardinal, very even in colour and that stands washing. I have great faith in Diamond Dyes."

If you delight in home Mat and Rug Making send your address to the Wells and Richardson Co., Limited, 200 Mountain street, Montreal, P.Q., and be supplied free of cost with the new designs of the Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns, which are ready for hooking.

THERE ARE OTHER TROUBLES IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Kingsland, England,

Gentlemen,—I have derived great benefit from the use of "Kelpion." I found it an excellent remedy for blistered feet caused by long and weary marching, and for veldt sores it was was a fine remedy.

As I was acting as doctor's orderly whilst in South Africa, it fell to my dot to dress the wounds of injured man, and if a man came with a badly inflamed hand or blistered feet, I always recommended Kelpion, and they found that I had not advised them to use it in vain. Just before we crossed the Vaal River I had a small swelling come on the right kneecap which was very painful. I commenced to rub it with Kelpion, and after persevering for three days I was cured. During that three days I marched 40 miles, so it was not rest that cured it. Surgeon-Major Slaman, the C. I. V. doctor always recommended Kelpion.

I must say it was the most useful article in our kit, and I shall never fail to recommend it wherever I go.

MR. ROBERT ROSE EULOGIZES DR. PITCHER.

The Originator of the Well-known "Rose Hair Grower" Speaks in Glowing Terms of the Benefits He Derived From the Use of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

They Cured Him of Backache and Kidney Trouble, Which Had Bothered Him for Years.

The many patrons of the "Rose Hair Grower" all over Canada, who are using that excellent preparation for the hair and scalp, will no doubt be pleased to learn that the originator and compounder of that splendid hair tonic is now in the best of health, having been cured of the severe backache and kidney trouble which formerly afflicted him, by the use of the new kidney specific, "Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets." Mr Rose is naturally delighted to be rid of his aches and pains, and very gladly gave Dr. Pitcher the following statement of his case:—

"Having been a sufferer from backage and kidney trouble for years, and having been advised to try Dr. Pitcher's Backage Kidney Tablets, I did so. The result in my case has been most satisfactory, as I am entirely cured and can highly recommend this remedy to all sufferers from pain in the back or kidney trouble in any form. I have heard many persons speak highly of these Tablets, and I know in every case where I recommended them they produced a prompt and permanent cure."

(Signed.) ROBT. ROSE.

"Remember Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are altogether different from the common kidney pills with which the drug stores are filled. Every Tablet goes to the right spot, and you can feel every dose doing you good. They remove every bit of pain from the sore, aching back, because they get at the origin of the ache in the kidneys.

There has no medicine ever before been compounded like these Tablets for backache, kidney, and urinary troubles of both sexes.

Do not fritter away your health and money and prolong your misery experimenting with all sorts of remedies, which in many instances are prepared by persons ignorant of the science of medicine or not skilled in the treatment of kidney and urinary diseases, and whose pills and potions frequently aggravate your trouble instead of alleviating it.

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are small in size, chocolate-coated, easy to take, and every dose helps the cure. One Tablet a dose, fifty Tablets in a bottle. Price 50 cents a bottle, or three bottles for $1.25; at all druggists, or sent by mail. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ontario.

THE C.P.R. STOCK BILL

Mr. Fitzpatrick's Measure Dealing With Issue Introduced.

CONDITIONS CLEARLY STATED

Considerable Information Given About Most Points in Connection With C.P.R. Charter Rights—Hon. Mr. Sifton Reviews the Immigration Work of the Dominion—Immigration Estimates Passed.

Ottawa, April 18.—Yesterday afternoon the Minister of Justice introduced his bill respecting the increase of $20,000,000 in the capital stock of the C.P.R., and gave a lucid explanation of its provisions, and the reasons why it had been thought necessary to pass legislation confirming the Order-in-Council, and giving the force of statutory law to the conditions which the Government had imposed for the protection of the public interests. The items for immigration were voted in supply, after a comprehensive review by Hon. Clifford Sifton of the work of the department, which demonstrated the efficiency of the policy adopted with regard to immigration since he assumed the portfolio of the Interior, as tested by comparison with the results produced by the policy in force up to 1896. His assurance that the record of immigrant arrivals for the first three months of this year indicated that the great movement of population from the western States to the northwest had not abated, and was increasing very rapidly, elicited warm cheers.

Canadian Pacific Bill.

Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick introduced his bill to amend the provision with respect to tolls of chapter 1 of the statutes of 1881, respecting the Canadian Pacific Railway. Speaking in support of the bill, he explained that the Order-in-Council authorizing the C.P.R. to increase its capital stock by $20,000,000 provided that no part of this stock shall be issued at less than par, and also defined the purposes to which the money to be derived from the sale of the stock shall be applied. It further provided that this increase of stock shall not in any way be considered as affecting the question of control, namely, the question of the control of the Government over the rates of the company after its earning power has increased to the extent of 10 per cent., or 15 per cent. on its capital. In order that the House should be fully informed of all the facts, Mr. Fitzpatrick briefly specified the legislation which was in existence previous to the passing of this act, and which would be affected by the bill introduced. In the bill he had laid before the House the Government had taken the precaution to make it a matter of statute that the money shall be applied to the purposes for which it was said to be necessary at the time the Order-in-Council was applied for. With respect to the tolls, at the time of the incorporation of the C.P.R. railways were regulated by the consolidated railway act of 1879, being 42 Victoria, chapter 9, which act, in so far as its provisions are applicable to the C.P.R., and in so far as they are not inconsistent with or contrary to the provisions of the company's charter, and save and except as is specifically provided in the charter, is incorporated with the C. P. R. charter.

In reply to Mr. Haggart, the Minister of Justice said the C.P.R. was a consenting party to the bill, and that it left the company with regard to tolls in exactly the same position they occupied before getting permission to issue the extra $20,000,000 stock.

Mr. W. F. Maclean protested that there was no proposal in the bill to deal with the two great grievances which existed with respect to the tolls the C.P.R. were charging and the determination of the actual cost upon which they are entitled to receive 10 per cent. before the Government could reduce the tolls. The question of the expiration of the term of exemption of the company's land grant was also left untouched.

Mr. Sifton said that the legislation just introduced did deal with those very grievances. The $20,000,000 additional was not to be counted in the cost of the road upon which the earnings are to be 10 per cent. before rates may be reduced. Could anything fairer be done? Mr. Maclean, being something of a Socialist, might say he did not care what the shareholders wanted or what their rights were, but the sentiments of the House would be in favor of respecting vested rights.

Mr. Maclean asked what the Government had done to ascertain the actual cost of the road.

Mr. Sifton replied that before the permission to increase the capital was given a reference to the courts to ascertain the cost of the road was decided upon.

Replying to Mr. Haggart, Mr. Sifton said the reference to this court would be gone on with at once.

The Minister of Justice promised Mr. R. L. Borden to explain what was done about the C.P.R. lands taxation, when he came to the estimates of his department. The bill was then read a first time.

Mr. Sifton introduced a bill to amend the Unorganized Territories Game Preservation Act, its object being to preserve a few small herds of wood buffalo still remaining in the Mackenzie River District.

On motion to go into supply, Mr. Maclean brought up again the British budget, proposing a tax on breadstuffs. He contended that no preference was given to Canada because of the chilling reply from the Canadian Government to the invitation of the British Government.

The Immigration Department.

Mr. Wilson of Lennox, on the motion to go into supply, made an exhaustive criticism of the work of Mr. Sifton's Immigration Department. He opposed the system of paid passages and commented upon the failure of the Government to secure a greater proportion of British immigrants. He dealt with C. R. Devlin's peculiar political methods in Ireland, and pointed out that his salary had been raised just before the general election. But for all Mr. Devlin's efforts there had been a decrease in the past five years in the number of immigrants from Ireland, while the cost per head had gone up enormously. After dealing with the immigration from Great Britain and the continent of Europe, the cost of which was far in excess of results, he took up the reports of the United States Commissioner of Immigration, which showed that the United States Government kept a staff of 44 agents on the boundary to prevent diseased and indigent immigrants crossing the border. They had last year stopped 1,000 European immigrants, who must have nearly all remained in Canada.

Mr. Sifton's Reply.

Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, said that he had no fault to find with the manner or spirit in which Mr. Wilson had criticized the work of his department; possibly it would be beneficial for his officials to know that their work was likely to be overhauled in the Agricultural Committee. The Minister spoke of the enormous natural possibilities of Canada and the unlimited field for immigration in northern Quebec, northern Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and the west, in fact in all the Provinces of Canada except Prince Edward Island. As to Mr. Devlin's position in Ireland, Mr. Sifton said that Mr. Devlin was a man of very extraordinary and exceptional ability. No person who knew Mr. Devlin would deny that, and if any man was well qualified to take charge of the work in Ireland and turn the tide of Irish emigration to Canada, Mr. Devlin would be the man likely to do it. In answer to Mr. Wilson, the Minister said there has been no substantial change in Mr. Devlin's position since the recent visit of the Deputy Minister of the Interior to Ireland.

He denied that there was any foundation for the charge that the country was being overrun by diseased and indigent immigrants rejected by U. S. agents. He said the facts were that 25,000 immigrants landed at St. John and Montreal for the United States, only 132 being rejected, of these 39 were in Canada at present, of whom 21 were Germans, settled now in the Northwest, who had been rejected because of a trivial disease among the children. Of the remaining 18 seven or eight were still in St. John awaiting deportation.

Mr. Sifton then gave to the House a general review of the work of the Immigration Department, for which the expenditure amounted to $500,000.

The House then went into supply on the immigration estimates.

Mr. Marcil (Bonaventure), in the course of a fluent and practical address, advocated a policy that would keep Canadians at home. He contended that one Canadian was worth two foreigners.

The immigration vote, amounting to $445,000, was passed, and the House rose at midnight.

LOOKING BACK

To the time when she was plucked from the very grasp of death, the natural impulse of the womanly heart is thankfulness for the means which saved her, and a desire to help other women in like case. Those are the motives which prompted Mrs. Eva Burnett to write the accompanying testimonial to the curative power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This is only one cure out of thousands. No one would dare say that the average woman was not as truthful as she is good. And it is the truthful testimony of the average woman that "Favorite Prescription" cures womanly diseases when all other means and medicines absolutely fail. It establishes regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves, restores the appetite and induces refreshing sleep.

"I have intended for some time to write to you," says Mrs. Eva Burnett, of Russellville, Logan Co., Ky., "and give a testimonial in regard to what your medicine has done for me. My baby came in July, 1885, and I had congestive chills, and lay at death's door for ten long weeks. I was in a dreadful condition and had six of the best doctors of the city. After everything had been done and I had been given up to die I asked my husband to get me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. He had no faith in it, but he got it, and when I had taken it two weeks I was able to walk to the dining room to my meals, and by the time I had taken three bottles I was able to cook for my family of four. I can never praise Dr. Pierce and his medicine enough."

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Permanently Cures all the Varied Forms of Rheumatism.

It Purifies the Blood and Removes Every Trace of Poisonous Acid.

The Great Medicine has Cured More Rheumatic Sufferers Than all Other Combined Remedies.

Sufferers from the varied forms of rheumatism—articular, muscular, inflammatory, lumbago and gout, should bear in mind that there is a morbid principle in the blood when rheumatism is present. This morbid principle is uric acid, which circulates with the blood and acts upon the joints and muscles, causing the pains and agonies of rheumatism. Paine's Celery Compound is the only scientific remedy for the permanent banishment of every form of rheumatism. If your joints are painful; if the knees, wrists, elbows or ankles are swollen, a few bottles of Paine's Celery Compound will soon remove all your troubles and pains. If you have inflammatory or sciatic rheumatism accompanied with fever, acute darting pains in the sciatic nerve from the hip down the leg, Paine's Celery Compound taken at once will soon drive out the disease, and make you strong and active.

Mr. G. J. McDonald, Cornwall, Ont., writes about his happy cure as follows:

"After giving your Paine's Celery Compound a thorough testing, I am pleased to say a few words in its favour. For three years I suffered terribly from rheumatism. It seemed to me that I was forced to endure all the agonies and pains that a mortal could possibly experience from the dreadful disease.

"While suffering I tried many of the advertised medicines, also doctors' prescriptions, but never found a cure until I procured a supply of Paine's Celery Compound. It worked like a charm—it seemed to strike at the very root of my trouble. I am now cured; all pains are banished, and in every respect I am a new man.

"I shall always consider it a pleasure and duty to strongly recommend Paine's Celery Compound to all who are afflicted with rheumatism."

Ants That Strike.

Certain kinds of black ants have little yellow ants which do most of their work for them. Once in awhile these little yellow fellows will go on strike, and the "blacks" try to force them back to work by cutting off their food supply. If that does not succeed, they will attack the strikers in force or make a raid and get another gang of "yellows" into the colony. But the newcomers, as a rule, join the strikers. The strike ends by the "yellows" escaping and founding a colony for themselves, or they give in and settle down to work again.

A Cough Leads to a Coffin.

There's a striking similarity in these two words. Both are to be dreaded. Coffins cost many dollars whereas 25c buys a bottle of Four T's and cures the cough in 24 hours, making the coffin unnecessary. Four T's is acknowledged by all to be the best lung remedy in existence. Large 25c bottles at Ormond and Walsh's drug store.

Alcohol and Tobacco.

According to the London Lancet, when evil effects ensue from smoking tobacco they are very much intensified by indulgence in alcohol. Pyridine, the chief poisonous constituent of tobacco smoke, is not so easily soluble in water as in alcohol. Pyridine bases can be easily traced in the mouth of an immoderate smoker and especially the smoker of cigars. An alcoholic drink is, therefore, calculated quickly to wash out this poisonous oil and to carry it into the stomach.

TRIUMPHS OF SCIENCE.

Sensitiveness of the Implements of the Modern Laboratory.

The eye and the ear have long been regarded as marvels of mechanism, quite the most wonderful things in the world. But compared with the implements of a present day laboratory the sensitiveness of all human organs seems gross enough. A photographic plate, coupled with a telescope, will reveal the presence of millions of stars whose light does not affect the retina in the least. The microscope, too, with its revelations of the world of the infinitely small, tells us how crude, after all, is this most delicate of the senses. Indeed, we may liken it to a piano where only a single octave, toward the middle, sounds. From the ultra violet to the lowest reaches of the spectrum is a range of some nine octaves of light vibrations, of which, save for our new mechanical senses, we should never have been conscious of but one.

The ear hears little of what is going on around us. By means of a microphone the tread of a fly sounds like the tramp of cavalry. Our heat sense is very vague. We need a variation of at least one-fifth of a degree on a thermometer to realize any difference in temperature. Professor Langley's little bolometer will note the difference of a millionth of a degree. It is two hundred thousand times as sensitive as our skin.—Carl Snyder in Harper's Magazine.

Falling From a Great Height.

It will be remembered that Mr. Whymper, who had a severe succession of falls once in the Alps, without losing his consciousness, declares emphatically that as he bounded from one rock to another he felt absolutely no pain. The same thing happens on the battlefield. The entrance of the bullet into the body is not felt, and it is not till he feels the blood flowing or a limb paralyzed that the soldier knows he is wounded.

Persons who have had several limbs broken by a fall do not know which limb is broken till they try to rise. At the moment of a fall the whole intellectual activity is increased to an extraordinary degree. There is not a trace of anxiety. One considers quickly what will happen. This is by no means the consequence of "presence of mind." It is rather the product of absolute necessity. A solemn composure takes possession of the victim. Death by fall is a beautiful one. Great thoughts fill the victim's soul. They fall painlessly into a great blue sky.

Advice to Mothers.

If your little boy or girl comes home with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Polson's Nerviline. Don't be afraid to use Nerviline freely—a whole bottle full wouldn't burn or blister the tenderest skin. Rub in until all taken up by the pores, and just before the child goes to sleep give him a glass of hot water into which 30 drops of Nerviline has previously been stirred. This is a sure, pleasant and speedy cure. Large bottles 25 cents.

Safeguarding Himself.

"Are you a detective?" asked Mr. Meekton.

"I am," answered the man with the turndown collar and the white necktie.

"Well, I want to employ you. I want you to get out your false whiskers and your dark lantern and dog my footsteps night and day. Henrietta's gone out of town to visit some relatives, and I don't want her to be obliged to take my word for anything."

Questions for Women.

Are you weak, nervous, irritable, easily worried and fatigued? Do you dread your daily work and feel like letting your duties go undone. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will restore your nervous system and send the thrill of new life and energy through the body. It is above all a woman's medicine, as its invigorating influence on the nerves insures regularity in the functions of the bodily organs.

BLOOD DISEASED MEN

If you ever contracted any blood disease you are never safe unless the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Have you any of the following symptoms? Sore throat, ulcers on the tongue or in the mouth, hair falling out, aching pains, itchiness of the skin, sores or blotches on the body eyes red and smart, dyspeptic stomach, sexual weakness—indications of the secondary stage. Don't ruin your system with the old fogy treatment—mercury and potash—which only suppresses the symptoms for a time only to break out again when happy in domestic life. Don't let quacks experiment on you. Our New Method Treatment is guaranteed to cure you. Our guarantees are backed by bank bonds, that the disease will never return. Thousands of patients have been already cured by our New Method Treatment for over 20 years. No names used without written consent.

Mr. E. A. C. writes: "Your remedies have done me more good than Hot Springs and all the doctors and medicines I had previously tried. I have not felt any of those pains or seen any ulcers or blotches for over seven years and the outward symptoms of the loathsome disease have entirely disappeared. My hair has grown in fully again and I am married and happy."

STOCK MARKETS.

Market Rapidly Broadening.

New York, April 18th, 1902.—Each day now seems to bring new issues to the front. The market is working up, and outside interest is growing. The early purchases of stocks will be the ones to secure the large profits. We have persistently advertised and our market letters during the past two weeks have been urgently appealing to our clients to make immediate purchases. They have been correct. We again urge you to make some speculative purchases now. Do not wait until the best part of the spring bull market has gone by. C. F. I. looks to us as if it was going higher. We are still bullish on A. L. O. and continue to advise their immediate purchase. The coalers are all good in our opinion. The issues that have advanced the most will, of course, have the greatest reactions. When they do, buy them. The Granger shares all look well, also so do the trunk lines and the South Western issues. A good crop will cause a repetition of the spring of 1901 in Wall street. Record breaking earnings will inflame speculation and bring about great activity and advances. The cliques seem to be increasing their energies. The public are bound to follow in their wake. The enormous holdings of stocks by the richest men in Wall street should be a guarantee of the stability of the market and insure the likelihood of good profits to present buyers. The spring era of bull speculation seems to have started. We called attention in this file of letters over three weeks ago—to the bullish activity of the western wheat pit, and remarked at that time their appearance in the stock market was the forerunner of immediate higher prices. Their campaign is now well under way, and in our opinion has a long way to run before its termination. The leaders find more outside interest, and support as prices work higher. This is as it always has been in Wall street. We regret, however, the inevitable result. The major portion of the public will not make their purchases until top prices are near. It is and has been our endeavour to get our friends interested while the boom is on, not after it is about over. The market continues to broaden and increase—rightly so. Stability is behind it.—Haight & Freese.

RECKLESS DRIVING.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I noticed in your Police Court items in Friday's issue, the case of a young man being fined for reckless driving, and I trust that it will prove a salutary warning to others. It is an undeniable fact that every night in the week, and more especially on Sunday, Aylmer street is converted into a race track for reckless drivers. That portion of the street between Charlotte and Brock streets has become the rendezvous of dissolute characters of both sexes, who congregate every evening with livery outfits, and it is a common sight to see four and five in a buggy driving up and down the street at a mad pace. Candidly speaking, the output of horse flesh from one livery is not sufficient to even haul a buggy on our public thoroughfares, but the poor beasts (which should be enjoying a rest due to old age) are brutally treated by reckless drivers. This is not imagination on the writer's part. This state of affairs actually exists, and it behooves the proper authorities to take action in the matter.

Yours, etc.,

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY.

Compensation to Workmen for Injury From Preventable Accidents.

LEGISLATION ON THE SUBJECT

How the Act has Been Extended — Beneficial Results of the Law.

English legislation has for some time recognized the principle of the liability of employers for accidents occurring to their workmen owing to faulty or defective machinery, unsafe conditions or the negligence of fellow-employees in positions of authority. Prior to the adoption of this principle the law presumed that the workingman engaged in a hazardous occupation was aware of the dangers he incurred in his vocation and voluntarily undertook the risk of death or accident for the sake of obtaining employment. This doctrine was a direct premium on carelessness and want of consideration on the part of the employer, and motives of economy often resulted in the absence of those reasonable and necessary safeguards by which, with a small expenditure, the safety of workmen can be secured and in the employment of unqualified or untrustworthy persons to discharge duties upon the efficient performance of which the lives of their fellow-employees depended.

The Safety of Railway Employees.

The first measure enacted by the Liberal Government of Ontario, for securing compensation to workmen in case of preventable accidents was the "Act to make Provision for the safety of Railway Employees and the Public," introduced by Hon. C. F. Fraser in 1881, as the result of an investigation made by a special committee of the Legislature to enquire into the causes of the loss of life from accidents on railways. At that time casualties resulting in the death or maiming of railway employees, owing to the lack of simple, and comparatively inexpensive precautions were of frequent occurrence. The companies found it cheaper to hire new men than to expend money in providing for the safety of their employees, and hundreds of lives were sacrificed to their greed and inhumanity. The preamble to the Act reads as follows:—

"Whereas frequent accidents to railway servants and others are occasioned by the neglect of Railway Companies to provide a fair and reasonable measure of protection against their occurrence, and whereas, a proper construction of railway bridges, and certain precautions in the construction and maintenance of railway frogs, wing-rails, guard-rails and freight cars would greatly lessen if not entirely prevent, the happening of such accidents."

The Act proceeds to specify the improvements which railway companies were required to make in their bridges, tracks and freight cars, and in the event of accidents to their employees from their failure to do so the men were placed in as good a position with respect to the right of compensation, as though they had not been in the company's employ. The amount of compensation recoverable under the Act was not to exceed the estimated earnings for three years of a person in the same grade of employment as the employee killed or injured.

Principle Extended to Other Classes.

The principle embodied in this measure was extended to other classes of workmen by "an Act to Secure Compensation to Workmen in Certain Cases," passed in 1886. It provided that a workman injured by accident, or his representatives in case of death, should have the same right of compensation, and remedies against the employer as if the injured man had not been in his service, provided the injury was caused (1) by defective machinery or works; (2) by negligence of fellow-employees entrusted with the duty of superintendence; (3) by conforming to the orders of fellow-employees placed in authority over him; (4) by the operation of the employer's regulations, or (5) by the negligence of railway signal-men or those in charge of trains or locomotives. The Act made some important amendments in regard to the provisions for safety required on railways.

"Contracting out" not Permitted.

A clause in the Act provides against the workman contracting himself out of its operation. No contract or agreement entered into by a workshall constitute a defence to an action brought for compensation under its provisions, unless it is based on some other adequate consideration than the obtaining of employment, and unless such contract is in the opinion of the court not an improvident one, but just and reasonable. A simple method of enforcing claims under the Act was provided.

The Act exempted from its provisions such railway companies as had provided insurance and provident societies among their employees to secure aid to their members in case of sickness or accident, or death. An amendment passed in 1887 rendered these companies liable for compensation in cases in which their employees were not members of such societies.

The scope of the Act was again enlarged in 1889, when another amending Act was passed providing that where the execution of any work is being carried on under contract, and personal injury is sustained by any workman, through any defect or negligence on the part of the person for whom the work is done, the latter shall be liable to pay compensation for the injury, as if the workman had been employed by him, and shall be deemed to be the employer within the meaning of the Act.

Who can Demand Compensation.

The various Acts dealing with the question of employers' liability, were consolidated in 1892. A change was then made in the section limiting the amount of compensation which might be claimed, the amendment fixing the amount at three years' earnings, or $1,500, whichever is the larger sum. In 1893 the definition of the word "workman," was altered, so that the term for the purposes of the Act does not include a domestic, or menial servant, or one employed in farming, gardening or fruit growing. With the exception of these classes it includes any labourer, servant, journeyman, artificer, or handicraftsman, hired or otherwise engaged in manual labour, who works under a contract with an employer, whether the contract be expressed or implied, oral or written.

An amendment to the law passed in 1899 rendered it more easy for injured workmen to prove their claims for compensation, by throwing the onus of proof as to compliance with the requirements of the statutes in regard to keeping machinery, etc., in proper and safe condition, upon the party whose duty it was to do so.

Beneficial Effect of the Law.

The effect of the law has been highly beneficial. Its efficiency cannot be judged mainly by the number of cases in which workmen, or their widows and orphans, have recovered damages from employers, and have been saved from absolute penury by the means thus obtained. The principal object and intention of the statute was to prevent accidents by making it to the pecuniary interest of employers to avoid the loss entailed by casualties which might have been averted, and from this point of view it has been highly successful. Railway accidents, entailing the death or mutilation of employees are, notwithstanding the enormous increase of traffic, far less numerous than formerly, because the companies have a strong pecuniary interest in avoiding them. The same holds true in lesser measure of other hazardous forms of industry, where the accidents have notably diminished, and the lives and limbs of those employed are much safer since the law recognized their claims to protection.

CONFIRMATION AT ALL SAINTS'.

A Very Large Class of Candidates Appeared.

HIS LORDSHIP THE BISHOP

Addressed a Number of Timely Remarks and Gave Words of Kindly Advice.

All Saint's church was taxed to its utmost Sunday evening, to accommodate those who wished to attend the special service in connection with the confirmation of a class numbering almost fifty. A large number had to take places in the chancel, as well as in the vestry, and many had to stand during the entire service. Unfortunately, there were several hundred who could not obtain admittance to the church at all.

Three of the candidates were from St. St. Luke's church.

The sacred rite was performed by His Lordship, the Bishop of Toronto, at the conclusion of an address to the applicants. His Lordship, in his remarks, pointed out many special opportunities which were afforded at this time to those seeking confirmation. A great responsibility, he pointed out, was entailed in having these opportunities placed in their way—opportunities were so apt to be neglected and postponed. All knew how disastrous postponments were in common, every day affairs, and how many lives were wrecked and ruined through indulgence in this failing. How much more disastrous, therefore, would postponment be in affairs spiritual? It behooved those seeking confirmation to be very earnest in their prayers to God from the outset.

Some of the opportunities afforded them had already been enjoyed. The first of these was the opportunity of receiving the direct instruction from the pastor. He was quite sure their pastor had not only instructed them in the great truths of the Christian faith, but had also touched their hearts with these truths. Probably during the rest of their lives they would never again be brought into such direct contact with him, but would only hear him in his public utterances as they sat in their pews. Never again would they be brought into such close and tender relations with him. He trusted that they had made the most of this opportunity and had drunk deeply of the truth to their own profit and good.

They had been given an opportunity of studying for themselves the great principles and doctrines of the Church. Unfortunately, many church members were not members from conviction, but through the accident of birth and baptism. To be consistent, study of the liturgy, etc., for themselves, was necessary.

Then again, there was the question of the historical character of the Church, which should be studied in order that all might be provided with the necessary arguments to meet a charge that the Church was of modern origin, and not directly traceable to the Apostles through the "Divine laying on of hands." This was the opportunity of so fortifying the mind that all would be able to give a reason for the faith that was in them.

One more class of opportunities was presented to the candidates before being confirmed—that of making good resolutions. It was hardly possible at this time not to take a retrospective glance into their minds and an introspective glance into their hearts, and to make a resolution to mend their lives in the sight of God. Many such opportunities were afforded in life, such as at New Year's, and on the occasion of a birthday, yet how many made good resolutions at these times only to break them in the hour of trial and temptation. Resolutions were often times made from wrong motives. Many were driven to them through sheer fear of the awful consequences which were otherwise in store for them. Such a motive could not be acceptable in the sight of God. Then again, good resolutions were often made solely with the hope of earning that reward for which for which we are all striving. But the only motive which can be acceptable to the Almighty is the earnest, single-hearted desire to do those things which are pleasing in His sight.

Again, when the candidate answered "I do" to the questions which would be propounded, an opportunity was given for a public profession of love of the Lord Jesus Christ. It is not enough to make this profession in our hearts, but we are to confess it publicly with our lips, and during life all would be called upon to honour Christ by open confession by acts and words. This was the easiest opportunity which would ever be offered of professing Christ publicly. The next time they would be called upon to make a confession, it would not be in the church or in the presence of those with whom they had studied, but in the world—in the whirl of worldy thoughtlessness, gaiety and vanity—in the presence, probably, of those who would cast scorn and ridicule on His name. On such an occasion, His Lordship plead with the members of the class, not to deny their Lord or by shameful silence desert His cause.

"Do not let yours then be a lip confession," urged he, "but an earnest, sincere, determined profession of Christ, so that when the hour of trial comes, as come it will, you will have the moral courage to speak out for Christ."

"Then the opportunity is given now of more than professing Christ—the opportunity of giving yourselves up to Christ. You have already been vowed to the Son. You came here prepared to renew that engagement. You will never have such an opportunity as this to give yourself to Him."

His Lordship, in touching language, then proceeded to illustrate the folly of postponements—the danger in thinking that it was too soon to give up to Christ—that there was plenty of time to do this when the more serious duties were entered upon in life. This was not true, he claimed, but was one of those lies by which the enemy of the soul was trying to ensnare the unwary. The longer this duty was postponed, the harder it would be found to perform it.

Then there was the special religious opportunity presented by the Communion—of partaking of the body and the blood of Christ. As often as the back was turned on that invitation, it was not only disobedience to the Lord and Master, but it was the neglect of an opportunity to refresh the soul—when the body was broken and the blood outpoured into them. In the conflict of life all the strength and help obtainable was necessary, and this was to be had by coming to the Holy Table.

One more opportunity, and that the greatest, was afforded at confirmation—an opportunity of receiving from God His greatest gift. This was an occasion of the calling down of the Holy Ghost—the one condition of the spiritual life. Spiritual life was an impossibility without the presence of and the indwelling of the Spirit. Therefore the candidates should be very earnest and devout indeed in making the most of this opportunity, praying to God that they would grow in grace so that in the use of these opportunities they might grow in the knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ, until at the last they would come to the stature of the perfect man in the measure of Christ.

The lessons during the service were read by Rev. W. L. Armitage, the Rector. Special music was rendered, the offertory anthem, "Seek Ye the Lord," being especially commented upon. Mr. James Browne took the solo parts, in very clear and melodious voice.

PTE. BEACH'S FAREWELL.

The Employees at Mr. Parker's, Made a Presentation to Him.

Pte. Bert Beach, who left with the second draught of soldiers from Peterborough on the 4th Canadian Contingent, was given a kindly remembrance by his fellow employees of the Parker Dye Works on Saturday last. Mr. Beach has been connected with the Dye Works for the past two years, during which time he has won many friends. At six o'clock on Saturday evening the employees of Mr. Parker assembled, and the following address was read to Mr. Beach,—

Peterborough, April 18th, 1902.

Dear Bert,—On account of our long friendship as a fellow workman, we are all very sorry the time has come to part, and we present you with this small gift as a slight token of our friendship and love towards you.

We trust that many times when lonesome moments come, that a glance at this gift will be a comfort to you, and be the cause of our cause of our remembrance in your long absence. We also wish you a pleasant voyage and a safe return.

Signed on behalf of the employees,
ROBERT PARKER.

Mr. Beach was presented with a beautiful gold ring with his initials engraved thereon, and in addition he was given a well filled purse. He replied in feeling terms, thanking the employees for their kindness, and assuring them that he would long remember his associations with them.

Miss Susie Gross made the presentation.

THE POLICY FOR HAVELOCK.

The visit of Hon. G. W. Ross, Premier of Ontario, to Havelock on Friday, April 25th and the speech he will deliver will be an era in the history of the village and vicinity. Hon. Mr. Ross will come as the framer and exponent of a policy of progress and development that will bring into use the great mineral and other resources of the province to the benefit of the people and the employment of both capital and labour. In this Havelock is particularly interested. We have in our vicinity rich deposits of various minerals and other resources. If these resources are developed as they will be by the Ross Government, Havelock will be the outlet of the great trade that will naturally accompany such operations. There will be an abundant employment for labour. There will be trade for the merchants and every interest of the village will be the gainer by the return of the Government to power, whose chief policy is to bring about a state of things that will turn our timber and mineral resources to commercial use. All interested in a public spirited policy for the Province will be deeply interested and profited by taking advantage of the opportunity of hearing Hon. Mr. Ross.

The prospects of the return of the Liberal party, headed by Mr. Ross, seem to be very bright. Mr. Anderson is pushing his candidature with great encouragement and assurances of support from the electors. He is the candidate of a party which believes in a policy that will among other things develop the mineral resources of Eastern Ontario.

The Standard, despite what the Peterborough Review and some local people think and say, is independent in politics but we are broad-minded enough and patriotic enough to take the stand of basing our politics on the village of Havelock and vicinity and the best interests of the same.

The Standard will always support the party and the candidate of the party which will do the most for our interests. In the present case, that party, in our opinion, happens to be the Liberal party, which has a progressive policy, so progressive in fact, that Mr. Marter of North Toronto, the former leader of the Conservative Opposition, broke with his party and is supporting the progressive policy of the Government, which is capable of doing so much to promote the welfare of Havelock and vicinity. That is why the Standard supports the candidature of Mr. Anderson and the Ross Government in this campaign.—Havelock Standard.

ROSS' THIRTY-NINE ARTICLES.

(From the Toronto Globe)

Mr. Foy and the Mail are protesting strenuously against the striking indictment of forty counts, save one, brought against the Conservative party, by Mr. Ross at Newmarket. Let us continue an examination of the several counts of the indictment:

No. 29—No Asylum at Brockville.

In 1892, though aware that the lunatic asylums of the province were overcrowded, the Conservatives voted against the erection of the new asylum at Brockville.

No. 29—No Satisfactory Succession Duties.

The Journals of 1896 show that the Opposition voted to reduce the scale of duties which the Act of that year imposed.

No. 30—No Superintendent of Neglected Children.

In 1893, when the Government took steps to appoint an officer to look after neglected children, the Opposition contemptuously voted that "no necessity existed for such an official.

No. 31—No Protection for the Forests.

In 1894 and the two succeeding years, the Opposition voted to strike out the salary of the Superintendent of Forestry. And in 1893 they voted to reduce the vote for forest ranging from $26,000 to $20,000.

No. 32—No County Council Reform.

It having become apparent that some of the County Councils had become unwieldly in size, the Government in 1896 introduced a measure to reduce the number of members. The Opposition attempted to give the measure the three months' hoist; then to alter the method of voting; then to continue all the reeves in membership; finally, to make it permissive. In 1901 they made another effort in the line of re-action.

No. 33—No Good Roads Commissioner.

In 1896, on the institution of this office the Opposition voted that it was unnecessary. They repeated that vote in 1897.

No. 34—No Provincial Municipal Auditor.

On the formation of this office in 1897 the Conservatives moved to strike out the salary.

No. 35—No Revenue From Taxation on Corporations.

If the Opposition had been allowed to have their way, the province would not be receiving any revenue from taxation on corporations. When the bill imposing such taxation was introduced in 1899 (see Journals of the House for that year), Mr. Foy moved, seconded by Mr. Miscampbell, "that the bill be not read a second time, but be read a second time on this day six months." On the motion for the third reading, Mr. Whitney moved, seconded by Mr. Matheson, "that the bill be not now read a third time, but be read a third time on this day six months." Since the session closed, Mr. Whitney on four occasions has announced from the platform, at Aurora, at Lindsay, at Stony Creek and at Bowmanville, his intention, if he is successful, "to wipe out the taxes on corporations." It is to be noted that his chief organ, while reporting other parts of these four speeches, carefully suppressed Mr. Whitney's announcement of his intention to abolish these taxes.

No. 36—No Public Works Department.

In 1899 the Opposition moved to strike out the whole of the expenses of the Public Works Department, thereby practically abolishing the department.

No. 37—No Algoma Central Railway.

In 1900 the Conservatives voted against the land grant to the Algoma Central Railway.

No. 38—No Substantial Development of the Pulp Industry.

In 1900 and 1901 the Conservatives opposed the ratification of the pulpwood agreements with the following companies, Keewatin Power Co., Spanish River Co., Nepigon Co., Blanche River Co. It was on the pulpwood agreements and on the Algoma Central Railway subsidies that the magnificent Clergue industries at Sault Ste. Marie have been founded—industries on which $12,000,000 have already been expended, and which bid fair to become the largest of all the industries in the province.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If the prohibitionists of the province earnestly and honestly put their shoulders to the wheel next December, prohibition will be an accomplished fact. Then the much abused referendum can be called the liquor-endum.

The Bobcaygeon Independent referring to the address of Mr. Whitney, Opposition leader, at Lindsay, says that "the speech gave great satisfaction to the Tories and as it outlined no new or distinct policy, it gave almost equal satisfaction to the Grits."

One trouble with economy is that it is usually practiced by men who do not need to exercise it.

830 MEN ACCEPTED

Three Transports Provided for the Fourth Contingent.

CYMRIC REPORT WAS INCORRECT

The Cestrian and the Winnifredian of the Leyland Line and the Corinthian of the Allan Line—Recruiting in Ontario and the East Nearly Completed—The Date of Sailing.

Ottawa, April 21.—The arrangement for transporting the fourth contingent to South Africa has been definitely fixed. The four regiments will be carried in three steamships, the Cestrian, the Winifredian and the Corinthian. It is expected the Cestrian will sail during the first week in May. The Winifredian about the 10th and the Corinthian about the 16th.

The first two named will take 750 men and 750 horses each, and the Corinthian 500 men and 500 horses.

The Cestrian is a steel steamer of 8,823 tons gross and 5,753 tons net, 512 feet in length, 59 feet beam and 35 feet depth. She was built in Belfast in 1896.

The Winifredian is a new steamer, built in Belfast in 1899. The gross tonnage is 10,405, net tonnage 6,816. She is 552 feet long, 59 feet beam and 37 feet depth, both ships belonging to the Leyland Line.

The Corinthian is one of the new steamers of the Allan Line, 6,227 tons gross and 4,018 tons net. She is 480 feet long, 54 feet beam and 28 feet depth, and was built in 1900.

Recruiting in Ontario and the eastern Provinces is proceeding most satisfactorily. Up to Saturday night 830 men had been accepted, leaving only 170 to make up the required 1,000. It is possible that more than 1,000 will be recruited, in order to make up any deficiency in the west.

The new transport arrangements will probably call for the appointment of another medical officer to each regiment. It is understood that no nurses will be sent with the fourth contingent, as none has been asked for by the Imperial authorities, but there will be no trouble about supplying a corps of nurses should they be required.

On Saturday half a dozen applications for position as nurses were received at the Department of Militia, making about 50 received since the organization of the contingent began. Many of the applications are from the United States.

CREMATION AT MONTREAL.

Senator Ogilvie's Remains First to Be Incinerated in New Plant.

Montreal, April 21.—Saturday morning, at an early hour, the ashes of the late Hon. A. W. Ogilvie were taken from the retort of the crematory on Mount Royal and delivered to the representatives of the deceased, to be interred in the family plot, a short distance away.

A few weeks ago, as the trustees of the Mount Royal Cemetery were seated around a table receiving a report to the effect that the crematory furnace was completed, Senator Ogilvie, who was the representative on that body of the Presbyterian Church used the following words: "I wonder who will be the first man to use the plant, now that it is completed." Little did the Senator suppose at that moment that his would be the first body consumed in the new crematory.

The reduction of the remains occupied about two and a half hours, or a little longer. The same afternoon at 3 o'clock, the body of Mrs. Barclay, a Point St. Charles lady, who died during the winter, was consumed.

Colonies Demand Preference.

Sydney, New South Wales, April 21.—John See, Premier and Colonial Secretary of New South Wales, here Saturday night at a banquet at which were present Richard John Seddon, the New Zealand Premier; Edmund Barton, the Prime Minister and Minister for External Affairs in the first Australian Federal Cabinet; William John Lyne, Minister for Home Affairs in the Australian Federal Government, and other prominent colonial residents, said the time was not far distant when Great Britain would realize that her interests would best be served by giving preference to the trade of the British colonies, to which she is allied by ties of blood and kinship.

The First to Pay.

London, April 21.—The first wheat ship to come under the new taxation regulations, the German ship Henriette from San Francisco, arrived in the Tyne Saturday. The American wheat on board the vessel will have to pay a duty of £660.

PINCHED AND PUNY

South American Nervine is the Antidote for the ills which are induced by humanity's "mad rush" for an existence. The "eat and run" way of living is accountable for more of the pinched and puny faces than any other cause under the sun.

Dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, sick-headache are the prime causes for broken-up nerves. Nature foretold the strain that we would be compelled to live under and has revealed to medical science the favorite formula—South American Nervine—and its daily joy is to put back the bloom of perfect health in the faces of millions who do honest toil. 26

60 LIVES WENT OUT.

Steamer City of Pittsburg Burned to the Water's Edge—Many Deaths Resulted From Attempts to Swim Ashore.

Cairo, Ill., April 21.—The side-wheel steamer, City of Pittsburg, from Cincinnati to Memphis, was burned to the water's edge early yesterday morning at Turner's Landing, near Olmstead, Ill., 11 miles from Mound City, Ill., and 24 miles from this city. The early reports stated that 65 lives were lost, and that many were badly burned and otherwise injured, but that the list of casualties is not yet definitely determined. Two boats and all available craft from this city went to the scene for relief.

Most of the passengers were still in bed when the second clerk, Oliver Philipps gave the alarm. A frightful panic ensued. Few could adjust life preservers or do anything for themselves.

The smoke was stifling. Great clouds floated through the blazing steamer, choking the passengers and adding to the terror. Children cried piteously, begging that they be saved. Lifeboats were manned, and every effort was made to save the passengers. Boats were sent from shore to help in the work of rescue, and passengers were landed at the river banks. As fast as the boats could be emptied they returned to the ill-fated steamer. The burning steamer was quickly headed to the bank, but passengers were forced to jump from the stern, and, trying to swim ashore through the swift current, many were drowned. Many also perished in the flames.

Many passengers clung by fingertips to the burning boat with bodies submerged until overcome by fire or water, they sank to death.

There were 70 passengers and 70 all told in the crew. The captain and clerk late last night claimed in all 80 persons have been accounted for, leaving 60 people lost or unaccounted for.

Nearly 150 Killed.

Managua, Nicaragua, April 21.—Some members of the Conservative party caused an explosion in the Military Barracks here on Wednesday night.

Nearly 150 lives were lost in the explosion, and the barracks were destroyed.

There has been considerable bitterness shown by the Conservatives against the Liberal party, which is in power, and of which President Zelaya is the leader.

60 Families Homeless.

Kansas City, Mo., April 21.—A destructive fire visited the southwestern part of this city yesterday, laying waste a section of dwelling houses almost a quarter of a mile long and a block wide, and doing damage to the amount of $75,000. Sixty or more families were rendered homeless.

Every Woman Needs it.

There are times when every woman is tormented by itching skin and would give anything for relief. There is a preparation known as Dr. Chase's Ointment, which is a prompt relief for these sufferings. Woman prize it not only for their own use and also for its wonderful effectiveness in curing Baby, Eczema, Scald Head Chafing, and the various skin diseases of childhood.

Bread Higher in London.

London, April 21.—The bakers raised the price of bread one half-penny on the quartern loaf in many of the poor districts of London and Liverpool yesterday, giving as their pretext the new duty on flour.

The London Chamber of Commerce has called a meeting of all city merchants for Monday next to take action in opposition to the stamp duties in the new budget.

CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY

The Slogan: Remember Ross; Build Up Ontario.

BRISK WORK ON SATURDAY

Hon. John Dryden and Mr. Sam. Clarke Re-nominated in South Ontario and West Northumberland—Opposition Held Three Conventions on Saturday—Where Ministers and Opposition Leader Spoke.

Toronto, April 21.—The Provincial campaign opened briskly enough on Saturday. The date of the election was about what had been generally expected, but the naming of the precise day gave an additional zest to the various conventions and other political gatherings held on Saturday. There were several conventions. Hon. John Dryden and Mr. Sam. Clarke were renominated by the Liberals of the ridings they have respectively represented in the past, namely, South Ontario and West Northumberland. The convention in each case was most enthusiastic, and the outlook is of the best.

The Opposition held conventions in North Wentworth, North Essex and South Brant, their nominess being respectively Mr. A. R. Wardell, father of the gentleman who sudden decease last week had made the convention necessary; Dr. J. O. Reaume and Major Frazer.

Ministers spoke at Brooklin and Peterboro', Mr. Dryden at the former place, the occasion being his own nomination, and Mr. Stratton at Peterboro'. The Opposition leader spoke at Mr. Wardell's nomination in North Wentworth. There are few vacancies in the list of candidates on either side, and these will be filled during the next few days. The candidates so far nominated follow:

DESPERATELY AFFLICTED.

Jos. Coron, of Montreal, Cured of Rheumatism of Ten Years' Standing, not by the use of Drugs, but Through Powley's Liquified Ozone.

It is with pleasure I give you my testimonial as to the curative powers of Powley's Liquified Ozone. For over two years past I have suffered very much with rheumatism; sometimes so bad I could not sleep at nights, and I had to quit work. Two years ago I was laid up nearly two months, and since February last I have been very bad.

JOS. CORON, Montreal.

I saw your Ozone advertised, the no-drug idea appealed to me, so I procured a bottle and began taking it. I had not completed the bottle when I began to get better; my rheumatic pains began to leave me. I have taken only three bottles, and my rheumatism is completely cured. I am in better health now than I have been for the last ten years.

Sometimes for weeks my feet were so swollen and pained so badly I could not walk, and my hands would swell up out of all shape. I could hardly endure the pain and could not use my hands.

I attribute my recovery entirely to the use of Ozone and gladly recommend it to all sufferers from rheumatism. Signed, Jos. Coron, 45 St. Antoine street, Montreal, P.Q.

This testimonial is attested by Mr. A. P. Reid, who writes: I enclose you testimony from Jos. Coron, 45 St. Antoine street. This gentleman has suffered for over ten years with rheumatism. About two years ago he was so bad that he had to quit work for two months, and since last February he has been so bad that sometimes he could not use his hands they were so badly swollen.

Mr. Coron says he cannot say too much in favour of Ozone, and will ever recommend it. (Signed), A. P. Reid, Montreal, P.Q.

Most people fancy that when they have an attack of rheumatism their case is incurable and resign themselves to suffer like martyrs. Your rheumatism is caused by one thing only — uric acid. There's nothing mysterious about the way this acid keeps the nerves raw and destroys the lubricating oil in your joints, so that even the bones become sore and painful. Whenever you feel the pain, remember Powley's Liquified Ozone can relieve you of it in a remarkably short time permanently and in a healthy manner. Ozone cures rheumatism in a healthy manner, because it contains no drugs to create false stimulations — give deceptive signs of recovery. When you feel the sting going, you will know that it is going for good; you're becoming cured. 50 cents and $1 a bottle at all druggists. The Ozone Company, of Toronto, Limited, Toronto. The Liquid Ozone Co., 229 Kinzie street, Chicago.

WARREN F. BURTON KILLED.

A Son of the Late Chief Justice Falls From a C.P.R. Train.

Hamilton, April 21.—Warren F. Burton of the law firm of Bruce, Burton & Bruce, fell from a C.P.R. train near Bronte Saturday evening and was killed. Deceased was a member of the Public Library Board and a son of the late Chief Justice Burton. The remains were horribly mangled, every bone in the body being broken.

Mr. Burton was in the smoking car talking to T. H. McPherson, ex-M. P. He left to go to the next car and that was the last seen of him on the train.

W. R. Harvey, a traveler, was sitting on the platform at Bronte, when he saw something fall from the passing train. He notified the station agent, and the two walked up the track and found the mangled remains of the son of the late Chief Justice Burton. Mr. Burton had fallen nearly 100 feet, going down the ravine over which the Bronte bridge passes.

Deceased was 52 years of age and leaves a widow and three children.

THEY LEFT FOR THE WAR.

15 More Recruits Given a Send-off Last Night.

Sgt. Miller was in Command—Recruiting Will Continue To-day—Those Who Went.

Although it was not announced that a demonstration would be accorded to the second detachment of soldiers for Halifax to join the 4th Canadian Contingent, the boys were tendered a send-off last night of which they might well feel proud. The men who left last night were not very well known to the people of Peterborough, but that made little difference. The citizens of the Town could not see them depart without fitting recognition of the sacrifices they were making for their country. It was about midnight when the band of the 57th Regiment marched up George street pealing forth the air of the British Grenadiers. At the drill shed there were several hundred citizens, and the parade down George street was watched by many people. Sgt. Miller, in his uniform of khaki, was in charge of the men, all of whom were cheered loudly by their friends. At the station, the station was crowded and the boys were carried around on the shoulders of their friends and bad good-bye by men and women. The bugle band, which was on hand as usual, kept matters lively until the train pulled out, and the boys were carried eastward amid the cheers of many friends.

Recruiting is in progress again today, and will continue until orders are received from headquarters to the contrary.

The men who left last night were,

MR. STRATTON REPLIES TO MR. WHITNEY'S SPEECHES.

Some of the Leader's Recent Utterances Dealt With.

A ROUSING MEETING

At Mr. Stratton's Committee Rooms on Saturday Evening.

CAMPAIGN WORKERS IN CONFERENCE.

A Large and Enthusiastic Gathering—Mr. Whitney's Inconsistency Exposed--Other Addresses Delivered.

Another rousing meeting of the working supporters of Hon. Mr. Stratton, assembled, or, rather crowded, into the large committee rooms, Water street, on Saturday evening, and the spirit of confidence and enthusiasm shown, presages the certainty of the return of a supporter and member of the Ross Government by a majority in excess of the large one rolled up at the elections of 1898.

After an informal conference over the work of the past week, and the discussion of most encouraging reports, a time was given to addresses.

Mr. Stratton, who was enthusiastically received in an address of some length, devoted some attention to the position of the leader of the Opposition and his followers in the several addresses recently delivered on public questions.

He began by referring to the peculiar charges brought up in the local arena, and went on to say that Mr. Whitney, in company with his rival for the Opposition leadership, Mr. Carscallen, of Hamilton, addressed a meeting at Stoney Creek on the 16th. In the course of his address the present leader repeated, as he has done in every constituency he has visited lately, his appeal to the clergy, to the religious press, to the moral and right thinking element of the community, to put him and his party in power in order to suppress corruption. In view of the admitted facts of the political history of the country, in view of the record of the party he has represented as leader, there was something positively ludicrous about this appeal. Mr. Whitney was evidently destitute of the sense of humour, or otherwise he supposed that those whom he addressed had very short memories. Did he suppose that the class to which he specially appealed took so little interest in public affairs that they had never heard of the Canadian Pacific scandal? Did he imagine that they were ignorant as to the carnival of corruption which prevailed at Ottawa towards the end of Conservative rule —that they knew nothing of the McGreevy-Langevin scandal, of the Section B fraud, of the Curran Bridge rascality, of many other open flagrant acts of public piracy, whereby millions of dollars in the aggregate were diverted into the pockets of contractors in return for lavish contributions to the corruption funds of the party? Or to speak of Provincial matters, did Mr. Whitney think that they had never heard of the bribery conspiracy by which it was hoped to by trying to induce with offers of large sums, enough Liberal members to betray their constituents, and sell their votes, so as to put Mr. Whitney's friends in power? Did not the intelligent, public-spirited class to whom he appealed on high, moral grounds, know that in one election in South Ontario, the Conservatives expended $7,000 in shameless and wholesale bribery, to elect Mr. Calder, and that Mr. Whitney was in close and intimate political fellowship with William Smith, the self-confessed distributor of $1,200 of corruption funds, and the convicted agent in this colossal scheme of corruption? In the light of these proven and admitted facts, what could be more hypocritical or more futile than Mr. Whitney's attempt to pose as the apostle of political purity? Did he think the class to which he appealed could forget that there was no mention on public record, where Mr. Whitney ever condemned a single one of the long black list of acts of political corruption committed by the party of which he is a provincial leader?

Mr. Carscallen, during his speech on the same occasion, dealt with the mining policy of the Government, contending that the manufacturing of the ore into the finished product should be done in Canada, an end towards which the Government was steadily working, so far as circumstances would permit. Mr. Whitney had nothing to say on the subject. This was not surprising, in view of the radical and entire difference of opinion between himself and his rival on the matter. When, in 1900, the Government introduced a bill by which the exportation of unrefined nickel could be prohibited by Order-in-Council, what was the attitude of the Opposition leader on the question. The Mail and Empire of the 13th April, said, in a condensed report of the debate: "Messrs. Whitney and Matheson made a radical declaration of dissent on the Government's nickel policy. They declared it ruinous to the miners to shut them off from a market by the embargo on the export of nickel ore." Mr. Carscallen, on April 2nd, 1901, moved that the law taxing nickel and copper ore, should be brought into force at once. The Mail and Empire report says that Mr. Whitney "strongly opposed the imposition of the tax." On this most important question of policy, then, one of Mr. Whitney's most influential and prominent supporters —one to whom the party would naturally look to occupy a seat in the Cabinet, should they by any possibility be in a position to form one—is ENTIRELY AT VARIANCE WITH HIS LEADER, and outspoken in advocating a measure to which the leader has declared his opposition. How could the electors be expected to place any confidence in a party whose leaders cannot agree on a single item of policy, or even preserve the appearance of harmony among themselves? What was the nickel policy of the Conservatives? Which represented the views of the party, Mr. Whitney, who opposed the embargo on unrefined ore, or Mr. Carscallen who, standing on the same platform as his chief, flouted his opinions to his face, and practically repudiated his leadership?

MR. WHITNEY'S MORAL REFORM RECORD.

Mr. Whitney, after much hesitation, preserving a non-committal attitude as long as possible, had during the session screwed his courage to the sticking point and laid down what he termed a policy on the liquor question. He had said that he was prepared to decrease the number of licenses, to maintain intact the restrictions, to remove the commissioners inspectors from political and party influence, and to enforce the law honestly. Practically this in its essentials was the policy which had been steadily pursued by the Government. There was nothing new, nothing definite, nothing to give encouragement to prohibitionists in this utterance, more especially when considered in connection with Mr. Whitney's record on the question. As a matter of fact the Opposition leader had no definite policy in regard to temperance legislation. The temperance electors might well consider closely some of Mr. Whitney's votes on the question which were a better indication of what might be expected at his hands than a string of platitudes that meant anything or nothing. What has been Mr. Whitney's attitude to restrictive legislation, which he now favours when he thinks he can make political capital?

On April 2nd, 1890, when a bill introduced by Hon. J. M. Gibson to improve the Liquor License law was under consideration, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment "that the License Commissioners shall hereafter be appointed in counties by the County Councils and in cities and towns separated from counties shall be elected by the municipal electors of such city or town." Mr. Whitney voted for this proposition. No more demoralizing feature could be introduced into municipal affairs than the choice of License Commissioners by popular election. A License Commissioner practically exercised similar functions to a judge. In place of removing the Commissioners from party influences the effect would be to enlist the very worst and and illicit influence in the annual contests for the position and to make the Commissioners dependent upon a vote largely controlled by those over whom it was their duty to exercise supervision. Could any friend of temperance imagine that such a system would tend to the maintenance intact of the restrictions? On March 12th, 1896, Mr. Whitney shifted his position. Mr. Marter moved in amendment to a motion to go into Committee of Supply a resolution providing that in cities and towns the Boards of Commissioners should consist of the County Judge, the Mayor and one appointed by the Government. Mr. Whitney when the vote was taken was paired in favour of this resolution. How did he stand to-day on the matter? Was he in favour of elected Commissioners, or nominated Commissioners? On this most important feature his platform was silent and his record contradictory.

The License Amendment Act of 1897 as introduced by Mr. Harcourt, proposed to give municipalities the power to limit the number of licenses and to regulate the hours of sale. Mr. Whitney, with the great majority of his following, voted down this proposition. He rejoiced and gloated over the defeat of a proposal which had the support of the temperance people, of the clergy and the very classes to whom he is now frantically and passionately appealing for aid—rejoiced over the proposal permitting the limitation of licenses which he hypocritically pretended to favour. He was willing to allow the issuing of licenses to be made the subject of an annual scramble at the municipal elections, but he was not willing to allow the municipalities where public sentiment might favour such a course the right to limit the number of licenses to be issued.

SELF-CONTRADICTORY POLICIES.

Mr. Stratton went on to point out that not only did Mr. Whitney not agree with his first lieutenants on the matter of policy, as in the matter of Mr. Carscallen and the mining policy as previously referred to, but Mr. Whitney could not even agree with himself—he took, as he did in most things, the position that would give, as he thought, the greatest amount of present party capital. He was the arch exponent of expediency. Mr. Whitney also spoke at Brampton on the 18th. He said that "he supposed that some of his hearers had heard the old fable that the Conservatives had no policy," adding that this was usually said by persons who did not know what the word policy meant. By consulting a dictionary it would be seen that as a matter of fact the word had several meanings—"finesse," "artifice," "cunning," were some of its synonyms as given by the Standard dictionary. In this sense no one could deny that the Conservatives had policy. (Applause.) They depended mainly in fact upon artifice and cunning. As a sample of their lack of a policy in the generally accepted meaning of the term—of the want of straightforward consistent adherence to a settled course of action take Mr. Whitney's proposition as regards the development of power at Niagara Falls. He said at Brampton "the Opposition proposed in the Legislature that all the water power at Niagara Falls and other places should be controlled by the Government and developed by the Government, and supplied to municipalities and individuals at a slight advance on the cost of doing so." That was what he wished his Brampton auditors to believe was the policy which his party had advocated. But when speaking at Niagara Falls on the 10th of December, 1900, during the Welland bye-election, when he wanted to throw out a bribe to purchase votes, he said nothing about the supply of power at a slight advance on cost, nothing about any price or charge to the consumer. It was to be as "free as air." Here were his words as reported by the Mail and Empire:

"He agreed with Mr. Ross that the town should have the power, but Mr. Ross had been careful not to say that the power should be free. Mr. Whitney declared his opinion that it should be free and anything that was ever in his power to make it free should be done."

A BYE-ELECTION EXPEDIENT.

That was in a constituency which would be immediately and extensively benefitted by the proposal. But in other constituencies where the people are interested only as citizens of Ontario Mr. Whitney proposes to make the consumers contribute to the public treasury. If such utterences could be taken as indicating a policy of any kind it was surely one in the worst sense of the word—artifice and cunning. (Applause.) But cunning of that kind generally over-reached itself. This was a reading age and the people of one constituency knew what was being said and done elsewhere and the tricks that might have served fifty years ago would not answer to-day.

Mr. Whitney charged the Government with negligence for not having discovered and developed New Ontario before. The charge had been amply refuted by the mere recital of facts time and again, but even though they had been amenable to it, with what crime should that party be charged who for years did their best or worst to prevent the very existence of any New Ontario? There would have been no question about the rate of development of New Ontario if the Conservatives had had their way for we should have had nothing to develop.

Then Mr. Whitney asked what excuse could be given for not selling the pulp concessions instead of giving them away. The Ontario Government was not making excuses for any feature of their policy. As they had given nothing away they had no need to excuse themselves. The more Mr. Whitney discussed the pulpwood concessions the better they would be pleased as there was no plank in their whole platform that was stronger, more popular and better able to stand the fullest criticism than the policy of developing the new districts by securing the expenditure of large amounts of capital and steady employment for thousands of settlers, and thereby creating demands upon the commercial and manufacturing produce of older Ontario. (Applause.)

Mr. Stratton also dealt briefly with Mr. Whitney's speech at Port Hope, when in his attempt to criticise the Government he RAN AFOUL OF FACTS.

He declared that the report of the Financial Commission "showed accounts amounting to a little less than two million dollars at the credit of the province, which the Commissioners refused to call a surplus." There was a public document (doubtless in Mr. Whitney's hands), which flatly contradicted this statement. In their report, the Commissioners in deducting the provincial liabilities from the assets, made this statement over their signatures: "Difference between assets and liabilities, or surplus, 31st December, 1899, $2,268,494.44." (Applause.) In the very outset of his key-note speech, Mr. Whitney gave the key-note to his misleading criticism, which ignored, to use no stronger term, the record of a public document. Mr. Stratton exposed the puerile nature of the Opposition leader's criticism of Hon. Mr. Ross' proposals respecting remount stations, Canadian nickel for the British navy, cold storage, etc. These were merely advisory efforts to induce the Mother Country to to make use of our resources, and thus benefit the country. If Mr. Whitney had loyally joined the Premier in urging these things upon the Home Government, the results might have been less "unfavourable," at any rate the Opposition leader would have shown that he was patriotic enough to do something to help the province, which would have been a much more creditable position than sneering at the efforts, and gloating over what he calls the failure, of a Premier to benefit Ontario. But the good of the country had when he thinks he can score a party point or embarrass an opponent. As to Cold Storage, Mr. Stratton pointed out that the Government had done its part. If the people had not yet taken large advantage of the help afforded, they would soon do so when they saw the benefits derived from the Dominion cold storage system, which had done much to help the trade in food products, and had increased in three years the export of butter from Montreal by one hundred per cent. If the Opposition had tried as hard to encourage the acceptance of the help the Government offered they would have shown themselves anxious to help instead of hinder means devised to promote the interests of the farmers.

Mr. Whitney, speaking at Port Hope, conspiciously showed his failure to measure up to the standard of statesmanship when his attitude to our new country was considered. In his sneering, carping way, he said that "there had been much beating of drums over New Ontario," and Mr. Whitney would find, Mr. Stratton said, that there would be much beating of his candidates over New Ontario, as well as Old Ontario; for the people would not sympathise with an attitude of antagonism and obstruction to the measures of development to which the Ross Government was committed, and which were being attended with great results in the way of commercial and industrial advantages to both Old and New Ontario. It was claimed by the Opposition that twenty-five years ago Mr. Ross had not a very high opinion of New Ontario. Mr. Ross did not know so much about it then, but he never went so far as to sneer at it as "the land of the stunted poplar." When he came into power he explored the new territory, and found it marvellously rich in soil, timber and mineral resources, and had put in motion a vigorous policy of development. In respect of New Ontario Premier Ross had faith in its vast possibilities, and would do all in his power to have its resources developed for the sake of the millions of revenue it would yield, and the millions of dollars of trade with Old Ontario to be opened up. On the contrary, Mr. Whitney had no faith in the country, and could not be expected to do more than be consistent with the record of the Opposition, who had sympathised with the Dominion Government's attempt to rob us of this territory. (Applause).

Mr. Whitney at Port Hope had attacked the Government on the Liquor License Act, and said that it was not Prohibition — about the only fairly true thing he said in his address. It was not Prohibition, Mr. Stratton said, for it did not prevent the importation of liquor, but it was all the Province had power to pass; it was on the lines of the Manitoba Act, which temperance people demanded should be adopted for Ontario. As to the referendum, that was approved by Provincial temperance men, clergymen, and others high up in moral influence and their approval could well be set off against the opinion of Mr. Whitney, who cared not a farthing about prohibition or temperance and was only anxious, it seemed, for political gain at the expense of the Government.

The Opposition leader, of course, indulged in his hypocritical talk about corruption, and posed as the pure leader of a pure party. Did he for a moment think that the people would give the leader of a party which has reduced electoral corruption to a fine art, a mandate to purify electoral methods? Would the people act on the principle "set a theif to catch a thief?" It would be quite unreasonable. The party that invented ballot switching, the bit of lead pencil under the finger nail, etc., possessed the valuable qualification of experimental and expert knowledge. It was wonderful how pure, high-souled and stainless Mr. Whitney and his followers were when they wanted office—when they thought such things would pay.

Mr. Whitney and his friends posed as political purists now; if they got into power—in a position to say "we have the printing of the ballots" would the zeal for purity remain?

IN THE INTERESTS OF LABOUR

Mr. Stratton then pointed out that he was printing in the Examiner a series of articles showing what great things the Liberal Government had done in placing legislation on the

MEYER AND REITZ AT BALMORAL

Gen. Dewet to Heilbron—Gen. Botha to Vryheid—Gen. Delarey and ex-President Steyn to Klerksdorp—Meyer and Reitz Visit Cape Colony—Likely That the Transvaalers Will Accept Terms.

Balmoral, Cape Colony, Saturday, April 19.—Gen. Lucas Meyer, commander-in-chief of the Orange Free State forces, State Secretary Reitz of the Transvaal and the other members of their party arrived here last night and this morning proceeded to the north. They were accompanied by a British escort. It is their intention to consult with the Boers in the field.

Boer Delegates Leave Pretoria.

Pretoria, April 19.—The Boer delegates left here at 9 o'clock last night for various destinations to confer with the burghers in the field.

Transvaalers Will Accept.

Pretoria, April 20.—Gen. Dewet has gone to Heilbron, Orange River Colony. Gen. Botha, the Transvaal commander-in-chief, has gone to Vryheid, Transvaal, and Gen. Delarey, together with Mr. Steyn, ex-President of the Orange Free State, has gone to Klerksdorp, Transvaal. They have arranged to meet the burghers at different rendezvous, and submit the British terms.

It is believed the Transvaalers will everywhere accept the terms, as they are in no way anxious for a winter campaign. The only difficulty likely to occur will, it is thought, be with Orange Free Staters.

In the meantime there will be no cessation of hostilities. The delegates are expected back in Pretoria the middle of May.

Hope For Peace.

London, April 21.—Wiring from Pretoria, the correspondent of The Standard says there is good reason to believe that a tentative agreement, which will prove mutually cordial, and lead to an early cessation of hostilities, has been made.

The correspondent of The Daily Mail at Utrecht says it is recognized there that the Boer delegates at Pretoria have full power to negotiate, without reference to the Boer leaders in Europe, who have no real influence on the peace negotiations.

C. M. R. Casualties.

Ottawa, April 21.—Two more casualties in the Second Canadian Mounted Rifles have been reported. A cablegram to His Excellency the Governor-General from Cape Town, dated April 19, says that Farrier, William Hunter, is seriously ill at Elandsfontein of a gunshot wound, and Corp. William Blanchard is seriously ill at Elandsfontein of enteric fever. Hunter, who was wounded at Kleinhardt in the engagement of March 31, belongs to Winnipeg. Blanchard enlisted in Peterboro, Ontario.

EARNEST ADVICE.

A Quebec Gentleman Offers a Plain, Straightforward and Truthful Statement of His Case and its Cure for the Benefit of Other Sufferers.

There can be no more worthy motive than desire to help another.

There are but few who after having suffered and found a cure hesitate to give their fellow sufferers the benefit of their experience.

As there are many to-day whose lives are being rendered miserable by the tortures of Dyspepsia and other Stomach Troubles, the story of Ademard Coderre, of St. Jacques de L'achigan, Que., which he declares is told for the sole purpose of helping other similar sufferers, will be read with interest.

Mons. Coderre says:

"I certify to having suffered the greatest misery for two years with Dyspepsia, caused by inflammation of the stomach.

"I have taken many medicines and treatments but failed to find anything that would give me any relief.

"I was very low spirited and discouraged, and many times felt like giving up.

"At last one day I chanced to read an account of the cure of Dyspepsia performed by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and after thinking the matter over I decided to commence a treatment.

"I bought two boxes and began to use them at once. I noticed an improvement almost from the very first, and was thus encouraged to continue till now I can confidently assert that I am completely and satisfactorily cured.

"I have not the slightest symptom of Dyspepsia or any form of Stomach Trouble left.

"I can eat and drink as heartily as ever and experience not the slightest distress afterwards.

"I desire to make my case known to the public so that all who may be suffering from that awful malady may know that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured me of this very serious case, and that they may be led to use this remedy which I believe to be the only one that will perfectly cure Dyspepsia."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets promptly and effectually cure even the most serious and aggravated cases.

St. John, April 19.—The Canadian Government fisheries protection cruiser Curlew will sail this morning, going into commission after the winter. She will sail direct to the scene of the dynamite fishing operations off Grand Manan. It is said that fishermen, both Canadian and American, are engaged in killing pollock by use of dynamite there. Captain Pratt has strict orders to enforce the law.

For Sore Throat.

Try Scott's Emulsion for a sore throat. Don't wait till sore throat goes on into sore lungs. Scott's Emulsion heals both sore lungs and sore throats. A great safe-guard against winter weather.

Don't Neglect A Backache!

Backache is the first symptom of kidney trouble. Don't neglect it! If you do serious kidney troubles are sure to follow.

No remedy of modern times can give such proof of merit as

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS.

A Landslide Stops Traffic.

Montreal, April 21.—Three destructive landslides occurred Saturday on the Montfort Railway Line, and, until repairs have been made, the Montfort and Gatineau Railway Company will be unable to operate their cars beyond Morin Flats, which is a station near St. Jerome. The accident is attributed to the high water, all the trestleworks of the line between Morin Flats and Arundel Station have been washed away, involving a loss to the company, which will exceed $15,000. Information received last evening from Arundel Station says that the repairs will take fully four weeks.

A Cough Leads to a Coffin.

There's a striking similarity in these two words. Both are to be dreaded. Coffins cost many dollars whereas 25c buys a bottle of Four T's and cures the cough in 24 hours, making the coffin unnecessary. Four T's is acknowledged by all to be the best lung remedy in existence. Large 25c bottles at Ormond and Walsh's drug store.

Meat Trade Disordered.

London, April 21.—The meat and provision trades have been greatly disordered by the trust operations in America, of which the daily press has been publishing sensational accounts. The dependence of England upon American and Canadian food supplies renders these operations of vital importance here, and the butchers and retail dealers are quick to take advantage of any pretext for putting up prices.

A Sluggish Inactive Liver

Brings Biliousness, Indigestion and Most Painful Bodily Derangements—The Wonderful Curative Influence of

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Not only is the liver the largest and one of the most important organs in the human body, but when deranged it becomes the source of endless suffering. When the liver is clogged by the inactivity of the kidneys and bowels it, becomes torpid and fails to filter the bile from the blood, thus producing biliousness and a general impairment of the digestive system.

The tongue is coated, the head aches, digestion is imperfect; there is aching of the limbs, and back, feelings of fullness, weight and soreness over the stomach and liver; the eye becomes yellow and jaundiced, and the complexion muddy; the urine is scanty and highly coloured, and the bowels irregular, constipation and looseness alternating. There is little use of treating the liver separately, as it can never be set right until the kidneys and bowels are made active in removing the waste matter from the body. It is for this very reason that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have always proved so wonderfully successful in curing the most chronic cases of liver complaint, biliousness and complicated ailments of the kidney, liver and bowels.

Mr. James Clark, Consecon, Prince Edward Co., Ont., states:—"Eleven years ago I was taken with pains in my back, settling in my hips and extending up my spine. The pain was very severe and at times almost unendurable, and many days I was not able to do an hour's work. My weight was reduced from 190 to 160 pounds, and though I had consulted many first-class physicians and tried several advertised medicines, I could get no relief.

"At this time my father-in-law told me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and said he knew they would cure me. I secured a Box, and great was my surprise when I began to feel better after using only the one box. I continued their use until I had taken four boxes, which made me a sound man, and I also regained my usual weight, 190 pounds. I cannot say too much in favour of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which have done so much for me. I have recommended them to a number of my friends and have never met with one case where they did not meet with good success. My daughter, Mrs. Chas. Philips, has also been cured of a severe stomach trouble by the use of these pills."

BURIED BY BROWN.

ECCENTRICITIES OF NEW YORK'S MOST NOTED SEXTON.

For Many Years He Ministered to the Aristocracy of the City at Grace Church, and His Name Adorns a Tablet on Its Walls.

It used to be said that a stranger who was visiting New York for the first time and asked his hotel clerk for advice as to what he should do on Sunday morning would find his doubts quickly reduced to the alternative, "Go over to Brooklyn and hear Beecher" or "Go to Grace church and see Brown." No prelate of the Episcopal church was so widely known either in or beyond his New York diocese as this valiant guardian of old Grace, whose income, it was estimated, was greater than that of any man in the cloth and whose power in society was even more feared than that of any bishop.

He received his appointment as sexton from the Rev. Dr. Thomas House Taylor, and, while Dr. Taylor has been long forgotten, Sexton Brown is still almost as much remembered in the great city as Jim Fisk, A. T. Stewart or Charles Delmonico.

Brown would cultivate the acquaintance of head waiters and cooks, securing the latest information as to the social plans of their masters and mistresses, and whenever he learned that a party or a ball was under consideration he would offer his services to deliver the invitations or look after the comfort of the guests or superintend their arrival and departure in their carriages. Beginning in this humble way, it was not long before he gained the good will of distinguished patrons.

His authoritative manner, too, was admirable for such occasions. Indeed the host himself could hardly issue a command to his menials with the suavely peremptory emphasis which Brown employed. Such was his deportment and such his trustworthy zeal that it was said that no one in Grace church could be properly feasted or buried or could even say his prayers without the assistance of Brown, and eventually it became something like a dictum in a large portion of society that nobody could be married in New York in truly first class style unless Brown's presence blessed the bridal party.

Nor did any detail that might be wanting for the personal comfort of the congregation escape his vigilant eye. It was a habit of old Peter Stuyvesant, for example, to keep in his pew a thermometer. As soon as he had taken his seat he would consult it. One winter morning when the temperature was extremely low the furnaces of the church got out of order, and Brown's assistants were able to force through them only enough heat to lessen the chill a little. It occurred to Brown that the condition of the atmosphere would not be conducive to either the piety or the comfort of the aged Stuyvesant. When the old gentleman arrived within the porch of the church, he was shivering with the cold, but without attracting his attention Brown, who knew that the first thing he would do would be to step into his pew and examine the thermometer, slipped in ahead, pressed one of his fat fingers to the little glass bulb and chuckled as he saw the mercury ascend to 72. When Stuyvesant reached the pew, he consulted the thermometer as usual, looked around wonderingly, but evidently concluded that the church must be warm enough and that therefore it must be himself who was cold.

Brown's funeral was marked by much of the pomp and circumstance which he himself had so often provided for the rich and the great. The wits said that it was the first in forty years that had been a perfectly correct performance without his individual guidance. He had died in the little town of Brandford one August night in 1890. There he had been in the habit of taking his summer rest. He had been overcome by the heat while attending a wedding at Brandford, and that summer he complained, probably for the first time in his life, of ill health. One of his orders was that his body should be placed in a casket of polished Spanish cedar.

A more ponderous casket had never been carried up the aisle of Grace church. It was rich with silver and velvet. It was so heavy—its interior being large enough for two ordinary corpses—that the eight Knights Templars who bore it into the church almost staggered with their burden. Upon it lay their cocked hats with waving ostrich plumes. Within the chancel stood four of the clergy, in the pews were the representatives of some of the proudest families of the city, and a long line of men and women filed into the church showing all the signs of sorrow for an old friend and neighbor.

On the left hand side of Grace church as one turns after entering the porch under the bell tower and near where Brown was wont for more than a generation to take his station every Sunday is a shining brass tablet. It was there placed by members of the congregation in token of him who is described upon it as "The Faithful Sexton" and whom they "gladly recall for his fidelity, his generosity and his stainless integrity." It is next to the bas-relief which commemorates the virtues of the illustrious Cadwallader D. Colden, once mayor of New York—what greater posthumous glory would Brown have craved?—and is not less conspicuous than the old tablet on the opposite side which was erected to the memory of Henry Brevoort, whose family was derived in "unbroken descent from the colonists of New Netherlands."—Ladies' Home Journal.

A WOMAN'S THROAT

Is her fortune if she chances to be a Patti or Albani, and that fortune is guarded day and night with the greatest care. Nothing frightens a singer so much as a cough.

Every woman ought to be afraid of a cough. It is nature's danger signal. Who does not know of some sweet woman-voice silenced forever by disease which began with a slight cough.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will ensure a permanent cure of the most obstinate and lingering coughs. Even when the lungs are involved and there are hemorrhages and emaciation, "Golden Medical Discovery" is generally effective in restoring the diseased organs to sound health and strength. There is no alcohol in the "Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

"I am feeling quite well," writes Miss Dorcas A. Lewis, of No. 1129 24th Street, Washington, D. C., "and I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I had been quite a sufferer for a long time, and after reading Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser thought I would try his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I had not been sleeping well for a long time. Took one teaspoonful of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and slept nearly all night without coughing, so I continued taking it. I had been a great sufferer for more than ten years. I tried lots of different medicines and different doctors, but did not feel much better. I coughed until I commenced spitting blood, but now I feel much stronger and am entirely well."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE LOST CHILD.

A Dramatic Incident at an Ocean Grove Experience Meeting.

It had been an experience meeting. Ten thousand people were assembled in the great auditorium by the sea. There had been the handshake, the waving of handkerchiefs, the hymn, the prayer, the word which told the spiritual history of many a soul.

The bishop stood upon the platform in the act of pronouncing the benediction. Emotion was at its height. It seemed as if a spiritual wave had swept over the multitude, wrapping it in a divine caress.

At that moment a little child was passed up to the platform, and the bishop took it in his arms. "Lost child," were the whispered words. The baby put its dimpled arms about the bishop's neck and laid its head upon his shoulder, its yellow curls mingling with his gray hair.

"Lost child," said the bishop in his deep, sympathetic voice. "Does any one in the audience know this baby or to whom it belongs? Will the father or mother come and claim it?"

There was silence, and the baby nestled closer, and the women who sat near said, "Oh!"

Then a man was seen making his way to the altar. It was the baby's father. Instantly the child stretched out its arms to go to him. Then as he gave it up the bishop said:

"There are 10,000 lost souls in Ocean Grove. The Father's arms are waiting to receive them. So go to your Father's outstretched arms as has this little child."

Old Time Foods.

An old writer comments in the following quaint manner on the superiority of English food over that of the poor people in France: "They ate no bread that beans in were, but of cocket or clermatyn or else of clean wheat—ne no piece of bacon, but if it be fresh flesh; other, fish fried, other, bake."

But, for all that, the impossibility of obtaining fresh fish daily forced the ordinary layman to fall back upon the salted article, and the consumption of badly salted fish has since been pointed out as one of the chief causes of the mediæval scourge of leprosy.—London Chronicle.

Young Doctor's Need of Haste.

"Yes," said the old doctor; "you should try to have your own carriage, by all means, because when you want to get to a patient quickly"—

"Oh," interrupted the young M. D., "I don't think any patient who sent for me would be likely to die before I reached him."

"No, but he might recover before you got there."

Careless Parents.

"Why don't you make a name for yourself?" asked the serious person.

"I only wish I had had the chance," said the pale young man, "but my parents thought they knew it all, and they made up one of their own, and that's why I am compelled to struggle against fate under the handicap of Reginald Claude de Vere Smithers."

His Way.

Sabbath School Teacher—When very angry, what should you do?

Johnny Thickneck—Knock the other feller down, sit on his head and then count 200. That's the only safe way ma'am.

Severely Ill.

"It's sick you've been, Mrs. McGinni say?"

"Sick, is it? I was that sick that I'd be a dead woman now if I hadn't 'a lived."

AN UNFAMILIAR TEXT.

But It Was a Forcible Illustration of a Great Truth.

Several years ago there labored in one of the western villages of Minnesota a preacher who was always in the habit of selecting his texts from the Old Testament and particularly some portion of the history of Noah. No matter what the occasion was, he would always find some parallel incident from the history of this great character that would readily serve as a text or illustration.

At one time he was called upon to unite the daughter of the village mayor and a prominent attorney in the holy bonds of matrimony. Two little boys, knowing his determination to give them a portion of the sacred history touching Noah's marriage, hit upon the novel idea of pasting together two leaves in the family Bible so as to connect, without any apparent break, the marriage of Noah and the description of the ark of the covenant.

When the noted guests were all assembled and the contracting parties with attendants in their respective stations, the preacher began the ceremonies by reading the following text: "And when Noah was one hundred and forty years old he took unto himself a wife," then, turning the page, he continued, "300 cubits in length, 50 cubits in width and 30 cubits in depth and within and without besmeared with pitch." The story seemed a little strong, but he could not doubt the Bible, and, after reading it once more and reflecting a moment, he turned to the startled assemblage with these remarks, "My beloved brethren, this is the first time in the history of my life that my attention has been called to this important passage of the Scriptures, but it seems to me that it is one of the most forcible illustrations of that grand eternal truth that the nature of woman is exceedingly difficult to comprehend.

Advice to Mothers.

If your little boy or girl comes home with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Polson's Nerviline. Don't be afraid to use Nerviline freely—a whole bottle full wouldn't burn or blister the tenderest skin. Rub in until all taken up by the pores, and just before the child goes to sleep give him a glass of hot water into which 30 drops of Nerviline has previously been stirred. This is a sure, pleasant and speedy cure. Large bottles 25 cents.

Value of Time.

The value of odd minutes is illustrated by a story told in a curious little volume of advice printed in England. A large firm required a manager for one of its departments and appointed 12 o'clock for arrangement of terms with the selected applicant. He arrived at five minutes past 12, to find a dozen directors waiting, the chairman watch in hand. The chairman announced that they could not engage a subordinate who had wasted an hour of his employers' time, and on the applicant deprecating such exaggeration the chairman explained that each director had wasted five minutes and that made an hour in all.

statute books in the interests of labour, and referred a little in detail to some features of this legislation which had done so much to promote the interests and protect the rights of the working men; and the working men should, for their own sakes, stand by the representative and the Government which had done so much and would continue to do so much for the men who toil. Reference was made to the several industries carried on in the Central Prison, where 400 persons who would not otherwise work were made to earn their living. The articles made there did not compete with Canadian industries, for what articles were not shipped out of the country, were such as were not manufactured in the province. In the matter of brooms when the present contract was out these would all be labelled "Prison Made," and when shipped out of the country would be recognized as such.

It was further pointed out that the Opposition did not attack the Government on its financial, legislative or administrative record, nor accuse the Government of any neglect. The Opposition raised petty side issues, which had small reference to the work which a Government would be expected to do. The Opposition in this riding were pursuing a small policy of campaign work. They were canvassing one man one way and another man, known to hold different views, another. For his part Mr. Stratton said he had only one story to tell to all men, no matter how they differed in creed or politics—he would hear both sides and do what was right, and would not omit any opportunity to of Peterborough. While dispensing Government favours he would not forget that he was the representative of West Peterborough. (Applause.)

Mr. Stratton also referred to the fact that he was attacked in respect of the Stony Creek dams, an effort purely to injure him without any consideration of the public interests.

Eight years ago similar dams had been built at Scott's Mills, for the benefit of lumberman. Why had no fault been found then? It was the policy of the Government to deal fairly with lumbermen, whose dues, etc., contributed so largely to the provincial revenue. In selling timber limits Ontario gets good prices because lumbermen know that the Government would deal fairly with them and provide facilities for getting the lumber on their limits to market. This had been the policy of the Government and scores of dams and similar works had been built in this district for this purpose, and no fault had before been found. The local Opposition politicians and organ did not attack the building of two dams now going on, dams by which the Gilmour Company would benefit, a concern which was not politically friendly to the Government, but still entitled to have conveniences provided similar to those which had been provided for other lumbering concerns.

Mr. Stratton concluded by saying that he wished the campaign in his interests should be conducted in a friendly way and on public issues, not personalities. He had no fault to find with his opponent. He had a right to come out, and his party had a right to nominate him. We had a right to oppose him, and a right to defeat him. So we all on both sides stood within our rights. (Applause.) He preferred to present arguments and not abuse to the electors of West Peterborough. We would not imitate Dr. Pine, an Opposition candidate in Toronto, who, referring to the desire of the Government to be returned to office, said, "Did you ever see such a pen of hogs?" The Opposition did not seem to be able to rise above the level of the piggery. (Laughter.)

Mr. Stratton on resuming his seat was enthusiastically applauded, and brief addresses from a few of the gentlemen present followed.

OTHER ADDRESSES GIVEN.

Mr. William Eyres, following Mr. Stratton, urged that one fact should be kept prominently in mind, when the Opposition was shouting that it was "time for a change," and that was that the Opposition had never yet brought a charge against the present Government, and sustained it in the Courts. He had heard it reported that Hon. J. R. Stratton had met the liquor dealers in Toronto and had presided at their meeting, and given them pointers how to proceed in reference to the Referendum. He would like to hear from Mr. Stratton about this, as he understood that the statement had been promptly denied by that gentleman.

Mr. Stratton stated in reply that he had never attended a meeting of the liquor dealers in his life, and that the only time that he had met them was when their deputation waited upon the Government. He had of course been present on this occasion, with the rest of the Ministers, and the deputation had been courteously received, as were all deputations from any class which waited upon the Government.

Mr. W. H. Meldrum, in a few characteristically pithy remarks, predicted that when the election returns were read, Mr. Stratton would see that the people appreciated what he had done, and was doing, for the town, and had the fullest confidence in him. Concerning the referendum, he stated that he thought any Government which would attempt to enforce a measure of prohibition, without referring it to the people first, would be lacking in intelligence. A great preponderance of the vote was needed to make such a radical change in the country's affairs. As a business man, he considered that this would be a most inopportune time to make a change in the Government of the country. It would tend to greatly unsettle affairs, as capitalists would be chary of investments which depended in any manner on the development of New Ontario.

Dr. Moher made a popular hit when he remarked that if Mr. Stratton was good enough for the people to elect four years ago, he must certainly be good enough now, when it was considered what he had done since that time. This remark would also apply to the Government, which, he knew all would agree with him in saying, was increasing in strength every day. The doctor admired the stand which Mr. Stratton took in refusing to pledge himself to any particular course of action, beyond saying that he would do what he considered was right and fair in the matter. He had refused during the last campaign to pledge himself to secure a grant for the Ennismore Bridge, and this in the face of his opponent's rash promises, yet when the bridge was being built, he was able to get a larger grant than was ever anticipated. Such matters could be safely left to Mr. Stratton's judgment, as his constituents had the greatest confidence in him, and the Government to do what was right and fair. He urged that everything possible be done to secure the return of the Ross Government. Any man, who had an interest in the growth of Ontario, could not but be proud of the manner in which the Government had acquitted itself in ensuring the prosperity of the Province.

Mr. R. R. Hall, in response to urgent calls upon him, took the platform. He pointed out that though the Government had been in power a long time, and had spent millions of dollars, not a breath of scandal had been attached to their administration. There were many governments of which this could not be said. When we have men who are such faithful trustees, queried he, why should we put them out of power? Would we treat a faithful employee in such a manner? If the Government was not progressive, and the "dry-rot" had set in, there might be reason for a change, but when, on the other hand a most vigorous policy has been propounded, and put into operation, there is every reason for keeping such a Government at the head of affairs. In New Ontario Mr. Whitney sees nothing but "the stunted poplar," while the Government sees a rich heritage, which they have induced Mr. Clegure, the Spanish River Pulp Company, and others, to develop. This is all due to a Government which is alive, and abreast of the times. We can see a veritable gold mine in every dam on the Otonabee River, if cheap power is developed. The Review would like to see the price raised for these dams to such a figure that no man in his senses would pay it. Mr. Stratton, personally, and in the Examiner, had strongly advocated the development of these dams in the interests of the town. It only cost the Government $12,000 to build Dam No. 5, and $400 more for the land. They were receiving $1,250 a year rental for it, which was ten per cent. interest on their investment. No one could ask for a better investment than that. The Review proposed that the rental be $7,500. If they had been successful in having the rental raised to that it would simply have meant that the town would have lost the Cordage Works, as not a tenth of the shareholders lived in Peterborough, and the majority would have naturally insisted on going where power could be obtained the cheapest. The works would not have been here if cheap power had not been got. The company by having cheap electric power saves $12,500 a year under what steam would cost, a sum saved sufficient to pay six per cent. on $200,000. As soon as the trouble over the dam was stirred up by the Review, inducements came in from all over the country to the Cordage Company to establish their industry at other points. The Review jeopardized the town's interests in this matter and might have worked considerable harm. The very fact of the power being developed at the dam, and the Cordage Works being located in Peterborough, was due to the interest taken in the town's welfare by Mr. Stratton. An enormous amount of machinery had been especially built in the town for the company. This would have been lost. Then again it was only after a tremendous fight in the Legislature that Mr. Stratton had been able to carry his point in connection with the fixing of the assessment for the Cereal Company. Unless this legislation had been enacted the company would not have located in Peterborough. Hon. Senator Cox had given Mr. Stratton the credit for getting this legislation passed. When the riding was represented by such a man would the electors not be derelict in their duty if they did not give him their hearty support? It would not do to stand back and say the majority jumped from 500 to 1,000, and would now reach the 1,500 mark. In order to roll up this majority all would have to take their coats off and get to work.

Mr. George Sloan was well received. He mentioned the fact that in canvassing the electors he had come across many who had never voted for Mr. Stratton before, who were going to vote for him now. They were thoroughly satisfied with the course the Ross Government was pursuing in developing New Ontario for the benefit of the Older portions of the province. It had been claimed that Mr. Miller was the labouring man's candidate. This was not so. He had been nominated by the Conservative party without reference to the views of the labouring men. The working men who were supporting Mr. Miller would have supported any other Conservative candidate, as it was purely a question of party politics with them.

Mr. J. M. Donovan stated that although he did not claim to be a public speaker, yet this did not hinder him from being an enthusiastic supporter of Hon. J. R. Stratton. Judging by what he had heard about the town a bigger majority than ever would be rolled up for the Peterborough representative in the Government of Progress, which was ensuring such a bright future for the province by their development policy.

Mr. Joseph Metheral spoke of the pleasure it gave him to hear such good reports from all parts of the Province concerning the progress of the campaign. He had been at the committee rooms a good many evenings and was delighted with the way in which the local work was progressing. If the boys just kept on at the same gait the majority would be larger than ever.

Mr. William Lee expressed the pleasure he had experienced during the evening in listening to so many encouraging addresses, but the most encouraging thing he saw was the big attendance at the meeting. In former campaigns he could recollect no such crowd turning out for a committee meeting. With such workers rallying around Mr. Stratton, the prospects for a big majority were very bright.

Mr. A. C. McCallum in a few short remarks spoke most effectively. He stated that he had no politics but when he saw a young man enter public life, against great odds and make a success of it, he felt bound to stand at his back. He did not wish to say anything against Mr. Miller, but in putting the two men in the scale he thought the Major would be found lacking and apart from politics he would vote for the man who was making a success of life. This, he thought, was a good argument for a young man to consider. In this country a man was measured by the success he made of life. Take Mr. Stratton when he ran against Mr. Carnegie. His action looked to be as courageous as Daniel's when he entered the lion's den. Thinking Mr. Carnegie the strongest man, the speaker had voted for him and had been sorry for it ever since, as he saw afterwards that with all his ability Mr. Carnegie had not met his expectations. Every right-thinking young man should take a man as they found him and judge him by the record which he had made. He had heard the question raised as to Mr. Stratton's stand on the prohibition question. Mr. Stratton took the correct stand of making no promises as to what he would do. He would stand by his Government. If the people voted to have prohibition the Government would have to give it to them. How could Mr. Miller claim to be a temperance advocate and stand on the same platform with King Dodds, who stumped the riding against the Scott Act. Oil and water could not mix. It was a problem which scientists had had never been able to solve.

In closing the meeting, the chairman, Mr. Eyers spoke of the great additional strength to the Government which had been derived from the prestige given by the development of New Ontario.

The meeting closed with the usual cheers.

Eldest Son of Chancellor Sir John Boyd. Major A. J. Boyd, Carried Off by Enteric Fever in South African Constabulary — Canadians Ill— Sir Michael Hicks-Beach on Peace Rumors.

Ottawa, April 22.—The Minister of Militia announced last evening that sufficient men had been enrolled to form two out of the four regiments for South Africa. Officers have been provisionally appointed to these regiments, and their appointment will be confirmed as soon as the War Office signifies its approval. Lieut.-Col. A. C. Macdonell, who is to receive the command of the two regiments to be raised in the west, is on his way to Ottawa, and after conferring with the authorities here will probably return and take charge of the recruiting. Two of the transports, the Cestrian and Winifredian, will arrive in Halifax about the 2nd or 3rd of May. They can take between them 1,500 men to South Africa. To-day at Halifax the issue of uniforms will probably commence. Col. Borden said last night that the commanding officer of the fourth regiment had not yet been selected.

Windsor, April 22.—Sergt. J. C. Biggs has been made a lieutenant in the fourth contingent. He was with the first contingent.

MAJOR A. J. BOYD'S DEATH.

Enteric Fever in South Africa Carries Him Off.

Ottawa, April 22.—The Governor-General has received the following cable from the Casualty Department at Cape Town:

Cape Town, April 20.—Death from enteric fever, 20th April, Pretoria, South African Constabulary, Capt. A. J. Boyd. Please inform Sir J. A. Boyd, Toronto, Canada.

Sketch of His Life.

The late Major Alexander James Boyd was the eldest son of Sir John Boyd (Chancellor), and was born in Toronto 37 years ago. News of his death from enteric fever at Pretoria was a great shock to his relatives and friends, as it was not known that he was ill. Recent letters received from him told of his being in excellent health and spirits. These letters were dated at Sterkfontein as late as Feb. 28, and indicated that he was then in charge of a line of blockhouses.

Major Boyd went to South Africa with the first draft of reinforcements for the first Canadian contingent, and was present at the battles of Zand River and Doornkop and the capture of Pretoria. He returned home and again enlisted as an officer of the Baden-Powell Constabulary, recruited in Canada.

In athletic affairs the deceased took a prominent part, being a member of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club and of the Argonaut Rowing Club. He rowed in the Argonaut Crew at Philadelphia in 1898 and at Henley in 1899. He was also a member of the Osgoode Hall Rugby Football Club. His military career has been one of distinction. He was a captain in the Queen's Own Rifles, and served with that regiment in the Northwest Rebellion (1885). Ten years ago he entered the Royal Grenadiers as second-lieutenant and was junior major at the time of his death.

He was a member of the law firm of McCarthy, Osler and Hoskin. He was educated at Upper Canada College, and admitted to the bar about 12 years ago.

Two More Canadians Ill.

Ottawa, April 22.—A cablegram to His Excellency the Governor-General from the Casualty Department at Cape Town, announced that two more of the Canadian Mounted Rifles who distinguished themselves at Kleinhardt's River, March 31, are dangerously ill in the hospital in Johannesburg, of the wounds received in that engagement. They are Ptes. John Millen and Michael Murphy. Millen enlisted at London, Ont. His father lives at Wingham Centre, Ont. Pte. Millen was wounded in the jaw and leg. Pte. Murphy who was wounded in the head, belonged to Peterboro, where his father, Connor Murphy, lives at 32 Lewis street.

PREMATURE PEACE RUMORS.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's Opinion—Income Tax Adopted.

London, April 22.—In the House of Commons yesterday, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, said in the course of a speech defending the budget proposals, nothing could be more premature than the rumors in the press regarding the peace negotiations in South Africa.

The income tax resolution was adopted by a vote of 290 to 61.

Means Protection.

London, April 22. — The Cobden Club has issued a manifesto signed by Lord Wellesley vigorously protesting against the imposition of corn duties. The manifesto sets forth that so to do would inaugurate a policy of protection and undo the great work of Peel and Gladstone. It urges that the proposals be contested at every step.

Pope Is Assured.

Rome, April 22.—The Pope has been personally assured, through the English bishops now in Rome, that there is now a good prospect of peace in South Africa on the basis of Kitchener's terms of 1901.

Resolution on Home Rule.

Ottawa, April 21.—At a largely-attended meeting of the local branch of the United Irish League held yesterday afternoon, it was decided to introduce a Home Rule resolution in the House of Commons this session. The executive reported in favor of immediate action, and a resolution was passed requesting Hon. John Costigan to take the matter up at once.

The resolution concludes as follows: "We, as loyal Canadian citizens, enjoying the fullest measure of liberty, deplore the tyrannical act of Lord Salisbury and his colleagues, in depriving millions of fellow-citizens of the Empire of the only constitutional means available for the redress of their admitted grievances."

Warns the Paper.

Montreal, April 22.—His Grace Archbishop Bruchesi has written a letter to Les Debats, a French paper, published on Sundays, to warn it to discontinue its attitude taken upon the law of associations, passed in France, July 1, 1901. The Debats considers the law expelling religious bodies from France as one worthy of praise.

Denies It Wholly.

Kingston, April 22.—The Evening Times says it is in a position to say that Dallman, the Welland Canal dynamiter, knows all The Buffalo Express has written about his being Luke Dillon, and that he denies the yarn in its entirety. It is a scheme to prevent his getting a pardon, which he hopes to receive shortly.

Rat Portage Lost.

Rat Portage, April 22.—This town will pay $58,129 for the plant of the Citizens' Telephone and Electric Company, as a result of a valuation by two experts, one representing the town and one the company. The town could have bought the plant for $55,000 some weeks ago, but thought the amount too high.

Killed by a Stone.

Hamilton, April 22.—The inquest on the death of Robert Brackenreed, who was killed at Rymal Station, was concluded last night. The evidence showed he was struck with a stone which fell from a hopper over his head. The jury's verdict was accidental death.

Six Years in Kingston.

St. Catharines, April 22.— William McCaskill of Beamsville was yesterday morning sentenced to six years in Kingston Penitentiary by Acting Judge Collier, on the charge of having carnal knowledge of Myrtle Houser of Clinton Township, on March 14 last.

AN OTONABEE WEDDING.

Nuptials of Mr Wm. M. Welch to Miss Eliza J. McAllister.

On Wednesday evening, April 16th, at eight o'clock, a very pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. James G. Potter, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. McAllister, Otonabee, when their daughter, Eliza J., was married to Mr. Wm. W. Welch, of the same place. The bride looked handsome in a dress of white lustre, trimmed with satin ribbon and lace, wearing the conventional veil, caught up with Lily of the Valley, carrying a boquet of white bride roses. She entered the parlor on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march, rendered by Mr. John Tapson, of Bowmanville. The bride was assisted by Miss Catherine Robinson, of Peterborough, who was very prettily attired in pink Organdie, trimmed with lace and silk. The groom was ably assisted by his brother, Mr. Ernest A. Welsh.

Congratulations over, the guests, numbering over seventy, sat down to a sumptuous wedding dejeuner. The presents were exceptionally numerous and costly, testifying to the esteem in which the young couple are held. They left for their home, 208 Perry street, amid showers of rice and good wishes. Their hosts of friends join in wishing them a long and prosperous wedded life.

HORRIBLE PAINS.

French Gentleman's Sufferings are Beyond Description.

Many Doctors Treated him, but Without Success Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured him and now Life is a Pleasure to him- He Tells the Story.

St. Urbain, Que., April 21. (Special). — Fearful indeed has been the experience of Narcisse Barrette, of this place. For fifteen long and wearisome years he has suffered with an acute malady of the Kidneys and Back, which has caused him the most agonizing pains.

He consulted physician after physician and followed their treatment patiently and carefully. Some of them afforded him a little temporary relief—which was in itself a great blessing — but the pain always came back to torture him even worse than before.

Rheumatism added its terrors to his already great burden of misery and his life was a succession of burdens of the most violent pains it has ever been the lot of any mortal man to endure.

The story is told by Mons. Barrette himself, and is in part as follows:

"For over fifteen years I suffered with a severe malady of the back and kidneys, which caused me horrible pains in the back.

"I tried many doctors, but the relief I got was only temporary and the malady always returned. My suffering was so great at times that it was almost beyond endurance.

"I had Rheumatism, as well as the pains in my back, and between them I was sorely tried. I would rather die than suffer again the way I did, but now life is very pleasant for me and I am anxious to live.

"You ask me how I was cured?

"Well, after trying in vain doctors' treatment and almost everything else I began to use what has been to me the greatest medicine in all the world, Dodd's Kidney Pills, and very soon the pains all left me. They acted almost like magic. I am now in perfect health and work every day.

LABOUR ARBITRATION.

Liberal Legislation in Favour of Applying the Principle.

LAST SESSION'S AMENDMENT.

Councils of Conciliation--Bureau of Labour to Mediate--Approved by Labour Organizations, but Opposed by the Conservatives.

The frequency of strikes, lock-outs and industrial disturbances growing out of disagreements between working men and their employers and the consequent loss entailed, not only on employers and employees, but on the community has aroused much thought on the part of public men and legislators as to the possibility of avoiding these industrial conflicts by the peaceable settlement of disputes. Many different proposals for arbitration or conciliation by the intervention of disinterested parties have been made, and the principle is being successfully carried into effect in some countries. The earliest legislation in this Province on the question was in 1873 when an act was passed "To Facilitate the Adjustment of Disputes Between Masters and Workmen." This gave a legal status to local boards of arbitration, composed of equal numbers of employers and workmen, who were authorized to settle any disputes or differences submitted to them, their award to be final and capable of enforcement by a court. It had only jurisdiction however, over such masters and workmen as had signed a memorandum agreeing to the establishment of the board.

The Act of 1894.

In 1894 the Government of Sir Oliver Mowat introduced and carried through the Legislature "An Act Respecting Councils of Conciliation and Arbitration for Settling Industrial Disputes." This measure, which is framed on much broader lines than the former act, is based on the most advanced legislation in Britain, France, Australia and other countries, where this means of settling industrial disputes has been extensively adopted with the most satisfactory results. The preamble to the Act declares that "there is reason to believe that the establishment of Councils of Conciliation and Arbitration, for the friendly settlement of disputes between employers and employees, would conduce to the cultriation and maintenance of better relations and more active sympathy between employers and their employees, and would be of benefit in the public interest by providing simple methods for the prevention of strikes and lock-outs, from which industrial operations and the welfare of the country generally may suffer injury." The Act proceeds to define the matters of dispute which may be the subject of arbitration including the prices paid for work, hours of labour, damage alleged to be done to work, quality of materials supplied employees, insufficient or unwholesome food, where there is an agreement to supply food, defects in ventilation or sanitation, and the dismissal of employees. No claim or dispute is to be considered in which the number of employees affected is fewer than ten.

A Council of Conciliation for the purposes of any dispute or claim shall consist of four conciliators two to be nominated by each of the parties to the dispute. Matters may be referred to them for settlement in case both parties to the dispute jointly agree to do so. Either party to the dispute or claim may lodge an application with the Registrar to be appointed under the Act requesting that the matter be referred to a Council of Conciliation for settlement.

Councils of Arbitration.

The Act provides for the creation of two Councils of Arbitration, one for the settlement of disputes and claims between railway companies and their employees, and the other for settling difficulties in connection with other departments of industry. Each of these Councils is to consist of three members, one to be appointed by the Government on the recommendation of the employees and another also to be appointed by the Government on the recommendation of the employers. The third member of each board, who shall be president of the Council, may be appointed by of the Council, may be appointed by the Government on the joint recommendation of the other two, and failing this, some impartial person, not likely to be biased in favour of either party, is to be appointed.

For the person to be recommended by the employers, every employer having ten persons in his service, and every organization in the interests of employers and Board of Trade shall be entitled to one vote.

For the arbitrator to be appointed in the employees' interest in matters not belonging to railways, every Trades and Labour Council, district assembly of the Knights of Labour, Federated Council of Building Trades and Labour organization, constituted for the regulation of wages and hours of labour, shall be entitled to one vote. In matters belonging to railways every organization exclusively representing the interest of wage-earners employed in railway construction or traffic is entitled to one vote. The votes are to be taken every second year, each voting paper to be forwarded to the Registrar before October 15th. After which date the Registrar is to count the recommendations and forward the same to the Minister of Agriculture with a report thereon.

Upon being notified that a strike or lock-out is threatened or has taken place, it is the duty of the Councils of Arbitration to communicate with the parties and endeavour to effect an amicable settlement, and if deemed best to enquire into the causes of controversy, and it sahll proceed as provided in the case of a reference. The Council of Arbitration shall meet and conduct its proceedings as an open court, and its decisions shall be governed by principles of equity. The Act confers upon the President all the powers of the judge of a High Court of Justice for the purpose of preserving order, except the power of committing for contempt. The report of the Council is to be made within one month, after its hearing of a reference, and shall be by a majority of the members of the Council. The Council of Arbitration are given power to visit the locality where the dispute has arisen, and hear all persons interested, to summon witnesses and administer oaths. Persons refusing to attend as witnesses may be compelled to do so by order of a Justice of the Peace.

Amendment to the Act

This efficiency of this Act has been considerably increased by an important amendment adopted in 1902, and strongly favoured by the Labour Organizations. It was introduced by Mr. Preston, member for South Brant, and accepted by the Government. It provides that in case of any labour dispute involving ten, or more, employees, threatening to result in a strike or lock-out, it shall be the duty of the Registrar, when requested to do so by five or more of the employees, or by the employer, or by the Mayor or Reeve of the Municipality, to visit the locality, and seek to mediate between the parties. It shall be the duty of the Registrar to promote conditions favourable to a settlement by endeavouring to allay discord, to remove causes of friction, to promote good feeling, to restore confidence, and to encourage the parties to come together, and themselves effect a settlement, and also to promote agreements between employers and employees, with a view to the submission of differences to conciliation or arbitration.

The Conservative Position.

When this measure came up in the House, it received the cordial support of the Government, and the Liberal members. The Conservatives, though they did not venture to oppose directly a Bill having the approval of the labour organizations, assumed a distinctly hostile tone, and sneered at, and belittled, the measure as worthless, and designed merely for political effect. On February 8th, Mr. Whitney said, as reported by the Mail and Empire, "He saw no harm in the Bill, because it was neither good nor bad. It was simply a waste of paper and ink. It was intended, perhaps, to get a little kudos for the member for South Brant." Mr. Crawford, member for West Toronto, who represents a large industrial constituency, and frequently takes occasion to pose as a friend of labour, took similar ground, and "saw nothing in the Bill." Probably, the leading representative labour organizations are better qualified to judge of the effectiveness and value of the measure from the working man's point of view, than an Opposition which seems to consider that its main duty is to oppose and denounce every proposition which emanates from, or commends itself to, the Liberal majority.

Endorsed by the Labour Organizations.

The Act and its amendments have been strongly endorsed by the Executive Committee of the Dominion Trades and Labour Congress. The Executive Committee of that body for the Province of Ontario, while the legislation of last session was before the House actively urged its adoption, and have recommended the local unions throughout the Province to take advantage of its provisions, as they have already done with marked advantage in some instances. The law promises to be one of the most useful and advantageous of the long list of measures passed by the Liberal party, at the request of, and in the interests of, the working people of the Province.

The Bureau of Labour.

The effect of last session's amendment is practically to entrust the operation of the law to the Bureau of Labour, established in 1900, the principle duty of which hitherto has been the collecting and publishing of statistics relating to employment, wages, trade unions and labour conditions generally. The appointment of Mr. Robert Glockling, the efficient secretary of the Bureau as Registrar under the Act, greatly enlarges the scope of its operations, while the complete and thorough information upon many practical matters bearing upon trade disputes, furnished by the statistical work of the Bureau, will be of great value and assistance in the work of settling differences. The first essential to the establishment of friendly relations between the opposing interests in the industrial field is a full understanding by both parties of the actual facts relating to the question at issue, and the creation of the Bureau as a part of the administrative mechanism entrusted with powers of mediation in the case of disputes is a long step forward towards a satisfactory and permanent solution of the labour problem. Doubtless further legislation will be required from time to time to perfect a system which is necessarily of a tentative character, and the Liberal Administration, who are responsible for all that has been done hitherto may be depended upon to see that nothing will be left undone to complete and improve their work.

I Will Cure You of

Rheumatism

No pay until you know it.

After 2,000 experiments, I have learned how to cure Rheumatism. Not to turn bony joints into flesh again; that is impossible. But I can cure the disease always, at any stage, and forever.

I ask for no money. Simply write me a postal and I will send you an order on your nearest druggist for six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, for every druggist keeps it. Use it for a month, and if it does what I claim, pay your druggist $5.50 for it. If it doesn't, I will pay him myself.

I have no samples. Any medicine that can effect Rheumatism with but a few doses must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs. It is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that, even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. No matter how impossible this seems to you, I know it and I take the risk. I have cured tens of thousands of cases in this way, and my records show that 39 out of every 40 who get those six bottles pay, and pay gladly. I have learned that people in general are honest with a physician who cures them. That is all I ask. If I fail I don't expect a penny from you.

Simply write me a postal card or letter. Let me send you an order for the medicine. Take it for a month, for it won't harm you anyway. If it cures, pay $5.50. I leave that entirely to you. I will mail you a book that tells how I do it.

Simply state name of your dealer, and address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

CATTLE GUARDS BILL

Measure Killed in Committee of the House of Commons.

A COMMISSION OF EXPERTS

The Government Will Institute Enquiries and Will Deal With the Matter Next Year—The Yukon Territory—Mr. Sifton's Bill Effecting Important Reforms—Private Members' Day in the Commons.

Ottawa, April 22.—Yesterday was an interesting private members' day, ending with a three-hours' discussion on Mr. Lancaster's railway crossing guards bill, which was lost in the committee stage.

Mr. Oliver moved to send back to the Standing Orders Committee the report throwing out the petition for a bill to incorporate the Bishop of the Orthodox Russo-Greek Catholic Church. The petitioner is an alien living in a foreign country (in San Francisco), who wished to be incorporated in Canada as the Bishop of North America and the Aleutian Islands.

Mr. Speaker decided the motion was in order, and it carried.

To Amend Yukon Act.

Mr. Sifton introduced a bill to amend the Yukon Territory Act. It effects several important changes in the administration of the Government of the territory. Hereafter in case of conflict between an order by the Governor-General-in-Council and an order by the Commissioner of the Yukon, the latter will prevail. The bill also gives to the local council of the territory the control and regulation of the sale of intoxicating liquors. The control of manufacture is retained in the Federal authority. The third section of the bill increases from two to five the number of elected members of the Yukon local council.

In answer to Mr. R. L. Borden, the Minister said there would be five elected and five appointed members of the council.

A bill to amend the Dominion Lands Act, which was also introduced and read a first time in the Northwest, shall be subject to a provision that the Territorial Government may open a road through them not over 66 feet wide nor embracing more than 5 per cent. of the land without paying for right of way.

Another bill empowers the Legislative Assembly of the Territories to pass ordinances in regard to such road allowances.

Amend Alien Labor Act.

Mr. Ralph Smith introduced a bill to amend the Alien Labor Act. Its object is to transfer jurisdiction under the act from the Minister of Justice to the Minister of Labor. If passed it will make it clear that, notwithstanding the right of private prosecution, it shall still be the duty of the Government upon complaint of the labor unions, to send commissioners to investigate complaints of violation of the act and report upon the same to the Government. The bill was read a first time.

Bills Passed.

The following bills were read a third time and passed:

Respecting the Montreal, Ottawa and Georgian Bay Canal Company.

Respecting the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

Respecting the Lake Champlain and St. Lawrence Ship Canal Company.

Respecting the Hudson Bay and Northwest Railway Company.

To incorporate the North Shore Power, Railway and Navigation Company.

To incorporate the Canadian Northern Express Company.

Trade With Mother Country.

Mr. Kemp asked: Did the Government, since Feb. 1 last, receive copies of resolutions from any Board of Trade or other commercial organization of a similar character, setting forth the opinion of such boards of trade or other organizations, that in the event of the imposition of duties upon wheat and other cereals by Great Britain, the products of Canada should be exempt from such taxation, or should receive preferential treatment? If any such resolutions were sent to the Government, from what organizations did they come, and at what dates were they received? Has the Government, since the first day of February last, made any and what representations to the British Government, that in the event of the imposition of duties upon wheat and other cereals, the products of this country should be exempt from such taxation, or should receive preferential treatment? If so, what is the date of such representations?

The Premier's reply to questions one and two was: "Yes, they will be laid on the table of the House." To questions three and four the answer was: "Parliament has been made aware that a conference is to take place in London this summer on the invitation of the Secretary of State for the Colonies between the Imperial authorities and the self-governing colonies of the Empire. In respect to the imposition of duties upon grain and flour, communications have been and are still being exchanged on the subject between the two Governments, but in the present stage of the negotiations it is not expedient to bring down any correspondence relating thereto until such conference has taken place."

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS FOR WEAK PEOPLE

They regulate the action of the heart and invigorate the nerves.

They build up the run down system as no other remedy will do.

They cure Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Brain Fag, Palpitation of the Heart, After Effects of La Grippe, Faint or Dizzy Spells, Anæmia, General Debility and all troubles caused by the system being run down.

They have cured others. They will cure you.

MISS MARY PEARRON,

Corinth, Ont., writes: "My system was badly run down, and I was very nervous and could not sleep. My heart palpitated, and the slightest exertion caused distressing shortness of breath, and left me tired and weary.

After taking four boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills all of the above troubles disappeared, and I am now completely cured."

Boys and Target Shooting.

Lieut.-Col. Sam Hughes offered a resolution in favor of giving the youth of the country an opportunity to practise target shooting, to which end it would be advisable to supply each school district with rifles and safety ammunition to be used by boys over 14 years. Speaking to his motion, Lieut.-Col. Hughes dwelt upon the advantage of a large body of citizens trained to the use of the rifle as compared with the dangerous institution of a standing army. It was in the ardor of youth that men could best be trained to rifle shooting. Canada, he said, could produce a million shooting men, and the experience of the Boer war showed that with such a force the country would be impregnable against invasion no matter how powerful the invading army might be.

The Minister of Militia said he was in entire accord with Lieut.-Col. Hughes' observations. Switzerland, with its 250,000 effective militia, was an excellent object lesson in that regard. It would scarcely do, however, for the House to pass the resolution, because its recommendations came within the purview of the provincial Legislature as a matter of education. The proper way would be to correspond with the Governments of the respective provinces and this he had in contemplation.

Mr. Ingram asked if it were so that the Militia Department could issue free ammunition to rifle clubs, but not to cadet corps.

Dr. Borden replied that such was the case. The Government had no power to include in the militia persons under 18 years of age, but that would be amended next year.

On motion of Mr. Lancaster the debate on Lieut.-Col. Hughes' motion was adjourned.

Cattle Guards Bill.

The remainder of the sitting was devoted to discussion in committee on Mr. Lancaster's cattle guard bill, which had been reported by the Railway Committee with the recommendation that it be not further proceeded with during the present session.

An amendment was moved by Mr. Henderson relieving the railway company from damages where a cattle guard, approved by the Railway Committee of the Privy Council, was in use, the bill only to come into force on April 1, 1903.

This amendment was voted down, and a motion by Mr. Davis (Saskatchewan) that the committee rise was carried, thus killing the bill.

The Government has promised, however, to have a commission of experts examine all cattle guards in the United States and recommend a standard, the use of which will be enforced by legislation next session.

The House adjourned at 11 o'clock.

The King's Birthday.

An act will probably be passed before Parliament prorogues for the observance of the Sovereign's birthday on May 24th, which has already been made a statutory holiday in commemoration of Queen Victoria's reign. King Edward's birthday is November 9th, but Thanksgiving Day usually takes place that month, and the official view here is that it would be most inconvenient to have another holiday in November. In England the King's birthday will be celebrated on May 30th, but it is deemed better that Canadians should take advantage of the holiday already fixed by statute for the 24th. George III.'s birthday was June 4th, and this continued to be observed in Canada as the Sovereign's birthday throughout the reign of George IV. and William IV. It is likely that June 26th will be proclaimed as a holiday in honor of the coronation of King Edward.

To Aid Bernier.

Ottawa, April 22.—Mr. John Charlton will on Thursday move a resolution in favor of an appropriation in aid of Capt. Bernier's scheme to reach the North Pole. A petition in support of the resolution, containing the signature of 111 members, has been handed to the Premier.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

The prohibitionists of London have placed Fred W. Daly, B.A., in the field for the Ontario Legislature. He is a graduate of Victoria University, and, politically, is an independent Conservative.

Lord Stanley Refused to Reply.

London, April 22.—When asked a question in the House of Commons yesterday regarding the paucity of the canned meat contracts for South Africa given to Canada, and as to whether Americans had obtained the bulk of the contracts, because their tenders were lower or their provisions of better quality, the Financial Secretary to the War Office, Lord Stanley, refused to make a reply. He said the whole question of the comparative merits of various tinned meats was now under consideration.

Leave: End of May.

Ottawa, April 22.—The extended term of Major-General O'Grady-Haly as general officer commanding the Canadian militia, does not expire till the 30th of June, but it is his intention to leave Canada at the end of May. This will give General O'Grady-Haly a few weeks' holidays before resuming his duties with the Imperial army.

Dutch Politicians Aghast.

The Hague, April 22.—The condition of Queen Wilhelmina is unchanged. An extraordinary cabinet council was held yesterday. The Queen's mother seldom leaves the sick chamber. Politicians are aghast at the possibility of a fatal termination.

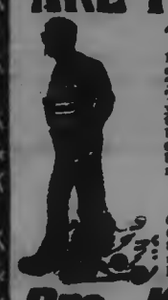
ARE YOU A PRISONER?



THOUSANDS of men are prisoners of disease as securely as though they were confined behind the bars. Many have forged their own chains by the vices of early youth, exposure to contagious disease, or the excesses of manhood. They feel they are not the men they ought to be or used to be. The vim, vigor, and vitality of manhood are lacking. Are you nervous and despondent? tired in the morning? have you to force yourself through the day's work? have you little ambition and energy? are you irritable and excitable? eyes sunken, depressed and haggard looking? memory poor and brain fagged? have you weak back with dreams and losses at night? deposit in urine? weak sexually?—you have

The True Cause of Woman's Many Ills.

The Weaknesses and Irregularities, the Dragging Pains in the Back and the Loins, the Headaches, the Neuralgia Pains, the Weariness Irritability and Depressed Spirits.

These Are Ailments That Are Being Cured Every Day by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food—These Letters Endorse Our Claim.

Through much suffering woman learns to attribute her miseries to her sex, and believing it necessary that she should endure much pain, too frequently resigns herself to fate without even making an effort to cure herself.

In almost every case where woman suffers from ills peculiarly feminine the cause is to be found in a weak and exhausted condition of the system. The nerves are depleted and the blood is thin and watery. If medicines have failed to cure it is because the wrong treatment has been used.

As a thorough and permanent cure for women's ills, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has a reputation which is unrivalled. From the dawn of womanhood to the change of life woman can keep herself healthy and strong by the use of this great Restorative.

It supplies an abundance of rich, red, life-sustaining blood, than which nothing is more necessary to the feminine organism. It revitalizes the wasted nerves and gives new vigor to the weakened muscles of the body.

Weakness.

MRS. D. HOBBINS, 420 Charlotte street, Peterborough, states,

"My daughter was troubled with a weak, fluttering heart. The least excitement seemed to aggravate her trouble and at times she had severe racking headaches. She became so bad that it effected her nervous system, and she felt miserable most of the time. Through the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, her condition is entirely changed. Her nerves are steady, the headaches are gone, and the action of her heart is strong and regular. We have every reason to give the credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Indigestion.

MRS. M. A. SHARP, 346 Dublin street, Peterborough, Ont., states,—

"For some years I was troubled with indigestion, which developed into nervous dyspepsia, and besides suffering from nervousness, strange, dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine, I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed and as a result of its use I am quite restored to health."

THE OLD MAIDS' CONVENTION.

St. Luke's Girls' Guild Entertainment Well Patronized.

A COMEDY AND A FARCE.

All of the Parts Were Capitally Taken, and the Affair was a Great Success in Every Way.

Those St. Luke's people are always sure of a crowd at any entertainment which is given under the auspices of one of the many flourishing societies which exist in connection with the church. Last night the Opera House was crowded to the doors by an audience which assembled to enjoy a programme furnished by the Girls' Guild. Everybody expected a treat, and nobody was disappointed. The members of St. Luke's Girls' Guild have never disappointed anyone yet who attended one of their entertainments, and consequently they are always sure of a crowded house, with correspondingly pleasing receipts at the door.

Prof. Glidden's orchestra opened the programme with a nicely executed overture, and then the members of the Girls' Guild, assisted by the indispensable Mr. Harry Neil, presented in a most creditable manner the comedy, "The Old Maids' Convention," the caste being as follows

Maribah Lovejoy, President of the Old Maids' Matrimonial Club — Miss Alice Tivey.

Amarilla Heywood, secretary — Miss Florrie Burnham.

Priscilla Hope, Treasurer — Miss Phillips.

Professor Pinkton, with his Electric Transform(h)er — Mr. Harry Neil.

Members of the Club — Miss Sybil Stethem, Miss Annie Beatty, Miss Bennett, Miss Alice Scott, Miss Crane, Miss Allie Armstrong, Miss Alice Dawson, Miss Florence Butcher, Miss Kitty Phillips, Miss Lillie Fitzgerald, Miss Maud Adams, Miss Edna Rogers, Miss Scott, Miss Louie Scott, Miss Bella Long, Miss Maude Long, Miss Gaskins, Miss Katie Calcutt and Miss Jennie Moore.

At the conclusion of an experience meeting amongst the old maids, who were in conclave assembled, Professor Pinkton was introduced with his Electric Transform(h)er, which was guaranteed to renew youth. Many tried the experiment and the results were wonderful indeed, as the most pernickedy of old maids entered the magic cabinet to come forth in the full enjoyment of youth and beauty. The various little incidents connected with the transformation, were inimitably funny, and the manner in which the various characters were assumed was more than creditable to the participants.

Mr. Walter Wesley's contribution to the programme of the bass solo, "The Mighty Deep," was greatly appreciated, being rendered in splendid voice.

A farce entitled "The Day Before the Wedding," introduced the following characters:

Mr. Ebenezer Padelthorp, who will give away his daughter to-morrow—Mr. H. Neil.

Mrs. Ebenezer Padelthorp, who will be given a son-in-law to-morrow—Miss Lillie Fitzgerald.

Mr. Alfred Warford, who will be married to-morrow — Mr. Harry Adams.

Miss Ada Padelthorp, who will be married to-morrow — Miss Alice Tivey.

Mr. Dick Padelthorp, who will be the best man (and who wishes it was his own wedding) to-morrow — Mr. J. J. Turner, jr.

Miss Dollie Boston, who will be Ada's bridesmaid (and her own bride some other to-morrow) — Miss Kitty Phillips.

This little play was capitally put on and was thoroughly enjoyed. The troubles arising through Dollie and Alfred accidentally placing purchases in each other's bags, led to a series of misunderstandings, which, as they developed, appealed irresistibly to the risibilities of the audience. Every part was capitally taken.

The members of the Guild are to be congratulated on the great success which attended their undertaking. All who were present were a unit in declaring it to be the best of the long series of entertainments which have been given by these indefatigable workers of St. Luke's.

ELECTED OFFICERS.

The Annual Business Meeting of George Street Epworth League.

The annual business meeting and election of officers of George street Epworth League took place last evening. Preceding the business meeting an excellent paper on the topic, "The Secret of Endurance," was read by Miss Crafts.

Although the League has not increased to any extent in membership during the year, yet the term that has just closed has been one of the most successful in the history of the Society, as was shown by the excellent character of the reports of work accomplished by the different departments during the year.

The officers for the coming term are as follows:

President—Mr. G. Robertson.
1st Vice-President, Christian Endeavour Department — Mr. W. F. Stubbs.
2nd Vice-President, Missionery Department—Miss Kidd.
3rd Vice-President, Literary Department—Mr. E. Daidge.
4th Vice-President, Social Department—Miss Metheral.
Recording Secretary — Miss Maude Detcher.
Corresponding Secretary — Miss Ethel Miller.
Treasurer—Miss Janet Wilson.
Pianists — Mrs. R. Cunningham, Miss Edith McClennan.

Child Must Grow.

The child must grow when it is young. If it doesn't grow give it Scott's Emulsion. It is a great medicine for growth. Scott's Emulsion is just the right addition to the weak child's daily food.

THE HASTINGS MEETING.

A Joint Meeting in the Interests of Mr. Anderson and Mr. Simmons Last Night.

A rousing mass meeting was held last night at Hastings in the interests of Mr. Wm. Anderson, and Mr. A. O. Simmons, Liberal candidates in East Peterborough and East Northumberland, respectively.

The town hall was crowded with a very enthusiastic audience which remained until half past eleven o'clock.

The chair was occupied by Mr. John Walsh, President of the East Northumberland Reform Association, and those who occupied seats on the platform were, Messrs. A.O. Simmons, Liberal candidate for East Northumberland; L. V. McBrady, candidate for East Toronto; Andrew Pattullo, M. P. P., Woodstock; J. H. McClellan, Peterborough, D. J. Lynch and Mr. Mulholland, Campbellford.

The chairman first introduced Mr. Simmons the candidate for East Northumberland, who was very cordially received, and spoke at some length, dwelling on local issues of the campaign. He made a strong appeal for the support of the electors. Judging from the reception accorded him Mr. Simons is very popular and there is reason to believe that he will defeat Dr. Willoughby by a larger majority than that gentleman was defeated by at the last Provincial election.

Mr. J. H. McClellan received a very flattering reception and after explaining the reasons for the absence of Hon. Mr. Stratton, who had intended to be present, he spoke for 40 minutes, taking as his subject, "Where does the Ross Government get its money from, and what do they do with it?" In the course of his remarks he explained very fully the timber policy of the Government for the past 30 years, the succession duties, taxes on corporations and other matters of Provincial importance. He showed that while the Reform party has been in power and spent one hundred and twelve millions of dollars, there had not been any items of expenditure critized excepting 3-4 of 1 per cent. during the whole term of Liberal rule. There had been no charges of dishonesty which was an admission that the Reform party had been faithful to the trust imposed in them. Before closing he referred in strong terms to the charges of ballot stuffing made by Whitney, Foy, Willoughby & Co., showing that while some errors may have been committed by over-zealous Liberals in some ridings, still Mr. Whitney in relating them always forgot to mention any wrong doing by his own party.

Mr. McClellan mentioned the circumstances of Big Push Wilson, of Cobourg, who had placed in his hands $10,000, not for the purpose of bribing the electors, but to buy up the entire legislature.

Mr. McBrady and Mr. Pattullo made rousing addresses in support of the policy of the Ross Government, and the meeting closed with cheers for the King, Mr. Ross and the candidates.

THE PASSION PLAY.

Excellent Kinetoscope Views in T. A. S. Rooms Last Evening.

St. Peter's T.A.S. lecture room was crowded to the doors last evening to witness the production of the great Passion Play by kinetoscope views. The entertainment was the finest of its kind ever presented in town, and the life and death of our Saviour was portrayed on canvas in a truly remarkable manner. The views of the Emerald Isle, the Boer War, as well as the illustrated songs are worthy of special mention. The different views were described in a very clever manner during the evening. St. Peter's Cathedral choir interspersed the views with vocal selections. The entertainment will be repeated this evening.

THE WRECK OF THE ARMOURED TRAIN.

The following piece of poetry was composed by a local veteran of the South African war:—

Yes, I am proud of my Medal,
As proud as a man can be,
Who fought for his Country's glory,
In a desert across the sea.

I think a bit of silver
Looks nothing half so bright,
As it does on the tunic of a man
Who has learned to fight.

I am an Atbara hero,
I won a stripe or two there,
I faced the foe at Omdurman,
And felt a Derbyshire spear.

I have marched where thousands have fallen,
And stood at last with the brave
In the ruins of old Khartoum,
Near General Gordon's grave.

That's why I'm proud of my Medal,
This relic of glorious days,—
Proud of my share in the struggle—
My share in the General's praise.

I'd sooner have missed Omdurman
And the whole of that grand campaign,
Than have missed the fight at Chieviey,
For the wreck of the Armoured Train.

Tell you about it? Alright, sir,
I am always ready to tell
A story of British courage
That's known to the Boers too well.

When brave Sir George White and his army,
Saw foemen on every hand;
When Ladysmith was a Township,
Men thought of it in every land.

When you are thinking of Buller
And wishing him God-speed,
Across the seas to rescue
And help the brave in need.

The Boers at Colenso mustered,
And weary of shelling the town,
They threatened to sweep through Escourt,
Where we were holding our own.

We had not the guns we needed
We had not the men to spare,
But every man at Estcourt,
Was ready to, do and dare.

To fight as our brothers were fighting
And show the treacherous host,
How Britishers and their Metals
Can answer a Dutchman's boast.

But the Boers were slow in attacking,
So day after day went by
And we grew weary of waiting,
And wished that the load would fly.

You may think I was happy
When I make my story plain,
I was ordered out one morning
To go with the Armoured Train.

We left the station in silence,
And then we stole ahead,
Hoping and wishing for the thud,
Of the Dutchman's lead.

But never a Dutchman faced us,
The country around was still,
So we steamed for home, ever hoping,
And looked at every hill.

There was seen in the distance,
It was reckoned the trip would end,
Without a soldier to bury
A leg or an arm to mend.

When crash went the rails, and the engine,
Ploughed up the rough, hard ground,
The crash of fallen waggons
Was heard by an awful sound.

Shot at as our armour thundered,
The roar of bursting shell
Filled our ears as we struggled
In heaps as the waggons fell.

Heavens! How the armour rattled!
'Twas like a fierce, mighty hail,
The bullets hissed as we hastened
To where men were manning the rail.

"Steady, my lad," cried Haldane,
"Stick to the train—fire low!"
"Don't waste your powder," cried Churchill,
"Let us pay off the old debt now!"

Crash! 'Twas our seven-pounder,
Our gunners had begun!
We laughed as a shell burst grandly
Over a Boer half-head gun.

Crash! It was smartly answered,
And another waggon went down.
The Boers had our range and their cannon
Was longer than our own.

Three times our gun was fired,
And every shell went through
Some of our gunners were wounded—
The bullets around them flew.

The wounded for help were pleading,
Water we could not give.
The eyes of the dead were bleeding,
The bravest to give in and live.

Every man was a hero,
Ready and willing to die,
The bravest joked as they loaded,
And laughed as the lead swept by.

We were but a few,
But the Dutchmen kept the chosen place,
And slew with cannon and rifle,
The soldiers they would not face.

At last our pouches got empty,
And only a few could kneel,
The rest of us prayed for one minute
Of glorious life with the steel.

Then we muttered the words that choked us,
And raised the white on the field,
Strown with the brave who had struggled,
Where none had a wish to yield.

Then the Boers swarmed on us like tigers,
And well, sir, you know the rest,
I am proud of this bit of silver
I am wearing on my breast.

I am prouder by far of that struggle,
Although it was one in vain,
For the Glory of Dear Old England,
By the Wreck of the Armoured Train.

T. A. S. ATHLETICS.

The athletic section of St. Peter's T.A.S. is a busy organization these days. The lacrosse boys turned out last evening in good numbers, and enjoyed their first practice. The Separate School grounds are being put into shape, and will make first-class athletic grounds. About thirty members of the society have decided to play lacrosse this season, and a first-class team will be put in the field. A lacrosse team from the T. A.S. will visit Orillia with the firemen on June 18th, and play a friendly match with the team of that town. The athletic section has signed several first-class players, and a more extended reference to the personnel of the team will be made later on.

The smoker to be held by the athletic section to-morrow evening promises to be a "hummer" in every particular.

THE QUIRK INQUEST

Dr. Digby Thinks Death Resulted From an Accident.

DR. FRANK IS JUST OPPOSITE

Confidently Supports the Murder Theory—A Charge of Matricide—Arrest of Alex. McDonald on a Charge of Killing His Mother—Crime Alleged to Have Been Done in November of 1900.

Brantford, April 22.—The Crown asked for a further adjournment of the inquest on the body of James Quirk last evening, there being more evidence of the theory of murder that it is desired to place before the jury, and so no verdict was reached tonight. The result of the post-mortem examination was read by one of the doctors who assisted at the autopsy, and it showed that there were five distinct wounds on the head. Four of these were scalp wounds and did not penetrate the skull. The fifth wound was directly on the top of the head and did enter the skull, although it did not penetrate the brain.

The most interesting feature of the evening was the difference in the opinions of the two doctors. Dr. Digby stated emphatically that he believed that all the wounds might have been caused by a fall from the ladder. Dr. Frank's opinion was exactly opposed to this. He most emphatically stated that in his opinion the injuries could not possibly have been caused by a fall.

One of the boarders, George Taylor, who was up at the time and who was very early on the scene, gave some unimportant evidence as to going to the barn with Toole, the partner of the deceased, and getting the money which Toole took from the pockets of the dead man in his presence. Dave Thomas and Albert Doyle, who were with Quirk earlier in the evening, were also called, but their evidence was not interesting.

A CHARGE OF MATRICIDE.

Alex. McDonald Arrested at Ottawa on a Very Serious Charge.

Ottawa, April 22.—Alex. McDonald, second-hand dealer, at 9 William street, was arrested yesterday on a charge of manslaughter, it being alleged that he choked his mother, Louisa McDonald, to death on Nov. 26, 1900. It was given out at the time that Mrs. McDonald had died suddenly from heart trouble, but it is alleged now that her son, in a wild outburst of rage, strangled her.

It is stated that McDonald attended a wedding on Nov. 26, and on his return commenced to abuse his mother. One word led to another, it is claimed, until Mrs. McDonald said: "Alexander, my son, you had better be careful. I saved you from the rope once and you ought not to talk this way of your mother." At that McDonald's rage is said to have become ungovernable and the police were informed that he ran across to his mother, grabbed her by the throat and throttled her. She fought hard for her life, but when her son desisted, under pressure, Mrs. McDonald dropped back and died in a few minutes. The doctor and the coroner, who were called in, accepted the statements of those in the house and certified to death from heart failure. The real story reached the police as the result of family dissensions.

This is the second time that McDonald has been arrested on the charge of manslaughter. In 1886 he was arrested, but acquitted of a charge of killing a man named Chartier.

Your Decision This Day is All-Important.

Paine's Celery Compound

Guarantees a Freedom From Disease and Sickness.

INDIFFERENCE AND CARELESSNESS LEAD TO PHYSICAL SHIPWRECK AND THE GRAVE.

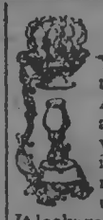
The weak, ailing, sick and diseased have now more than ever before under their control their physical condition. They are free agents, and almost wholly responsible for their future. When the brain is not affected, and the mind can discern between right and wrong, a duty to themselves, their friends and country loudly demands a marked decision—prompt and determined action when health is impaired and life is in danger.

It is the part of wisdom that true decision be made to-day; to-morrow may be too late. In thousands of cases the checking and banishment of disease depends upon instant action; an hour lost frequently means the snuffing out of some precious life.

Few people in our country are without some knowledge of the wondrous life-giving virtues of Paine's Celery Compound, a medicine that guarantees release from the diseases common to life.

What will your decision be to-day, poor sufferer? Will you give Paine's Celery Compound the fair and honest testing that others are giving it, with its certain reward of health, strength, vigour and happiness, or will you remain indifferent and careless, content to pass your days or weeks in misery, agony and wretchedness until the dark grave claims you as its victim?

It is almost needless to enumerate the blessed results that flow from Paine's Celery Compound when used promptly in Springtime, as you and your friends have a knowledge of them. Of this you may be assured; the seeds of disease are banished, the system is fortified, the blood is made red and pure, the nerves braced, digestion regulated, headaches, sideaches and backaches forever dispelled, and sweet, restful sleep takes the place of insomnia.



Asthma.

You've tried almost everything for it, haven't you? And we presume you are about discouraged. Now what do you think of our idea of breathing in the medicine, bringing it right up to the diseased part? It looks reasonable, doesn't it? And it's successful, too.

When you inhale Vapo-Cresolene your breathing becomes easy, the wheezing ceases, and you drop to sleep. For croup and whooping-cough it's a quick cure. 16

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. The Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a lifetime, and a bottle of Cresolene complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. VAPO-CRESOLENE CO., 180 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

STOCK MARKETS.

European Buying to Appear.

New York, April 19th, 1902.—It is only a question of a very short time when London interests will be large purchasers of American stocks. The over subscription by ten times in London to their new war issue of bonds illustrates the vast amounts of capital over there which is lying idle. News of settlement of the trouble with the Boers will cause a golden stream to flow into the American market, seeking investment. The market for the past two weeks has attracted more home accounts than at any time during the past six months. Brokers' offices are again filling up with customers eager to enter the market. We look for quite a period of active and buoyant speculation. The public are the greatest buying power extant. They are commencing to come in. Each day brings new faces. The small amount of public holdings of stocks give them increased buying power at the present time, and it will take some time to fill it itself to exhaustion. The cliques and pools are more active than for a long time past, scenting their opportunity to send their respective favourites upwards. We continue to urge you to come in while the boom is in progress. Purchases made at its incipiency will prove more profitable than those made later. In New York the money situation is all right now. Facilities for moving the coming crops are being pushed by all the great railway lines. They will be prepared this year to handle the immense tonnage offering. Strong London cables each morning proclaim the waking interest over there in Americans.

Viewing the situation from each and every stand point, it would seem as if the bull forces had an unusual opportunity before them,—one which they will not fail to take effective advantage of. Our advice is to go with them. Buy now, thereby participating in the profits they are creating daily.—Haight & Freese Co.

New York, April 21st, 1902.—In bull markets, such as we are now enjoying, the very best class of stocks usually forge to the front as market leaders, and are, in such cases, the very best property to purchase. We advise buying and holding to St. Paul. It is one of the best stocks upon the list, and seems to stand isolated in its particular territory from any affiliation with other roads. It was the first choice of Hill and Morgan, when they were looking for a granger ally for their Northern Pacific deal. This company in five has expended 36 million dollars upon its road, charging same to operating expenses. It is earning about 7 per cent. on common and pfd. stock. No road in the country has reached a higher state of physical perfection. St. Paul earning have increased immensely in the past year. Its mileage has been greatly extended.

This road has also undergone wide industrial improvements. Its tonnage has increased wonderfully. Net earnings have increased sufficiently in 20 years to create a surplus equal to 10 per cent. on all its outstanding stock. We are specially bullish upon these shares. In a bull market or at any other time, the standard shares are the best properties to own. There can be no doubt that the road will ultimately equal, if not excel, the offer made by Morgan and Hill last tyear, that as 8 per cent. guarantee. Good crops will prove of material benefit to this company also, as it is a great wheat road. Prospects for wheat are most excellent, and we see no reason why these shares should not sell at 200 in a comparative short time.—Haight & Freese Co.

Burdock Blood Bitters

Turns Bad Blood into Rich Red Blood.

This spring you will need something to take away that tired, listless feeling brought on by the system being clogged with impurities which have accumulated during the winter.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy you require.

It has no equal as a spring medicine. It has been used by thousands for a quarter of a century with unequalled success.

HERE IS PROOF.

Mrs. J. T. Skine of Shigawake, Que., writes: "I have used Burdock Blood Bitters as a spring medicine for the past four years and don't think there is its equal. When I feel drowsy, tired and have no desire to eat I get a bottle of B.B.B. It purifies the blood and builds up the constitution better than any other remedy."

WHY WE EAT SOME FOODS.

It Is Not Alone That We Like Them, but Nature Demands Them.

Why do you take milk in your tea? Most persons would answer because they liked it that way, but the scientists have found a deeper reason, placing the custom on purely scientific grounds. These learned ones discourse as follows: We use sugar in our tea to prevent injury to the coatings of our stomachs. Whenever tannic acid and albumen meet, they fall desperately in love with each other, get married without bans and live together ever afterward as tannate of albumen, or leather. Now, there is tannic acid in tea and a lot of albumen in the coating of the stomach. The tannic acid weds as much of this as is allowed by the laws of chemistry and so far injures the stomach.

But milk also contains albumen. When milk is added to tea, therefore, the molecules of tannic acid select their albumen partners from it, and as a divorce is unknown to tannate of albumen the albumen of the stomach remains single, and so the lining of the stomach is uninjured.

Now, you may imagine that when you mix a salad dressing you put vinegar in it because it tastes better made that way, but you are wrong again. It is for a chemical reason, which is as follows:

Raw vegetables are easily enough digested by cows and horses, but with difficulty by the human stomach, because they contain that hard, fibrous substance cellulose. But acids dissolve cellulose, and vinegar is an acid. That is why we like it with salad and cabbage, and doubtless that is why it tastes so well, for the palate is an excellent judge of what is good for the stomach. Oil is added for the very good reason that it protects the lining of the stomach from the action of the acid in the vinegar.

Why do we take butter on bread? Partly because wheaten flour does not contain enough fat and partly because butter contains a trifling quantity of substances called "extractives," which in some unknown way stimulate the appetite and aid digestion.

Why do we take pepper, mustard and spices? Because they tickle the glands of the stomach and make them work. Consequently they produce an abundant supply of digestive juices. They also stir up the liver, and a stirring up of this organ is an important thing for people who live sedentary lives.

Why do we put salt on our meat? Why, there are two principal salts in our body, and their supply has to be kept up. They are sodium salts and potassium salts. There is sufficient of the latter in the food we eat, but not of the former. We therefore have to add the sodium salts in the form of common salt, which is sodium chloride. Another reason why we eat common salt is that a certain amount of hydrochloric acid is needed by the stomach for the purposes of digestion and also to kill off some of the microbes we swallow. This acid is manufactured in the stomach from hydrogen and the chlorine of common salt. We take more salt with some meats than with others because some naturally contain less salt than others. So by our condiments we seek to even up things.

Men and Women In Sleeping Cars.

"It would surprise you to know that a heavy per cent of the persons who travel on sleeping cars make no effort to disrobe before they retire," said a conductor who runs between New Orleans and Chicago. "They simply roll in with boots, spurs and all. They do not seem to know that a berth on a sleeping car is just the same as a bed in a private home except in size. Some of them will pull off their coats and collars. Some of them will slip their shoes from their feet. There are many, of course, who are used to traveling and who go in for a good night's sleep.

"With women it is different. You can never catch a woman so indifferent to comfort and cleanliness in this respect. She will pull her shoes off every time."

Her View of It.

"With the aid of this little book," said the canvasser as he produced a "Mother's Guide" for the inspection of his victim, "you will be able to bring up your children properly."

She took the book and weighed it thoughtfully in her hand. Then she caught it by the edge and brought it down on the palm of her hand as if to see if it could be handled with ease and dexterity.

"Oh, I don't know," she said at last. "I can't see that it's any better for that purpose than a slipper."

Dismissing a Dead Man's Carriage.

At the conclusion of a funeral service it is a custom among the old noble families of Rome for the chamberlain of the household to come to the church door and announce to the footman, who stands in waiting, that his master or mistress or whoever the dead may be, has no further use for the family carriage, whereupon the footman informs the coachman, who breaks his whip over his knees and drives mournfully away.

Strong Again.

The woman who knows the full value of health is the woman who has lost it and regained it; the woman who from being weak and sickly is once again made a strong woman. Half a million weak and sickly women have been made strong and well by the aid of Dr. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription." It cures the ills which weaken women. It regulates the periods, dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It nourishes the nerves and so cures nervousness. It promotes a healthy appetite and induces refreshing sleep.

"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs L. J. Dennis, of 858 East College Street, Jacksonville, Ills. "Words cannot express what I suffered. I sought relief among the medical profession and found none. Friends urged me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I commenced taking this medicine I weighed ninety-five pounds. Now I weigh one hundred and fifty-six pounds—more than I ever weighed before. I was so bad I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable drain, bearing-down pain, and such distress every month, but now I never have a pain—do all my own work and am a strong and healthy woman."

Use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets with "Favorite Prescription" if the bowels are inactive or irregular.

A STUBBORN COLD OR BRONCHITIS.

yields more readily to Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil than to anything that you can take; and if persistently used a few days, will break up the cold.

When you awake in the night choked up and coughing hard, take a dose of the Emulsion, and you will get immediate relief, where no cough medicine will give you relief. It has a soothing and healing effect upon the throat and bronchial tubes.

BUCKINGHAM WAS TAKEN.

They Had Him Sure Before Curtain and Actor Went Down.

During the first year of my travels as an actor I joined a troupe that was presenting Shakespearean tragedy. We were playing in one of the provincial cities of England when a new actor, an inexperienced amateur, joined the company and was assigned the role of Catesby in which to make his debut in the play of "Richard the Third." During the progress of the piece one of his new lines is after a quick entrance addressed to King Richard, and he says:

"My lord, the Duke of Buckingham is taken!"

I can remember that on the night of his first appearance he was frightfully nervous and was anxious to proclaim the fact that the Duke of Buckingham was taken, as he had been practicing and studying it for several weeks. The result was that he got the wrong cue and made his entrance before time, crying out:

"My lord, the Duke of Buckingham is taken!"

Richard turned to him and in an undertone said: "Get off! Get off! You're too soon."

The actor left the stage mortified and more "rattled" than ever, so that scarcely was he in the wings before he again made the same mistake and again proclaimed that the Duke of Buckingham was taken. Richard turned upon him for the second time and told him to leave the stage. He also whispered, "Somebody take care of that idiot and tell him when to make his entrance."

The prompter grabbed the actor by the hand and when the proper time came said: "Now is your time. Tell Richard he's taken."

The actor rushed upon the stage, hesitated, looked at Richard and then in a wild tone of voice exclaimed:

"We have him, by heaven, and we have him sure!"

Drugstore Humor.

A Philadelphia druggist has made the following collection of amusing missives that have been sent to him from time to time:

"Dear doctor a dog bit my child on the leg please send some cork plaster and cutter eyes."

A Victim of Draconian Law.

Father (who has caught Patrick stealing)—I thought you knew better than to commit a theft. You know how the law punishes people for small offenses?

Patrick — How about you, father, when you stole mother's heart? You never got punished for that.

Father—I got a very severe punishment, my son. I got penal servitude for life, and I am doing it now.—Tit-Bits.

FLOWER AND TREE.

Heavy pruning of growing trees will check growth.

Flowering plants should never be watered with cold water. It chills the plants.

The Madeira vine is one of the best climbers, having a wreath of leaves equaled by few other plants.

Repotting of plants becomes necessary at intervals for two reasons. The plant uses up the available fertility in the soil and fills the pots with roots.

The ink plant of New Granada is a curiosity. The juice of it can be used as ink without any preparation. At first the writing is red, but after a few hours it changes to black.

In watering the primrose observe this: Water should not be poured upon the crown of the plant nor the pot filled so full that the water flows over into it. This is fatal to the health of the plant.

To destroy aphides or plant lice dip the ends of the twigs into a strong tea made by steeping tobacco stems in hot water or syringe with whale oil soapsuds, repeating the operation in six or seven days.

Irritating Pimples and Disfiguring Blotches.

They place many young girls at a great disadvantage in life. The only cure is a blood purifier like Ferrozone. It cleanses the crimson flood of poisons and impurities, renews and strengthens it, and makes lots of red corpuscles that manifest their presence by a ruddy, healthy glow in the cheeks and lips. Ferrozone quickly masters all skin erruptions, builds up broken-down constitutions, and gives to weak, sickly women an abundance of spirits, vitality, energy and beauty. Try Ferrozone, it's all right. Price 50c. per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

A Rainy Day In Japan.

In the houses, the streets and the gardens, the places of public resort, everywhere in Japan, is to be found the all pervading element of art and beauty. A rainy day in Japan is not as in London a day of gloom and horror, but a day of absolute fascination. What a joy is the spectacle of all those lovely yellow paper umbrellas unfurling themselves beneath a shower like flowers before the sun! The Japanese have given the nation not only the house beautiful, but the street beautiful.—"Japan; a Record In Color," by Mortimer Menpes.

The Sufferings of Job.

If the agonies of Job were any worse than the tortures of itching piles from which so many people are now suffering he had much to endure. The difference is that there is no reason for any one to endure the miseries of piles for a single day. Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured tens of thousands of cases and is absolutely guaranteed to cure each and every case of piles. 60 cents at all dealers or by mail from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Wrong Way.

Fathers and mothers who do not know how and where their sons and especially their young daughters spend their evenings are guilty of a negligence that is little short of criminal and that, too, often leads to sad consequences. The American habit of letting the young folks "have their own way" in choosing their associates and methods of recreation is responsible in every city for a good deal of evil that might be prevented by parental firmness judiciously exercised.

Don't Waste Money.

If you have nerve troubles or dyspepsia, take Merrill's System Tonic. It cures by purifying the blood and regulating the bowels. Then dyspepsia and nervous diseases disappear. This is the scientific and correct way of doing. Get a fifty cent bottle of Merrill's System Tonic, which will last three weeks, at Ormond and Walsh's drug store.

French-Canadians Organize.

Ottawa, April 21.—What may prove to be an important national move had its birth here yesterday in a meeting of representative French-Canadians, assembled from different parts of Ontario. It is the intention to establish a society, in which a united effort can be made to promote the political, social, religious and educational interests of the French-Canadians. An effort will be made to keep alive an interest in the French language in all settlements where the race is to be found.

LIGHT WEIGHT BUTTER.

To the Editor of the Examiner;

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your columns to make an explanation in regard to sample of Butter which was tested by the Chief of Police on the Market on the 5th of April, and found to be light weight. Now sir, I wish to say that the parties interested are strictly honest in their dealings, and are prepared to take their oath that the reason for the butter being light weight was caused by a mistake in weighing, and was not done intentionally. However, they are glad that it was discovered in time, as they would sooner bear the disgrace themselves than to have their customers deceived. Hoping that this will meet with the approval of all concerned, I thank you for the space in your columns.

Yours, etc.,

FOREIGN LABOURERS.

Contracts With Alien Labourers to Work in Ontario Made Void.

ONLY CANADIANS EMPLOYED.

Subsidized Railways Must be Built by Canadian Workmen--An Effective Check to the Importation of Labour.

The enormous immigration into the United States of a class of foreigners from South-eastern Europe, who cannot command the same wages as English-speaking working men and are accustomed to a lower standard of living, has exposed Canadian working men of some classes to a competition which, if unchecked would seriously injure their standing and prospects. It became a practice among contractors and others, employing large numbers of unskilled labourers, to enter into agreement with these foreigners to work at a lower rate of wages than that current in the Province and import large gangs of them to do contract work, with the result of disorganizing the home labour market and keeping the rate of wages below the normal level. In order to protect the Ontario labourer from competition with a class of men, who were in the habit of coming here without any expectation of becoming citizens, and whose earnings were largely spent abroad, the administration in 1886 introduced a bill into the Legislature, intended to prevent the practice of bringing foreigners in under a contract to labour. This measure provided that "any agreement or bargain, verbal or written, expressed or implied, which may hereafter be made between any person, and any other person not a resident of Canada, for the performance of labour or service, or having reference to the performance of labour or service by such other person, in the Province of Ontario, and made as aforesaid, previous to the migration or coming into Canada of such other person whose labour or service is contracted for, shall be void and of no effect as against the person so migrating or coming."

Importation of Foreign Labour Stopped.

The result of this enactment was to leave the imported foreign labourer coming into Ontario in pursuance of a previous agreement, free to break the contract after his arrival here if he saw fit to do so. A common feature of these contracts was that the contractor engaging alien labour, advanced money to the labourer to pay his passage, the same being deducted from the amount due him for his work. Under the law of 1886, however, this contract was void and the imported labourer was at liberty to disregard it, the employer being unable to recover the amount advanced. This enactment proved highly effective in discouraging the system of making contracts with foreigners to work in the Province as the employers had no security that they would repay any advances made to them. It is worthy of note that the measure, when introduced was opposed by the Conservatives, who pursued their customary tactics of sneering at and depreciating the efforts of the administration to deal with the situation. When the bill came up for a second reading on the 16th of February, 1886, Mr. Meredith, then leader of the Opposition, spoke of it in the following terms:

"It was doubtful if the House could make a contract invalid on the part of the employer, without making it invalid on the part of the working men. • • • He thought the bill on the whole would injure the working classes."

As the abuse formerly complained of, of the introduction of gangs of foreign labourers under contract to take the bread out of the Ontario working man's mouth, by working for low wages, has now enirely ceased, it can safely be left to those mainly interested to say whether the act has injured the working classes or not.

Subsidised Railways Must Employ Canadians.

Another enactment in the same direction was passed in 1898 with the object of securing to Canadians the employment furnished by the entensive construction of railways, more especially in the newer parts of the province. This is a class of work which previously had been extensively undertaken by foreigners from the United States, either imported under contract or coming to the province of their own accord to look for work. As nearly all the railways now constructed are aided by Provincial subsidies, it was naturally felt to be a special injustice and hardship, that the undertakings promoted by public assistance should be made the means of breaking down the labour market and reducing the standard of living among the masses of the people. The reasonableness of this view commended itself to the Government, and an important measure for the protection of the labourers of Ontario against unfair competition from men who had no homes or permanent interests in the country, was introduced by the Government and passed at the session of 1898, in connection with the subsidies given that year to railways. It provided that the grants of public money made to the several railways were among other stipulations, subject to the condition that no persons should be employed in the construction of the said roads, who were subjects of any country having an alien labour law, which practically excluded Canadians from employment upon public works of such country, or on other works therein. The effect of this legislation has been to exclude the foreigners domiciled in the United States, who formerly found employment in connection with railroad and other works here, and to reserve the work for residents of the province.

Protection to Native Workmen.

In 1900 the same principle was embodied in the general law, the Act passed that year in relation to all railway companies receiving subsidies from the Government, containing the following clause:

"No person shall be employed in the construction of any railway receiving a subsidy, either in money or in lands, is a citizen or subject of any country having an Alien Labour Law, which practically excludes Canadians from employment upon the public works of such country, or on other works therein. Any company employing labourers as aforesaid, shall be liable to a penalty of $20 per day for each person so employed during the whole period of such employment."

This Act also provides that all subsidies granted to railways shall be subject to the condition that the workmen employed shall be paid the current rate of wages, and that in case the condition is violated such amount as the Government may think proper may be deducted from the amount of the subsidy, or if the subsidy has been paid over may be recovered from the company at the suit of the Attorney-General.

It will be seen from these measures that the Liberal Administration of Ontario has shown itself vigilant in protecting the interests of the working people against the danger of an influx of cheap foreign labour, so far as it lay within their jurisdiction to do so. Although the evil has been greatly checked by their prompt and efficient action it is not unlikely that it may in future present itself in a new phase and in connection with other branches of industry. Should this be the case the working men of Ontario have in the record of the Liberal party and the Ontario Government, every reason for confidence that such further legislation in the same direction, as circumstances may demand from time to time, will be enacted in spite of all opposing influences.

GAVE HIM A SEND-OFF.

Mr. Harvey Hartley Remembered by his Friends.

Last evening was the closing session of the Social Bible Club, at the Y.M.C.A., which for two seasons has been so successfully conducted by Mr. John Manning, around whom the Intermediates, who are members of the club, have so faithfully rallied. At the meeting last evening, Mr. Edwin Elcome gave one of his most interesting natural history talks, his subject being "Butterflies." By the aid of a number of splendid blackboard sketches, he described the development of the insect in its different stages. A number of representative specimens were also shown. Helpful life lessons were drawn by the speaker, which those present will long remember.

What will make the session memorable was the farewell presentation to Mr. Harvey Hartley, who has been an enthusiastic worker in the Club since its inception, and who leaves with the Fourth Contingent in the defence of the Empire. The Club are proud of their representative, and have every confidence that he will do himself credit in every way. Mr. Manning, after speaking of the general worth of Mr. Hartley, on behalf of the Club, presented him with a neat morocco-bound Testament, with his name, and the club, in gold lettering. He was also decorated with a new Club pin.

Mr. Hartley made a splendid speech in responding, and was heartily applauded, and greeted with the song, "For He's a Jolly, Good Fellow."

The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer by Mr. Elcome.

ANOTHER PRESENTATION.

Mr. F. Plummer Remembered by his Friends.

The workers of the wire department of the C. G. E. Co., met last night at Mr. H. Long's to say farewell to one of their friends, Mr. F. Plummer, who has joined the Canadian contingent and is leaving tonight for Halifax. After partaking of an excellent supper provided by Mr. Long, the company spent an enjoyable time in short addresses and songs. Mr. Beyette and Mr. E. Pilling sang several songs in their usual good style. Mr. Drew, foreman of the wire department, acted as chairman during the evening. The following address was read by A. Fife, and W. Pilling presented Mr. Plummer with a handsome gold watch suitably inscribed:

Mr. F. Plummer;

Dear sir,—As you have joined the C. M. R., and intend leaving for South Africa to-morrow, we, your fellow-workers, have gathered here to-night to spend a social hour, as it will be the last opportunity we will have for some time. We hope you will have a safe journey, and return home again safe and sound, having upheld the record of the brave Canadians who have gone there before. As a slight token of our regard for you, we ask you to accept this watch, trusting that every time you look at it you will remember the many pleasant times we have spent together.

Signed by all the workers.

Mr. Plummer though taken by surprise, made a very suitable reply.

A NEW OPERA HOUSE.

Arrangements for Utilising all of the Bradburn Block Above the Ground Floor.

The citizens will be pleased to learn that the town is at last to have an opera house which will fully meet all requirements. For many years it has been felt that the hall which is utilized at present, has outlived its usefulness, and it is difficult for the very best attractions to draw a large audience, when the accomodation is of such a nature.

The order of things, is, however, apparently to be changed and when next season opens Peterborough will boast of an opera house possessing all modern accessories, including large stage accommodations spacious galleries, etc.

The plan is, Mr. R. H. Bradburn states, to lower the floor of the present opera house one story and widen it out to the full width of the building. This will add greatly to the height and seating capacity of the hall, allowing, as stated, the erection of a large gallery. Modern seats, placed in amphitheatre form, and other contemplated improvements should combine to give Peterborough one of the prettiest little opera houses in the province.

Mr. Bradburn is to be congratulated in deciding to make the move.

AN ENNISMORE WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Annie Garvey to Mr. John Shanahan.

A very pretty wedding took place in Ennismore on Tuesday morning, when Miss Annie Garvey, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Garvey, and Mr. John Shanahan, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shanahan, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony.

The bride was gowned in a beautiful suit of white chiffon, and was assisted by Miss Maud McAuliffe, who also looked charming in a dress of fawn.

The groom was assisted by Mr. W. J. Cavanagh, of Ennismore.

After the ceremony the party proceeded to the home of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous breakfast was in waiting, after which they drove to Peterborough, where they spent the afternoon, when they returned to their future home, where a very pleasant evening was spent. Dancing and games were indulged in until the wee sma' hours.

The happy couple will reside in Ennismore in future, and a large circle of friends will wish them a very successful and happy life.

LAST NIGHT'S CONCERT.

Miss Jessie Maclachlan More Than Delighted a Large Audience in the Opera House.

That Peterborough people appreciate and will patronize a high-class entertainment was abundantly proven at the opera house, last evening, when an immense audience assembled for the purpose of hearing Miss Jessie Maclachlan, the famous Highland singer, who made her initial appearance here. That her fame had preceded her was shown by the remarkable advance sale of tickets and by the ovation which was tendered her on her appearance. Miss Maclachlan ranks as the finest present day exponent of Scottish songs and she made a wonderful impression on the audience last evening. Messrs. E. S. Clarry and R. M. Glover, who were instrumental in arranging for Miss Maclachlan's appearance here just prior to her leaving for Europe, are being warmly congratulated to-day on the success of the venture. It is understood that next season other artists of universal reputation while touring in America, will be brought to Peterborough by them.

Miss Maclachlan was very gracious to the audience last evening, kindly responding to every encore, which just doubled the length of the programme. Her clear vocalization and extensive register combined with extraordinay sweetness of tone, particularly in the softer passages, told of the highly trained vocalist. Nothing could have been finer, as an appeal to Scottish sentiment, than the out-pourings of her heart and voice for the fate of "Angus Macdonald." It was not her singing alone that attracted the audience to the fair singer. Miss Maclachlan has a wonderful facial control, and in many respects is an actress as well as a singer. One instance may be given. In "A Hundred Pipers," the amount of pith, meaning and expression thrown with voice and face at the words "dumbfooner'd" took the audience off their feet, and the staid man of business felt himself for the nonce an enthusiastic Jacobite. All of Miss Maclachlan's numbers appealed so strongly to her audience that it is difficult to indicate which were the most popular, but probably the two above mentioned, together with a most spirited rendering of "Rule Brittania" might be selected for especial mention, as well as "Loch Lomond." Her explanation of the circumstances under which the last number was written was inexpressibly touching.

Mr. Donald C. MacGreggor established himself firmly as a favourite amongst local music lovers on the occasion of his appearance here some months ago at St. Andrew's church. His return engagement proved as popular as his first one and each of his numbers were encored, last night. Amongst the old favourites which were enthusiastically received were, "The Standard on the Braes o'Mar," "Scots Wha Hae," "The Highlandman's Toast," "Rolling Home to Bonnie Scotland" and "The Battle of Stirling." Mr. MacGregor has an exceptionally powerful baritone voice of great purity of tone, and his selections were most cordially received.

Mr. Robert Buchanan, Jr., contributed several piano solos to the programme showing himself to be an artist of high rank.

It is likely that the boys will receive the usual send-off, as was the feature of the going away of the other detachments. While all admire the enthusiasm displayed by the townspeople in sending away their soldier boys, still the Chief wishes to warn a certain element in the community against any rowdyism. It has been the habit of a certain class of people to spend the time between the arrival of the crowd at the station, and the departure of the train, in crowding and carrying on in a very unbecoming manner. Station Agent Bamford, too, is up in arms against such conduct. The station platform is private property and any attempt to raise a disturbance will be severly dealt with. It is to be regretted indeed, that a reflection should be cast on the several thousand loyal and enthusiastic townspeople, by the conduct of a few misbehaved young men. It is the desire of the Chief, and of Station Agent Bamford, that the young men of the town should have all the fun they desire, but there are times when the safety of the public is in danger through such crowding as has been characteristic of the last two send-offs to the departing volunteers.

Pte. Plummer, who was an employee of the wire department of the Canadian General Electric Co., was last night presented with a gold watch by his fellow employees of the wire department. Mr. Plummer was banquetted at Mr. Harry Long's.

LAST NIGHT'S DRILL.

There was a Fairly Good Turn-out of Officers and Men—The Orders.

There was a fairly good attendance at the weekly drill of the 57th Regiment last night, and some very good preliminary work was executed. No. 3 Company, which last year was rather weak, surprised the remaining companies by being up to full strength of an excellent class of men. Nos. 1 and 6 also showed up very well. No. 4 has had some very heavy drains on it of late by the removal from town of a number of young men, viz., Pte. Revell, Tom Burnham, H. M. Morden, Milne Hamilton and George Dawson.

The following orders were read:

Headquarters, Peterborough.

We handle the reliable Peau de Sole in the same manner as we do our other dependable qualities in Silks. FLORENTINES—This make having a similar durability to that pertaining to the Peau de Sole, with an eminently bright finish, but in a less expensive silk—one that has been "wear tested," and finds no equal at the price. In this quality we carry all the leading shades in light and dark colours and black, in plain, assorted stripes and checks. A special quality at a special price, per yard..... 50c

MILWAUKEE PEOPLE

Could Hardly Believe It. A Prominent Woman Saved From Death by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suppose a large number of people who read of my remarkable cure will hardly believe it; had I not experienced it myself, I know that I should not.

MRS. SADIE E. KOCH.

"I suffered for months with troubles peculiar to women which gradually broke down my health and my very life. I was nearly insane with pain at times, and no human skill I consulted in Milwaukee could bring me relief.

"My attention was called to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; the first bottle brought relief, and the second bottle an absolute cure. I could not believe it myself, and felt sure it was only temporary, but blessed fact, I have now been well for a year, enjoy the best of health, and cannot in words express my gratitude. Sincerely yours, SADIE E. KOCH, 124 10th St., Milwaukee, Wis."—$5000 forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine.

Such unquestionable testimony proves the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over diseases of women.

CORPORATIONS AND WORKINGMEN.

At a recent Opposition meeting one of the speakers made an onslaught upon the Government in attempted controversion of the irrefutable claim that the Liberal Government had done a great deal for the working men. He said:

"We are not told of the legislation that was put through in the interests of some of the companies and corporations in some of which the Ministers themselves were Directors or Presidents."

For rank rot and rank demagogueism, this cannot be beaten. Nothing is told in this respect, for there is nothing to tell. The Government has not put through any legislation in favour of corporations in which the public interests were sacrificed.

The speaker was careful not to specify — that's the way of these Opposition spouters, from the leader down. Nothing but generalities, vague as a dream — no bill of particulars filed.

Why this demagogic attempt to incite class hostilities — to set working men against corporations?

Do these ward politicians take working men for fools? Working men know as well as a lawyer, and better than some of them, that corporations are a legitimate and necessary feature of our industrial economy.

Corporations are simply legalized aggregations of men, in order to mass capital sufficient to carry on large enterprises and give large employment to labour.

Nine-tenths of the mechanics and working men of Peterborough owe their employment to the corporations sneered at by these ward politicians.

Our largest employing concerns are conducted by corporations — incorporated companies — the Auburn Woollen Mills Company, the William Hamilton Company, the Canadian General Electric Company, the Lock-Works Company, the Canadian Cereal Company, the Peter Hamilton Company, the Stanley Piano Company, the George Matthews Company, the Dickson Company, the Ackerman Harness Company, the Peterborough Light and Power Company, the Auburn Power Company, the Otonabee Power Company, the Central Milling Company, the Canadian Canoe Company, the English Canoe Company, the Peterborough Canoe Company, Canadian Cordage Company, the Stevenson Coal Company, R. Hicks and Company, the McClellan Coal Company, McAllister Milling Company, the Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company.

Why do the ward politicians show such hostility to companies? The working men employed by these companies would not exist as they exist now, if it were not for these corporations, for perhaps very few members have individually sufficient capital to carry on the work done by them, and pay the hundreds of thousands of dollars annually paid in wages. If it were not for these corporations, Peterborough would not be Peterborough.

The working men do not object to these corporations. They will not say that the Government has put through any legislation in the special interests of these corporations. But working men know that the Liberal Government has placed scores of enactments on the statute books of the province protecting the working men and preventing these or any other corporations or employers from taking, even if they wished, any undue advantage of the working man.

We challenge any of these political lawyers to mention a country which has a better code of laws in the interests of the working classes than those enacted by the Liberal Government of Ontario. Come, now.

At the same time they might favour us with the particulars of the legislation so wickedly favourable to corporations. Is it the legislation attacking corporations, and making them pay into the provincial treasury about a quarter of a million dollars a year for the privileges they enjoy? Of course Mr. Whitney shares the ward politicians' hatred of corporations, for he threatens to oppose these wicked corporations by removing the tax.

Fiddlesticks!

CALLED LUNATICS IN TORONTO.

The Ontario Conservative party with its multiplicity of leaders each with his own little way of "getting in a dig" against the Government, creates absurd complications. Mayor Howland, the Conservative Mayor of Toronto, has shown himself so anxious to strike the Government that he minimises the truth in order to do so. A few days ago he attacked the Provincial Secretary and the Government for permitting Toronto jail to be encumbered with alleged "lunatics." Mr. Stratton in an open letter to the Mayor showed that according to the report of the expert medical officers of the Government, there were not confined in the jail for any lengthened term any persons who were fit subjects for a lunatic asylum, and that the persons in respect of which the Mayor complained were of the aged, infirm and indigent class whose proper place was a house of refuge, such as Toronto had failed to provide.

The report of the Toronto Police Court in Saturday's Evening Star shows how Toronto jail is so full of alleged "lunatics," as witness the following:

"This is a poor old man, without a home, or any apparent means of sustenance," said the Deputy, when John Matthews stood up in the dock to a charge of vagrancy.

"How long do you want?" asked his Worship of Matthews.

"Sixty days, sir."

And the feeble old fellow turned, and walked slowly down the stairs.

"Margaret Hickey is an old grey-haired woman, without a home, and it was a charitable thing for the Magistrate to send her to jail for 30 days."

It is persons of this character who should, in a Christian city, be housed in a House of Refuge, whom Mayor Howland is demanding shall be added to the congested population of our asylums, where they would displace insane subjects who need the shelter and treatment these public institutions provide.

Mr. Howland in his anxiety to hurt the Provincial Secretary and the Government, presents an ex-parte case and at the same time exposes the inconsistency and short-sightedness of the Opposition and the Opposition leader, who voted against a resolution respecting a new asylum at Brockville, though the fact of its necessity is shown by its containing 630 inmates and, besides, another asylum has had to be fitted up at Coburg in which 150 inmates are cared for.

If there is any possibility of agreement among the Opposition leaders they should have a little consultation before attacking the Government in an invulnerable spot, provoking a rebound, which proves a boomerang to themselves and their party.

LAKEFIELD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The steamers Empress and Alert have both made their trial trip this season and are both in good trim for the season's work.

Messrs. White & Grylls have disposed of their steamer Sunbeam to Mr. Parkins, of Lindsay. The purchaser is now busy making repairs on her before taking her out of the dry dock.

Miss Rutherford, milliner for the popular firm of Messrs. Graham & Son, spent Monday in Toronto attending the summer millinery openings.

Mr. T. W. Robinson, of Peterborough, the energetic proprietor of Juniper Island store, Stony Lake, was in the village last week on his way to Young's Point on business. Mr. Robinson intends building an extension to his store at Juniper Island to meet the ever growing demands of the islands and tourists, who frequent the popular Kawarthu Lakes.

Mr. W. M. Graham made his first trip to "Viamede" Monday, where he intends spending a week making preparations for later visits.

Mr. D. Irwin, of Harvey, and Miss K. Crutch, of the same place, were united in marriage by Rev. George Warren on April 8th, in the Church of England, Lakefield.

Mr. C. B. McAllister and Mr. Robt. Neill passed through the village Monday on their way to Stony Lake to inspect their cottages.

Quite a number of the lovers of Scotch music availed themselves of the chance to hear Jessie Maclachlan Tuesday evening by driving down to Peterborough and were well repaid for their trouble.

WARSAW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. J. S. Knapman of Peterborough, was in the village on Friday.

It is understood that Mr. John Hughes has sold his bakery business and will move to Peterborough in a short time.

Considerable interest has been manifested here over the fact of Mr. Hughes' son, Frank, a former Warsaw boy, having enlisted for South Africa. He left Peterborough on Friday last, leaving behind many friends, who wish him a safe trip unattended by serious results.

The beautiful weather with which Old Probs has been favouring us with of late, has had a decided influence towards inducing a desire for outdoor recreations, especially among the young people. This is evidenced by the number of lawn parties, to the delights of which the brilliancy of the moonlight during the past week, contributed in no small degree.

The local football enthusuasts are also commencing to get busy. The team will this year be strengthened by the addition of several outside players, who it is expected will be residing here this summer. It is to be hoped that the citizens generally will take a good live interest in the game, and encourage the boys in their endeavour to place a team of winners in the field.

The Millinery Department at R. F. Choate's Departmental Store, is this season attracting unusual attention from the fair sex, not only of the surrounding country, but also from a distance. This department, which is this year in charge of Miss Parnell of Peterborough, displays the same progressiveness and up-to-dateness which has always been characteristic of Mr. Choate's business.

HALL'S GLEN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Zion Sabbath School which was re-organized on Tuesday evening last, expects to open on the 4th of May.

Mr. A. Hunter and Miss Lightfoot, of Lakefield, spent Sunday here with Mr. A. Darling.

Mr. Baker, the public school teacher of this place, was called away last week to see his parents who are dangerously ill, we hope he will returns with the news of their speedy recovery.

The many farmers of this vicinity are busily engaged putting in their spring crop. Mr. W. J. Little, one of the most successful will soon be through sowing; he certainly is a hustler.

The regular meeting of the I.O.G.T. was held in the Orange Hall on Saturday evening, where a very profitable time was spent. Three members of Harmony Lodge, Peterborough, were present, viz., Bros. Pratley, Sisson and Crowe, the latter two were originally members of this, Zion Lodge. After the transactions of business, an hour was devoted to the "Good of the Order," to which a number responded readily, by a reading or speeches. The three visiting brothers had the first opportunity of speaking and addressed the meeting in such an eloquent manner as to enlist the interest, attention and sympathy of all present. The addresses were principally on Good Templarism and temperance in general, all of which was very profitable and entertaining. At the close of the meeting, refreshments such as maple taffy, biscuits and a suitable prepared temperance drink was heartily participated in, and of which all partook sumptuously to their heart's content and satisfaction.

Mr. D. Madill, who is constructing a shingle mill, expects to have it in operation in a week or two.

A Complicated Machine

is an object of admiration, but a complicated medicine is a thing hitherto unknown. Druggist Merrill, of Brantford, has combined iron and herbs and made a wonderful blood-builder and purifier, as well as a tonic for the nerves. Affects a radical cure in stomach, nerve, liver and kidney diseases. Price 50 cents per bottle of 50 doses. Sold at Ormond and Walsh's pharmacy.

He Died For Another.

Quebec, April 21.—Willie Rickens was drowned at Montmorency on Saturday, after gallantly rescuing a companion named Picard from a watery grave. He leaped into the water after his companion, who had accidentally fallen in, and succeeded in getting him safely on shore. Just as he had done so, however, he sank, and was drowned. It is supposed he took a cramp. His body was recovered shortly afterwards.

I Will Cure You of

Rheumatism

No pay until you know it.

After 2,000 experiments, I have learned how to cure Rheumatism. Not to turn bony joints into flesh again; that is impossible. But I can cure the disease always, at any stage, and forever.

I ask for no money. Simply write me a postal and I will send you an order on your nearest druggist for six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, for every druggist keeps it. Use it for a month, and if it does what I claim, pay your druggist $5.50 for it. If it doesn't, I will pay him myself.

I have no samples. Any medicine that can effect Rheumatism with but a few doses must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs. It is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that, even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. No matter how impossible this seems to you, I know it and I take the risk. I have cured tens of thousands of cases in this way, and my records show that 39 out of every 40 who get those six bottles pay, and pay gladly. I have learned that people in general are honest with a physician who cures them. That is all I ask. If I fail I don't expect a penny from you.

Simply write me a postal card or letter. Let me send you an order for the medicine. Take it for a month, for it won't harm you anyway. If it cures, pay $5.50. I leave that entirely to you. I will mail you a book that tells how I do it.

Simply state name of your dealer, and address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

SIX LIVES LOST.

A Holocaust Caused by Lightning at Hull on Tuesday.

Ottawa, April 23.—Six lives were lost in a holocaust which occurred at Hull yesterday morning. The victims are Thomas Hill, aged 35; Mrs. Hill, aged 32; Pearl Hill, aged 10; Robbie Hill, aged 7; Maggie Hill, aged 3; John Watson, aged 50, liveryman. The Hills, with their three children, and Watson, who lived with them, occupied a frame dwelling at the corner of Bridge and Wellington streets. About 4 o'clock yesterday morning the house was set on fire by lightning. Before the inmates could escape or help reach them they were overcome by the smoke and perished in the flames. When the fire burned itself out the blackened remains of the six victims were discovered in the ruins of the dwelling.

From later inquiries it appears that in addition to the Hill family Harry Boyce, proprietor of a pool room, his wife and the billiard marker, a youth named Renaud, slept in the house. The pool room was on the ground floor and the two families slept on the floor above. Boyce and his wife and Renaud just had time to jump from a window.

HORRIBLE PAINS.

French Gentleman's Sufferings are Beyond Description.

Many Doctors Treated him, but Without Success—Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured him and now Life is a Pleasure to him—He Tells the Story.

St. Urbain, Que., April 21. (Special). — Fearful indeed has been the experience of Narcisse Barrette, of this place. For fifteen long and wearisome years he has suffered with an acute malady of the Kidneys and Back, which has caused him the most agonizing pains.

He consulted physician after physician and followed their treatment patiently and carefully. Some of them afforded him a little temporary relief—which was in itself a great blessing — but the pain always came back to torture him even worse than before.

Rheumatism added its terrors to his already great burden of misery and his life was a succession of burdens of the most violent pains it has ever been the lot of any mortal man to endure.

The story is told by Mons. Barrette himself, and is in part as follows:

"For over fifteen years I suffered with a severe malady of the back and kidneys, which caused me horrible pains in the back.

"I tried many doctors, but the relief I got was only temporary and the malady always returned. My suffering was so great at times that it was almost beyond endurance.

"I had Rheumatism, as well as the pains in my back, and between them I was sorely tried. I would rather die than suffer again the way I did, but now life is very pleasant for me and I am anxious to live.

"You ask me how I was cured?

"Well, after trying in vain doctors' treatment and almost everything else I began to use what has been to me the greatest medicine in all the world, Dodd's Kidney Pills, and very soon the pains all left me. They acted almost like magic. I am now in perfect health and work every day.

Wilshire Will Run.

Toronto, April 23.—H. Gaylord Wilshire, the reputed millionaire Socialist, was requested several days ago by the Socialists to contest either North York or East Elgin. He has now decided on acceding to the requisition of his friends in St. Thomas. The question of Mr. Wilshire's qualification to run, it is stated on his behalf, is settled by a letter from Rt. Hon Joseph Chamberlain, which certifies to his being a British subject.

A Marvellous Medicine.

Having a direct and combined action on both the liver and kidneys, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will positively cure many complicated ailments which cannot be reached by any other medicine, and hence its extraordinary success and popularity. Biliousness, liver complaint, Bright's disease, deranged kidneys and stomach troubles are promptly and thoroughly overcome by this great family medicine. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE

Three Earthquakes Ruin Large Cities in Guatemala.

QUESALTENANGO DESTROYED.

Amatitlan Also Rendered Unsafe For the Inhabitants Who Escaped—Sketches of the Ruined Cities—The Volcanoes of Guatemala—Details Being Now Received of Other Places Damaged.

New York, April 23.—A special cable to The Herald says: The three earthquakes of Friday night reduced to ruins Quesaltenango, the second city of importance in Guatemala and having 25,000 inhabitants, and completely destroyed the town of Amatitlan. Both of these town were capitals of the departments of the same name each bears. It is reported that five hundred persons were killed in Quesaltenango, but the rumor lacks confirmation. No direct telegraphic communication has been obtained, and the exact loss of life cannot now be ascertained. News of the destruction, which extended one hundred miles along the western part of the republic, is coming in slowly, because all of the telegraph wires are down.

It is known that Amatitlan exists no more as a town, the seismic disturbance having been so great. The inhabitants—that is, those of the ten thousand residents who escaped death in the cataclysm—are camping in the open air for safety, not daring to return to the ruined confines of the town. Some of the inhabitants are building temporary mud huts.

There have been serious seismic disturbances along the Cordilleras, affecting towns and villages between Amatitlan and Quesaltenango. No reliable information regarding loss of life or the extent of property destruction in these intermediate places has reached here.

Quesaltenango was, next to Guatemala City, the prettiest town of Guatemala, while Amatitlan was one of the most attractive in the republic. Both towns were nestled in the main Cordillera and were about fifty miles from the Pacific seaboard. Quesaltenango was handsomely built and well paved. The town had a richly decorated cathedral and a magnificent city hall. The residents devoted most of their attention to the manufacture of cotton and woollen fabrics. Their town was 115 miles west-northwest of Guatemala City. Amatitlan's unattractiveness was due to the mud huts which housed the ten thousand inhabitants. The latter consisted principally of industrious mulattoes and zamboes. Amatitlan had pretty surroundings. The town was built by the side of a lake of the same name and one of the principal bodies of water in the republic.

There are about six active volcanoes in Guatemala, the most noted being the Volcan de Agua, or Water Volcano, which destroyed the city of Old Guatemala by a deluge of water in 1541. The second Guatemala city often called Antigua, was destroyed by the same volcano in 1774, and the town built on the ruins is now a comparatively unimportant place. The present City of Guatemala, twenty-four miles distant from Antigua, was founded in 1775. The worst earthquake in the republic within comparatively recent years took place on September 3, 1874, when Antigua, Buenos and other towns suffered severely and about two hundred persons were killed.

Guatemala City, Guatemala, April 21.—The details which are being received of the result of the earthquake shocks, which were general throughout Guatemala Friday, Saturday and Sunday show that Solola, Nahuala, Amatitlan, Santa Lucia And San Juan were badly damaged, and that Quesaltenango was partly obliterated. Fire added to the horrors there. Two hundred persons were killed, mostly women, and many people were injured. At the capital three churches were slightly damaged. The Government is relieving the sufferers.

Known at Toronto Saturday.

Toronto, April 23.—Mr. R. F. Stupart of the Observatory said yesterday concerning the report of the great damage by seismic disturbances in Guatemala and Mexico, a record of which has been found on the seismograph at the Observatory, that the greatest shock was recorded here on Friday night at 31 minutes past 9 o'clock, and lasted two hours and a half. The heaviest rumbling being at 10.20. The appearance of the ribbon indicated that the shock occurred in South America. It was certain that it was not of the Japanese or Alaskan breed of earthquake. The ribbon has not been removed since Saturday, hence there is no record of any disturbance since the big one Friday night. It was the severest earthquake recorded by the instrument since its installation.

May Lose His Eyesight.

Lindsay, April 23.—Blake Cullen, the ten-year-old son of Thomas Cullen of Bridgenorth, while playing came across a bottle of gunpowder. He poured a little of the powder out on the ground and put a match to it, but neglected to place the bottle at a safe distance, and consequently the entire amount of the gunpowder exploded in a blinding flash, singeing off the lad's eyebrows, lashes and hair, and it is feared injuring his eyesight.

Australia's Tariff Succeeds.

Ottawa, April 23.—Trade Commissioner Larke, of Australia, in a report to the Department of Trade and Commerce, says that the revenue derived from the tariff for the first six months of its existence has been unexpectedly buoyant, and this has induced the Lower House to make reductions. It will probably incline the Senate to further cut down the rates. So far the tariff has not diminished Canadian trade. The flour trade with Canada, he says, is not yet dead. There is a reduction in the tariff on oatmeal, blankets, carpets and woollen piece goods, Cotton goods and printing paper are placed on the free list.

Prosecute Alleged Perjurers.

Winnipeg, April 23.—The perpetrators of perjury and corruption in connection with the recent referendum are not to escape without at least an attempt being made to bring their crimes home to them. A special despatch from Selkirk announces the arrest of a man who is alleged to have been guilty, not only of supplying Indians with liquor, but also with inducing treaty Indians to vote against the Liquor Act. No fewer than twelve informations had been sworn out.

London, April 23.—The Admiralty has ordered the British third-class cruiser Bellona to join the second-class cruiser Thames in searching for the missing Allan Line steamer Huronian. The Bellona will cover 21,000 miles of the northwestern part of the Atlantic.

The Huronian left Glasgow, Feb 11, for St. John N. B., and has not since been reported.

The Thames was detailed April 9 to search the North Atlantic for the missing vessel.

GRAIN DUTIES CARRY

The British Government's Majority is Ninety-Four.

MR. BALFOUR APPLIED CLOSURE

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach Explains That Coarse Meal For Stock Feeding Will Pay a Lower Rate—Bread Prices, Too, He Thinks, Will Recede—Division Showed a Majority of 94.

London, April 23.—In the course of a debate on the grain tax in the House of Commons last evening, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, announced that "offal or coarse meal for stock feeding, would pay only 3 pence per hundredweight, instead of five pence." He added that in the case of flour and fine meals, the farmers had been greatly disturbed by the fear that a heavy tax on "offal" would offset any protective advantage which they would gain by the grain duty.

The Chancellor also expressed his belief that the advance in the price of bread, which had been a halfpenny to one penny a loaf higher throughout the United Kingdom since the budget announcement, would recede so soon as the trade had adjusted itself to the new conditions. The whole evening was occupied in a heated debate of the duties, as provided for in the budget. At midnight Mr. Balfour, the Government leader, applied the closure, and the corn duties resolution was adopted by 283 votes to 197.

A WELL-KNOWN DAIRYMAN RUN INTO BY A TRAIN.

I was run into by a train and had both my legs, ankle and shoulder broken, and was laid up in the General Hospital for five months. The fractures healed, but my limbs were so sore and stiff that I could scarcely use them to stand or walk upon. I left the hospital, went home and tried a number of liniments; none did me any good. I was then recommended to try Kelpion; and from the first application of Kelpion the pain and stiffness ceased, and by the free use of it, well rubbed in, I was enabled in a few days to return to my business and suffered comparatively no pain. I still use it when necessary, and would not be without it in my house. I am constantly recommending it to persons on my route for every ailment I hear of, and can truly say that so far I have never heard of "Kelpion" failing to accomplish a relief or cure in any one instance.

PINCHED AND PUNY

South American Nervine is the Antidote for the ills which are induced by humanity's "mad rush" for an existence. The "eat and run" way of living is accountable for more of the pinched and puny faces than any other cause under the sun.

Dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, sick-headache are the prime causes for broken-up nerves. Nature foretold the strain that we would be compelled to live under and has revealed to medical science the favorite formula—South American Nervine—and its daily joy is to put back the bloom of perfect health in the faces of millions who do honest toil. 26

MR. WHITNEY'S "HONESTY."

"Honest enough to be bold" is the clap-trappy cry associated with Mr. Whitney on his moral reform stand. Is Mr. Whitney honest in this matter?

He declared in favour of decreasing the number of licenses, of maintaining intact the restrictions and removing the commissioners and inspectors from political and party influence.

What is his record in these regards? In his address on Saturday last, Hon. Mr. Stratton pointed out that Mr. Whitney had opposed improvement of the license law and had voted for immeasurably weakening it.

In 1890 Mr. Meredith, Conservative leader, moved an amendment providing "that license commissioners in cities and towns be elected by municipal electors," an amendment for which Mr. Whitney was "honest enough to be bold" enough to vote.

This meant a return to municipal control, which even Dr. Ford will admit, is a retrograde step, and one that would mean a return to the unspeakable evils that followed municipal control thirty years ago.

The effect would be to enlist the worst and most dangerous elements of corruption and influence in the annual contests for these positions, and to make license commissioners dependent upon a vote largely controlled by the parties the commissioners would themselves be supposed to control.

In 1897 Mr. Whitney was "honest enough to be bold enough" to vote against a proposition to give municipalities the power to limit the number of licenses and to regulate the hours of sale.

Now when he wants to make party capital he declares in favour of restriction, though only three or four years ago he voted against it.

He was willing to make the election of commissioners an annual scramble in ward politics but he was opposed to allowing municipalities, where public sentiment might favour such a course, the right to limit the number of licenses issued.

When Mr. Whitney took these positions he was himself—when he made his declaration against prohibition, and in favour of license restriction, he was playing a part.

The Government introduced as stringent a prohibition law as it was possible for them to pass under the powers conferred by the Imperial Privy Council, and Mr. Whitney had to declare for something which he thought opposite, and he declared for license restriction, which he has opposed in the past, and against prohibition.

He wanted to remove licenses, he said, from municipal control, but if he had been as "honest" as he was "bold," he would have joined with the Government in securing a popular verdict on the subject, entirely separate from any shadow of political influence or consideration.

Mr. Whitney was "honest enough to be bold," because he thought it was good party tactics. And to a certain extent he was right. He has found out that some of his political supporters, who pretended to be great friends to temperance, are, in the first place, party men.

Dr. Ford declares himself an uncomprising follower of Mr. Whitney, only reserving the right to stand alone on prohibition. He will vote for Mr. Whitney's license policy — to return the power to the municipalities, with all its attendant evils, well knowing that Mr. Whitney, as the leader of a Government, won't favour any prohibitory legislation.

Is Mr. Whitney "honest" in favouring, for party purposes, what he formerly opposed — license reform? Are the professed temperance men, who want to put in power a premier opposed to prohibition and license reform, "honest?"

They pose as honest men in this matter, but the still small voice of temperance won't be heard above the clarion call of party, which they say they will obey.

DIED

GOHEEN.—On Monday, April 21st, at 224 Rubidge street, Marion May, only child of George and Mary Goheen.

A DOG'S DOINGS.

A Nephew of Mr. T. M. Hunter was Very Badly Bitten Yesterday Evening.

Yesterday evening the little three year old nephew of Mr. Thos. Hunter, of North Monaghan, had a very dangerous experience with a large dog which his uncle owned. The child had been staying at Mr. Hunter's, and yesterday evening commenced playing with the brute. It suddenly turned on the little one, mangling him in a horrible manner until driven away by several older persons who were made aware of the terrible affair. The child's nose was torn in an awful manner; in fact it was cut open. The temple was badly gashed, whilst the neck, particularly in the region of the jugular vein, was also bitten. Is is believed that in a short time the child would have been killed had the dog not been driven away.

The boy was brought to town and was attended by two local physicians. He was placed under the influence of cholorform while his injuries were being dressed.

The dog belonged to Mr. Hunter and it was immediately shot.

AN APRIL WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Ida Barnard and Mr. John W. Arthur.

A very pretty wedding took place at 4.30 o'clock at Charlotte street parsonage, on Wednesday evening, April 9th, when Miss Ida Barnard, youngest daughter of Mr. Joseph Barnard, of North Monaghan, was united in marriage to Mr. John W. Arthur of the Township of Haldimand, the ceremony being performed by Rev. D. O. Crossley. The bride was very becomingly attired in a costume of a beautiful shade of grey and was assisted by Miss Maggie Arthur, sister of the groom, who was charmingly gowned. The bride and the bridesmaid carried bouquets of white and pink carnations. The groom was assisted by his cousin, Mr. H. A. Sherwin. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to the residence of the bride's parents where they partook of a sumptuous wedding dinner, after which they left on the early morning train for Galt, Toronto and other western points, and on their return they will take up their residence at No. 466 Park street, town. The bride was the recipient of a number of beautiful and costly presents, showing the high esteem in which the young couple were held. Among the presents was a handsome cheque from Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ward, Birmington, England.

STREET RAILWAY WAS SOLD TO-DAY.

A Big Detroit Syndicate Made the Purchase.

WILL RUN BY JULY FIRST.

The System to be Placed in First-Class Shape at Once. President of the New Company Here.

At four o'clock this afternoon a deal was closed between the Peterborough Street Railway Company and a Detroit syndicate, whereby the street railway is assumed by American capitalists.

It is understood that the line will be in operation by the first of July.

Mr. Bene, of Detroit, President of the National Construction Company, has been in town for the last few days, for the purpose of making the purchase, and, as stated, it is understood that the deal was closed this afternoon. The company he represents is said to be a very strong financial corporation, which is capable of placing the road in first-class shape and operating it according to the most modern methods.

The matter of the transfer of the franchise to the new owners will be taken up by the council at the earliest opportunity.

PEAT FUEL.

New Company Incorporated With Headquarters in Brantford.

From the Brantford Expositor.

The Dominion Peat Products, Limited, has just been incorporated, with head office at present in Brantford, and now that the main line is coming this way, it is likely to remain here. The process used by this company for making domestic fuel from peat and coke, for industrial purposes, supplying gas and electrical energy, is quite new, and is known as a superheating process. It can turn out from fifty to five hundred tons of fuel every ten hours in the form of brick, and at a price that will fill a long felt want in Canada. The company has large areas for development, and in a short time expect to supply the home factory and smelter. Dr. Spencer is the president. A. N. Gray, Woodstock, is the manager, and Lewis Benedict, is the treasurer.

MESSRS. HODGSON AND POGUE

Entertained by Their Friends at McCallum's Last Night.

An Informal Toast List was run off—The Guests of the Evening Replied to Toasts.

Last night friends to the number of 50, banquetted Mr. Hodgson and Mr. Pogue before they took their departure for South Africa. Mr. Hodgson and Mr. Pogue were general favourites with the boys and they could not allow them to depart without showing their appreciation of their many good qualities, and expressing their deep feelings of regret at their leaving Peterborough.

Mr. Pogue has seen much of life, and is very popular with the boys, being genial, courteous and at all times willing to be of service to everyone, which fact no doubt has greatly helped to raise him in the estimation of all with whom he came in contact. In leaving for South Africa he takes with him the best wishes of the people of the town, and who trust that he may enjoy himself during his absence from among them.

Mr. Hodgson is an old Peterborough boy, and was employed by the Canadian General Electric Co. He has always been a favourite wherever he went, and his fellow-employees deeply regret his departure. He was a member of the 57th Regt. Band, and it will be difficult to replace a man of his ability. In the "West End Baseball Team" he was the main stay, and they, too, will greatly regret his leaving town. Mr. Hodgson is the fifth to leave the "West End Baseball Team," which indeed reflects great credit on this organization, and leads one to believe that they are not developing ball players alone, but are preparing men to defend the Empire.

The banquet last night was given in the spacious room of Mr. McCallum's Restaurant, which was appropriately decorated for the affair with red, white and blue bunting, draped profusely over the walls, as well as by mottoes.

At nine o'clock the friends of Mr. Hodgson and Mr. Pogue to the number of fifty, filed into the room, where Mine Host "Mac" catered to the wants of the inner man to the satisfaction of all, and at the same time reflecting much credit upon himself by the able manner in which he had the supper arranged.

After all present had done justice to the repast, and the toast of the King had been duly honoured, Mr. Tefft, the chairman of the evening, was called upon to respond to the toast of "Canada, and Canadians." In replying he said, "Foreign nations are led to believe that Canada is a place of snow and wild animals, and that it is of no consequence, but lately, since the present war, they are brought to see that Canada is a place to be praised, and not laughed at. The noble spirit and patriotism, bravery and fighting ability of our Canadian boys, has raised Canada in the estimation of all foreign nations, and teaches them to look upon us with respect. Every Canadian fighting in South Africa today goes to battle with the conviction that he is fighting for the honour and glory of Canada. It is true that many of our Canadian boys have lost their lives during the present campaign, but they gave what only many other true Canadians would give, their lives for their country. Canada's noble sons, though dead, speak more than words can express, of the courage and fighting spirit born in them, and also shows that there is no hesitation on their part to fight, and, if necessary, to lay down their lives. Mr. Tefft then dwelt for a short time on the true patriotic spirit displayed by the boys of Peterborough, and in his closing remarks congratulated Messrs. Pogue and Hodgson, on their acceptance, and hoped that for every Boer shot fired at them they would be able to return two, and in every engagement uphold the name of their old town and of Canada, and that should they be fortunate enough to return they would be tendered an enthusiastic reception. The speaker's remarks were loudly cheered.

Mr. Hodgson was called on for a few words, in which he said that he heartily appreciated the kindness shown him to-night, and he had no doubt whatever that he and the other Peterborough boys would do everything possible to reflect credit on Canada and the dear old town from which they came. It had always been his desire to do something for Canada, this opportunity now presented itself and he accepted it. Whatever the consequence may be he cared not. He was only doing his duty.

Mr. Pogue then responded in a few very appropriate words. He showed that he had the true Canadian spirit, and the firm determination to fight to the end.

Everyone present responded in a few appropriate words, in which they expressed their regrets in the loss sustained through the departure of Mr. Pogue and Mr. Hodgson. After the toast of "Our Soldiers in South Africa," and other toasts were drunk, the gathering broke up by singing "God Save the King" and giving three hearty cheers for the guests of the evening.

NOTES.

There was a "Ray" present but not a ray of hope for the eatables.

Some present did not know when to stop, until they were told.

One man claimed that he was a good shooter, he was immediately advised to go to South Africa.

This is the fifth volunteer for South Africa that has left the ranks of the West End baseball team.

The man who lost the buttons off his vest can have the same by going to "Mac," and paying for the amount of extra eatables he dispensed with.

The party who thought he was too large too make a speech, taking into consideration the business he is in, ought to be "cut down" and given a "general trimming."

MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

School Inspector Tilley of Bowmanville, was here part of a day last week seeing what progress the pupils are making. His report has not come to hand yet. The numbers attending school here now is small compared with the number in attendance about forty years ago. Is the population decreasing, or what cause can be assigned for this state of affairs? If this continues, one-half of the school houses in the township may be closed.

The town was favoured with a visit from Mr. John Bust of Peterborough, who was looking after business here.

We hear that the Township Council has decided that either a drain or an outlet must be made to remove the surface water from the swamp before they can make roads on the 13th and 14th concessions through the swamp, that will pass inspection by Road Inspector Campbell. Indeed the road that has been for some time travelled east of the McBain residence is in a bad state state of repair, so that the council in order to save damages being brought against them see the necessity of cutting these bars that hinder the flow of water and lowering the channel at the boundary on the Monaghan side so as to carry off the surface water. The water is still running over the road on the 12th concession line. This state of affairs should not exist in the old and wealthy township of Cavan.

STOCK MARKETS.

Some Stocks to Buy now.

New York, April 22nd, 1902.—Now is the time to buy stocks. We here enumerate a few issues good in our opinion to buy now. Surplus earnings above dividend requirements and likelihood of continuance are the main reasons for so doing. The Southern Railway now pays 5 per cent. on $60,000,000 on pfd., and earns about 2 1-2 on its common. Under the stimulus of what has just occurred in shares of southern lines, the pfd. should be good for a ten point rise, and the common should follow in its train. The fact that Cates refused a bid of 150 from the Seaboard Air Line for his Louisville and Nashville line, would argue that the banking house now in control made equally as good an offer, if not better. If it was worth that to them, for a controlling interest, it is cheap for the public to purchase around current prices.

We have been extra bullish on the shares of Ill. C. for a long time, and recommend their purchase now. It is one of the few stocks with record of an unbroken dividend in the past in the hardest times. It is now making record earnings, while its physical condition is of the very best. The new regime in southern issues will benefit Ill. Cen. materially. It should easily be good for from 10 to 15 points advance.

In Southern Pacific, renewed activity will shortly appear in these shares. They are among the cheapest shares dealt with in Wall street. We have often given our reasons why these shares will ultimately go to par. Buy them now. Rdg. records have been made for these issues during the past week. Still further records will be made.

These shares will advance this spring and summer, and we believe no mistake will be made in buying them freely at the present time. Coal roads have as bright an outlook at the present time as any share on the list.

Ontario and W.—The President has just announced that this company is earning $35,000 per mile, and must double track its line to increase further. This will be done, and the stock will go on steadily in the march of prosperity. It is very cheap, and will do better. The Pepole's Gas advance should be lively in this issue shortly. It is the cheapest staple 6 per cent. div. paper on the list. 120 should be a fair average figure for it. It will likely win its suit against the 75c gas ordinance.

MERCY TO A BRAVE FOE

Mr. Charlton to Move Resolution of Clemency to Boers.

TWO DIVISIONS ON TUESDAY

Opposition Criticizes the Public Accounts Committee—Mr. John Haggart's Motion—He Wants the Accounts of Government Railways For the Past Seven Years to Investigate—Red Deer Bill.

Ottawa, April 23.—Two divisions were taken in the House yesterday, one on the motion to refer back to the Railway Committee the bill extending the charter of the Red Deer Valley Railway Company, the other on the amendment to the motion to go into supply by Hon. John Haggart, which was defeated by a majority of 48.

Clemency in South Africa.

Mr. John Charlton yesterday afternoon gave notice that to-morrow he will, on the motion to go into supply, move the following motion:

"This House is of opinion that British supremacy should be maintained and firmly established in South Africa, to which end Canada has cheerfully contributed men and money.

"Having in view the effect of a policy of magnanimity and mercy at the cession of Canada and at the close of the civil war in the United States, and for other reasons, this House is also of opinion that a like policy of magnanimity and mercy may properly be extended to a brave foe now opposing British arms, and that in the interest of peace and of future tranquility, harmony and homogeneity, it is expedient to offer a universal amnesty as a condition of peace and submission to British control to all persons in arms against British authority in Cape Colony, Natal, the Orange River Colony, the Transvaal and all other portions of the British dominions in South Africa; and upon this opinion, respectfully presented, with the prayerful hope that it may aid in securing a favorable and honorable settlement of South African hostilities and difficulties, this House invokes the serious judgment of His Gracious Majesty the King."

Proceedings in the House.

The Red River Valley Railway and Coal Company's bill, which was defeated last week in the Railway Committee by a majority of one, will go back to that committee for reconsideration. This was decided upon a division in the House at yesterday's sitting after an afternoon's debate on a motion by Mr. Cowan to that effect. The motion carried by 87 to 53.

Mr Fielding introduced a bill to amend the Civil Service Retirement Act of 1898. It provides that in case of the death of a civil servant his allowance under the act may be paid to his heirs by order of the Treasury Board to avoid the expense of taking out letters of administration.

The bill was read a first time.

Government Railway Accounts.

On the motion to go into supply, Hon. John Haggart moved in amendment that the Public Accounts Committee be empowered to inquire into all accounts of the Intercolonial and Prince Edward Island Railways from 1895 to the present time. He stated that the Opposition had been debarred from inquiring into matters which they desired, because it was ruled in the committee that to grant their request would be to inquire into accounts of which the committee were not seized, the accounts for the year 1900-01 only having been referred to them. He desired to inquire into the purchase of heavy engines which the bridges were insufficient to carry. The duties of the committee were, he asserted, inquisitorial in their character, and the examination of witness was not limited by the strict legal rules of evidence. Yet when an employe of the Government was asked to state what it cost him as contractor, during a short interval in which he was not an employe of the Government, to furnish telegraph poles to the Government, the official in question declined to answer, and the committee sustained him in his refusal.

Hon. A. G. Blair asked Mr. Haggart whether, if he really desired to have the accounts in question referred to the committee, he thought he was going the right way about it to make his motion as an amendment to the motion to go into supply.

Mr. Haggart replied that he had tried to make his motion earlier in the day, but had been ruled out of order. (At an earlier stage Mr. Haggart had submitted his motion, but had been ruled out of order because the motion can not appear on the order paper, and the order of business under which it would properly come before the House would not be reached to-day).

This evening Mr. Haggart declared that the proceedings before the Public Accounts Committee were the most farcical he had ever seen. The Minister would not permit an investigation of the affairs of the Intercolonial.

Hon. Mr. Blair declared that were it not for Mr. Haggart's express denial he would have supposed that his line of action in asking that the Public Accounts Committee at this stage of the session should investigate all Intercolonial accounts for the past five years indicated that a thorough inquiry was the last thing Mr. Haggart desired, and that his one object was to make a little cheap party capital with people who did not understand the ordinary procedure of Parliamentary government. He had been investigating for weeks and months, and had found nothing. The more he had investigated the clearer and more creditable the transactions inquired into had appeared. Innumerable returns and schedules had been prepared for him, covering the whole administration of this Government, and there had been no attempt to prevent the fullest investigation. The Drummond County road was fully up to the standard of the Intercolonial, although, while no contracts had been let, it would be necessary to do so in the early future in order that the heaviest locomotives might be used on the entire Intercolonial. He had in the committee expressed his willingness to give Mr. Haggart full information for this or any other year on any subject that he asked for. He asked if it was possible to conceive of a more unreasonable motion than that which Mr. Haggart had asked his friends to support.

Messrs. Monk, Wade, Sproule, Fraser, Barker, Tarte, Northup, Flint, Lennox and Hyman having spoken, at 10.45 the vote was taken, the amendment being lost by a majority of 48, the vote standing: Yeas 43, nays 91.

The House went into Committee of Supply on the public estimates.

Considerable progress was made with the public works and customs estimates, and the House rose at 12.30 a.m.

Neutrality Not Violated.

Washington, April 23.—The report of Colonel Crowder, who investigated the shipment of horses and mules to South Africa from the Port of Chalmette, La., was laid before the Cabinet yesterday by the President. A Great Sufferer Cured

Mr. Benjamin Dillon, of Leeds, Ont., was cured of Muscular Rheumatism by Polson's Nerviline, and says: "I feel my duty is to proclaim Polson's Nerviline as an infallible cure for Rheumatism; it cured me after 30 years suffering, and nothing I know of can equal its penetrating power. Nerviline simply has no equal in quickly relieving and curing Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, and Lumbago. A trial will convince anyone. Price 25c.

Drowned in Gull River.

Lindsay, April 23. — J. Armour, brother of Mr. Samuel Armour of the Central School staff, was accidentally drowned in the Gull River, north of Norland, early yesterday morning. He had been visiting his son-in-law, who operates a sawmill in that locality, and it is supposed that while helping to move some logs he slipped into the river, and was carried away by the swift current. The body was found shortly afterwards. He will be buried at Oshawa.

Nervous Dyspepsia

Can Never be Cured by Mere Temporary Aids to Digestion—The Nerves Must be Restored and Filled With Vitalizing Nerve Force.

You know that certain drugs, such as pepsin and bismuth, bring about artificial digestion, and if you have dyspepsia or indigestion it is possible that, like hosts of others, you have taken these into the stomach, hoping that they will take the place of gastric juice and other digestive fluids, digest the food and by resting the stomach effect a cure.

Did you ever hear of a bodily organ being strengthened by inactivity? It is to the organ that is exercised that the new, rich blood is conveyed in order to restore the tissues wasted by the functions of that organ, and so the stomach that is given rest does not get stronger, but the gastric juice gradually ceases to flow, and you are finally compelled to resort to the continual use of artificial digestants.

If instead of these temporary aids you seek permanent cure you must treat the nerves, because it is the nerves that control the glands of the stomach, and only when the supply of nerve force is liberal is digestion rightly performed and the body properly nourished.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is no experiment, as you know if you have read the hundreds of testimonials that are appearing in the daily press. We recommend it for nervous dyspepsia and headache, because it has actually cured scores and hundreds of cases. Here is an interesting letter:

Mrs. R. H. Scott, 667 Queen street east, Toronto, states:—"For a long time I was a great sufferer from nervous dyspepsia, and as a consequence of the stomach trouble I was nervous and sometimes had severe headaches and dizzy spells. Since using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I can say that my digestion is good, and as a result I have been entirely freed of the other troublesome symptoms. I think this an excellent treatment for nervous dyspepsia, as well as an invaluable system-builder."

This treatment will prove equally effective in your case, because it actually contains the most powerful restoratives known to the medical profession. It cures by building up the system, and instilling new vital nerve force into the wasted and depleted nerve cells. 50 cents a box; 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto. 10

MILITIA ORDERS

Issued at Ottawa Tuesday With Reference to the Mobilization of the Fourth Contingent at Halifax.

Ottawa, April 23.—The Militia Department has been advised that a sufficient number of men have been enrolled for the fourth contingent, to make two and a half regiments. The fact that recruiting is being continued indicates that it is the intention to raise three regiments in the east and one in the Northwest.

Militia orders issued yesterday contain the following in reference to the mobilization:

Recruits for the Canadian Mounted Rifles will proceed to Halifax, the point of concentration, in plain clothes. If any arrive in uniform the district officer commanding at Halifax will have such uniform turned into militia stores, Halifax.

The Honorable the Minister of Militia and Defence has been pleased to authorize the issue in all cases of men enlisted in the Canadian Mounted Rifles, where special arrangements have not been made by recruiting officers, of an allowance of sixty cents (60c.) per diem, in lieu of quarters and subsistence, from and including the date of their enlistment to the date of their departure to Halifax, N.S.

Receipts in duplicate are to be obtained for all amounts so advanced by recruiting officers, and forwarded to headquarters, when a refund of the same will be made.

The Honorable the Minister of Militia and Defence has been pleased to approve of a grant of £35 ($170.10) to officers appointed to the Canadian Mounted Rifles, towards defraying the expense of their outfit. This amount will be paid to officers at Halifax by commanding officers of regiments.

Arrived at Halifax.

Halifax, April 23.—Recruits for the fourth contingent are coming in from all quarters, and the concentration camp at Willow Park is rapidly filling up. There are nearly 800 men there now. Troopers arrived yesterday from Toronto, New Brunswick, Sydney and Prince Edward Island.

Sixty Per Cent. Plucked.

Toronto, April 23.—Eleven more men were sworn in by Col. Otter for the fourth contingent. Twelve were declared fit by Lieut.-Col. Nattress, A.M.S.

Those sworn in were W. H. Sears, J. E. Graham, J. A. Dickson, H. A. Jones, G. Johnson, H. Gledhill, J. Connors, J. Reilley, S. Hawkins, C. Chandler, J. Hughes.

Dr. Nattress accepted the following: Neil F. J. O'Hanley, William H. Sears, Welland; S. A. Rankin Falding, Parry Sound district; E. L. Odlum, Woodstock; George Price, Gilbert R. Smith, J. W. Pine, Joseph Hannavan, James Graham, Port Dover; Richard Bennett, W. J. Wingrove, Walter Brown, Trafalgar.

About three hundred and fifty applicants have gone before the doctor for examination, and of these over 60 per cent. were rejected for physical defects. Nearly all the accepted ones passed the subsequent tests in riding and shooting.

Soldiers Leave Ottawa.

Ottawa, April 23.—One hundred and twenty-six Ottawa young men marched to the Central Station yesterday morning on their way to Halifax and South Africa. There was no martial music, but all along the streets from the Drill Hall to the railway station were crowds of people, while at the station were thousands. There was almost as much enthusiasm as when the first contingent left here. The boys were cheered again and again.

Farewell at Lindsay.

Lindsay, Ont., April 23.—A banquet was given at the Benson House here yesterday afternoon by officers of the 45th Battalion, Victoria, to Major Neil and Capt. Staples, on the eve of their departure for South Africa. Among those present were Col. Sam Hughes, Major Fowler, M. P. of Kings County, N.B.; Major Sylvester and officers of the 45th Victoria, S. J. Fox, M.P., J. R. McNeille, J. D. Flavelle, James Graham, Bankers Ross, Padden and Lyttle, D. F. Moore, G. Lyttle, H. Campbell, N. Patterson, and other representative citizens. Speeches, songs, etc., were in order, and a presentation of a purse of upwards of a hundred dollars to Capt. Staples by his Woodville friends, was among the pleasing features of the evening.

150 in the West.

Winnipeg, April 23.—One hundred and fifty applications have already been made in Winnipeg for South African enlistment.

Horses For the Contingent.

Toronto, April 23.—Robert Beith, M.P., will ship one hundred horses from this city to-day for the east en route to South Africa. Mr. Beith stated last evening that he was getting over 2,000 horses for the fourth contingent leaving Canada next month. He has been pretty successful so far in getting the horses, as they were a little more plentiful than he first anticipated. Four hundred would be obtained in Manitoba and the Territories. These would arrive here about the 29th inst. From Ontario he expected to take one thousand, from Quebec about four hundred and from the Maritime Provinces 250. Those purchased recently by him in this locality are now stabled at the Exhibition grounds.

"Out of Sorts."

Nothing tastes good. Nothing gives pleasure. The mind is dull and sluggish. The will is weak. Little things cause great irritation. What's the matter? The probabilities are that the stomach is deranged and the liver involved.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes a man who is run down and dispirited feel like a new being. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, stirs the sluggish liver into action, and increases the activity of the blood-making glands, so that there is an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

Mr. Edward Jacobs, of Marengo, Crawford Co., Indiana, writes: "After three years of suffering with liver trouble and malaria I gave up all hopes of ever getting stout again, the last chance was to try your medicine. I had tried all the home doctors and received but little relief. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets' I am stout and hearty. It is due entirely to your wonderful medicines."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 large pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Our Export Flour Trade.

Montreal, April 22.—The Canadian export trade in flour is booming just now. The Lake of the Woods manufacturing Company is in receipt of large orders for foreign markets. W. A. Hastings, the vice-president of the Company, stated yesterday that they were in possession of an order from Australia for 31,036 sacks of 200 lbs. each, as well as of one for 12,500 barrels for South Africa. This is believed to make the largest order ever given to any individual milling company in the Dominion, being equivalent to 43,536 barrels.

Death of William Fowler.

Newmarket, April 22.—The investigation into the death of William Fowler, the East Gwillimbury farmer, who was found dead in the swamp on the farm of William Goodwin on Sunday, April 20, was adjourned last night for two weeks. The jury gathered at the Royal Hotel at 8 o'clock, but were dismissed immediately by Coroner J. H. Wesley who acted under instructions from Crown Attorney H. H. Dewart of Toronto. The inquest will be concluded at the next sitting.

British Brought Up Stock.

Ferrozone quickly masters all skin erruptions, builds up broken-down constitutions, and gives to weak, sickly women an abundance of spirits, vitality, energy and beauty. Try Ferrozone, it's all right. Price 50c. per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Kipling's "Vampire."

Rudyard Kipling's verses, written for Sir Philip Burne-Jones' striking painting, "The Vampire," were the result of much labor and persistent pursuit of an idea that had long proved quite elusive. When it was finished and Burne-Jones expressed obligations for it, Kipling wrote a delightful letter, presenting him with the copyright. "The verses for 'The Vampire,'" he wrote, "which we will call vampoetry, are your property. So if any one wants to dramatize 'em, etch 'em, set 'em to music, paint 'em sky blue, translate 'em into Erse, Celtic or Hittite, use 'em for hair dye advertisement or Church of England hymn you must deal with that man."

The Sufferings of Job.

If the agonies of Job were any worse than the tortures of itching piles from which so many people are now suffering he had much to endure. The difference is that there is no reason for any one to endure the miseries of piles for a single day. Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured tens of thousands of cases and is absolutely guaranteed to cure each and every case of piles. 60 cents at all dealers or by mail from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

PROTECTION OF MINERS

Legislation to Lessen the Dangers of the Mining Industry.

LIFE AND LIMB SAFEGUARDED

Female and Boy Labour Prohibited—Stringent Provisions With Regard to Ventilation, Explosives and Safety of Machinery.

The notable expansion of the mining industry, owing to the development of the rich mineral resources of New Ontario, was accompanied by many dangers to the lives and limbs of the operatives engaged in this pursuit, necessitating the adoption of strict regulations to reduce the danger to a minimum. The life of a miner is always attended with a certain amount of risk, no matter what precautions may be adopted; and accidents, entailing loss of life and bodily injury, frequently occur. The Liberal Government of Ontario, however, has endeavoured as far as possible to prevent the occurrence of accidents, and to insist upon mine owners adopting all reasonable precautions to ensure the safety and comfort of their employees.

Mines Act of 1892.

In 1892 a Government measure with this object was introduced and adopted by the Legislature, which did much to safeguard the lives and health of the increasing number of men employed in mining. This Act was amended in 1896 and 1900, when a number of additional provisions for the safety of employees, were introduced. By the Mines Act of 1892, it is provided that no boy under 15 shall be employed below ground in any mine, and no girl or woman shall be employed at mining, or in or about any mine. Boys over 15 and under 17 years of age, are not to be employed more than 48 hours in any one week, or more than 8 hours in any one day. A person in charge of a windlass or gin must be 21 years of age. It is also enacted that no wages shall be paid to miners at any public house, or place where liquor is sold. Very explicit and detailed provisions for the prevention of accidents and penalties for neglecting such provisions, are also included.

A Comprehensive and Stringent Measure.

The Act of 1900 considerably extends the scope and increases the stringency of the law. It provides that excepting in towns and incorporated villages no license shall be issued to any public house or other place for the sale of liquor within six miles of any mine or mining camp where more than six men are employed. The rules laid down as regards the ventilation and sanitation of mines, and the precautions to be adopted against accidents of all sorts, are exceedingly comprehensive and explicit, and cover a number of minute details. Among other matters, it is provided that no magazine of powder, dynamite or other explosive, shall be erected or maintained nearer than 400 feet from the mine and every such magazine shall be constructed so as to ensure safety against explosion from any cause. No explosive is to be stored under ground in excess of a supply for 48 hours, and, in no case, shall more than 100 pounds be stored on one level. A thorough daily inspection is to be made of the condition of stores of explosives in a mine and employees, guilty of careless acts in connection with explosives, are held liable as offenders against the act. A proper apparatus is to be provided for thawing explosives, and rigid precautionary measures, as to their use in blasting operations, are prescribed. Manholes and places of refuge must be provided in connection with underground places and tramroads. The fencing and securing of shafts are carefully regulated. Every working mine must be provided with proper and sufficient machinery for keeping it free from water. The conditions under which machinery may be used to lower or hoist men in a mine are specified with great circumstantiality, so as to provide against the casualties which are liable to occur in this operation. It is made the duty of the manager, captain or other competent officer of every mine, travelling way, signal apparatus, pulley and timbering, in order to ascertain that they are in a safe and efficient condition. In cases where the vertical or incline shaft of a mine has been sank to a greater depth than 100 feet and drifting has been carried a distance of 200 feet from the shaft, it is provided that a special escapment shaft or opening shall be maintained to the hoisting shaft or opening, through which the mine is entered. Every working shaft, exceeding 100 feet in depth, must be provided with guides and a proper means of communicating by signals from the bottom of the shaft and from every level in operation. There are a number of other provisions with regard to the comfort of the employees and the fencing of exposed and dangerous parts of machinery. Mine owners are required to notify the director of the Bureau of Mines of the commencement or discontinuance of mining operations or changes in the ownership, within two months.

Underground Perils Minimized.

As will be seen from the above outline of its provisions, so far as they affect the conditions of labour in mines, the measure is a very thorough and comprehensive one, and has done much to safeguard this class of workers, against those terrible and extensive casualties which so frequently occur in connection with this industry, unless great care is exercised in their prevention.

The mining interests of Ontario are, as yet, in their infancy and the number of men engaged in this arduous and perilous calling is, as yet, comparatively small; but it speaks volumes for the foresight of the Ontario Government and its consideration for the welfare of all classes of the community, that, in the absence of any strong pressure or agitation, they should have shown themselves thus solicitous for the safety of a class of operatives whose familiarity with danger too often renders them careless as to the perils by which they are surrounded. With the development of our mining system, which is likely to be very extensive in the near future, additional precautions will no doubt be suggested by experience and the Liberal Government may be depended upon to show themselves as alert and sympathetic in meeting such requirements as they have ever been in the past.

MR. POTVIN'S ENTERPRISE.

He has Made Many Improvements to his Well-known Confectionery.

In the extensive improvements that are being made this spring to many of Peterborough's business houses, the well known confectionery of Mr. Louis Potvin's No. 425 George street is not behind the times. Changes in the interior of Mr. Potvin's establishment have been going on for some time until to-day this popular restaurant can compare very favourably with places of its kind in larger cities. Mr. Potvin's confectionery, as a result of the many improvements, presents a decidedly bright and up-to-date appearance and is consistant with the go-ahead spirit of its proprietor.

The store has been beautifully papered and the wood work has been painted to harmonize very effectively with the papering. The lunch apartments to the rear of the front shop have been enlarged four feet in length making a room large enough for a fair sized banquet or the like. A handsome new linoleum now covers the floor. However, the greatest change in Mr. Potvin's restaurant is in the furniture of the ice cream parlour. Fourteen elegant new tables with four chairs around each, present a decidedly pretty appearance. The Chairs and tables are of oak and polished copper. They were made in Chicago, and furnished by Fletcher & Co., of Toronto. They are very unique in appearance. The legs of the chairs and tables and the backs of the chairs being of heavy round copper about one-half inch in thickness reflect a very pretty shade across the room. To the rear are several beautiful large bevelled plate glass mirrors which set the place off to perfection. A visit to Mr. Potvin's will prove interesting.

A THIRTY YEAR FRANCHISE

Is Sought by the American Syndicate Which has Made the Purchase—Branches to Chemong, Lakefield and Young's Point.

As announced in yesterday's Examiner, papers have been signed consummating the deal whereby the Peterborough and Ashburnham Street Railway passes into the hands of the big American syndicate known as the the National Construction Company, which is operating lines in a dozen or more of the larger cities in the United States. The only condition which the new company attaches to the purchase is the obtaining of a thirty year franchise from the town. A meeting of the council is to be called immediately for the consideration of the matter, and the aldermen will doubtless freely grant the concession asked.

Meetings have been called of both the Board of Trade and the Retail Merchants' Association for the purpose of passing resolutions which will strengthen the hands of the council in granting the franchise which is solicited. The town's most active business men are realizing what it will mean to have the street railway running in connection with branch lines into the surrounding country, and the council will find that their action in extending the franchise for thirty years will be heartily endorsed by the citizens at large.

The fact of Peterborough's line of street railway being abandoned some years ago gave the town quite a set back and it is only just beginning to recover from the effect. A retrogressive town is not one which is selected by manufacturers for the location of industries, and at the time of the abandonment of the street railway Peterborough's out-look was not of the brightest. The location here, however, of the American Cereal Company's extensive plant has introduced a new era of prosperity and with the street railway again in operation the town will assume a very brisk aspect.

The introduction of American capital into the town will be a great thing for the municipality. The methods adopted by the American Cereal Company in rushing their big buildings through to completion through all the rigours of a Canadian winter was a revelation. The syndicate which is purchasing the street railway propose, as soon as they receive the thirty year franchise which they ask, to take hold of the line in the same manner and have the old system in full working order by the first of July, and six miles of track laid by the fall. The extension to the locks and the belt line out to Jackson Park will be undertaken as soon as the present track has been placed in running order, and then branch lines are to be laid to Chemong, Lakefield and Young's Point. Truly this is Peterborough's growing time.

A special satisfaction should be felt in regard to the circumstance of the purchasers being an American syndicate. With so much American capital coming into the town in connection with both the Cereal Works and the Street Railway, other money across the border, seeking investment should be attracted to Peterborough.

When it is taken into account that the council seriously considered, and was willing to accede to, a proposition made some years ago to give a bonus of one thousand dollars a year for twenty years to a company undertaking to operate electric lines to Lakefield and Chemong, the granting of a thirty year franchise to the National Construction Company, seems a very small thing to concede.

The town owes a debt of gratitude to His Worship Mayor Denne for the active part he has taken in connection with the transfer of the line. It was solely through his instrumentality that the two companies were brought together, and he has laboured indefatigably as intermediary in the negotiations leading up to the purchase. When the present Mayor decides to retire from office the man who follows him will find that T. H. G. Denne's boots are hard to fill. He has made a great record since taking office.

ANOTHER DRAFT.

More Soldiers Left Last Night for the war—They Received a Send-off.

The sending away of soldiers from Peterborough for Halifax, to join the 4th Canadian contingent has become almost a nightly occurrence. Notwithstanding this fact the enthusiasm of the townspeople does not wane and the demonstration that was accorded the delegation of eight who took their departure last night for the seat of war was perhaps the grandest that has yet taken place. The Peterborough delegation was composed as follows:

Walter Eastland.
Frank Plummer.
Walter Hodgson.
Harvey Hartley.
Bert Thompson.
R. H. W. Payne.
C. E. Gaw.
Harold Scully.

At about 11.30 o'clock the drill shed contained several hundred people and the boys who were about to depart were besieged by their friends who showered all kinds of blessings upon them. The procession wheeled around the Y. M. C. A. corner and marched down George street to the music of both bands of the 57th Regiment. The streets were once more lined with people, the station platform was crowded and the noise of fireworks, the cheering and the playing of the bands was almost deafening. The boys were given a fast and exciting ride on the hose wagon which they enjoyed very much.

At the drill shed a number of presentations were made. Pte. Hodgson was presented with $50 by the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company, and a beautiful ring by the members of the 57th Regimental Band. Pte. Hartley was given $15 in cash by a number of his personal friends, and Pte. Pogue was made the recipient of $17 by the employees of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company.

LIEUT. BRADBURN'S LUCK.

He has Been Given a Commission in the 4th Canadian Contingent to South Africa.

Lieut. E. O. Bradburn of the 14th Durham Field Battery, last night received a telegram notifying him of his appointment to a commission on the Fourth Contingent to South Africa. He has been awarded a first Lieutenancy in one of the Regiments, and is asked to report at Halifax on April 30th.

As might be expected, Lieut. Bradburn is receiving warm congratulations from his hosts of friends on the luck that has befallen him, and all agree that the choice is an excellent one. Lieut. Bradburn has been an officer in the Durham Field Battery for the past seven years, and possesses excellent qualifications. Apart from this Lieut. Bradburn is most popular in military circles, and has always commanded the respect and esteem of those associated with him. Again, in business and social circles Lieut. Bradburn has made many warm friends, and his absence from town for the next year at least, will be universally regretted, in a sense, although every person will be proud of the position he is filling. To obtain a commission on any of the contingents is an honour that many volunteer officers aspire to, and only a small percentage obtain. Under these circumstances, Peterborough's young officer is indeed to be congratulated.

Lieut. Bradburn will be attached to the regiment from Western Canada, which will be commanded by Lt.-Col. MacDonell, a brother of Mrs. Wallis, Gilmour street, town.

AT THE POLICE COURT.

Several Cases That Were up This Morning Before the Police Magistrate.

At the police court this morning a young man was fine $5 for using profane language at the C.P.R. station on April 17th. The Magistrate stated that he would deal in the same manner with any other such offences.

James Hanlen, who claims that Downeyville is his home, has been locked up pursuant to remand for the past week. There was a charge of vagrancy against him. He was allowed to go on the distinct understanding that he would go back to Downeyville.

Three young men were charged with firing off a revolver inside the corporation. The offence was committed in Inverlea Park. They pleaded guilty and further pleaded ignorance of the law. The Magistrate talked to them very considerately and allowed them to go on this occasion.

LABOUR LEGISLATION.

Some Measures of Comparatively Minor Importance in the Workman's Interest.

CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS

Benefit Societies--Technical Education--Sanitary Regulation of Lumber Camps--Workmen Allowed Time to Vote--A Conservative Organizer's View.

In addition to the leading measures passed by the Ontario Legislature in the interests of labour of which a resume has already been given there are a number of others perhaps of lesser importance, but which evince how anxious the Liberal Administration has ever been to secure the rights of the working people and remove, as far as possible, the disabilities incidental to the position of a wage-worker. Brief mention of some of these may be made, without by any means exhausting the list of enactments, which have a special bearing upon the condition and surroundings of working men.

Co-operative Associations.

No influence has done more to improve the conditions of labour in Britain and some other countries than the establishment on a large scale of co-operative institutions, both as a means of supplying the consumer with the necessaries of life at the least possible expense and of organizing production so that the profits are received by the labourer. If the system has not obtained a foothold to any extent in Ontario it is certainly not owing to any defect in the law which has been framed so as to encourage the foundation of co-operative associations. The Act respecting co-operative associations which was on the statute book before Confederation was amended in 1880 so as to render it more workable. As the law now stands any seven or more persons may unite to carry on any trade or business, except mining, banking, insurance or the business of a loan corporation; and become a corporate body by filing a certificate and a copy of their rules. A member of the association may hold shares to an amount not exceeding $1,000. The liability of shareholders is limited to the extent of their shares. The business of such associations is to be exclusively on a cash basis, no officer or servant having power to contract debts in its name excepting as regards rent and wages. The Act affords every facility for the carrying out of the co-operative principle either in store-keeping or manufacturing.

Insurance by Trades Unions.

Legislation in 1892 provided that any lawfully incorporated Trades Union having an insurance or benefit fund should be entitled to be entered on the Friendly Society register. Further provisions facilitating the operation of the benefit feature, which has proved very advantageous in connection with many organizations, were embodied in the act respecting Benefit Societies, passed in 1894, which provides for the incorporation and registration as a Friendly Society of (1) Any trade union undertaking contracts with its own members for insurance benefits, the supply of tools, or the furnishing of unemployed or superannuation benefits. (2) Any organization of not less than 25 members managed and operated as a friendly society contracting exclusively for sick benefits not exceeding $5 a week and a funeral benefit of not more than $100, or either of them. Unless a society is duly registered it is prohibited from contracting to give insurance benefits. This is a necessary protection to the public against the operations of fraudulent or unsound institutions. The cost of incorporation and registration is only $4.

Municipal Protection of Workmen.

The Municipal Act gives extensive powers to municipalities to pass by-laws for the protection of workmen employed on buildings. They may enact such bylaws for inspecting and regulating the construction and erection of hoists, scaffolding and other constructions used in erecting, repairing, altering or improving buildings, chimneys or other structures; and for making all necessary regulations for the protection and safety of workmen and other persons employed therein, and for the appointment of inspectors of scaffolding. By-laws may be passed by the councils of cities for compelling every electric railway to provide enclosed vestibules upon its cars for the protection of motormen from the weather.

Technical Education.

The Municipal Act provides that the councils of counties, cities and towns may pass bylaws for establishing schools for the training and education of artizans, mechanics and workmen in such subjects as may promote a knowledge of mechanical and manufacturing arts. Councils establishing such schools may appoint Boards of Trustees to conduct them and make such grants in aid of them as may be deemed expedient.

Chapter 301 of the Revised Statutes, 1897, empowers the trustees of any High School or Board of Education to establish a Technical School or change any High School already established into a Technical School, provided such action is ratified by a by-law of each municipality composing the High School district and by the County Council, if required to contribute to the maintenance of the High School. The provisions of the High School Act are made applicable to Technical Schools, subject to any regulations of the Education Department.

Cities and towns are authorized to appropriate money for the establishment of Technical Schools for adults, the control of which shall be exercised by a Board of Management to be appointed, as provided for in the Libraries Act.

Prison Labour.

On April 4th, 1900, the following resolution respecting prison labour was adopted by the Legislature:

"Resolved that, in the opinion of this House, all Government contracts should contain such conditions as will prevent abuses which may arise from the subletting of such contracts, and that every effort should be made to secure the payment of such wages as are generally accepted as current in each trade for competent workmen in the district where the work is carried out, and that this House cordially concurs in such policy, and deems it the duty of the Government to take immediate steps to give effect thereto; and it is hereby resolved that the work to which the foregoing policy shall apply includes, not only work undertaken by the Government itself, but also all works aided by a grant of Provincial public funds, and that the aforesaid policy shall be forthwith applied to every Department of the public service, and to all parties now performing services for the Government. That this House is further of the opinion that in all appropriate cases the Legislation of this House should be in harmony with this resolution."

The spirit of this resolution has been strictly carried out and every care is taken to prevent any competition between prison labour and that of free workers, or its employment in any manner that will tend to lower the rate of wages.

Railway Construction.

Mention has previously been made of the legislation against the employment of aliens in the work of construction in the case of railways, subsidized by the province. The Act respecting aid to certain railways, passed in 1901, contains clauses for the protection of labourers engaged thereon; providing that they shall be charged fair and reasonable prices for board, clothing and other necessaries, supplied them by the company, and that in case of exorbitant charges there may be deducted from the subsidy to be granted the company such amount as the Government thinks proper. The Government may instruct the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, to enforce reasonable sanitary regulations on the construction works, and in the camps connected therewith, and contractors shall have at such camps a tent or a store, where, in case of emergency, a person suffering from a contagious disease may be isolated, so as not to endanger the men in camp. Similar provisions are embodied in the Act of 1902, "Respecting Aid to Railways."

Sanitary Regulations in Unorganised Territories.

In the past much discomfort and hardship to the men engaged in lumbering and mining in large numbers in the unorganized parts of the province has resulted from the want of proper sanitary arrangements in connection with the camps where they are quartered. This neglect has frequently resulted in the outbreak of disease among them. By an Act, passed in 1901, it is provided that the Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time make regulations. (1) Respecting any particular industry, and the conditions under which the same is carried on, for the purpose of preventing nuisances, and the outbreak or spread of disease; (2) For the cleansing, regulating and inspection of lumber camps, mining camps, and railway construction and other places where labour is employed; (3) For the inspection of houses and premises; (4) For providing for the employment of duly qualified medical practioners by employers of labour, and the erection of permanent or temporary hospitals.

Workmen Allowed Time to Vote.

In cities and towns where the workman frequently resides a long distance from his place of employment it is frequently difficult for him to get time during the day of election to cast his vote without incurring a loss of wages. To remove this difficulty the Legislature in 1886 enacted that any voter entitled to vote within a city or town shall, on the day of polling, for the purpose of voting, be entitled to absent himself from any service or employment for the two hours between twelve and two, in the middle of the day, without making himself liable to any penalty, or to suffer or incur any reduction of wages—provided that, if his employer requires him to do so, he shall afterwards make up for his absence by an hour of extra work.

Administration in Favour of Labour.

The administrative actions of the Government have been characterized by the same desire to afford all legitimate protection to labour that has been so conspicuous a feature in their legislation. Where mechanics and other skilled workmen and labourers, are employed on works under the immediate direction of the Public Works Department, the hours of labour have been fixed at nine, and, in some cases, at eight, per day. In letting the contract for the cash and account books to be used by the municipalities under the Municipal Audit Act, the contractors are required to have all the work done in Ontario, and to pay the highest or union wages for all work done under the contract.

The Conservative Organizer's Opinion.

No more convincing testimony as to the general excellence and effectiveness of the labour laws of Ontario could well be adduced than that of Alexander W. Wright, formerly a member of the Executive Board of the Order of the Knights of Labour, and now one of the Provincial Organizers of the Conservative party. Mr. Wright, moreover, was the Commissioner appointed by the Conservative Government of Canada in 1895 to enquire into the existence of the sweating system. Writing from Philadelphia some years ago, Mr. Wright paid voluntary tribute to the advanced condition of Ontario, in the following language:

"While there is still a good deal of legislation which we labour cranks think should be enacted, I am free to say that Ontario has not much to learn from any State in the Union in this respect, and is immeasurably in advance of most of them."

As several of the more important labour measures to which reference has been made were placed on the statute book since these words were written, the force of this tribute to the progressive character of Provincial labour legislation, and the full measure of protection it affords to the labouring classes, is stronger to-day than ever.

The foregoing articles constitute only a mere outline of the volume of progressive enactments dealing with almost every phase of the labour question, which have been passed by the Liberal party. It is a record they have every reason to be proud of, because such legislation, safe-guarding the rights and the interest of the masses of the people, protecting those, who by their position, are less able to protect themselves than the financially independent, is in harmony and accord with the best traditions of Liberalism. The working men may rest assured that the manner in which the Liberal Government has acceded to the just and reasonable claims of labour in the past is the best guarantee for further and more advanced legislation along the same lines in the future.

No Government has ever done more in the interests of the labouring classes, so far as legislation and administration avail, and no Government has, on this account, ever better deserved the hearty support of the working classes.

LOOK WELL AT THE TONGUE.

If Furred and Coated, the Liver Needs Attention.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

THE POPULAR SPRING MEDICINE CURES EVERY FORM OF LIVER TROUBLE.

A Victory Over an Insidious Disease After the Failures of Physicians.

The liver is the great housekeeper of our health. On its rights and proper action depends our enjoyment of life.

One of the commonest indications of a disordered and diseased liver is a nasty tongue— furred and coated. Such a condition is positive proof that the liver is not working well. Other symptoms are as follows: Nauseous taste in the mouth, pains under the shoulder blades and in the region of the kidneys. Frequently the mental symptoms of liver trouble are more dangerous than the bodily ills. Sufferers experience mental anguish, gloomy forebodings, melancholy, and a general feeling of disgust with life.

When these bodily and mental troubles are experienced, your liver tells you it needs immediate help. If the proper medicine is not used at once, sickness and death follow.

Paine's Celery Compound is the one great specific for the cure of liver troubles. It always acts gently and effectively on the root of the evils, driving from the system accumulations of morbid poisons that give rise to your suffering. Soon every organ is infused with new life, the skin is fresh and clear, and you enjoy perfect health.

Mrs. G. Durant, of Elma, Ont., cured by Paine's Celery Compound after suffering for years from severe liver troubles, writes thus:

"For many years I have been a sufferer from liver troubles, and have doctored with several physicians, but only found relief for a very short time. My husband advised me to try your Paine's Celery Compound. I did so, and found so much relief from the first bottle that I continued, and am now using the third bottle. Your Compound has done more for me than any physician. For months before using the Compound I never had one night of sound sleep; but now I can go to bed and sleep soundly and naturally, and feel like a new creature in the morning."

A Suit for $5,000.

T. of T., claiming $5,000 for alleged wrongful dismissal. The writ was served on the secretary yesterday morning. The suit will be interesting.

Biliousness, liver complaint, Bright's disease, deranged kidneys and stomach troubles are promptly and thoroughly overcome by this great family medicine. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

IT ALL ENDED IN TALK

Mr. Charlton's Resolution Discussed in the House.

PREMIER THINKS IT ILL-TIMED

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Gives Reasons Why the Mover Should Withdraw His Resolution, Although He Commends the Sentiment of the Resolution —Mr. Bourassa Seconds—Mr. Oliver Makes a Speech.

Ottawa, April 24.—The discussion of Mr. Charlton's general amnesty resolution in the House yesterday formed one of the most interesting debates of the session. In addition to Mr. Charlton and Mr. Bourassa, his seconder, the speakers were: Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Monk, Mr. Monet, Mr. Sproule, Col. Hughes, Mr. Demers of St. John, Messrs. Oliver Kemp and Robinson. A discussion on the census estimates ensued, and the House rose at 1.15

Mr. Charlton's Resolution.

On the motion to go into supply, Mr. John Charlton moved the motion he had given notice of the previous evening, except that he had omitted from it the advice to the British Government to "offer a universal amnesty to all persons in arms against British authority in Cape Colony, Natal, the Orange River Colony, the Transvaal," etc.

In moving the amended resolution, Mr. Charlton disclaimed any political motive, and declared it was not a pro-Boer motion in that it urged maintenance of British supremacy in South Africa. In this sentiment, he was happy to say, the seconder of the resolution, Mr. Bourassa, joined. The motion was an humble expression of opinion on the part of the House. It might be asserted that it would be considered an act of impertinence to offer such a motion here. Had the House not their right to express a humble opinion as to the proper course to be pursued in securing the settlement of this war in South Africa?

The answer was a chorus of "No," from the Opposition benches.

To this Mr. Charlton said that if the hon. gentlemen's policy of Imperial defence carried, Canada would surely have a voice in the expenditure of the money.

"That's different," an hon. member remarked.

Mr. Charlton replied that the conditions were exactly the same, seeing that Canada had expended men and money to prosecute this war in South Africa. The motion, he continued, might be useless, but the spirit manifested in offering it could not be questioned and could not be condemned. The motion might have no weight. But, on the other hand, it might be extremely useful. It might aid the Imperial Government in the settlement of this question by showing that in one of the great colonies of the Empire the same spirit of bitterness does not exist that probably does exist in Cape Colony and Natal. It might be a counteracting influence probably to the pressure from the British colonist in those colonies asking for the exacting of vengeance upon the Cape rebels. At all events, the motion, if it did no good could do no harm. Canada had great interests in this struggle, for she had made sacrifices to maintain and uphold the integrity of the British Empire. Therefore she was in a position to ask that an honorable peace be obtained. There should not be a different settlement with the Transvaal Boers and the Boers of Orange River Colony and the Cape Afrikanders. The latter were an honorable foe and should not be treated as a rebel to hang in chains. The war was one of British against Dutch for the supremacy in South Africa and a harsh settlement now would only be delaying the establishment of peace and prosperity in South Africa.

As a parellel, Mr. Charlton cited the liberal policy pursued by Great Britain towards the 60,000 French subjects in Canada after its cession to England by the King of France. Other parallels, he said, were the treatment of the Dutch settlers in New York and the treatment of the Southern belligerents by the North after the United States civil war. In the latter case there had been no disfranchisement of a rebel. In the interests of a united South Africa, the same policy should be pursued by Great Britain now. Mercy and magnanimity and amnesty were the power that should be exercised to secure this result.

Mr. Bourassa.

Mr. Bourassa seconded the motion. He did not agree with all Mr. Charlton's remarks, but he went half way to meet Mr. Charlton because he believed his position as a Canadian representative demanded it. He had always taken the position that British supremacy must be brought about in South Africa; and the best way to bring it about was to act according to the best of British traditions, respect to minorities and generosity towards foes. He claimed that Canada was within her rights in offering her advice to Great Britain as to the terms of settlement of hostilities in South Africa. Such an expression of opinion would help the British Government. As for the statement that the magnanimity of Britain towards the French in Canada after 1763 was the best guarantee of magnanimity in South Africa, the fact seemed to be lost sight of that, if England had conquered in Canada, she had been conquered in Europe, and the settlement of that treaty was in the nature of give and take.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had no doubt that the mover and seconder were both actuated by the very best of motives, and he altogether agreed with the terms of the resolution: that the war in South Africa be settled on the principle of British supremacy and generous treatment by the victors to the vanquished by the Brit-

N.B.—Since the Prospectus of the Company was issued (about the First of April), the Company has received two offers for the purchase of its entire output of paper. These offers are entirely unsolicited, and are from parties whose standing is such as to guarantee the performance of any contract they may undertake. One of these offers covers the first year of production, and the other covers the first three years. Either offer, if accepted, would be sufficiently profitable to assure the payment of the full dividend on the Preferred Stock, provide the amount required by the Charter for a Reserve Fund, and leave a balance sufficient to pay a large dividend on the Common Stock, if no unforeseen contingencies should arise. This does not include profits estimated from the sale of sulphite pulp or from the saw mill, which, it seems reasonable to suppose, would be sufficient to cover all unexpected contingencies.

PROSPECTUS

OBJECTS OF THE COMPANY

The Atlantic Pulp and Paper Company, Limited, has been organized in order to take advantage of the unrivalled facilities for the manufacture of pulp and paper at New Richmond, on the Baie des Chaleurs, and by its charter, has powers of the fullest description. It is confidently believed that pulp and paper can be more economically manufactured there than any other place in America.

The essentials to the success of such a concern are:

1. Cheap and unlimited pulp wood;
2. Adequate water power cheaply developed;
3. Pure water for the manufacturer;
4. Cheap labor;
5. Low transportation charges;
6. Efficient management.

It will be seen that the facilities possessed by this Company assure a point of cheapness in the production of paper never attained before, while the situation of the mills on the Atlantic seaboard makes it possible to ship to all foreign ports by water without trans-shipment. As the Company proposes to confine itself almost exclusively to the export trade, it will readily be seen that this gives it further advantage over all other companies.

1. WOOD SUPPLY.—No paper mill in Canada has greater advantages in point of situation. Many companies do not own their own limits, being entirely dependent on outside purchases, and subject to fluctuations of supply and price. Other companies owning limits have to transport their wood from great distances by water or rail. Thus we find mills at Merriton and Niagara Falls are bringing their pulpwood from Central Quebec. Some prosperous paper companies even buy their pulp in the manufactured state. The mills of the Atlantic Pulp and Paper Company, Limited, will be built about two miles from the limits, where there will also be a very large mill-pond capable of holding several million logs. The Little Cascapedia River flows from end to end through the center of the limits, and the large number of tributary streams does away with the greater part of the hauling usually entailed in getting out pulp wood, thereby greatly decreasing the cost.

2. WATER POWER.—Mr. George F. Hardy of New York, the foremost American authority on this subject, has made a thorough examination of the water power that can be developed on the Little Cascapedia River at a point immediately adjoining the proposed mill site, and his report shows that sufficient power can be developed to run mills of even greater capacity.

This report can be seen at the office of the undersigned, or at any office of the National Trust Company, Limited.

3. WATER SUPPLY.—Pure and clean water is one of the most important factors in connection with pulp and paper-making. The bed of the Little Cascapedia River is rocky, and owing to its crystal-like clearness and purity the water in the river is suitable for making the finest grades of paper without the expense of filtering, which is almost invariably required at other mills.

4. COST OF LABOR.—The labor employed in the mills and woods cost less than probably any other American mill, as far as known, as competent men in this section of the country, on account of the cheapness of living, ask very low wages.

5. TRANSPORTATION CHARGES.—The shipping facilities of this Company are certainly unequalled by any similar enterprise in Canada, the situation of the mills on the Baie des Chaleurs giving every possible advantage for export trade, which is probably the most profitable field. Arrangements can be made with Atlantic steamship lines to run steamers from New Richmond for eight months in the year, as required. During the winter months favorable winter rates have been arranged with the Railway Companies to St. John and Halifax, New Richmond being on the line of the Atlantic and Lake Superior Railway, which will be connected with the mills by a siding.

6. MANAGEMENT.—The Company has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Wm. M. McIntyre, formerly Mechanical Superintendent with the Laurentide Pulp Company, Limited, who will act as Manager of the construction and operation of the mills. Mr. McIntyre has had over twenty years' experience in pulp and paper-making, and is regarded as an authority on the manufacture of pulp and paper.

PROPERTIES

The properties and limits acquired by the Company contain about three hundred and two square miles, or one hundred and ninety-three thousand two hundred acres, more or less. The wood is principally spruce, and there is also a large quantity of cedar, pine, birch, balsam, balm of Gilead, and poplar. The Company has reports on this property made by five different expert Rangers, acting independently. Copies of these may be seen at any office of the National Trust Company, Limited, or at the office of the undersigned.

The following is an extract from one of the reports:

"I have been working in the lumber woods for twenty years or more, and have traveled and examined limits in the State of Maine, New Brunswick, and Quebec, and worked in Wisconsin and Minnesota, and I am sure this is the best pulp limit I have ever seen or traveled over."

On the basis of any one of these reports a conservative estimate shows that there is sufficient pulpwood now on the limits to supply the proposed mills for more than 65 years. As spruce wood will replace itself in from twenty-four to thirty years, it will be seen that there is sufficient wood on the limits to afford a perpetual supply to a mill double the capacity of that now contemplated.

The freehold property consists of twenty acres where the saw mill, dwellings, and office are situated, and 358½ acres on the bank of the Little Cascapedia River, where it is proposed to build the Pulp and Paper Mills.

THE PULP AND PAPER MILLS

It is proposed to erect—

A Paper Mill with a daily capacity of 54 tons.
A Ground Wood Pulp Mill with a daily capacity of 50 tons, and
A Sulphite Pulp Mill with a daily capacity of 40 tons.

Mr. George F. Hardy has estimated the cost of erecting the Pulp and Paper Mills and of developing the water power at $950,000. The balance from the sale of the Preferred Stock will be sufficient to complete the payments for the limits, water power, saw mill, etc., provide working capital, and leave a substantial balance for contingencies.

THE SAW MILL

There is on the property a saw mill, equipped with the latest improved machinery, capable of turning out from 35,000 to 40,000 superficial feet of sawn lumber in ten hours, and is equipped with all necessary power, gearing, shafting, etc., for the installation of another saw, which would double the capacity.

MARKETS

The markets will be chiefly foreign, including the Eastern States and Great Britain. In view of the expected advances in the price of paper in the Eastern States it is probable that the greater part of the output will be marketed there. Situated as the mills will be on the seaboard, paper can be laid down in Liverpool and New York, duty paid, at such a price as to defy competition.

Freight quotations can be seen at the offices of the National Trust Company, or the undersigned.

ESTIMATE OF BUSINESS AND PROFITS

Estimating the cost of pulp wood at $2.25 a cord, careful estimates made for the Company show that the ground wood pulp should not cost over $5.89 a ton, and sulphite pulp not over $16.00 a ton. The actual cost of newspaper from pulp, estimated at these prices, should not be over $16.94 a ton. This is after making all necessary allowance for depreciation and renewal of plant, and all charges of management and selling.

The following estimate of the annual output of the mills has been prepared by Mr. Wm. M. McIntyre, a practical pulp and paper manufacturer, and is believed to be conservative and well within the mark, and includes allowances for salaries and contingencies:

16,902 tons of newspaper at $37.00 a ton f.o.b. at mills		$625,874.00
8,294½ tons of sulphite pulp at $30.00 a ton f.o.b. at mills		248,835.00
		$874,209.00
Cost of producing same:
16,902 tons of newspaper, at $16.94 a ton	286,319.88
8294½ tons of sulphite pulp at $16 a ton	286,319.88
		419,031.88
Showing a profit of		$455,177.12
7 per cent on $1,500,000 Preference Stock		105,000.00
Available for Reserve Fund and further Dividends		$350,177.12

The ground wood pulp and the balance of sulphite pulp will be consumed in the paper mill of the Company.

The estimated profits from the operation of the saw mill are not included in these figures, but owing to the enormous quantities of cedar on the limits, substantial profits should be made from the manufacture of railway ties, shingles, etc. The Laurentide Pulp Company, Limited, in its annual report, June 30th, 1900, stated that the Company's saw mill added to the year's profits an amount equal to its entire cost, although it was operated for only three months of the year, and estimated that the future profits from this source would cover the interest on the entire bond issue of the Company.

ISSUE OF STOCK

For the acquiring of the said property, equipment of the pulp and paper mills, the development of the water power, building the railway siding to the mills, and the furnishing of sufficient working capital, the present issue of Preference Stock is made. The whole of the Seven Per Cent. Cumulative Preference Stock has been authorized to be issued on the following terms:

For every two shares of Seven per cent. Cumulative Preference Stock subscribed and paid for, there will be allotted by way of bonus one share of fully paid Common Stock.

The Seven Per Cent. Preferred Stock is Cumulative, carries yearly dividends, and has priority over the Common Stock as to both divide and assets.

After the payment of the dividend on the Preferred Stock, and before any payment of dividend on the Common Stock, a further sum of one per cent. must be applied to a Reserve Fund, under the charter. This fund will be for the further assuring of the dividends on the Preferred Stock.

Application will be made in due course for the listing of the shares of the Company on the Toronto and Montreal Stock Exchanges.

Applications for Preferred Shares should be forwarded to the NATIONAL TRUST COMPANY, Limited, Toronto, Montreal, or Winnipeg; or to SUTHERLAND & CAMERON, Brokers, Ottawa, Canada.
Checks, drafts, etc., are to be made payable to the NATIONAL TRUST COMPANY, Limited.

If the whole amount applied for be not allotted, the surplus paid on deposit will be appropriated towards the sum due on allotment. Where no allotment be made, the deposit will be returned in full.

Further information and Forms of Application can be obtained at the offices of SUTHERLAND & CAMERON, 48 SPARKS STREET, OTTAWA, CANADA, or the NATIONAL TRUST COMPANY, LIMITED, TORONTO, MONTREAL, and WINNIPEG.

We offer the Preferred Stock for sale on the above terms.

A Musical Treat.

The vocal and instrumental recital which will be given in the opera house on May 5th, under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Morrow, promises to be one of the leading attractions of the season. The programme will consist of two vocal choruses by the pupils of Mrs. Morrow, five advanced pupils will render vocal selections, viz.—soprano, mezzo-soprano, tenor and baritone. Mrs. Morrow's pupils will be assisted by two young artists from the Toronto College of Music, viz.—Miss E. Miller, pianist, and Master Gilbert Markle, boy violinist. All young persons interested in the study of violin music should not fail to hear this artist. Mrs. Morrow has been teaching in Peterborough for about six months only and during that time she has been untiring in her efforts for the advancement of the standard of music in Peterborough and her efforts will no doubt be appreciated. She has met with much encouragement. The voices of Miss Florence Miller, Miss M. Routley and Miss M. Rush will be heard in solo work. Plan of hall at Messrs. Ormond & Walsh's.

"SMOKE AWAY DULL CARE."

An Entertainment in the T.A.S. Rooms Last Night.

A Very Enjoyable Programme was Rendered—Good Natured Gathering.

"Smoke away dull care," was the motto observed at the smoker in the T.A.S. rooms last evening, under the auspices of the Athletic Section of that organization. The affair was a "hummer" from start to finish, and the large crowd present had barrels of fun, and thoroughly enjoyed a really excellent programme. It was a pretty important gathering, too, for everybody present considered that they had somewhat of a "pull." Almost every man sported a "dhudeen," and the manner in which the Indian weed disappeared ought to have brought joy to the hearts of the local tobacconists. The gathering was a good-natured one in every respect. The boys came to spend a social evening and they got their money's worth of sociability. All gathered together in groups, and between whiffs they summed up the political situation, discussed the meat famine, and gave their views on the rumoured resurrection of our underground street railway.

Mr. John O'Brien, the chaperon of the Athletic Section, "filled" the chair during the evening with the grace and dignity of a Supreme Court judge. After producing the mace of authority, and bringing the gathering to a full stop, Mr. O'Brien's voice was heard percolating through the clouds of smoke which encircled the chair of honour. In his opening speech he extended a warm welcome to those present, and referred to the aims and objects of the Athletic Section, and what they were going to do during the season. After word had been passed around to light up, the programme opened.

Mr. Will Staples acted as accompanist, and what Will doesn't know about manipulating the keyboard of a piano, is not worth knowing. He started the night's fun with two ragtime productions which put the crowd in good humour.

The T.A.S. Glee Club sang, "I've a Longing in my Heart for You, Louise," the solo being taken by Mr. Tom Lane, and had Louise been present she would have been tickled to death.

The following is the programme as presented:

God Save the King.

Every number on the programme was encored. Mr. Jas. Browne's numbers were the gems of the programme, Mr. John King, who sang in splendid voice, Mr. McGreel, and Mr. T. J. Begley, also contributing vocal numbers of that nature. Messrs. Joe Beyett and Jack Parle in their comic songs, made a hit, and they well deserved the recalls they earned. Mr. George Lynch's humourous recitation was a stunner, and was splendidly given.

The instrumental numbers were given by Mr. Ed. Hickey, in some capitally rendered harmonica solos, and Mons. de Kaign, in a violin solo, a beautifully arranged number from the opera "Floradora."

Jimmy Henry in his buck and wing and sand dances, surprised the crowd. This was "Jimmy's" first appearance, but it will not be his last. Another clever song and dance artist was Mr. Will Primeau, who will have to be heard again.

The choruses by the Club, which were hurriedly arranged, were warmly received, the solos in each being taken by Messrs. T. Lane, J. King, and G. Coughlin.

An exceedingly funny number was the burlesque hypnotism introduced by Prof. Cinch of Pennsylchusetts. This wizard had a stage full of "subjects," and the manner in which he controlled their actions, and the alacrity with which which they obeyed his orders, afforded heaps of fun for the audience. The programme closed with the National Anthem.

The smoker apart from the opportunity it presented for all to spend a social evening, was the means of bringing out talent which had been lying dormant. The T.A.S. has talent galore in their society, which was evident last night in the introduction to the audience of a number of young people who made their first appearance before the footlights.

A Public Dinner.

The general public are invited to call at our Meat Market, where they can have a variety of meats to choose from equal to any city meat market. PAYING BUSINESS FOR CANADIANS.

This Country Will Soon Control Pulp and Paper Trade

EVERY FACILITY IS HERE.

Some Facts About the Atlantic Pulp and Paper Company's Advantages.

If there is one business more than another which Canada may reasonably hope to obtain a world's monopoly of that business is the making of pulp and paper. The pulpwood forests of every other country except Scandinavia, have already been depleted, and those of Scandinavia are not nearly so large as Canada's, while it is common knowledge that the pulp produced from the Norwegian forests is much inferior to that made in Canada.

A number of business men have recognized Canada's position of advantage in this regard, and have organized the Atlantic Pulp and Paper Co., Limited, with an authorized capital of $3,000,000. At the present time $850,000 of 7 per cent. cumulative preference stock is offered to the public for sale at par, payments to be made in the usual instalments.

The Board of Directorate contains such well-known names in the business world as W. C. Edwards, M.P., the Ottawa lumberman; R. Y. Ellis, vice-president of P. W. Ellis & Co., Toronto; Chas. H. Waterous, president of the Waterous Engine Works, Brantford; R. H. Thompson, paper merchant, Buffalo; A. H. J. Eckardt, Toronto; Chas. Lyman, president the Lyman & Knox Co., Montreal; J. W. Waldrop, lumberman, Montreal; Wm. M. McIntyre, paper manufacturer, late mechanical superintendent of the Laurentide Pulp Co.; and W. R. P. Parker, barrister, Toronto. Those interested in the company are already congratulating themselves because of the fact that since the prospectus of the company was issued, a few weeks ago, two offers for the purchase of the company's entire output of paper have been made. The offers were responsibly backed and were not solicited. Either offer, if accepted, would pay preferred stock dividend, fixed charges, and leave a balance sufficient to pay a large dividend on the common stock, barring unforseen contingencies, which can well be taken care of by the sawmill and sulphite pulp, neither of which are included in the foregoing offer.

The advantages possessed by the company are: 1. An unlimited wood supply, near New Richmond, on the Baie des Chaleurs, where the mills are to be located; the limits contain about 193,200 acres, and the wood is mainly spruce, the king of pulpwoods. Enough pulpwood stands on the limit it is estimated, to last 65 years, and spruce will reproduce itself in from 25 to 30 years. 2. The water power on the Little Cascapedia River is adequate and cheaply obtainable. 3. Clear and pure water may be obtained with ease for the cleansing processes. 4. The cost of living in the vicinity is low and wages will not be high. 5. The shipping facilities are unsurpassed. 6. And the manager, Mr. McIntyre, has had over twenty years experience as a practical pulp man.

It is predicted that pulp and paper can be made more economically at New Richmond than anywhere else in America. Sutherland & Cameron, brokers, Ottawa, or the National Trust Company, will furnish forms of application for stock.

Remodelling Digestive Vigour.

Malt Breakfast Food
DOES THE GOOD WORK.

A breakfast grain food that can remodel impaired digestion is surely worth trying.

Malt Breakfast Food does this good work in a way that cannot be accomplished by any other breakfast food seeking public recognition.

A noted city physician, an authority on scientific dietetics, recently asserted that the majority of prepared grain foods tended to indigestion and stomach derangements, for the reason that these foods contained too great a quantity of insoluble starch and other elements difficult to digest.

Malt Breakfast Food, partially cooked and predigested, is free from insoluble starch and other ingredients that hamper digestion. It has given new digestive vigour to thousands of dyspeptics and banished their troubles. No other grain food is so delicious, appetizing, satisfying and healthful for young and old. Ask your grocer for it.

THE OPPOSITION POSITION.

In dealing with the relations of the Ontario Opposition to the administration of the public affairs of the Province, we can only speak of the Opposition position, not of the Opposition policy. The Opposition has no policy or anything worthy of being dignified with the name of a policy. The only possible thing that the Opposition can claim as a policy, is that of getting into office. That is about the only claim that is persistently or consistently urged.

Mr. Whitney is a man of mystery in the matter of policy. He has said repeatedly that he has a policy concealed about his person and that in due time he would produce it. One would think that the time, for a party leader, asserting the claim to be placed in possession of the government of the Province to declare the policy upon which he proposed to conduct the administration of Provincial affairs, was of all times, the time of a general election.

Mr. Whitney has also said that he had a fine article of policy, but that he dare not let it be known for fear the Government would steal it. The Opposition leader need have no fear of that; the Ross Government has a policy that cannot be improved upon by anything Mr. Whitney can offer. If Mr. Whitney has a policy adapted to the building up and advancing of the country, now is his time to produce it. If he fails to do so now he must rest under the imputation of having no other policy than the desire of getting into office.

We see that Mr. Whitney and his leading supporters—the men who would form his Government, if by an ill-starred fortune he should have the chance to form a Government—cannot agree on hardly a single article of policy. Mr. Whitney's unprogressive and hostile attitude in regard to the development of New Ontario disgusted Mr. Marter, his desk-mate in the late House, and his former first lieutenant.

Mr. Carscallen, of East Hamilton, a prospective member of Mr. Whitney's mythical cabinet, and Mr. Whitney cannot agree even on the matter of the leadership, Mr. Whitney is leader and Mr. Carscallen wants to be leader.

Then they can't agree on even one item of policy. Mr. Whitney objects to an embargo on the export of nickel ore—the leader that claims the credit of the saw-log policy, preventing the export of pine in an unmanufactured condition — wants our nickel ore to be exported in an unrefined condition, and refined in the United States. Mr. Carscallen wants the ore to be refined in Ontario, and there they stick. In case the Opposition comes into power, which policy will prevail? A Government at loggerheads before it gets into office cannot be expected to be harmonious enough to carry out a policy upon which there is direct opposition of opinion among its members.

But how can we expect Mr. Whitney and his followers to agree when Mr. Whitney cannot agree with himself in details of policy. In December, 1900, Mr. Whitney declared that the power derived from the development of water powers should be "free as air." In the Legislature last session he voted for the wild-cat scheme, introduced by the Opposition, of having the Government develop power to be sold to the municipalities at cost; and later at Brampton—on April 18th—Mr. Whitney referred to this scheme as a plank in the Opposition platform, without expressing repentance for his proposition to have the power "free as air."

These are two opposite things advocated by the Opposition leader—one that power be supplied free and the other that the Government should enter into a development of the water powers of the Province at a cost of millions of dollars, and shutting out all private enterprise in this direction, as visionary a scheme and impracticable, as it is possible to conceive. Which does Mr. Whitney adopt?

The answer is simple — the one he thinks will catch the most votes. The first proposition made at Niagara Falls was a direct bribe, and a direct bid for the votes of the electors, in the bye-election of December, 1900. The town wanted power, and Mr. Whitney thought he would win votes by proposing to give them free power. The other proposition, brought up in the Legislature, Feb. 6th, 1902, was intended as an offset against the grand practicable and rational development policy of the Ross Government — that was also a chance to catch votes.

Mr. Whitney has shown himself an opportunist of the most variable type. He selects the position he thinks will yield the most party capital. When "free power" will be a vote-persuader, he lifts up his voice for free power; when an opposite policy seems to open a way to popular favour, he votes for it. He opposed the land grant to the Algoma Central Railway, denouncing it as a "colossal steal," a "heinous crime." A few months later he voted for, and approved, a much larger land grant to the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway. Here he was an opportunist again. He saw how popular the Algoma Central land grant was—something that led to the great development enterprises at the "Soo," in which about $12,000,000 has already been spent. Then he crawfished, swallowed his big bluster, and supported the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway Bill, a proposition less favourable, if anything, than the "colossal steal" he condemned the previous session.

Mr. Whitney took a similar position on Prohibition and the Referendum. He declared himself opposed to prohibition, and in favour of a strict license law, though he had formerly in the House, opposed by voice and vote, restrictive features of the license law. He took this position last session because he thought it would most embarrass the Government and most redound to his party advantage.

Another case of divided councils: The Opposition politicians and the Opposition newspapers are charging the Government with being unduly friendly to corporations. The Government has shown its "friendship" to corporations by imposing a tax on corporations — wealthy concerns, which have some of them enjoyed immunity from taxation for forty and fifty years. This tax was imposed to help meet the demand upon provincial revenue for education, public institutions, etc., and these corporations have contributed in this way, nearly $700,000 in the past three years. Mr. Whitney moved the six months' hoist of this measure in the House, and on April 9th, at Aurora, Mr. Whitney said he would, if he came into power, remove this tax altogether, and relieve these wealthy corporations of their fair share of contribution to the public service. Mr. Whitney says this, but the Opposition politicians, and the Opposition organs, do not advocate the abolition of this tax, but continue harping upon the Government's undue favour to corporations. Mr. Whitney has made the declaration of abolishing this tax on corporations on half a dozen platforms, and the Mail and Empire has invariably suppressed this portion of his remarks in its report of his speeches.

There's another instance of Mr. Whitney singing one song, and his supporters and followers another. He wants to show himself the friend of the corporations, while his organs and supporters seek to arouse public prejudice against the Government by picturing it as the friend and abettor of the oppressive corporations — to throw the dust for these see-saw operations into the people's eyes.

Where do the people find Mr. Whitney? What policy does he present; what claim does he seek to establish upon the support of the electors, except a demand to be placed in power?

Let the thoughtful, intelligent, elector study the matter in the light of the interests of the province. On the one hand he is appealed to by the Ross Government with a magnificent record of advanced, and advancing, legislation and administration; with a live, progressive policy — a policy of developing the rich resources of our new country, of settling its arable lands, and of creating a trade with older Ontario, which will give the settled portions of the province the fullest measure of profit from the utilization of the resources of the new.

On the other hand, the elector is appealed to by a party, and a leader, whose only definite declaration of policy is a demand to be placed in power — to be given office; by a leader and a party who have opposed advanced legislation in the people's interests, who have opposed the development of our new country, who have no aspirations to advance, and who appeal to the electors upon no great policy, but on little trifling side issues, which have little reference to the bigger, and broader, questions that should be considered in reference to the administration of the foremost province of the Dominion.

ish to the Dutch. He did not think any resolution necessary to obtain this generous treatment for the Boers in South Africa.

The Premier continued: "A brave foe always commanded the respect of a brave opponent, and that is enough to show that the Dutch shall receive generous treatment at the hands of their brave foes. Why, it was only at Hart's River, a position had been entrusted to a few men, most of them, I am proud to say, Canadians. They were assaulted for part of the day by an enemy eight times their superior in numbers. Each assault was repulsed; but after each assault, the thin band of defenders was reduced in numbers; and so reduced were they at last, that there was not one man in the force who had not been either killed or wounded. At last, when the position was carried, there was still a man left, standing, proud and defiant. Bruce Carruthers was a name, which, I am proud to say, is honored in the hearts of his countrymen; who, by all the rules of war, might have been killed. But, from the ranks of the enemy, in their sympathy, came the cry, 'Do not kill him! He is too brave a man; he must live!' This, sir, is the lesson of the war, and I have no doubt the victorious British now in South Africa will display the same spirit. I have no doubt they will say the Dutch must live. They have earned it by their gallantry in the field."

The Premier cited the Home Rule resolution and the resolution of sympathy with Uitlanders, to show that Parliament had the undoubted right to pass the resolution before the House, and if he thought it would strengthen the hands of the British Government in being merciful, he would not hesitate to pass it. But, if the House were to interfere at this moment, it might hinder the peace that all desired to see established. The mover and seconder knew the negotiations were in progress for a settlement of the terms of peace. Lord Kitchener and Lord Milner met the heroes on the Boer side—Dewet, Delarey and Botha—and there was every reason to believe, though we were not yet informed officially, that terms of peace had been agreed upon The Boer delegates had gone back to those in the field to submit to them the terms on which peace might be secured.

"What these terms are, I do not know," said the Premier, "but it is advisable at the present moment, when the conditions are submitted to the Boer commands, that we should not interfere and excite in them, perhaps, hopes which might clash with what has been done, and prevent the negotiations being brought to a peaceful and satisfactory conclusion. It might be wired to South Africa, and perhaps induce the Boers to break off negotiations, in order, if possible, to gain better terms."

Sir Wilfrid reminded Mr. Charlton that a general amnesty was not proclaimed in the United States until years after the war was over. "and," said he, "suppose at this moment terms were agreed upon between Kitchener and the Boer generals, and these terms did not include a general amnesty which covered the great mass of the belligerents, but excepted certain individuals, and suppose this resolution were passed and wired to South Africa, might not the Boers say, 'Oh, we have the Canadian people standing behind us, and we must insist on better terms.' I do not know that my hon. friend, would then find that by his resolution, he was promoting the cause of peace. I think we had better at this moment leave this question in the hands of the brave soldiers who are dealing with it, Lord Kitchener, on one side, and Generals Delarey and Dewet on the other. I think we had better leave them to determine the issue, and I humbly believe in my heart that the terms which will be accepted by these brave soldiers will be such as can be accepted by every British soldier the world over. When the terms of peace have been agreed upon, when the country again enjoys the blessings of peace, if it shall be found that the terms were not as generous as in Mr. Charlton's judgment or Mr. Bourassa's, or, perhaps, my own thought, they ought to be, we shall not abdicate the right of the Canadian Parliament to send its views to the Imperial authorities. It will not be too late then, because that is the time when we can speak effectively. But at this moment when negotiations are pending, it seems to me the argument is overwhelming that we shall perhaps lose all in our attempt to save all."

The Premier concluded by asking Mr. Charlton to withdraw his motion.

Mr. Monk.

F. D. Monk, in the absence of the Opposition leader, followed. He said it struck him from the first that the resolution was extremely untimely, and out of place. Peace terms having practically been agreed upon between the leaders in the field, it was regrettable, whatever prerogatives might be to interfere in the negotiations, and, perhaps, imperil the beneficient work. The voice of the politicians should for the moment be silent, and it was better to defer to those who are deliberating in South Africa. No doubt Parliament had the sovereign right to express its opinion on this subject, yet it was better for Parliament to observe the rule that the conclusion of all treaties belongs to the executive authority, reserving to itself the right of criticism. How trivial and commonplace are the remarks in this House in comparison with the negotiations now going on among the armed men on the very battle fields to-day. The British politicians had studiously avoided uttering any opinions on the subject during these negotiations. It was satisfactory to observe that there was practically unanimity in the House as to the wisdom of the course pointed out by the Premier. Again, any resolution that we might pass might embarass Sir Wilfrid Laurier in England in his forthcoming mission.

Other Speakers.

Dr. Sproule protested against the too prevalent practice in the House of passing resolutions of advice to the British Parliament and Government.

Mr. Charlton expressed his willingness to withdraw his resolution, but Mr. Bourassa would not agree, so Mr. Monet took the floor, maintaining that Canada had the right to advise the Home Government in the matter.

Pieut.-Col. Sam Hughes held that Mr. Charlton's resolution was not only inopportune, but was essentially bad. He protested against maudlin sentiment in favor of the Boers, which already had done much to prolong the war. Whatever might be said about the Transvaal Boers, there was not more excuse for rebels in Cape Colony than there would be for an Ottawa bank robber.

Mr. Oliver, in the course of his remarks, observed that Canada has reason to be proud of her contribution of men, but he was not so sure about her reason to be proud of her contribution in money. He was not above giving advice to the British Government upon occasion, but he objected to the character of the advice proposed to be given to the British Government on this occasion. The motion demanded, in the name of the money we have spent, amnesty for the rebels of Cape Colony, for the men who had added treachery to treason, and murder and treason to treachery, men whose lives were forfeited under the law of every civilized nation. Such advice was beneath contempt. It was of itself, and in its nature treasonable. It was absolutely unworthy of any loyal citizen, to say nothing of any loyal representative in a loyal colony of the Empire. Britain's leniency had already made her a laughing stock, and it was time to show the world that it does not pay to harm and destroy the property of loyal citizens of the Empire. As for the Boers, the only way to secure peace was by fighting the war to a finish. Britain encouraged the continuance of the war by refraining from putting the Cape rebel Kritzinger to death, as he richly deserved. "Under these conditions," continued Mr. Oliver, "if these hon. members who have moved and seconded this resolution are loyal to the Empire——"

"The hon. member has no right to impute any motive," interrupted Mr Speaker.

"I did not impute; I asked the question," was the response.

"It is out of order," Mr. Speaker said, "to declare that any members of this House are disloyal, or even to express a doubt of their loyalty."

"If I am not allowed to express a doubt as to the loyalty of these hon. members," said the member for Alberta, warmly, "the only thing I can do is to leave it to the members of the House to draw their own conclusions."

Mr. Kemp expressed his deep indignation at the action of Mr. Charlton in the matter. He looked upon the resolution as especially offensive to Englishmen, being introduced on St. George's Day.

Mr. Kemp concluded by offering this resolution in amendment:

"That this Parliament regrets that Mr. Kruger, the acting-president, and the generals of the Orange River and Transvaal colonies, who are still leading a small but brave remnant of the Boers, have not seen fit to cease the hostilities in thich they took the initiative against the British Empire, by invading and annexing British territory. That we point with pride to the great liberty and many privileges enjoyed by the people of this country, as well as the other parts of the Empire, under British institutions, by all races and creeds and nationalities; and realizing the magnanimity shown in the past to a defeated foe, we have the utmost confidence that the most generous terms of peace will be extended to the Boers by the statesmen and soldiers of Great Britain."

Another Amendment.

Mr. Jabel Robinson offered another amendment, which, he said, he thought would fill the bill. It was to the effect that it was not advisable to give advice or instructions to the British people on this occasion, but to rely on their wonted magnanimity and generosity in dealing with the Boers.

This amendment to the amendment was declared out of order.

Mr. Demers, speaking in French, took issue with Mr. Oliver as to the policy of hanging rebels. He said that if any rancour against Britain existed in Quebec, it was because of the hanging of 12 rebels in 1838.

Leave to withdraw his resolution was not granted to Mr. Charlton, and it was declared lost without even dividing the House.

Other Business.

Mr. Sifton's Yukon Representation bill was introduced and read a first time. It gives to the Yukon a representative in the House of Commons, the franchise to be the same as in the Northwest Territories.

The bill to extend the Rocky Mountains' Park was also read a first time. The park now contains 260 square miles, and will be increased to 4,000 square miles.

A bill by Mr. Fitzpatrick to amend the petition of right act, was introduced. It provides that the Government may ask for security for costs from a petitioner; also that when security is offered the petition will be granted, as a matter of course.

A resolution by the Minister of Justice was adopted fixing the salaries of the two police magistrates in the Yukon at $4,000 a year and $1,800 living allowances. Another resolution passed provides a salary of $5,000 to an additional High Court judge of the Yukon. The three judges will constitute a territorial court of appeal to which appeals will be taken from judgments of a single trial judge which are now taken to British Columbia. The appeal from the Territorial Court will be to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The same resolution provides that a judge of a county court resigning at any time because of disability or after 25 years' service, may be granted a pension equal to a two-thirds of his salary. If he has served less than five years, the pension shall not exceed one-third of the salary.

The Minister of Justice said there was no intention of introducing legislation looking to the compulsory retirement of judges.

In Committee of Supply the item of $120,000 for the census went through and the House adjourned at 1.10 a.m.

A BAD DAY FOR FIRES

A Very Destructive Blaze at North Augusta, Ont.

VILLAGE NEARLY ALL WIPED OUT

The Sufferers in Very Evil Straits—The Losses Will Total $40,000—Grist Mill and Other Buildings at Newburgh Destroyed by Fire—Five Fires in the Vicinity of Chatham.

North Augusta, April 24.—About 12.30 yesterday fire broke out in the north side of the village, commencing at the residence of Charles Galbraith. The residence of George Davis was next destroyed. From there it cleaned out the residences and stables of S. W. Norton. These were on the road to Bellamy Station. Two blacksmith shops, one occupied by Chas. Galbraith and one empty. The fire then took the following on Victoria street: The brick residence and drivehouse of Dr. Waddell, the frame residence and shoe store of James Langstaff, the brick residence, carriage house and stables of W. S. Cannon, and millinery store of Miss Cannon. This house was owned by Wm. Steacy, Athens. The Stone Hotel, nine out-buildings, owned by Mrs. J. B. Davis, were completely dertroyed. The general store, owned by T. E. Warren & Company, including Bell Telephone office, was wiped out, also his new out-buildings, barns, drivehouse and residence. The new residence just being erected by Dr. Dunn and his office, including a very valuable library, was consumed. Very little furniture was saved and none of the stocks of Warren, Langstaff & Cannon. A horse of Norton and three cows of Dr. Dunn were burned to death. Nearly all had some insurance, except Dr. Waddell, his loss being about $3,000. Total loss is estimated at $40,000; insurance about $12,000. The fire cleaned everything north of the creek, except the two churches, three residences and the English Church parsonage. Most of the people have left only the clothes on their backs. L. E. Warren saved his books. They were in a fire-proof safe, and not the least damaged. Fire was supposed to have started by a chimney burning out. The wind was raging.

Big Fire at Newburgh.

Newburgh, April 24.—Another fire, with a gale of wind, not unlike the fire of 1887, has visited this village. The fire started in the roof of Mr. Burgoyne's grist mill, and in a very short time completely demolished the mill, together with three large buildings belonging to E. W. Stickney's Agricultural Works, in which were stored considerable machinery and raw material, as well as nearly all his patterns. A factory belonging to J. Farley, also a large pile of lumber belonging to Robert Paul, met a similar fate. Stickney's loss was about $5,000; insurance $3,500; Burgoyne's about $3,000; supposed to be insured. Farley's loss was about $2,500; insurance $2,000; Robert Paul's loss, $1,000; no insurance.

Fires Near Chatham.

Chatham, April 24.—There was a series of disastrous fires in this vicinity yesterday and Tuesday. John Cooper's Saw and Stave Mills, on the 11th concession of Chatham, and the adjoining village, known as Coopervillo, were totally destroyed Tuesday. Bush fires were the cause. Messrs. Benoit and Lucier of Big Point, Dover, both lost their residences and contents Tuesday. Chas. E. Scott, a farmer on the 8th concession of Chatham Township, lost his residence and almost total contents. Yesterday afternoon the fine brick residence of William Mills, on the 4th concession of Chatham Township, was entirely destroyed, the fire starting from a chimney.

Fire in Hungerford.

Belleville, April 24.—A dwelling in Hungerford, owned by Robert Coulson of Thomasburg, was burned yesterday.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

Mr. J. T. Fraser of Gore Bay has been nominated by the Liberals to contest the Manitoulin constituency in the election.

T. L. Pardo was again nominated by the Liberals of West Kent at Chatham Wednesday. Andrew Pattullo was present, and spoke.

At Delta Wednesday the Liberals of South Leeds nominated C. E. Britton to contest the riding in the local election. Mr. Britton asked ten days in which to definitely decide. The time was granted.

Mr. D. L. Ross of Embro, who was some weeks ago tendered the nomination for the Legislature by the Prohibition Association of North Oxford, announced Wednesday afternoon that he would run as a "straight Independent Liberal."

Representatives of the Toronto Socialist Leagues met in Richmond Hall Wednesday night and nominated the following candidates: East Toronto—James Simpson, West Toronto—John A. Kelly, North Toronto—Mrs. Darwin. No candidate was placed in the field for South Toronto.

Died From His Injuries.

Toronto, April 24.—William A. Lackey, who was thrown from his bicycle about six weeks ago on Dundas street, sustaining a severe fracture of the skull, died about 7 o'clock last night at his home, 24 Czar street. Deceased was 28 years of age. He is survived by a widow and three children.

Retrospect.

It is an evil day for the wife and mother when she scans her worn face in the mirror, and asks the question, "Does it pay? Does it pay to sacrifice health and happiness to wedded love?" But there is another question which rightly takes precedence of Does it pay? It is this: "Is it necessary to sacrifice health and happiness to wedded love?" Half a million women answer, No! They have been weak and have been made strong by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. They were sick and "Favorite Prescription" made them well. It will do the same for almost every woman who gives it a fair and faithful trial. It stops weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves and encourages the appetite.

"I expected to become a mother, and a threatened miscarriage greatly weakened me," writes Mrs. E. A. Nations, of Wilts Springs, Searcy Co., Ark., "and my old disease returned. My husband got another doctor for me but I seemed to just drag along and get no better. At last I told the doctor that if his medicine did not help me I would go back to Dr. Pierce's medicines. I did so, and by the time I had taken them one month I could do my own housework, except washing, and tended my garden too. I was stouter than I had ever been while waiting baby's coming since my first baby came (this one was the sixth child). She is now eleven months old and is a healthy child. As for me, I feel as young now as I did at eighteen years of age; am thirty now. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine to all suffering womankind."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

SCROFULA.

"Scattered consumption" is a good way of describing this disease. It is in fact a real consumption of the little glands under the skin.

Scott's Emulsion cures it. Scott's Emulsion is good for all kinds of consumption but especially good for scrofula.

It heals the sores—but doesn't stop there for the weakness and loss of flesh is the worst part of scrofula.

Scott's Emulsion feeds and strengthens scrofulous children.

Rev. L. F. Turnbull Writes of His Experiences.

SUFFERING AND FAMINE.

Any Subscriptions Will be Gladly Forwarded by the Examiner to Mr. Turnbull.

Mr. Fred Might has received a most interesting letter from Rev. Louis F. Turnbull, of Kawapur Gate, Ahmedabad, Gujarat, India, concerning his mission labours in the far East. Rev. Mr. Turnbull is a son of Mr. J. C. Turnbull, formerly of town, and left for India last November. The Examiner will be only too pleased to receive contributions to a fund for the relief of the suffering which is described in the following extract from Mr. Turnbull's letter:

During the last three years many of the readers of local papers, periodicals and magazines, have doubtless perused with interest different articles descriptive of the terrible suffering among the poor, wretched people of India. Numbers of people have nobly responded to these appeals in a practical, material way, and probably believe that the land by this time is free from its awful scourge of cholera plague and famine. It is a pitiful duty to have to write that still throughout almos tthe entire Gujarti country the need is still tremendous, and calls for speedy aid from the benevolent friends in Canada and the United States.

Thousands upon thousands of poor souls have gone out into eternity because of disease and famine; millions, yes millions, of cattle have died through similiar causes, and still the terrible distress goes on without any adequate alleviation.

The Government has been and is still doing a great deal in its noble efforts to get the famine under control, but despite this, the masses are still in great distress. Many thousands of native men and women are working in the hot sun, day in and day out, on relief work, i.e., digging canals and excavating, to build up reservoirs, so that when a good monsoon (the yearly rains) comes, the water may be retained for irrigation purposes.

The people are paid the equivalent of two and sometimes three cents a day for their arduous labour. This pittance enables them to keep body and soul together, but the reader can readily see that they cannot put by much money with which to buy grain when the rain comes.

Many millions of India's immense population are simple farmers, with a small plot of ground to cultivate and reap a yearly harvest for a livelihood. When the monsoon fails they are at once plunged into great distress, as they very seldom have any money laid by for a time of need.

There is an intuitive feeling among thinking people here in Gujarat that good rains will fall this coming monsoon, i.e., during June, July and August. We certainly hope and pray that it may be so. The native people also seem to believe tha train is at hand. They say that a certain star has recently re-appeared, which has not been seen since the famine began in earnest, over three years ago. If this faint omen of hope is any consolation to the poverty stricken people, I am sure we would not wish to take it away.

The reason I write of the expectancy of rain is to show the glorious opportunity which is before those, who desire a good investment, that surely will give compound interest throughout an eternity to come, if given as unto the Lord.

Hitherto relief work has simply appeased the hunger of the masses for the time being, but now it is highly probable that rain will come and this money sent will enable these needy persons to buy grain, sow it, reap a good harvest, and once again be on an independent footing themselves.

Perhaps the reader may say—"What you have said is very good, but can you corroborate your statements after having had real personal contact with the people? Have you been an eye-witness of distressing scenes?"

Yes, I can vouch for what I have written only this same week, in March, 1902. I have visited a number of villages with Rev. T. F. King, and a Mr. Ashton, who is labouring in Southern Gujarat.

A short narrative of my journey with these missionaries and my experiences among the people might not be uninteresting to the reader.

Having met my two friends at Sanand, a village a few miles beyond Ahmedabad, we started out by camel and pony cart on a glorious moonlight night for the village of Chetha, about five miles distant from Sanand, as the crow flies.

After an uneventful journey, we arrived at the village previously mentioned about 10.30 p.m. The animals which had carried us being cared for, we sat down on the ground in front of the village inn—a small, one-roomed dwelling with a low roof, mud floor and open front; in fact, it was much the same as a good, old-fashione wood-shed! Here we awaited the coming of the head man of the village with his neighbours. They were not long in arriving. Mr. King talked far into the night with the people, who belonged to the high-spirited, war-like Rajputs of the olden days.

This cast of people, although now very peaceable, hard working and thrifty, were quite war-like before the English government had control of the land, and were accustomed to plunder their quiet neighbours who lived on the plain. The Rajpats are still a noble people, and in these terrible famine days prefer to cling to their tattered garments rather than sell them for a little food, and thus dishonour their persons in nudity.

When we made preparation to sleep in the humble Indian Hotel, to people did their best to make us comfortable. They brought some home-made beds, pames and duah, (water and milk) which was all they had, besides the coarse, root bread. After eating a little lunch, we went to bed, thankful that God had brought us out from England and from Canada to be a blessing to these poor people.

In the early morning the people gathered round us to seek help from the "Sahibs." Such a pitiable sight I had never witnessed before. Nearly all the women were in rags, their husbands and sons in many cases being dead. Most of the women were ill, and the language of nearly all was "Oh, how lovely it would be, if I could only die!" I do not exaggerate in the least when I say that several women wore sardies, a loose, seamless garment their only clothing, with quite filthy pieces stitched together, and after all the effect was a bundle of rags and tatters. Many of the children even as old as ten and twelve had no clothing whatsoever. The rest, with very few exceptions, had nothing but a bundle of twisted, torn rags about the loins. The men were also in much distress, many being ill and weak, because of the lack of proper intuitions of food. A number of orphan children were in the crowd, with not a living soul to look after them. As Mr. King acts as government official, as well as missionary, he could give them an order for a few sardies, and help the sick a little, but this is only a drop in the bucket to what should be done for these destitute people.

Cases of the dreadful black rot disease are still common among the inhabitants. In this village of Chetha, about which I am writing, there is a bright little chap doomed to a speedy death by this disease, which usually begins in the jaws and face of the patient. The parts afflicted rot away very quickly. The disease is caused by the filthy food, which the people are obliged to eat very often.

The villagers in the next place we visited were subsisting almost entirely on coarse bread, made from a black, tasteless root. The same heart-breaking were witnessed in this village also. Think of the poor mothers trying to keep their children alive on the root bread just described. I could not help seeing one poor old emaciated woman, whose body was broken out in ugly sores. I felt like praying God to speedily end her miserable existence.

Naturally, one would rather refrain from mentioning such horrible sights, but if the missionaries and officials have to see such things constantly, surely the friends at home can afford to have the state of affairs brought to their attention through the press.

Several other villages were visited before we finally reached Sanand. I think the little that has been given will suffice to show the need of something being done for these wretched people.

I would like to emphasize the great blessing that money, given for grain, will bring to Gujarat. I trust that many generous persons will respond speedily, so that any funds received may be distributed carefully and systematically before the rainy season, when grain should be sown.

Throughout Gujarat, with its eleven million people, the need is pressing. I write because I feel it is my duty to do so; I believe there are many who will help when the need is known.

I brings nothing but added labour to the missionary to tell of the needs here and distribute funds when received. Would one be Christian, however, if no mention was made of these things?

Please send all contributions to the editor of this paper, who will remit the same to Rev. Louis F. Turnbull, by bank draft on Bombay Bank, Ahmedabad Branch.

SHIPPING COMBINE.

It Will Take Over the British Shipping Companies.

TO PASS UNDER AMERICAN FLAG

The Daily Express Affirms That There Will Be an Attempt to Coerce Canada, and If There Be Resistance the Purchase of Canadian Railways and Commercial War Will Follow.

London, April 25.—The Daily Mail affirms this morning that the agreement of the Atlantic shipping combine contains secret clauses to the effect that the American promoters of the concern intend to ask Congress to pass a new shipping bill permitting foreign built vessels to be brought under the American flag. The adhesion of the Cunard line is practically certain, continues The Daily Mail, and the corporation will be formed mainly within American capital. It will take over entirely the British shipping companies. Those companies refusing to join the combine will be compelled to fight for their existence. For the three or four years that the present admiralty contracts still have to run the paper adds, the vessels will remain under the British flag; at the expiration of this time the whole will pass under the American flag and be owned and run by the above mentioned corporation, which will eventually endeavor to carry its competition to every portion of the globe.

The Daily Express declares that the shipping combine is trying to coerce Canada into accepting its terms and conditions, as to emigration rates and traffic, and that, if resistance is made, the combine will buy up the Canadian railroads and declare a commercial war. It is the intention of the combine, says The Daily Express, to demand that the Canadian emigration department in London should cease to give facilities to Elder-Dempster Co.

In the House of Commons yesterday:

The Ship Subsidies.

The Secretary of the Admiralty, Hugh O. Arnold-Forster, replying to a question, said the Admiralty was considering the whole matter of ship subsidies, with the view of defining the rights of the Admiralty in the event of contingencies arising, such as the suggested shipping combine. When the present form of agreement was settled upon, no trade combinations under foreign control were contemplated, but the Admiralty had appointed a committee to consider and report on the purpose and form of future subsidy agreements. The Admiralty, in the meanwhile, had made arrangements with the White Star Line, which preclude the possibility of any of their armed cruisers or merchant steamers being transferred to a foreign flag without the consent of the Admiralty during the unexpired portion of the Admiralty agreements. Important legal points were involved, including the questions whether, in the event of war, there was anything to prevent these companies from substituting a foreign for the British flag at short notice, and whether the Admiralty has the means of enforcing its right of pre-emptian or hire in such case; or if, by abandoning the subvention the companies could claim that the right of pre-emption ceased. All such points would be carefully considered and the Admiralty's rights would be ascertained.

Sounds Note of Alarm.

London, April 25.—Rear Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, in the course of his first speech, made last night, in his election campaign for the seat for Woolwich, in the House of Commons, referred to the shipping combination. He said he declined to believe that British trade and commerce were yet jeopardized, but he admitted it might come to that unless Great Britain changed her present methods.

SOVEREIGN BANK WAS ORGANIZED.

Archibald Campbell, M. P., Presided at Meeting.

BOARD DIRECTORS ELECTED.

There Have Been 15,331 Shares of Stock Subscribed, Representing $1,533,000.

Organization of the new Sovereign Bank of Canada was effected at a meeting of the shareholders yesterday in the temporary office, No. 14 West King street. Archibald Campbell, M.P., Toronto Junction, presided, and D. M. Stewart, the general manager, acted as secretary. The bylaws governing the bank were approved, and a motion was passed, conveying thanks to the Trust and Guarantee Company for their generous assistance to the provisional directors in connection with the preliminary work. T. P. Coffee made an appropriate reply.

On being called upon, Mr. Stewart reviewed the history of the institution since undertaken a short time ago, and reported that the total subscriptions thus far received amounted to 15,331 shares, or $1,533,000. It was decided to meet the wishes of the subscribers as far as possible, to make an allotment of $1,300,000, instead of $1,000,000, as at first intended, the authorized capital being $2,000,000. The stock is distributed among 660 persons, or about 19 shares to each person. Mr. Stewart mentioned that the Sovereign was the first bank to get a charter under the amended Bank Act, and in compliance with the requirements deposited $250,000 with the Finance Minister and Receiver-General some five weeks weeks ago. He reported that the Toronto office would be open for business on May 1st, and pointed out that his aim would be to secure a safe and sound business for the shareholders, rather than to do a very large business at the risk of incurring losses. He had every expectation that the bank would do very well, but asked the shareholders to be lenient in the matter of looking for heavy dividends from the very outset. They would come he was certain, in a very short time.

The appointment of the bank staff and also of outside agents, was deferred until a later meeting.

Mr. W. Mortimer Clark, K. C., and Hon. G. T. Baird, of New Brunswick were appointed scrutineers, and the following directors were elected: — H. S. Holt, Montreal, president Montreal Light, Heat and Power Co.; A. A. Allan, Toronto, A. A. Allan & Co., wholesale furriers, etc.; Archibald Campbell, M. P., Toronto Junction, Queen City Flour Mills, president Equity Fire Insurance Co., etc.; Jas. Carruthers, Montreal, James Carruthers & Co., grain exporters; Randolph Macdonald, Toronto, Manning & Macdonald, contractors, director of Crown Life Assurance Co.; Hon. Peter McLaren, Senator, Perth, Director Toronto General Trusts Corporation; Hon. D. McMillan, Senator, Alexandria, Director Merchants Fire Insurance Co.; John Pugsley, Toronto, Pugsley, Dingman & Co., and Henry R. Wilson, New York, President Lincoln Trust Company.

LOCAL LEGAL.

ROSEBOROUGH vs. McILMOYLE.

This was an action tried at the last Sittings of the Division Court, which excited a good deal of interest among the farmers living in the neighborhood of Lakefield, the question being whether the defendant was bound to pay for certain pigs which he had bought, they being over the value of $40, and there being no memorandum in writing in regard to the contract and no payment of any part of the purchase money. The defendant never saw the pigs, but they were delivered at the Lakefield Cheese Factory in accordance with his instructions. Word was sent him the day after the delivery of the pigs that they were there and a few days after that he offered to sell them to the cheesemaker. The judgment delivered involves a great deal of research and a very large number of precedents have been examined, with the result that His Honour finds that there may be delivery to an agent without the necessity of actual delivery to the defendant or inspection by him, and that there may be acceptance, by words only, and he finds as a matter of fact, that the defendant in this case did accept the hogs, which had been delivered in accordance with his instructions. The Judge therefore gives judgment for the plaintiff for the amount claimed. Messrs. Denniston, Peck & Stevenson, solicitors for the plaintiff; Messrs. Edmison & Dixon, solicitors for the defendant.

A LITTLE CONTRAST.

It is almost pathetic to see and hear the lament of Mr. Whitney and his organs and followers over the way they allege the Ross Government is "wasting" the lands and resources of New Ontario.

Mr. Whitney complains of the Government giving away "principalities" to pulp companies. If this were true, which it is not, for the Government has not given away a foot of land to any pulp company, it should make little difference to Mr. Whitney for he does not think New Ontario worth very much when he considers "the land of the stunted popular" an appropriate name for it.

The Opposition never did think New Ontario was worth much—at least not worth as much as helping its party friends at Ottawa. When the Conservatives at Ottawa tried to deprive Ontario of 100,000 square miles or 65 million acres of New Ontario, the Opposition helped the game and hampered the Liberal Government in its fight for our rights to this territory.

Mr. Whitney complains now of pulp concessions, but he has never found any fault with the way his party was dealing with the timber of what is now a part of New Ontario.

While the title to the territory was disputed, the Conservative Government at Ottawa parcelled out large blocks of the timber areas to party heelers without competition at the absurd figure of less than a cent an acre.

At this figure the whole timber area of New Ontario—100,000 square miles—would only bring, at $5 per mile, half a million dollars.

Contrast this with what wealth has been developed and what wealth is in sight under the administration of the Ontario Government.

The first of the pulp concessions which Mr. Whitney so rabidly and unreasonably condemned, was made in 1894 and the half dozen men employed in these works at that time has grown to 6,000 and the industries and enterprises flowing from this first pulp concession have involved an expenditure of about $12,000,000 which will be increased in the near future to $20,000,000.

Mr. Whitney and the Opposition say the Government are wasting our pulp forests. If every pulp mill with which an agreement has been made, worked to its full capacity, it would consume 320,000 cords a year, for which the Government would get in dues, at 40 cents per cord, $128,000, so that in five years, for pulp wood alone, the Ross Government, which is charged with giving away our pulp lands, would derive more revenue than the Conservative Government, in the early eighties, at the rate they were disposing of it, would have got for the whole hundred thousand miles of New Ontario.

But we have 288 million acres of pulp wood in New Ontario (not counting several million feet of pine.) This at the present rate per cord collected by the Government, forty cents would amount to the grand figure of 115 million dollars, as against the paltry $500,000, which the whole of New Ontario would have brought, if the Ontario Opposition could have helped their party at Ottawa to succeed in disposing of the timber at the rate of less than a cent an acre.

If the whole of the seven pulp mills to which right to cut and manufacture pulp wood has been given, worked to their full capacity, (320,000 cords a year), it would take them 900 years to cut and manufacture the pulp woods now in sight in New Ontario.

We observe, says the Hamilton Times, that the Conservative papers are now praising Mr. A. W. Campbell, and his work for good roads. That reminds us that the appointment of the good roads officer was strongly opposed by the Opposition, just as they have opposed nearly all the progressive measures of the last generation in Ontario.

TEMPTING THE BOMB THROWER

Man's inhumanity to man, as exemplified by corporate greed, was never more heartlessly displayed than by the Beef Trust in New York at the present time. Not satisfied with reaping enormous profits on meat, that combination, it is said, in order to prevent the people resorting to other kinds of food, determined to corner the egg market. For this purpose it secretly placed one hundred thousand cases of eggs in cold storage in Jersey City to dole out to dealers, or hold to suit its convenience in manipulating the market. At the same time it forced up the price of pork, veal and lamb, and compelled the dealers either to sell at its figures or shut up shop. As their figures allow the dealers little profit, it is said that the object of the trust is to drive the dealers out of business, and itself assume the retailing as part of its own gigantic system for fleecing the public. All canned meats and even lard have been fixed at monopoly prices, so that New York will have to pay those prices, turn vegetarian, or starve. It staggers belief that a monopoly could obtain such power in a city like New York and in a country like the United States. Still more incredible does it appear that, having the power, it would exercise it with ruthless determination and persistence, because it seems impossible that any people would submit to corporate tyranny so atrocious as this, and that, for its own sake, the trust would not force the victimized public to extremities. New York is pretty much in the position of a city besieged. Its daily supplies of food are held in storage, to be given out at such prices only as the monopoly may dictate. Thus an infant industry, nursed by protectiuon, has developed into a Frankenstein that is strangling its creator. Yet, strangest of all, the people of the United States maintain the protective duty of twenty-seven and a half per cent., out of which this cruel monster came and without which he could not live.—Montreal Witness.

CANADA'S CHEESE TRADE.

The last number of The Farming World contains a summary of and interesting comments upon a speech delivered by Hon. Mr. Dryden at the annual meeting of the Western Dairymen's Association, held at Woodstock. During the course of his address Mr. Dryden said he thought it would be possible to "forge a chain strong enough to hold our trade in cheese in Great Britain against all comers." He impressed upon those present the necessity of proper care and approved methods in the production of milk, and a better system of instruction and inspection. If the association could not accomplish this, he would see what could be done by the Government. To a deputation which afterwards waited upon him Mr. Dryden offered to take charge of two definite districts, one in the Eastern and the other in the Western Association district. Appropriation, the paper says, has been made for this and every branch of the work in the districts selected will be thoroughly over-looked. The Farming World believes this to be a long step in the right direction, adding:—"This means increased work in the Department of Agriculture, but the head of that department is not inclined to shrink from any duty for that reason."

THE NORWOOD BUDGET.

What is Going on in the Village to the East.

Mr. Ghent, of Toronto, who a few days ago purchased the legal business of Mr. W. A. F. Campbell, has arrived in town and taken possession.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rork, of Peterborough, spent Sunday here with their son, Mr. J. W. Rork.

Miss Johnston, of Hastings, was in town on Tuesday, calling on friends.

Mr. Ben Fife, who has been attending the Toronto Dental College, is home for the summer holidays.

Mr. Gaul, representing the Imporial Life Association Company, is in town this week, looking up business.

Mr. E. P. Cuffe was called suddenly to Rosenaath, to the bedside of his sister, Mrs. D. Drope, who is seriously ill.

Mr. A. J. Robertson, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Madgie, are spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. R. Watt, of Peterborough, was in the village on Monday.

The host of friends of Mrs. James Raddon will be pleased to learn that she is now convalescent after her serious illness.

Mrs. W. E. Roxburgh was in Peterborough on Friday last visiting her son, Mr. G. B. Cameron.

Mr. D. Fraser is the proud possessor of six young foxes, which he has on exhibition in his store window.

The concert given by the young ladies of the Presbyterian Church on Monday evening, was a decided success. Long before the hour of commencement the hall was packed, and many had to be turned away. Shortly after eight the curtains ware drawn and a flag chorus was given by about 15 little girls dressed in white. Then followed a very pleasing part of the programme. Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, who has for over 30 years been superintendent of the Sunday school, and who but recently resigned, was called to the platform, and presented with a beautiful gold-headed cane, and a pair of gold spectacles, accompanied by the following address;

W. E. Roxburgh, Esq., Norwood,—

Dear Mr. Roxburgh, — As you have resigned the position of superintendent of our Sunday school, and did not deem it advisable to reconsider your decision, there being no alternative, we, as a church, feel that we cannot accept your resignation without expressing our very high appreciation of your long and faithful service rendered to our church, and our heartfelt thankfulness for that service.

With the divine words ringing in our ears, "Thou shalt teach these words to thy children," "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart therefrom," and knowing something of the principles of life, character and conduct, we can see the tremendous importance of the work in which you have been engaged, upon which you have spent so much thought and time and to which you have brought so much unselfish effort and fidelity.

Your relation to the Sabbath school has been an example of the true idea of life. We come into life debtor to God and our fellow-men. Being variously endowed we must discharge the debt in various ways. As superintendent of our Sunday school you have recognized the fact that one's whole time should be devoted to God in the service of humanity. While the majority find that the burdens of business and domestic engagements is sufficient, you have found time to devote to the upbuilding of the Kingdom of Christ in the Sunday school, and thus you have shown what every one ought to do according to the measure of his ability.

We do not attempt to remunerate or reward you for the important and valuable service which you have given. In a very real sense you have had and are having your reward. As you take a retrospect of these long years of faithful and painstaking service, you have the satisfaction of knowing that you have thrown around your young brothers and sisters a Christ-inspiring and helpful influence, and as they attempt to do life's work, life to them is a brighter and grander thing because they were scholars in the Sunday school in which you were a teacher, and of which you were superintendent. You also realize that in preparing yourself for the work, and in doing it, there has become a growth in intelligence and expansion and development of the faculties, a broader and more sympathetic outlook and a mellowing of the entire nature, showing that after all a man's reward is the sense of having done one's duty in the Spirit of Love to humankind.

While this is true, our sense of gratitude prompts us to give expression to, and in some tangible way to show our appreciation of your long faithful, and self-sacrificing service. We do thank you, and we shall be pleased to have you accept this cane and these spectacles as souvenirs of our high esteem and our appreciation of your efforts.

We pray that you may enjoy many a bright day before you need to bring the cane into requisition, and by the blessing of the Divine Father you may still find scope for the Christ-like activity of your developed energies and ripened experience.

Signed on behalf of the church and Sunday school. Wm. Cuthbertson, A. Cunningham, P. E. Graham.

The address was read by Mr. F. E. Finlay, and the presentation made by Master R. Nicol, and Miss Lila Finlay. Mr. Roxburgh was taken entirely by surprise, but replied in a few suitable words.

The play of the evening was then presented, namely, "The Old Maids' Convention." It would be idle to select any particular one for special mention, as all took their parts splendidly and the ladies deserve a great deal of credit. The proceeds, which are in aid of the Sunday school, will amount to about $65.

WILL FIGHT STATE OWNERSHIP.

Capitalists of London Organize an Industrial Freedom League.

London, April 25.—The rapidly growing popularity of municipal and state ownership of industries will be fought henceforth by an organized effort on the part of rich capitalists who have just met for the purpose of solidarizing their forces.

Last night the Industrial Freedom League was launched by a number of these captalists and their friends, who believe that public ownership is not a good thing in spite of the fact that the people seem to think so well of it.

Among those who attended the meeting were Lord Claude Hamilton, chairman of the Great Eastern Railway Company; Alexander Henderson, chairman of the Great Central Railway; Lord Avebury, Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, president of the Grand Trunk Railway; Sir John Rolleston, M.P., and Vicary Gibbs, M.P.

The speakers expressed great alarm for the public welfare. Active opposition to the spreading doctrine of public ownership will be begun at once.

THAT AWFUL GAS.

For Years This Form of Indigestion had Troubled Mr. Harmer—Now all the Bloating and Belching has Gone.

Indigestion manifests itself in many forms. One of the most trying and unpleasant symptoms is the formation of gas in the stomach, and the consequent belching up, bloating and distress.

This was how it affected Mr. W. H. Harmer, of Avonmore, N.B., and in this way he had been troubled for a long time. Nothing he used as a medicine seemed to improve his condition until he commenced a treatment of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

This favourite remedy once more demonstrated its wonderful curative properties by immediately relieving and in a very short time completely curing Mr. Harmer's trouble.

He has written a letter in which he expresses his gratitude to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets for their prompt and satisfactory cure of his trouble. He says:

"I know of several others here who have used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets with good results."

The evidence of these wonderful cures pour in daily from all parts of the Dominion. From east, west, north and south come grateful letters from people in all stations of life, who had almost given up hope of ever being cured, and who have found in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a remedy they so long had sought.

The wonder is that every Dyspeptic has not already heard of and used this remedy.

One of the serious symptoms of this disease is fear and doubt, and this may account for the fact that there is a single case of Dyspepsia left in the Dominion of Canada.

Surely these earnest, honest letters and statements of living men and women will convince the most skeptical Dyspeptic that to suffer a moment longer when a cure is at hand is unnecessary.

What has cured all kinds of cases, of every conceivable form, in old people and in young people, is surely worth a trial.

If you don't believe, ask these people, or any one else who has given Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a fair trial.

RAILWAY ESTIMATES

Mr. Blair's Statement Regarding the Intercolonial.

AIMS FOR THE GEORGIAN BAY

Large Sums Spent For Equipment and on the Roadbed—Minister of Railways Points Out the Exceeding Inconsistency of the Opposition—Mr. Haggart's Attack Laughingly Squelched.

Ottawa, April 25.—The long-expected debate on the Intercolonial estimates was opened yesterday by a vigorous and businesslike statement of the affairs of the road by the Minister of Railways, and somewhat extended attacks on the Minister by Messrs. Haggart and Barker. Mr. Haggart repeated a rumor that Mr. Blair was negotiating for the sale of the Intercolonial to the Dominion Securities Company, which Mr. Blair denied emphatically, with a laugh at its absurdity. The debate on the estimates promises to last for several days.

The International Railway.

Shortly after opening the House went into supply on the railways and canals estimates. Mr. Blair made a general statement of the operations of the Intercolonial and the criticisms that have been made. On capital account the amount for the year now asked for the Intercolonial Railway was $1,975,000. There would be some addition to that in the supplementary estimates, but the amount was not considerable. This sum was less than the corresponding estimates of last year by $3,073,000. The Prince Edward Island Railway called for capital expenditures of $510,000, $24,000 above that of last year. The canal expenditure on capital account would be $1,375,950. The total reduction of the capital vote would be $4,270,000 on railways and canals. In this connection Mr. Blair referred to some of the Opposition criticisms of Intercolonial Railway capital expenditure during the past five years. The total expenditure in capital for the Liberal period was $12,486,961, including the estimates for the present year. Of this, great amounts were for rolling stock, rails and fastenings, increased accommodation, station buildings and the Canso ferry service. The amount for these services was $6,973,000, and for the Drummond County line $450,000 was paid. For this year the capital estimates were $4,000,000. He asked if anyone would question the necessity of these expenditures, and whether, looking at the increased business, it was not necessary to have increased facilities. In the last year of Mr. Haggart's regime the gross earnings of the road were $957,000. They had steadily increased, and in 1901 they were $4,-972,000, a few dollars less than $5,-000,000. From the close of the fiscal year the earnings had increased $40,000 a month, and were now over one-half million more than at the same time last year. He asked if these figures did not justify a large expenditure on capital account. Down to '96 the Intercolonial Railway had no more rolling stock than it required for a $3,000,000 business, and with a business of twice that amount he asked if more rolling stock was not required.

Mr. Blair quoted from the records to show that his predecessors had originated and adopted the practice, which the Opposition now condemned, of making extensions and increasing the accommodation and facilities on the Intercolonial Railway out of capital. It was enough, he said, to try the patience of Job when the men who had actually initiated the practice denounced him for having followed their example.

Mr. Blair proceeded to show why a surplus of $120,000 in the previous year had been converted to a deficit of $488,000 last year. Three hundred thousand dollars more had been spent for maintenance of ways and works; from July 1st the Intercolonial had to pay $3.30 per ton for coal, as against $2.20 the previous year, an increase of 50 per cent., representing an extra expenditure of $280,000; the wages of the conductors, engineers, firemen and train hands and the trackmen were also increased, amounting to $120,000, making an increased expenditure, as compared with the previous year, of $700,000. Yet with this increased expenditure the deficit was only $488,000. With some warmth Mr. Blair defended the increase of wages of the employes, and expressed the opinion that the Government should not expect men they employed to work for less than they could get on other railways. Mr. Blair reminded the House that laborers, who formerly received $1 per day, were now getting $1.25; the trackmen, who formerly received $1.10 per day, had been raised to $1.20, and he did not hesitate to express the opinion that ere long still more would have to be paid them.

Mr. Blair predicted better times in store for the Intercolonial Railway. He figured it out on the basis of the receipts and expenditures for the eight months of the current year. As compared with those for the corresponding period of last fiscal year, the statement is thus:

	Eight months 1902.	Eight months 1901.
Working expenses.....	$3,837,119	$3,917,682
Gross earnings.	3,700,850	3,260,000
Deficit	136,269	657,682

As the deficit had been cut down to $80,000 during the last four months of 1901, he believed the deficit of $136,269 for the eight months of this year would also be reduced considerably by the end of June. He therefore thought that the deficit would be wiped out, and at the close of the year there would be a surplus of forty or fifty thousand dollars.

Hon. John Haggart.

Hon. John Haggart said that when he left the Intercolonial Railway in '96 he thought he was leaving it in as good shape as any road in America. The present Government ran it for two years on the same basis, and made a good showing with it. Now he was not surprised that he was condemned. Mr. Blair had spoken of extending the Intercolonial Railway to Georgian Bay or farther west. He proposed to discuss briefly the administration of the present short line, to see what were the prospects for Government ownership an a larger scale.

Mr. Haggart charged the Minister with political jobbery in making advances on the locomotives built at Kingston, and in buying 1,250,000 ties for the Intercolonial Railway, 800,000 more than were required. Nearly a third of these ties were not up to the specifications. It was even said that these ties were paid for in excess of the contract. The ties purchased in May last were not yet inspected and counted. He hoped the people of this country were not so debauched as not to turn out the Government that had spent money lavishly for the purpose of debauching constituencies; there could be no other reason for giving a contract for rails at higher prices than the tenders, and for assisting their candidate at Kingston.

When Mr. Blair talked of extending the Intercolonial Railway to North Bay, Mr. Haggart wondered if he intended to do it through the syndicate with which he was negotiating for the sale of the Intercolonial Railway in New York during his recent visit there, and through his agent, Mr. Pugsley. Mr. Haggart, in this connection, read long extracts from the prospectus of the Dominion Securities Company of New York, of which Dr. Seward Webb is President, in which it was stated that the company had acquired Nova Scotia railway charters carrying subsidies and land grants that would give them a clear profit on building of $8,000 a mile, or $5,800,000.

Mr. Johnston (Cape Breton, Mr. Matheson and Hon. Wm. Ross denied the truth of the assertions in these circulars, and Mr. Blair and Mr. Fielding subsequently gave an equally emphatic repudiation of the statements respecting Dominion grants.

Mr. Haggart said that it was rumored in New York that Mr. Blair was dickering with the syndicate for the sale of the Intercolonial Railway.

Mr. Blair, laughing—That is absolutely untrue.

Mr. Haggart concluded by saying that immense sums of money were every year being flung into what was practically a sinkhole, from which the Government would receive no return.

After remarks by Hon. Mr. Fielding, Mr. Osler and Mr. Barker, the committee rose and the House adjourned at midnight.

THE TELEPHONE BILL.

Control of Rates by Governor-General Accepted by Committee.

Ottawa, April 25.—The Bell Telephone bill was up before the Senate Committee yesterday, when a whole batch of technical amendments were proposed. Some of them were carried and some were defeated.

The main point at issue was the control of rates by the Governor-General. It was accepted by the committee and formulated in a clause which was satisfactory to those representing the municipalities. It is provided that the rates in any municipality may be increased or diminished from those now existing. Upon application the Governor-General is to commission a judge to make the enquiry and report whether such increase or diminution should be made. The judge may compel the attendance of witnesses under oath, and require the production of books and papers. Control of rates also means control of charges for long-distance messages.

Companies Exempted.

Ottawa, April 25.—The Senate Committee on the Companies Act added telegraph and telephone companies to the list of companies to which the act does not apply.

OTTAWA LIBERALS.

Hon. G. W. Ross and Mr. Latchford Address a Meeting.

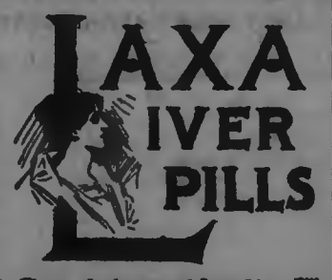
Ottawa, April 25.—The opening of the Provincial campaign at the capital was inaugurated last night by a meeting at which the Premier of Ontario and one of his most able lieutenants, Hon. F. R. Latchford, were the chief speakers. It was a gathering of an informal character and called after but a few hours' notice. Nevertheless, the Reform Association's hall was packed to overflowing and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. Mr. Ross did not make any elaborate campaign deliverance, but spoke in a general way upon organization and other matters.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

Premier Ross will speak in Lindsay on May 1.

L. V. McBrady has accepted the East Toronto Liberal nomination.

Hon. G. W. Ross, Hon. J. R. Stratton, William Anderson and Rev. Dr. Dewart will deliver addresses at Havelock on Friday evening.



LAXA LIVER PILLS

Those who have used Laxa-Liver Pills say they have no equal for relieving and curing Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Coated Tongue, Foul Breath, Heart Burn, Water Brash or any disease or disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels.

Mrs. George Williams, Fairfield Plains, Ont., writes as follows: "As there are so many other medicines offered for sale in substitution for Laxa-Liver Pills I am particular to get the genuine, as they far surpass anything else for regulating the bowels and correcting stomach disorders."

Laxa-Liver Pills are purely vegetable; neither gripe, weaken nor sicken, are easy to take and prompt to act.

SHOULD BE STOPPED.

Indians Said to be Committing Vandalism in the Back Country.

Considerable excitement existed amongst the Stony Lake cottagers yesterday, when they saw some Indians offer for sale a large load of red cedar. The Indians claimed that they took the cedar of the islands reserved for them, but the cottagers were not inclined to believe that they had virtue enough to resist taking a tree on a private island, and naturally felt annoyed. It is as a matter of fact, contrary to law to take red cedar trees off any island and the department at Ottawa has been notified of the occurrence.

About 30 years ago some greedy vandals swept the islands of all the fine red cedar. It was drawn to Peterborough and shipped to New York by car loads to be manufactured into lead pencils, and that is why the Peterborough people see so many tops of old red cedar trees on the islands. It has been turned and cut up into ornaments ever since. Now to cut down young trees is a pure act of vandalism, and must be stopped.

MECHANICAL DRAWING EXAMS.

Thirteen Candidates Wrote on the Papers Last Evening.

The departmental examination in connection with the Library Class in Mechanical Drawing, was held in the Y.M.C.A. last evening, Mr. Wm. Smith, principal of the Central School, presiding.

Of a class of twenty that have taken up the study during the past seven months, thirteen presented themselves for examination, their names being as follows:S. Plummer, N. Miller, H. Fair, W. Moncrief, W. H. Vickers, F. Dawson, George Hall, R. McKee, W. Kennedy, G. Ferguson, F. Howson, C. Gilbert and D. Carlisle.

It is expected that a large number of these will secure certificates. The splendid showing is due to the good work done by the instructors, Messrs. Geo. Cliffe and W. H. Collier.

THE CORDOVA ROAD.

An Appropriation Will Very Likely be Made for it Very Shortly.

(Havelock Standard.)

As our readers are aware, a grant of $200 was recently made by the county council for the improvement of the road leading from Havelock to Cordova Mines, on condition that the township grant $150; private subscribers, $50, and the Ontario Government, $500. On Tuesday, Mr. J. B. McWilliams, of Peterborough, acting under instructions from the Ontario Government, made an inspection of the road and it is understood that he will report in favour of the grant, and will also recommend that Provincial Good Roads Inspector Campbell, visit the district and give instructions as to the best way of doing the work. This will be cheering news to Havelock and Belmont, as the expenditure of this amount of money should make a first-class road to this enterprising mining town.

LIEUT. SHAW'S APPOINTMENT.

A Young Officer of the Dragoons Receives a Commission.

Still another officer of the Third Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons has gone to the front, and incidentally that regiment has received an honour. Lieut. Alfred Shaw, of the Millbrook Squadron of the Dragoons, will go as a commissioned officer, having been appointed to a first lieutenancy in one of the squadrons. He is the youngest officer of the Dragoons, not being over 21 years of age, but perhaps there is none more enthusiastic. He is the son of Mr. William Shaw, a prominent Cavan farmer, near Millbrook. Lieut. Shaw possesses excellent qualifications, and during the past few months he has been taking a special course at the R.M.C., Kingston. This makes five officers that the Dragoons will have in South Africa, viz., Major Brown, Lieutenant Hayward, Lieutenant Price, and Lieut. Shaw. All excepting the latter are serving as privates or non-coms. Lieut. Shaw is indeed to be congratulated.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss A. K. Shaw and Mr. C. F. DeMill.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Major at 341 Rubidge street, was last night the scene of a very pretty wedding, the contracting parties being Miss Amey Kathleen Shaw, of Bedford, England, and Mr. Charles Fremont De Mill, of the Canadian General Electric Co., and formerly of Hamilton, Ont.

At eight o'clock the bridal party entered the parlour, the wedding march being played by Miss May Koster. The bride, who looked charming in a gown of crepe de chene, draped with applique, was attended by Miss L. Koster, who wore a pretty suit of cream cashmere, trimmed with over-applique. The groom was ably supported by Mr. R. Cottrell. Rev. J. G. Potter securely tied the nuptial knot.

After the hearty congratulations had been extended to Mr. and Mrs. De Mill, the gathering repaired to the dining room, where a sumptuous wedding repast was spread upon a prettily decorated table. This being over, an impromptu programme of songs, recitations, etc., followed, the numbers being contributed by those present.

The presents to the bride were both numerous and costly, and evinced the high esteem in which she is held by her many friends.

LACROSSE.

The Athletic-Lacrosse Club organized last night, and the formation of a four club town league is now assured and it now only rests with the clubs to appoint representatives to attend a meeting and draw up a schedule of the games to be played.

There was a large and enthusiastic attendance of lacrosse players in the Oriental parlours, last evening, when the club to be known as the "Athletics" was organized.

After some preliminary discussion concerning the prospects; for the formation of a good team, the reports given by enthusiasts present were so encouraging that organization was proceeded with at once, and the following officers were elected:

Pres.—H. R. H. Kenner.
1st Vice-Pres.—W. A. Sanderson.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Geo. Stevens.
Secretary—A. W. McPherson.
Treas.—H. Rush.
Manager—Jas. McCabe.
Executive Committee—E. S. Clarry, C. G. Graham, Ernie Wasson.

The Athletics are depending upon the following players being with them this year, the majority of them being present at last night's meeting: — Messrs. Watson, O Dusty, N Dusty, J McCabe, J T McCabe, H Armstrong, Fred Whitcroft, R Glover, G Lipsett, A W McPherson, Fred Clark, Geo. Mein, Wm. Galley, P. Carroll, Jas. Hards, Wm. O'Brien, H. Clark, Chris Graham, Ed Dillon, H Morgan, H Dunford, T Glover, H Gunsolus, E Wasson.

BASEBALL.

The choir boys of St. John's church have organized a baseball club with the following officers:

Hon. Pres.—Mr. Gliddon.
Pres.—Mr. Alex. Elliott.
1st Vice-Pres. — H. W. Morphet.
2nd Vice-Pres.—A. A. Hollingshead.
Secretary—Charlie Ray.
Treasurer—Charlie Kingscotte.
Captain—Vernon Morphet.
Committee—Roy. Deacon, Arthur Seward, Frank Halpany, Allan Campbell and Alf. Hodgson.

T. A. S. ATHLETICS.

There was a good turnout of the members of the T.A.S. Athletic Club last evening on the Separate School grounds, the members of the lacrosse club turning out in large numbers. The meeting held after practice in the T.A.S. rooms was well attended and a number were present who intend identifying themselves with the Athletic Club. Rev. Dr. O'Brien was present and gave a short address to the boys concerning the lacrosse club. A good natured discussion followed on lacrosse matters and the indications are that the T.A.S. will have a strong team in the field. A field captain will be elected next week, and it is expected that practice will start in earnest at the beginning of the week. The secretary was instructed to order one dozen sticks from McBrierty, of Montreal.

THE NEW RINK.

A Circular Letter That is Being Sent out to Citizens of the Town.

The following letter is being sent out by the promoters of the new skating and hockey rink in Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—As you are no doubt aware an energetic effort is being made by a number of our public citizens, towards organizing a Joint Stock Company for the purpose of erecting a New Hockey and Skating Rink. About $4,600 has already been subscribed, but it has been thought that it would not be advisable to undertake the erection of the structure until at least $2,000 more is in sight. There should be very little difficulty in raising this amount, if the people of the town properly understood the facts regarding the erection of a new rink; and the moral and physical benefits that would accrue to the benefit of the young people of the town through this medium.

It is a well known fact that skating and hockey are the two chief public amusements that our young people participate in during the winter evenings, and a rink is the only place at which they can meet and enjoy themselves, and at the same time obtain that recreation and exercise that is required to fit them physically for the struggle of life in later years.

It is well that the fact should be kept in view that from a moral standpoint, the erection of a new and up-to-date rink is very desirable; no one dare dispute this fact, as it is much better that our young men should spend their evenings in healthy and enjoyable exercise, than in wasting their time and money, as well as falling into bad habits, loafing on the street corners, or in the billiard or bar rooms of the town.

There are many who think that the erection of a new rink is not a paying investment to stockholders. A careful study of the receipts and expenditures of the old rink, in spite of its lack of accommodation, will prove the contrary. There is every reason to believe that from a financial aspect the new rink will give returns sufficient to pay good interest on the investment, as the following figures showing the operations of the old rink for the season 1901-2 testify:

Hooper, Fred Nicholls, A A Hollingshead, and many others.

The conduct of the Peterborough Hockey Club, Champions of the Intermediate Series of the O. H. A. for the season 1902, was such as to draw forth many complimentary references from the officials of the Association, and the press of the Province. Thay were a credit to the town, both on and off the ice, and they won the high position they now hold, handicapped very seriously by the use of a small rink with poor accommodation.

In view of the facts above recited, we trust that you will see your way clear to subscribe for a few shares of stock in the new company.

BEAUTIFYING THE TOWN.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — Yesterday, for the first time this spring, I took a walk in the vicinity of the corner of Charlotte and Park streets, and was pleased to notice that the triangular little plot formed by the intersection of these two streets, and Downie street, was receiving attention. The plot has been enclosed with a wire railing, trees planted, and the grass has been raked out clean by, I found out, Mr. J. L. Hughes, who has generously offered to look after the little park during the summer.

I noticed that the trees had been planted without regard to taste—planted in straight rows like the plants in a cabbage garden. Nature never plants trees in straight rows, and man should not do do so, except along streets where the space for planting is limited to a straight line, or in an orchard, for purposes of convenience, and of securing proper distance. I noticed that the trees planted were a sorry lot to look at, but they are elms, and if they have good roots, will, with care, develop into magnificent trees. Elms are the only trees that will thrive on the gravelly soil of this place — they are surface feeders, and will extend their roots along under the surface wherever good soil is to be found. It is shameful that this place has been so neglected by the Town Fathers. Ten years ago this place was levelled and the first trees planted; but hardly one, if one, of the original plant is living. They were neglected, left unstaked, and unwatered, and, of course, they died. Besides, maples were planted, and they won't live or thrive on such gravelly soil—the mistake has been made this year of planting some maples—very poor, rough-barked, unthrifty trees, taken from the depths of the woods, where they have been years growing to a size which they should attain, in good soil, in half the time. Almost every year for ten years, trees have been planted in this place and allowed to be broken down by cows and hogs, or to perish from lack of water.

I should like to see the Town Fathers take more interest in beautifying the town. Its present beautiful appearance, with its abundance of trees, is not due to the Town authorities, but to the enterprise and taste of the citizens themselves. The town should provide trees for the citizens to plant, and protect young trees; they should jail every man who destroys or injures a tree by fastening his horse to it, and should jail every telegraph or telephone lineman who wantonly slashes and maims growing trees.

Before closing I wish to pay a well-deserved tribute to Mr. J. L. Hughes, who lives at Park Place. He has been trying for years in the most public-spirited manner to induce the town to plant trees and put in water so that the grass could be kept green and the trees alive. He has offered to look after this park himself, and the steps he has taken this spring are evident in the greatly improved appearance of the spot, which would now be shaded with beautiful trees if the trees first planted had been looked after, as the trees will be cared for this year. I know of elms planted the same time as the first trees in this park, which are 30 feet in height, with fine spreading branches, and the trunks a foot in diameter at the ground.

Yours, etc.,
TOWNSMAN.

CARTWRIGHT'S CASE

An Acrid Discussion in the British House of Commons

BITTER DEBATE ON MARTIAL LAW

Mr. Morley Claims That the Detention of Mr. Cartwright, After He Has Served His Sentence in South Africa Is Unconstitutional—The Government's Position—Majority For the Government 77.

London, April 25.—The forcible detention in South Africa of Albert Cartwright, who, while editor of The South African News, charged Lord Kitchener, prior to the engagement with General Dewet, with ordering his officers to shoot all prisoners, formed the subject of a heated debate in the House of Commons last evening.

Mr. Morley (Liberal), moved the adjournment of the House, which practically amounted to a vote of censure on Lord Kitchener, and Lord Milner in particular. Mr. Morley pointed out that Mr. Cartwright, who had served a year's imprisonment for libel, now desired to come to England, and that his detention was illegal, unconstitutional and tyrannical.

He added that the explanation of Lord Stanley, the Financial Secretary of the War Office, (who served in the South African war as chief press censor, and afterwards acted as private secretary to Lord Roberts), that the Government did not think it desirable to increase the number of anti-British propagandists in this country, was the most outrageous heard in the House since Simon de Montfort invented Parliament.

The Secretary of State for War, Mr. Brodrick, in the course of a reply, raised a storm by saying that, although Mr. Cartwright had served his legal sentence, the question of his liberation was sub judice.

This brought forth a vehement protest from Sir William Vernon-Harcourt (Liberal), who declared that such a proposition was scandalous and contrary to the elementary principles of freedom.

Winston Spencer Churchill (Conservative), also delivered a few caustic sentences, saying he hoped the House would force the Government to withdraw within the limits of the law and observe the constitution.

Mr. Balfour, the Government leader, came to the support of the War Secretary, and contended that the Government was justified in detaining even a British subject if it thought his wanderings were calculated to injure the interests of South Africa. Those voting for the adjournment would be condemning Lord Kitchener and Lord Milner, in whose keeping, at this moment, rested their hopes of peace.

James Bryce (Liberal) and Sir Robert Reid (Liberal) twitted the Ministers for again interposing Lord Kitchener as a buffer between the Government and the House. They both scathingly denounced the present action of the Government as a gross abuse of power.

The spirit of revolt spread to the Government benches. Ian Malcolm (Conservative) who is said to have been heretofore an unswerving supporter of the Government, warmly repudiated Mr. Balfour's argument that those voting for the adjournment would be showing themselves careless of British honor. After such an incident, he no longer felt sure the members of the Government would say they had clean hands in this regard. War or peace would not be facilitated by such violations of the liberty of the subject.

Other supporters of the Government followed in the same strain, even Ivor Churchill Guest (eldest son of Lord Wimborne, a Conservative, and a cousin of the Duke of Marlborough), urging the Government to realize that its position was untenable, and to make some concession.

The House then divided, and the motion for adjournment was defeated by 259 to 182 votes.

Nine Unionists voted against the Government.

The Government leader, A. J. Balfour, announced in the House of Commons yesterday that an autumn session of the House will be necessary to deal with arrears of legislation.

Malt Breakfast Food

Is Their Favourite Dish.

One of the strongest and most striking proofs of the great popularity of Malt Breakfast Food is the fact that the Ralston Health Club members numbering over ten millions in Canada and the United States, have made it their favourite breakfast dish.

This king of breakfast cereals possesses all the important virtues for the building of health and bodily strength.

It is partially cooked and predigested, therefore requires no digestive effort; it is readily assimilated, and always retained on the most delicate stomach.

Malt Breakfast Food is generally recommended by our ablest physicians as the best diet for the strong and weak, for invalids and convalescents. One package makes from twenty-five to thirty meals. All grocers sell it.

Letters Patent and Licenses.

Toronto, April 25.—The Provincial Secretary and Registrar reports, in regard to industrial and commercial companies, that in 1900 there were issued 487 letters patent, supplementary letters patent and licenses, while last year 547 instruments, either incorporating or licensing companies, were granted. The total amount of fees collected by the department last year was $88,648, of which $75,782 was received for letters patent and licenses, compared with $71,179 in 1900 and $60,817 in 1899, and $5,580 in 1891.

STOCK MARKETS.

Market Affording Profit-making Opportunities.

New York, April 23rd, 1902.—It has been a long time since the stock market afforded so many and constant opportunities for money-making as it does at present. We have persistently urged our readers to avail themselves of the money-making chances. The market is still a long way from its best prices. For some time to come buyers will have usual chances for rolling up profits. As we noted a few days ago, London has come into the American market as a buyer. Higher prices from that centre are now the fashion every morning. Their buying capacity is tremendous, and united to the home demand, which in the past two weeks has been greatly stimulated, the basis of the present market is of the very best. Each reaction brings in a group of eager buyers, desirous of purchasing stocks. We doubt if a better opportunity than at present has offered since the panic of May 9th, and we expect in many instances to see the higher prices of last year excelled. Several stocks are already higher than the best prices for that period. We again reiterate our advice to select the standard dividend payers that have made the smallest advances in the past four weeks, buy them after putting up liberal margin. In markets of this kind large margins are always advisable, in fact at any time the better margin a trader keeps upon his account, the more secure he is and less likely to meet with disaster. The situation among the southern railways is now definitely settled, and the shares of each will now commence to enhance in values. The south western situation has not yet come to a focus, but will do so soon. The stocks should all be good to buy at current figures. The drift of the current speculation seems to be to take two or three stocks at a time and whirl them upwards with lightning rapidity. When they rest, new issues being taken and treated in a similiar manner. Each group is bound to enjoy its turn. Buy the laggards, and wait for developements. — Haight & Freese Company.

New York, April 24.—The market was very firm in the early afternoon on cotton; the prices went to the top for the season on eager covering and active buying, based on another sharp rise in Liverpool.

CROP SCARES AND PAST INCIDENTS.

New York, April 24.—The crop scare man is now taking a hand in the market. This is one of his regular seasons. Regardless of him we believe the forward movement in prices will be carried on, as this is not a one crop country. The North-west had its spring wheat crop cut down in 1900 from 295 million bushels in 1898 to 190 bushels of winter wheat. Growers had a crop of 332 million bushels in 1897 and 378 million bushels in 1898. During the whole of this period there was not a month that failed to show expanding earnings by the railroads.

The State of Kansas, whose corn crop was cut down in 1901 to only 42,600,000 bushels, less than one-third of the crop of the preceding year, and less than one-fifth of the crop of 1898, yet the value of the State's agricultural output in 1901 was the largest on record, amounting to $195,254,645, an increase in two years of over $25,900,000. Even railway officials have been fooled, basing predictions upon past performances. President Mellen of Northern Pacific took a gloomy view of the situation in 1900 owing to bad crops along his line. People sold the stock below fifty and had the misfortune to see it soar away above par in less than one year. Chairman Miller of St. Paul, was equally dubious as to results at the same time. He was equally wrong. The people who sold their stock last summer such as Atchison below 70, etc., on decimation of the corn crop, were all badly warmed, and paid huge losses as a result. The conclusion to draw, therefore, from past experience, is to make purchases on all concessations caused by bad crop talk. Crops which were formally from 15 to 30 per cent. of a railway tonnage, are to-day only about 9 per cent. of same as an average. This is a potent point which should be kept in mind by speculator and investor alike. Readings, Erie, C. & O., and Norfolk and W. roads located in the south, are out of the influence of the winter wheat crops. Their earnings are gaining by leaps and bounds. Again the policy of the railways has not been to distribute profits up to the last dollar. They all have fine surplus funds. The basis of the present market is of the very best. —Haight & Freese Company.

COLDS THAT WILL NEVER BE CURED

Are Being Contracted Every day—The Treatment Prescribed by an Eminent Medical Author and Physician—Timely Action the all important Point in Treating Colds.

"Colds that will never be cured." A startling sentence, but you know it to be true. Scarcely a day passes but some death from consumption, pneumonia or similar ailment emphasizes the truth of this statement. It is well to remember a newly-contracted cold can, in almost every case, be cured. It is the neglected cold that leads to death—the cold that runs on and on—the cold that is added to by fresh colds from time to time.

But what treatment is to be chosen from the great number of remedies that are recommended? You can use common-sense in buying medicine, just as you can in the purchase of a piano, a bicycle or a sewing machine. Find out what treatment has the best record in the past, apply the test of time and get the opinion of people who know from experience.

If you apply this test to medicines for coughs, colds and similar ailments, you will select Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, because of the extraordinary merits which it possesses, and which have become known to the public generally through years of trial. The sales of this remedy are far in excess of any similar preparation, and have never been so large as during the present season. These two facts are, we believe, the strongest evidence that can be produced in verifying the merits of any remedy that has been thoroughly tested for years.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is prized especially because of its far-reaching effects, even in the most serious cases of bronchitis, whooping cough, croup and asthma. It is not a mere relief for coughs, but acts on the whole system thoroughly, curing the cold and removing chest pains, soreness of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and all inflammation of the respiratory organs.

Just a word of warning. There are other preparations of turpentine and linseed put up in imitation of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. To be sure you are getting the genuine, see portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase on the wrapper. Twenty-five cents a bottle, family size, three times as much 60 cents. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. 11

Boers May Trek West.

New Orleans, April 25.—Gen. Pearson, Boer agent here, received yesterday a letter from Lieut. Haberer, assistant secretary to President Kruger, announcing the establishment of a new Boer Republic in the Langenburg country, composed of Transvaal Boers, who during the present war have trekked across Bechuanaland and British South Africa, crossing the Kalaban, and have wedged themselves in between German Southwest Africa and Portuguese West Africa. Some Boers went there as early as 1885. Their number has been greatly increased since the beginning of the war, and it is thought that the irreconcilables will move there in the event of peace. It is the fifth trek taken by the Boers to escape British dominion.

The remainder of the men accepted by Dr. Nattress, some nine in number, will be sworn in by the colonel to-day.

The last detachment for the contingent from here will leave on Saturday evening for Halifax. The total number taken on was 168, out of 209 examined by Dr. Nattress.

Give Canada a Share.

London, April 25.—At a meeting of the Women's Emigration Association yesterday Lord Selborne, the First Lord of the Admiralty, strongly urged the settlement of British in South Africa as the only way the wounds of the war could be healed.

The line north of Rhodesia will thus be diverted from Germany to East Africa.

Always an Obstacle.

"There is always room at the top," said the good adviser.

"Indeed yes," answered the unfortunate person, "but the elevator is not always running."—Baltimore American.

When a man is drowning his rescue is a question of timely help. It is the same thing in disease. Many a time the doctor says of a man whose condition is hopeless, "If you'd begun in time you might have been cured."

This is especially true when the disease affects the lungs. Delay is dangerous. The timely use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will result in a quick cure of deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, and weak lungs. Even when hemorrhages have been frequent and profuse "Golden Medical Discovery" has been used time and again with the result of a perfect and permanent cure. Mr. McCauley, of Leechburg, Armstrong Co., Pa., had eighty-one hemorrhages, and after other medical aid had failed he was completely cured by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is no other medicine just as good for "weak" lungs.

"I was in poor health when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicine," writes Mr. Elmer Lawler, of Volga, Jefferson Co., Ind. "I had stomach, kidney, heart, and lung troubles. Was not able to do any work. I had a severe cough and hemorrhage of the lungs, but after using your medicine a while I commenced to gain in strength and flesh, and stopped coughing right away. Took about six bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' then, and last spring I had Grippe and it settled on my lungs, leaving me with a severe cough. I had the doctor, but he didn't seem to help me any; so I commenced your medicine again and took three or four bottles of the 'Discovery' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets, and that straightened me up. I feel like a different person. I gladly recommend your medicine to all sufferers, for I know it cured me."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Col. Otter will not inspect any more men for the contingent, having received word from Ottawa that the requisite number has been obtained.

Lieut.-Col. Nattress, A.M.S., will be busy to-day examining the last of those passed by Col. Otter. Those accepted by him yesterday were:

No Hope For Him.

Fair Visitor—What is this poor man in prison for?

Jailer—For the murder of his wife, ma'am.

Fair Visitor—Oh, what a pity! But isn't he sweet, though?

Jailer—Yes, ma'am. He's too sweet to live.

MARCO POLO'S BOOK

It Gave Columbus the Idea For His Voyage of Discovery.

Mediæval Europe knew but very little of eastern and northeastern Asia. Many of the most learned cosmographers of the time taught that Asia stretched eastward indefinitely, and no one imagined that it had an eastern coast washed by the ocean. It was seriously taught that eastern Asia was a land of vast swamps, inhabited by monster serpents and dragons. This was the opinion that still prevailed up to within 200 years of the time of Columbus.

At this time two Venetian merchants of the name of Polo went on a vast trading expedition to the uttermost parts of Asia. They were gone many years. Upon their return the son of one of them, a young man named Marco Polo, wrote out a full account of their travels, described the empire of the grand khan (the Chinese emperor) and revealed the fact that Asia was bounded on the east by a vast ocean. He described this eastern coast minutely, with all its vast cities and its wealth of precious stones and spices.

It was from reading this book that the imagination of Columbus was fired, and he conceived the bold idea of reaching this eastern coast of Asia by sailing toward the west around the earth.

So when he discovered Cuba he had not a doubt that he had landed upon the coast of Asia and that he looked upon the same scenes that Marco Polo had gazed upon 200 years before.

Irritating Pimples and Disfiguring Blotches.

They place many young girls at a great disadvantage in life. The only cure is a blood purifier like Ferrozone. It cleanses the crimson flood of poisons and impurities, renews and strengthens it, and makes lots of red corpuscles that manifest their presence by a ruddy, healthy glow in the cheeks and lips. Ferrozone quickly masters all skin eruptions, builds up broken-down constitutions, and gives to weak, sickly women an abundance of spirits, vitality, energy and beauty. Try Ferrozone, it's all right. Price 50c. per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

A Soulless Satrap.

The imaginative writer should avoid a newspaper editor as he (or she) would a wet spot on the pavement or a chill draft from a window. He is a harsh, unhappy man, the center of a cold wave, and the amenities of life are removed from him. He is a soulless satrap, a stifler of hope and enthusiasm, with one eye on the facts of the day and the other on his job. • • • If you leave your little work of art in his hands, he will lose it in his pigpen of a sanctum and sick the doorboy or the office cat at you when you complain, or he may print it unwittingly, mutilated and unsigned, and if he thinks to send you a check will pay less than for an account of a fire or a prizefight.

The Sufferings of Job.

If the agonies of Job were any worse than the tortures of itching piles from which so many people are now suffering he had much to endure. The difference is that there is no reason for any one to endure the miseries of piles for a single day. Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured tens of thousands of cases and is absolutely guaranteed to cure each and every case of piles. 60 cents at all dealers or by mail from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Three Meal Habit.

Our three meal habit is a fearful tax on our working capacity. It trebles the temptation to overeating. Our champions stagger under the weight of a physiological handicap. One-half of the functional energy of the system is diverted by the exigencies of digestion. No other hygienic mistake has done so much to make us a generation of dyspeptics as the custom of after dinner work. Its victims, moreover, incur the risk of contracting that form of moral dyspepsia called pessimism. It tends to rob the working day of its reward. —Success.

A Great Sufferer Cured

Mr. Benjamin Dillon, of Leeds, Ont., was cured of Muscular Rheumatism by Polson's Nerviline, and says: "I feel my duty is to proclaim Polson's Nerviline as an infallible cure for Rheumatism; it cured me after 30 years suffering, and nothing I know of can equal its penetrating power. Nerviline simply has no equal in quickly relieving and curing Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, and Lumbago. A trial will convince anyone. Price 25c.

ENGAGED GIRLS BARRED.

London Doctors say They Should not be Trained Nurses.

(London Telegraph.)

"No engaged girls need apply" is the latest phase of the nursing profession. Doctors and matrons have, it appears, been discussing the subject, and have come to the conclusion that damsels who are engaged to be married should not be admitted as probationers to training schools because, in the opinion of those staid, matter-of-fact persons, they only dally with nursing until the time comes to trip lightly into marriage, and thus stand in the way of those who intend to devote themselves whole-heartedly to their profession.

Moreover, doctors and matrons entertain a strong suspicion that not a few of these giddy candidates seek the privilege of wearing a nurse's uniform, with all the attraction it possesses, for the purpose primarily of working havoc among the hearts of medical students and others, with the view of speedy marriage. An argument used on the other side is that even young women who are engaged to be married would derive inestimable advantage from passing a year or two among nurses and learning something about how to treat simple maladies such as occur frequently in households. That may be so, but nursing is now a recognized profession, and those engaged in it do not look favourably on those whom they regard as matrimonial interlopers. So the engaged girl probationer is to be shelved.

An Adamless Ball.

One of the freaks of the artistic women of Berlin is to get up a ball every two years, called "the women painters' fete." Not a single male is admitted on this occasion. The ball lasts generally till about 6 o'clock in the morning. Although the women lay stress on refusing admission to men, a large number of the revelers don male attire, and one of the most striking features of the evening is the exuberant and frolicsome, not to say boisterous, fun these female "men" have with their partners.

During the evening an orchestra of women in men's dress clothes performed under the direction of an imitation of Herr Nikisch, the well known conductor. The night passed off merrily, and next day all the ladies who were there declared emphatically they had amused themselves divinely—far better than if men had been present at the entertainment.—London Times.

"THE PAIN WAS KILLING".

Rheumatism revels in the writhings of its victims until shorn of its pangs by South American Rheumatic Cure—it relieves in six hours and cures in one to three days.

Mrs. Geo. Smith of 62 Chaleur St., Point St. Charles, suffered terribly from Rheumatism in her joints. The pain was killing. Doctors' medicines temporarily deadened the pain, but effected no permanent relief. She began taking South American Rheumatic Cure, and when she had used four bottles was absolutely cured.

Dickens Said She Was a Woman.

It is said of George Eliot's literary style that its most marked characteristic is sympathy. And long before her identity had become known Charles Dickens, a singularly acute critic of his own art, detected her sex by this undercurrent of womanly sympathy. He had been reading "Scenes of Clerical Life," which had been sent to him by the publisher, and on putting the book aside he said, "Well, this writer possesses great ability, but I should say, despite the name, that George Eliot is a woman."

A SPLENDID GATHERING AT HUSTLING HAVELOCK.

Premier Ross Delivered a Magnificent Address Last Evening

IN MR. ANDERSON'S INTEREST

The Largest Political Meeting That was Ever Held in the Village.

PUBLIC QUESTIONS WERE DISCUSSED.

Speeches by Mr. Anderson, Hon. Mr. Stratton, Mr. T. Blezard and Mr. D. O'Connell—A Most Successful Occasion in Every Way.

A splendid gathering of the electors of Havelock and vicinity assembled in the town hall, Havelock, last night, to listen to a discussion of Provincial affairs in the interests of the Ontario Government and of the candidature of Mr. Wm. Anderson. Old residents described it as the largest political meeting ever held in Havelock.

The beautiful new town hall of the village was filled to the doors with a large, intelligent and enthusiastic audience, in which the ladies were largely represented. The hall was beautifully decorated with flags and appropriate mottoes. On the wall over the platform was the motto "God Save the King," and in other places were displayed the mottoes—"Ross for Ontario," "Anderson for East Peterborough," "Ontario, Canada, the Empire," "Build up Ontario," and "Success to Our Mining Interests."

Upon the platform, were seated, the chairman, Mr. W. T. Curtis, Reeve of Havelock; Hon. G. W. Ross, Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mr. Wm. Anderson, Liberal candidate for East Peterborough; Mr. T. Blezard, ex-M.P.P.; Mr. D. O'Connell, of Peterborough; Messrs. Charles O'Reilly, Norwood; Robert Burgess, Reeve of Belmont; —. Kelly, of Marmora; S. J. Cooley, Marmora; —. Rutherford, Seymour; —. Armstrong, Norwood; John Finlay, Norwood; John Brown, Rockdale; F. P. Purdy, Belmont; —. Kelly, Dummer; —. Nicholl, Dummer; —. Fitzpatrick, Asphodel; Geo. Keefer, Norwood, and Rev. Mr. Hamilton, Havelock.

Mr. Wm. Anderson,

the first speaker introduced, was very enthusiastically received. He began a brief address by expressing the pleasure it gave him to see so large a gathering of electors present to listen to a discussion of the questions at issue in the present campaign, and his remarks would be brief in deference to the presence of prominent members of the Government who would address the meeting. He had a good word to say for the beautiful decorations of the hall, and went on to say that he had been nominated by Mr. Blezard, as the candidate to contest the representation of East Peterborough, and had accepted the candidature, and he appealed to the support of the electors as a supporter of the Ross Government, because it was doing a great deal for the interests of the country. It had given splendid administration in the past, and had a policy which would bring about a great increase of prosperity and a great development of the wealth of the Province. He was in full sympathy with the policy of the Government. Among the questions which were urged in this contest was the temperance question, and Mr. Anderson said he was a temperance man and had been so all of his life, and without boasting he could be counted upon to be true to the interests of temperance. Mr. Anderson went on to refer to his personal relations to the county. He had served his native township as reeve for 25 years and had been on every occasion but one and he had never asked a man to nominate him. He had, for many years served the county in the County Council, as Reeve and Warden and had been a member of the most important committee of roads and bridges, where he had to do with the construction of the forty bridges which we had in the county of Peterborough, some of which had been liberally aided by the Ontario and Dominion Governments. In view of his large municipal experience, Mr. Anderson submitted that it was not too much to claim that he would be able to give as good service to East Peterborough in the legislature, as he had been able to do in the municipal councils. He was a farmer, and a working man, as were the great mass of the electors of East Peterborough. If he were honoured with election, he would do all he could to advance the interests of the farmers and working men. (Applause.) His opponent was a professional man, and a doctor, against whom he had not a word to say, but he submitted that a riding composed very largely of farmers and working men, needed a representative who understood the wants and conditions of the working men and supported a Government which was in sympathy with practical legislation for working men and farmers. (Applause.) Mr. Anderson concluded by appealing to the electors for their support in placing him in the position of representative of East Peterborough in the Ontario Legislature. (Loud applause.)

Elected by Acclamation

Mr. T. Blezard

was very heartily received. He congratulated Havelock on having so fine a town hall as the one in which so fine a gathering had assembled. He had nominated his friend, Mr. Anderson, and he would not have done so had not Mr. Anderson given such excellent municipal services to the largest and richest township in the county, and did they think that the people of Otonabee would have elected Mr. Anderson so often by acclamation, if he had not been a first-class man and his municipal experience would help to make him as good a representative in the Legislature. (Applause.) Mr. Anderson might not claim to be a speaker, but he would make a most valuable representative in the Committees of the House, where the real work of legislation was accomplished. We had professional men in plenty in the House. Lawyers who did not know how to hoe a hill of potatoes, told the farmers in eloquent speeches how to till the soil. (Laughter.) Mr. Blezard went on to point out that when he went into Parliament, there was a cry of direct taxation, but it had never come, and we had the same cry to-day, and there was just as much, and just as little, in that cry to-day, as there was 24 years ago. After the splendid services given by the Liberal Government, would it be wise to change? If Mr. Whitney and the Opposition were no stronger in their public appeals in this campaign than they had been in the House they didn't stand much chance— there would be no need to hold meetings. Never in his whole career in the House of 24 years had he seen the Opposition present so weak a front as during the last Parliament. Though he was only a plain farmer, educated in a log school house, Mr. Blezard said he would on the public issues of the day not be afraid to meet Mr. Whitney on the platform. (Loud applause.)

Mr. D. O'Connell,

Peterborough, was the next speaker. After a warm tribute to the services of Mr. Blezard, Mr. O'Connell said that during his twenty-four years of representation he (Mr. Blezard) had carried the riding under a great variety of issues. The Conservatives had tried to ride into power by appeals to the passions of the people. The present was an occasion when the electors were called upon to make a choice between a party — the Liberal party — with a well-defined and progressive platform, and a party without a policy. If during the past thirty years the Liberals had mismanaged the affairs of the country, it was time for a change. But an examination of the Government's record gave no cause for demanding a change. In that time 113 millions of dollars had passed through the Government's hands, and there was no tenable charge of the misappropriation of a dollar. (Applause.). This was a record of pure business-like administration, which placed Ontario in a class by itself in regard to efficient administration. Not only had the Government a grand record of good administration, but it had entered a field that might, without reproach, have been left to private enterprise. The Opposition claimed that New Ontario was the "land of the stunted poplar," but in the three years since the Ross Government took power, a policy of development had been put operation that had been far beyond the most sanguine anticipations of the Premier, who had inaugurated this policy. Dormant resources had been put into touch with commercial conditions, settlement had been promoted, and trade between the new and old portions of the province had been stimulated to mutual advantage. These things had resulted, because the Liberal Government did things in a business-like way. With the splendid administrative record of the Government in view, in view of all that had been accomplished by its advance policy in the short space of three years, would any thinking man contemplate, for a minute, turning out a progressive Government, to give place to a party that had no faith in the resources and possibilities of the great undeveloped areas of Ontario? Would any thinking elector want to dispense with the services of a Government at the beginning of its great mission of developing the untold wealth of our unsettled country? Contrasting the record and policy of the two parties, there was never a time in the past thirty years when there was less cause for making a change than at the present time. (Applause.)

Hon. G. W. Ross,

on rising to address the meeting, received a most enthusiastic greeting. He said that on the occasion of his first visit, he had found a young man who was aspiring to political honours. He was young and vigorous, and we all thought there was something in the lad, and he was elected, and had turned out very well. He was speaking, Mr. Ross said, of his colleague, Mr. Stratton. (Applause.) He had made a splendid representative, he had made a splendid Minister, and he (Mr. Ross) felt sure that the people of Ontario, when they came to know him as well as they did in Peterborough, they would think as highly of him as Peterborough did. Another time he came to Peterborough in the interests of Mr. Blezard, a stalwart who had for years represented this riding. This splendid riding had been well represented for a quarter of a century, and he did not think it time for a change. Mr. Anderson would make a good successor to Mr. Blezard. It was impossible to contrast effectively the respective policies of the Government and Opposition for that of the Opposition was a secret. Mr. Whitney had said that the Opposition had nothing to offer, but good intentions, which were only flimsy pretensions.

Continuing, Mr. Ross said:

The Financial Record.

The financial record of the Government is admitted on all hands to be so satisfactory that I feel as if I were trespassing upon your patience by referring to it even for a few moments. You will remember that in 1899 a Royal Commission, composed of three of the ablest financiers in the Province, were appointed practically to audit the books of the Treasury Department since Confederation, with the right to examine all books and vouchers in the Treasury Department and to report upon the assets and liabilities of the Province and the work of the department generally. The report of the commission was laid before Parliament in the session of 1900. Speaking of the methods of the Treasury Department, the commissioners said: "The methods of bookkeeping are excellent and exhibit in as full detail as in an ordinary financial institution all of the financial transactions of the Province." On comparing the books of the department with the accounts of the banks in which the Government deposit was kept, not a single dollar of the $100,000,000 and over received by the Treasury Department was unaccounted for. A simjlar state of things was found with regard to the expenditure. It was this state of things that led the commissioners to remark that "the methods of the department and its financial records are excellent and it may safely be assumed that men of such high standing as Mr. John Hoskin, K.C., President of the Guarantee and Trust Co., ; Mr. B. E. Walker, General Manager of the Bank of Commerce, and Mr. Angus Kirkland, Manager of the Toronto Branch of the Bank of Montreal, might be safely taken as conclusive.

The commissioners found that the receipts of the Province from the 1st of July, 1867, to the 31st of December, 1899, amounted to $104,615,783.96, and that the expenditure for the same period amounted to $103,779,588.57, showing a cash balance on 31st December, 1899, of $836,195.39. Instead, therefore, of exceeding the income of the Province, the commissioners found a substantial balance to the credit of the Government. Since the report of the commissioners was made, this balance has nearly doubled, amounting on the 31st of December, 1901, to $1,468,492.98, surplus of assets over liabilities. I shall not enter into a discussion in detail on the assets and liabilities of the Province, but shall content myself with submitting the statement of the commissioners to be found on page 28 of their report as follows:

Total of Treasury assets, December 31, 1899, $7,393,462.74.

Total of Treasury liabilities, December 31, 1899, $5,124,968.30.

Difference between assets and liabilities or surplus, $2,268,494.44.

On the 31st of December, 1901, carrying the accounts forward on the basis laid down by the commissioners, the surplus of assets after deducting liabilities amounted to $2,571,292.71. In this estimate of liabilities are included all sums owing by the Government for railway subsidies yet unpaid. We are, therefore, in the proud position of being able to discharge every dollar owing by the Province and still have a surplus of over $2,500,000, of which nearly the sum of $1,500,000 is hard cash to our credit in our banks, and I may add that this cash surplus in the bank is not decreasing, as on the 31st of March last our bank account showed a cash surplus of $1,869,696. (Applause.)

Developing the North.

Mr. Whitney not only refuses to give the Government any credit for its efforts in New Ontario, but he blames us for not beginning the work of development earlier. In this complaint he forgets two things: (1) If his party had its way we would have had no New Ontario to develop; and (2) that the decision of the Privy Council as to the western boundary of Ontario was not obtained until 1884, and (3) that the northern boundary was only settled by act of the Imperial Parliament in 1889, and until our boundaries were settled we could not be expected to spend our money in opening up what might turn out to be the property of the Dominion. Then it happened when we had established our western boundaries that we had to contest, before the Privy Council, our right to the timber and the minerals which the country contained. You will remember that Sir John Macdonald said that "Not one stick of timber, not one ounce of iron ore, or any other mineral in the country, belonged to Ontario." The dispute as to our property in the timber and minerals was settled in [illegible], so that if anybody was to blame for the delay in developing New Ontario it was the party to which Mr. Whitney belongs and which he still supports; and whether we are proceeding rapidly enough or not, I think we ought to be trusted to do justice to this new district in preference to the party which did all in its power to prevent our getting possession of it. Well, as I said a moment ago, our title to the timber and minerals was settled by Act of the Privy Council, on the 12th of December, 1888; and by the Act of the Imperial Parliament passed on the 13th of August, 1889, the western and northern boundaries of the Province were finally settled, so that practically we were not in a position (our title being under a cloud), to justify a large expenditure of public money. In the same year, and a few months in anticipation of the Act of the Imperial Parliament, the Ontario Government granted a subsidy to a railway from Port Arthur, westerly, a distance of fifty miles, reaching towrds the iron mines known as the Atikokan range. The next year, 1890, a subsidy was granted for an extension of the same road thirty miles further. Similar grants were made to further extensions of the same road, and in 1902, the Ontario Government had the honour through the Commissioner of Crown Lands, of driving the last spike of a railway connecting Port Arthur and Winnipeg, and opening up to the sons of old Ontario a vast territory west of Port Arthur, including the Rainy River Valley, and covering a distance of 285 miles. Where is the proof that we were dilatory in developing new Ontario, when the records show that the very year that our right to that western portion of the province was settled we began opening it up, and in thirteen years—a very short period of time — it has been made, in a great many sections, as accessible to the settler as any part of old Ontario? It is also to be remembered that the country traversed by that railway for its entire length was held by Sir John Macdonald to belong to the Dominion, the western boundary of Ontario, by his contention, being a line due north to the height of land from Fort William.

Mr. Whitney's Attitude.

And here I might very well ask what was Mr. Whitney's attitude towards the Government policy in opening up this part of Ontario? If you turn to the journals of the House you will find that he moved an amendment to reduce the subsidy to the Rainy River Railway from $505,000 to $225,000 and, had he been successful, its construction might have been considerably delayed. In attempting to develop the other parts of New Ontario, the Government was met with similar opposition from Mr. Whitney and his supporters. For instance, two years ago, when the bill for the construction of the Algoma Central Railway was before the House he denounced the proposal of the Government to subsidize the railway by a grant of land, in unmeasured terms. Let me quote just one sentence from his speech reported in the Mail and Empire on that occasion, "I have no doubt that public opinion will say with regard to it, that it is the most phenomenal steal, the greatest attempt at public robbery, the most heinous public crime, that was ever attempted by men in authority in the Dominion of Canada, and I don't think I would be exaggerating to say,

MRS. HULDA JAKEMAN,

Wife of the President of the Elders of the Mormon Church, Salt Lake City, Utah, Recommends

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for Woman's Periodic Pains.

Surely the great volume of letters we are constantly publishing from women made strong and well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound must convince all women of the value of this famous medicine.

Does anyone suppose that the young wife of President Jakeman, whose portrait we are permitted to publish, would allow us this great privilege if she had not been so over-joyed at her own recovery that she now wants to be of service to her suffering sisters? No, indeed! no money can purchase such testimony, only a grateful heart full of a desire to help other sufferers could indpse a young woman of such high social position to allow her name to be used in confection with any remedy.

How is it possible for us to make it plainer that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will positively help all sick women? All women are constituted alike, rich and poor, high and low,—all suffer from the same organic troubles. Surely, no one can wish to remain weak and sickly, discouraged with life and no hope for the future when proof is so unmistakable that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure monthly suffering—all womb and ovarian troubles and all the ills peculiar to women.

If there is anything in your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. She can surely help you, for no person in America has such a wide experience in treating female ills as she has had. Address is Lynn, Mass.; her advice is free and always helpful.

MRS. HULDA JAKEMAN, of Salt Lake City.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before I knew of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I dreaded the approach of the time for my menstrual period, as it would mean a couple of days in bed with intense pain and suffering. I was under the physicians care for over a year without any relief, when my attention was called to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by several of our Mormon women who had been cured through its use. I began its systematic use and improved gradually in health, and after the use of six bottles my health was completely restored, and for over two years I have had neither ache or pain. You have a truly wonderful remedy for women. Very sincerely yours, MRS. HULDA JAKEMAN, Salt Lake City, Utah."

O, my sisters, I do pray you to profit by Mrs. Jakeman's expertences; just as surely as she was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman in the land who suffers from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous excitability, and nervous prostration; remember that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing women, and don't allow any druggist to sell you anything else in its place.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letters are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

SATURDAY, APRIL 26, 1902.

PETERBOROUGH'S TOMMY ATKINS.

Those Who Have Enlisted Here

ARE ABOUT 112 ALTOGETHER.

Some Military Gossip of Local Interest—The Various Regiments and the Peterborough Drafts.

It will be interesting to know that Peterborough has supplied about 112 men for the various contingents that have left Canada for South Africa since the beginning of the South African war. Amongst this number may be counted officers, non-commissioned officers and men that would do credit to any corps, and they range in rank from Lieut.-Col. to private. A noticeable feature of the enlisting is the number of officers and non-com. officers of the 3rd Dragoons, who have seen service in South Africa. Commencing with the commanding officer of the Regiment, Lieut.-Col. H.S. Greenwood, we have Major W. W. Brown, Lieut. G. Hayward, Lieut. Percy Price, and now Lieut. Shaw, of Millbrook. Then, in the non-coms., there have been such men as Sgt. Major Terrill, Sgt. Willoughby, and Corp Chill Turner. The Dragoons, too, have sent quite a number of troopers, and while the 57th has not sent any officers to the front, there have been heavy drains upon their ranks.

The Examiner has, for the benefit of those interested in local military matters, arranged a list of those who enlisted at Peterborough for the various regiments that have left Canada for South Africa. They are classified according to their regiments. There are six Peterborough boys who went on the 1st Canadian Contigent. They did not enlist in Peterborough, as this was not an enlisting station at that time. However, being really Peterborough boys, it is quite proper that they should be counted as having gone direct from here.

The list is as follows;

It is a well-known fact that the non-commissioned officers of the permanent force, particularly the drill sergeants, colour sergeants, and the sergeant majors, are men who possess the highest qualifications, as far as soldiering goes, and that the prospect for their advancement and betterment in any way in the service is very poor. This is recognized even in official circles, and the question has been discussed by various authorities as how best to provide for their future so that they could be induced to stay in the service. An opportunity now presents itself to the department to recognize in a partial way at least the work that has been done, by the distribution of honours in the contingent now in course of preparation for South Africa. The position of Quartermaster in the British army is one recognized as a reward to non. coms. for long and faithful service. There are a number of non-coms. of the permanent force, who, besides performing the work of instructing the active militia and keeping that branch of the Canadian army in an efficient state, have done splendid service in South Africa, and it was largely through the efforts of these non-coms. that the first and subsequent contingents were found, when the time came, in a position to bring honour to the name of Canada. Action by the department along this line would show that they were inclined to give reward for hard and consistent work, and would raise th officials at headquarters high in the estimation of the citizens of Canada generally.

A private letter from Pte. H. M. Morden to a friend in town says that the Canadian Mounted Rifles will likely sail from Halifax by May 2nd. So far, they have been engaging in squad drill and elementary work. They have not been issued uniforms as yet, but they will likely be of rifle green for the voyage, and when they arrive in South Africa khaki will be worn. Pte. Morden says that a couple of men who were rejected at Peterborough are now in Halifax, having been taken on at other points. He says that with one exception the Peterborough delegation is of splendid physique, and a very pleasing feature of the composition of the squadrons is that the principle has been adopted of keeping all the men from one city and the towns nearest that city in one squadron. Thus the Peterborough boys and the Port Hope representatives are side by side in C squadron. Anyone wishing to send any articles or any letters to the Peterborough boys should address it in care of the Peterborough detachment, "C" squadron, 3rd C.M.R., Halifax.

KILLED BY A TORNADO.

Four Deaths and Great Damage Done in Missouri.

Joplin, Mo., April 26.—A tornado struck this city at 4.45 p.m. yesterday. Four fatalities are reported and many persons were injured. After Long Years of Mental and Physical Sufferings and Failures With Common Medicines

Paine's Celery Compound Cures an Ontario Lady.

The Great Remedy is Heartily Indorsed by the Ablest Physicians who Daily Recommend its use.

What a blessing it would be to humanity in general if all suffering men and women knew just what Paine's Compound is able to do.

The work that cannot be done for the sick and suffering by months of experimenting with the common medicines of the day, is successfully carried to victory by Paine's Celery Compound in a few short weeks.

The cure of Mrs. Hopper, of Thornhill, Ont., proves the assertion made above. After years of failures, misery, agony and despondency, Paine's Celery Compound made a "new woman" of one who had become a mere wreck—one who was fast nearing the grave.

Have faith sufferer! You have a strong deliverer at hand, able to rescue and save you. From to-day let your hope be centred in Paine's Celery Compound, and its mighty power to cure. It has never disappointed any sufferer; it will not fail in your case. Read Mrs. Hopper's wonderful and striking testimony.

"With great pleasure and satisfaction I wish to add my testimony to what has already been said in favour of Paine's Celery Compound. For a very long time I suffered from general debility and run down system. Having heard of Paine's Celery Compound, I determined to give it a trial and I am happy to say that it has done for me more good than I can express. For ten years I doctored, without any good results; but after using Paine's Celery Compound I am perfectly restored to health, can eat well, digestion is good, and my sleep is sweet and sound. Altogether I am a new woman. I always recommend Paine's Celery Compound to my friends."

Ever think that Death has no manners? When the plate is passed to him, he is pretty apt to take the choicest thing on it.

LACROSSE.

The fireman of Millbrook intend putting on a mammoth celebration on May 24th. One of the principal features of the day will be a lacrosse tournament, in which a number of teams of this district will very likely participate. Any teams from town who desire information on the matter should write Mr. W. D. Leach, Sec. Celebration Committee, Millbrook.

A very interesting meeting was held in the Dominion hotel, Millbrook, on Thursday evening, when the junior lacrossists organized for the coming season with the following officers;

BASEBALL.

An effort is being made to revive the grand old game in Cobourg. The people of that town are arranging for a grand baseball tournament for August 4th. Manager McClellan, of the Coal Heavers, is considering very seriously the advisability of entering his team in the event.

FOOTBALL.

Where did football originate? Some people give ancient Chester in England credit for bringing the great winter pastime into existence. There is a record of football playing in that city in the year 1540, but Chestrians believe in a legend of much earlier date. In the tenth century, it is said, a Dane was captured and beheaded by the citizens. Some one began kicking the head about the streets, others followed, and it was discovered that this formed a new and fascinating game. This was repeated whenever possible, but as enemies heads became scarcer, and the entertainment of kicking them more difficult to procure it was at last arranged "for the shoemakers yearly on Shrove Tuesday to deliver to the draper in the presence of the mayor of Chester one ball of leather, called a football, of the value of 3s. 4d., or above." There is evidently a fine precedent for those concerned in the game "losing their heads."

BABY CONSTIPATION

Can be Cured Without Resorting to Harsh Purgatives.

Constipation is a very common trouble among infants and small children — it is also one of the most distressing. The cause is some derangement of the digestive organs, and if not promptly treated it is liable to lead to serious results. The little victim suffers from headache, fever, pain in the stomach and sometimes vomiting. While in this condition neither baby nor baby's mother can obtain restful sleep. If proper care is taken in feeding the child and Baby's Own Tablets are used, there will be no trouble found in curing and keeping baby free from this disorder. Mrs. T. Guymer, London, Ont., says: "My baby was a great sufferer from constipation. She cried continually and I was about worn out attending her. I tried several remedies, but none of them helped her till I procured some Baby's Own Tablets. These tablets worked wonders and now she is in the best of health. I can now go about my work without being disturbed by baby's cries. I consider Baby's Own Tablets a great medicine and would advise mothers to keep them in the house for they will save baby from much suffering by curing and preventing the minor ailments common to infants and small children."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold under an absolute guarantee to contain no opiate or other harmful drug. They are easy to take, mild in action, promote healthful sleep and will be found a never-failing cure for constipation, baby indigestion, simple fever, diarrhoea, sour stomach, colic, etc. They allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth, break up colds and prevent croup. Price 25 cents a box at all druggists or sent by mail postpaid by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Tell Me His Name

The Name of Someone Not Well. Let Me Send My Book.

I want to know a man or woman who needs help.
Just a postal will do, as no money is wanted. Tell me which book I shall send.
Let me explain a treatment which I spent a lifetime in learning; a treatment so effective that I let any sick one take it at my risk.
I accept not a penny if it fails.

With the book I will mail an order on your druggist for six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I will authorize him to let you take it for a month. The cost is only $5.50, if it succeeds, and I will pay the druggist myself if it fails.
I will leave the decision with you.

That is a remarkable offer, and the fact that I will make it ought to convince you that I know how to cure.
No matter how difficult your case, mine is the entire risk. I pay the bill if I fail.
And sometimes I must fail, for there are causes, like cancer, which no man can cure.
But my records, covering over 600,000 cases, show that 39 out of each 40 who get those six bottles pay. That means that 39 in each 40 get well.

This is the secret of my success.
I have found the one treatment that strengthens the inside nerves. When an organ is weak, I doctor the symptoms; I don't treat the organ at all.
But I bring back the nerve power which alone makes that organ act. When an engine is weak, you don't doctor the engine; you give it more steam. I do just the same with a weak vital organ. I give it more nerve power.
Any organ will do its duty when it has sufficient nerve power, but never without it.
Most chronic diseases must be cured in my way.

Don't be incredulous when I take the entire risk.
You have nothing to lose and everything to gain. I am sorry for a sick one who will let any prejudice keep him from writing for my book.

Simply state which book you want, and address to Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

FIFTY PERSONS INJURED.

The "Three-Penny Train" Wrecked on a Bridge.

London, April 26.—Fifty persons were injured yesterday morning in an accident on the Great Eastern Railway, near the Hackney Downs Station. As a train from Walthamstow, called the "three-penny train," was crossing the bridge, an axle of the car nearest the locomotive broke, and the coach jumped the rails, and crashed into the side of the bridge and lodged across both tracks. The train was filled with passengers on their way to work. The two coaches following the straddled car crushed into it, completing the wreck and dealing awful havoc among the passengers caught therein. The second car also was wrecked and a number of its inmates were badly hurt. The injured were taken to the hospital.

HEART TROUBLE.

The Symptoms Often Misunderstood by the Sufferer.

The Trouble at all Times an Extremely Dangerous one—How to Promptly Relieve it.

There are many forms of heart disease, some of which manifest themselves by symptoms which are misunderstood by the sufferer and ascribed to indigestion or some similar cause, when the heart is really affected. The slightest derangement of this important organ is extremely dangerous. If at times the action of the pulse is too rapid and the heart beats violently, resulting in a suffocating feeling, or, if the heart seems inclined to stop beating, the pulse becomes slow, and you feel a faint, dizzy sensation, you should take the best course in the world, and that is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. You will find that the distressing symptoms promptly disappear and that the heart at all times acts normally. Mr. Adelard Lavoie, St. Pacome, Que., bears strong testimony to the value of these pills in cases of heart trouble. He says: "For nearly three years I was greatly troubled with a weak heart and in constant fear that my end would come at any time. I placed myself under a good doctor but did not get the desired relief. In fact I grew worse; the least exertion would overcome me, and finally I had to discontinue work. While in this condition a neighbour advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I procured a supply. They simply worked wonders in my case and when I had used six boxes I was again enjoying good health. I have had no sign of the trouble since and I can cheerfully recommend the pills to similar sufferers."

Blood troubles of all kinds are also cured by these famous pills. If you suffer from headaches, dizziness, languor, boils or skin diseases of any kind, your blood is in an impure condition, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are what you need. These pills are not a purgative and therefore do not weaken like medicines of that class. They are tonic in their nature and make new, rich, red blood with every dose, thus restoring health and strength to hopeless and despondent sufferers. But you must get the genuine, which always has the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on every box. Sold by all dealers or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Ministry of Commerce.

London, April 25.—Some 40 members of the House of Commons, representing both political parties, held a meeting last night to consider the advisability of establishing a Ministry of Commerce. The meeting resolved to form a committee to promote this object.

If your child is pale, peevish, and does not thrive, a dose of Miller's Worm Powders occasionally will cure. Sold by all druggists.

Subsequently the rebels captured two villages on the outskirts of Nan Ning and established their headquarters in these villages.

THE INTERCOLONIAL

$5,500,000 for Maintenance of Government Road Passed.

HAGGART EXONERATES MR. BLAIR

Hon. E. H. Emmerson Makes a Forcible Reply to Opposition Criticisms—Objects of the Road—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Reply to a Newspaper Story About Shipping Combine—Kingston Binder Twine.

Ottawa, April 26.—Unusual progress was made in supply yesterday, the whole of the amount required for the maintenance of the Intercolonial Railway being voted within three minutes after the House got into supply. The feature of the sitting was the speech by Hon. H. R. Emmerson in defence of the administration of the Intercolonial. The reported formation of a shipping combine and the threat to declare commercial war against Canada were brought to the attention of the House by Mr. Kaulbach. The Premier replied he did not think there was much danger, and assured Mr. Kaulbach that Canada would keep her railways for herself.

Mr. Kaulbach (Conservative) called attention to the following cablegram published in the morning papers: "The London Daily Express declares that the shipping combine is trying to coerce Canada into accepting its terms and conditions as to immigration rates and traffic, and that if resistance is made the combine will buy up the Canadian railways and declare a commercial war. It is the intention of the combine, says The Daily Express, to demand that the Canadian Emigration Department in London should cease to give facilities to the Elder-Dempster Co." He asked for a statement by the Premier upon the matter.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said in reply: "I may say that I do not think there is much danger at the present time. If, as stated in The Express, Congress is to introduce legislation, I am afraid we are powerless to prevent it, and if Congress intends to take hold of our railways, I think I can satisfy my hon. friend that there will be no such occurrence as this. We will keep our railways for ourselves."

"If any of these roads," said Mr. Kaulbach, "have received subsidies from this Government, then the Government should prevent traffic from being diverted into American channels to the ruination of the ports in the Maritime Provinces. It would be very easy to deprive us of that traffic. We want to keep Canadian trade for the Canadians."

"Well! I will give the matter my consideration," the Premier answered, and with that the subject dropped.

The Intercolonial Debate.

Mr. Emmerson of New Brunswick, soon after the House got into Committee of Supply yesterday, said that the Intercolonial Railway was one of the most splendid assets Canada ever possessed, basing his estimate upon the good work it had done in blending the peoples of the Canadian provinces. He accused Mr. Haggart of under-rating the importance of the railway. It was never intended that the Intercolonial should pay dividends. Mr. Blair found the Intercolonial a tramway, and made it a railway. The intention of the Conservative Government was to part with that portion of the Intercolonial between Sydney and St. John, the best paying part of the railway.

Mr. Emmerson said that Mr. Haggart had accused Attorney-General Pugsley of New Brunswick of having been in New York endeavoring to negotiate the sale of the Intercolonial to an American syndicate.

In contradiction to this he read a telegram just received by Mr. Blair from Mr. Pugsley, in which the latter stated that the report was a fabrication from beginning to end; he had neither written nor spoken to Mr. Meyer or anyone else about the sale of the I.C.R., or authorized anyone else to do so; he had not been in New York for many months, and had no acquaintance with Mr. Meyer.

Mr. Emmerson asked Mr. Haggart to apologize.

Mr. Haggart said he would give the authority for his statement afterwards; then, when Mr. Emmerson had finished, Mr. Haggart arose and read extracts from a letter he had received from a correspondent in New York, who gave a report of an interview with an official of the Dominion Securities Company. The latter had stated that friends of Mr. Blair were negotiating with the company for the lease or use of the I.C.R., or a portion of it, but that Mr. Blair said it was "out of the question for them to acquire the Intercolonial, at least under present conditions."

Mr. Blair said there was not one single word of truth in the whole story. Of course, people had frequently asked him or written him to transfer or lease the I.C.R., but as for any specific negotiations looking to such a result, either through Mr. Pugsley or anyone else, nothing of the kind had ever occurred.

Mr. Haggart, in response to Mr. Blair's further remarks, said he would write to his correspondent, and obtain his permission to give his name to the House.

When the committee resumed at 8 o'clock Mr. Fielding observed that Mr. Haggart must now be convinced he had gone too far.

Mr. Bennett replied that Mr. Haggart had referred to a document, and being challenged had produced and quoted the document. But it was unfortunate for Mr. Blair that it was so notorious that it was Mr. Pugsley who was the agent for all sorts of claims against Mr. Blair's department, even to getting through a claim for land damages in the Province of Quebec.

Mr. Blair said the claim in question was in the Exchequer Court. He wanted to know if Mr. Haggart was going to withdraw the charge against him.

Exonerated the Minister.

Mr. Haggart replied that in his speech the evening before he quoted from the document itself which exonerated Mr. Blair to the extent that it said he declared the railway could not be bought or leased, Mr. Haggart said he then and now exonerated the Minister from the personal imputation.

That ended the incident.

Mr. Fowler (Conservative, Kings, N.B.) replied to Mr. Emmerson.

The Intercolonial main item of $5,500,000, and the item of $140,000 for G.T.R. rental were passed, and the committee proceeded to deal with the Justice Department estimates.

After the Yukon item had passed the penitentiaries vote was up. Mr. Fitzpatrick said that as a result of the resolution of the House last session that binder twine be sold to farmers only up to July 1, at that date only 48 tons had been sold to the farmers, leaving 300 tons on hand, which had to be sold by tender on the 1st of July to Henderson & Black of St. John's, Que., at a loss, and Mr. Fitzpatrick did not wish to have the responsibility of continuing the industry under those conditions.

Mr. Fraser advised selling the whole Government plant at Kingston for scrap iron. It was pointed out by Messrs. Blair, Taylor, Boyd and Lennox that the trouble was the proper quality was not manufactured and the conditions not fully known. They wanted the manufacture kept up, and Mr. Stewart of Lisgar spoke up in the same strain.

Mr. McGowan (Con., Centre Wellington) advocated the continuance of the Kingston factory and the establishment of distributing centres throughout the country.

In the end the Minister of Justice agreed to give the agricultural representatives in the House an opportunity to lay their views before the factory officials of Kingston, who will be summoned before the House Committe on Agriculture for the purpose.

Mr. Fitzpatrick informed Mr. Borden that the commissioners to consolidate the Dominion statutes would be appointed shortly, and that in order to expedite the work more than the usual number of commissioners would be employed.

The House rose at 1 o'clock a.m.

PASSED THE SENATE.

'Phone Bill, However, Will Not Get Through Commons This Year.

Ottawa, April 26.—The Bell Telephone bill, as amended, has passed the Senate. There is scarcely a possibility of its going through the Commons this session, in view of the Government's policy of introducing next year a general act to regulate telephone and telegraph companies. The bills to incorporate the Metropolitan Bank and the Crown Bank of Canada, and the bill of the Ontario Power Company of Niagara Falls were also read a third time and passed.

The Telephone Bill.

Ottawa, April 26.—The Bell Telephone Company's bill passed the Railway Committee of the Senate yesterday morning as amended by the sub-committee to whom the measure was referred. The amendments provide that upon application from any person, firm or corporation in territory within which a general service is given the company shall with all reasonable despatch furnish telephones of the latest improved design then in use by the company in that locality, provided that the instrument be not situated further than 200 feet from a highway, street or lane upon which the company has constructed, or may hereafter construct, a main or branch service. The rates for telephone service may be increased or diminished by order of the Governor-in-Council upon the application of the Telephone Company or any interested company, and the rates so ordered shall remain until again similarly adjusted by the Governor-in-Council. The Governor-in-Council may refer an application to increase or decrease of rates to a judge to enquire into and report upon the whole or any part of the expenses of such enquiry to be made by the municipality or the company.

"A Most Wonderful Discovery"

Geo. Brennan, of Montreal, Cured of Chronic Rheumatism by Powley's Liquified Ozone.

The medicines sold as "cures" for rheumatism are really bad for that disease, because they contain drugs and alcohol and act injuriously on the heart and stomach. Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood—a waste product which under normal conditions is given off in the urine through the agency of the kidneys. This substance—uric acid—collects in the blood and is deposited in the joints in the form of crystals. It interferes in the motion of these joints and causes intense pain, accompanied with a more or less amount of irritation and swelling. It, i. e. uric acid, also attacks the nerve fibres and interferes with the circulation of the blood, thus interfering with the heart's action, sometimes fatally. You will see then how injurious are "medicines" and drug compounds which depress the heart's action.

The best way to treat rheumatism is by taking Powley's Liquified Ozone—the same action as oxygen in condensed liquid form. This wonderful preparation gently flushes out the kidneys, dissolves the uric acid crystals—stimulates the heart naturally and healthy—makes all the tissues strong. Geo. Brennan of Montreal says it is a most wonderful discovery. If you read his statement you'll know why.

"For four years past I have been a sufferer from rheumatism. Sometimes so severe was the pain that I was forced to lay off from my work. I am a cabman, and when I would wash my carriage I was forced to go to bed, I suffered so much pain. I tried all kinds of liniments and patent medicines, but got no relief. About July 1st I was induced to try Ozone and when I had taken about three bottles I was free from any pain and my rheumatism was entirely cured, and I had felt better than I had for years. I attribute the wonderful change in my general health, and my freedom from rheumatism, entirely to the use of your wonderful preparation, Ozone, and I will ever tell its praises to others. I consider Ozone the most wonderful preparation for rheumatism known to-day, and also the greatest health-giver and blood purifier of the present age; a most wonderful discovery, as oxygen is the greatest life-giving element.

(Signed) "GEO. BRENNAN, Cabman, 504 Albert St., Montreal."

Powley's Liquified Ozone is not a medicine, not a compound of drugs—contains no alcohol. You will do well to take this remarkable preparation and give up drugging yourself with other preparations. If you have rheumatism, kidney trouble or any ailment caused by an excess of uric acid in your blood, take this natural remedial agent and you'll repeat Geo. Brennan's experience.

SEND-OFF TO LT. E. O. BRADBURN.

Officers of Local Garrison Meet in His Honour.

SONGS AND SPEECHES.

An Opportunity Given to the Military Men to Wish him God Speed and a Safe Return.

The send-off which was given Lieut. E. O. Bradburn, last evening, at the drill shed, prior to his departure for South Africa, by the officers of the 57th Regiment will rank as the most pleasant affair of the kind which has ever been given in the officers' quarters. Besides the officers of the 57th, the 3rd Dragoons were also well represented at the affair and a number of citizens were present as guests.

The send-off took the form of a smoker, where song and story were interspersed through a short toast list, which gave a number of those present an opportunity of wishing God speed to the departing young soldier.

Surgeon-Major Halliday was in the chair and after the initial toast of "The King" had been proposed and duly honoured Adjutant Walker recited a poem, containing a very fine sentiment, entitled "My Own Canadian Home."

Lieut.-Col. Edwards in proposing the health of the guest of the evening, stated that the programme proposed was to be a very informal one. The occasion was a send-off for Lieut. Bradburn, not from the officers of the 57th alone, but from the officers of the entire Peterborough Garrison to which all of the different corps belonged. All would, he felt sure, join with him in wishing Lieut. Bradburn God speed and a safe return. He felt it unnecessary to say that he hoped to hear of Lieut. Bradburn winning distinction on the field of battle, because he was sure that he would do so if occasion arose. Though Lieut. Bradburn was not a member of the 57th, yet as commanding officer of that regiment it gave the speaker great pleasure to propose his health. His father had been an old officer of the 57th, when the position meant something serious and was fraught with possibilities of fighting on the morrow. Col. Edwards was glad to see Mr. Bradburn's sons following in his footsteps. He thought Lieut. Bradburn was to be highly congratulated on his appointment. It was something of an honour to be chosen as an officer of the Canadian contingent, but it was an honour which was deserved in this case, as Lieut. Bradburn had given good service to the corps to which he was attached and had worked the local section up to be a most efficient arm of the service. It was not strange therefore to learn that his application had been so strongly endorsed by Colonel Drury, who knew of his capabilities. It was only fair that when Peterborough had sent fifty men to the front in this contingent, that the town should be represented by at least one officer. He had no doubt but that if the opportunity occurred Lieut. Bradburn would look well after the men from Peterborough.

The toast was then honoured and three cheers given for the departing guest.

In replying, Lieut. Bradburn stated that he had now seen eight years of service, during two of which he had acted as captain of No. 2 Company at the school, from the ranks of which many had graduated into the 57th. He had, himself, left the infantry and entered the battery and naturally there had been a number of changes in the method of drill since that time. He hoped, however, to be able to fall into line once more as an infantryman. While on the field he would do his best to uphold the honour of the town and of the country. In closing he referred to the many pleasant evenings which had been spent in the officers' quarters of the 57th Regiment, where the officers of the other corps had been made so welcome, as to always feel perfectly at home.

Surgeon-Major Halliday asked permission to offer his congratulations along with the other officers and gentlemen who were present. Many pleasant gatherings had been held in the rooms but none more pleasant or on more auspicious occasions than the present one. He could imagine how proud Lieut. Bradburn felt over the appointment and all could feel his exultant heart-beat when he received the news, because he was chosen to serve for the honour of his country and his town. He wished Lieut. Bradburn God-speed, success, and a happy return, coupled with the hope that all present would again assemble to welcome him home and do him honour.

Lieut.-Col. H. C. Rogers, on behalf of the Cavalry, then added his meed of farewell. He spoke of the pleasure of meeting on such an occasion, when a representative was going from the local forces. Lieut. Bradburn was worthy of the honour which had been conferred upon him. There was nothing wanting in the energetic way in which he had taken over his appointment in connection with the Durham Field Battery, and he was pleased to recollect Lieut. Bradburn with one of the school companies. In this connection he reminded Adjutant Walker of the opportunities which he possessed in connection with the schools, of encouraging young soldiers. The speaker in conclusion expressed himself as being sure that if the opportunity arose for actual fighting that Lieut. Bradburn would do his duty.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn voiced the gratification he felt at the manner in which his son's appointment had been received by the citizens. He might say that the first intimation he had that his son had applied for a commission was when he was handed the telegram announcing the appointment. This was not the first attempt which had been made by his son to get out to South Africa, as he had wanted to go with the first contingent in the ranks. Mr. Bradburn stated that on that occasion, he had put his foot down, but had been won over to give his consent now. He again expressed his appreciation at the send-off which was being given Lieut. Bradburn.

Surgeon-Major Young, on behalf of the Dragoons, congratulated Lieut. Bradburn on his appointment, stating that no one was more pleased than himself to hear of it. Lieut. Bradburn was a very capable officer and the town should be proud that he was going out to South Africa to represent it. In speaking of the men sent from Peterborough Major Young said that they were a fine lot. Only fifty one had been accepted out of one hundred and six applications.

Mr. T. A. S. Hay, as a former officer of the 57th, extended congratulations and referred to the fact that Lieut. Bradburn would be greatly missed by the young ladies when he was away. He was envious of the appointment to the degree of wishing that he was in a position to do something of the kind himself.

Captain Benentt spoke a few congratulatory words and reminded Lt. Bradburn that the fatted calf would be killed for him on his return.

Lieut. C. H. Bradburn, of the 57th, on being called upon, stated that he could add to the assurances already given to the effect that his brother would do all in his power to uphold the credit of the corps, and the name which he bore.

Lieut.-Colonel Edwards spoke feelingly of the Canadians who had given up their lives in South Africa, and reminded those present that the recent battle at Klein Hart would always live in history as the occasion when the mad rush of Delarey's men had been stemmed by the brave boys from Canada. He proposed the toast of "Our Comrades in the Field," which was drunk in silence.

Rev. J. C. Davidson spoke of the power which lay in the hands of every officer of caring for his men on the field, and seeing to their comfort, and stated that he was sure that Lieut. Bradburn would look carefully after all those who were under him.

Lieut. Bradburn assured Mr. Davidson, that he would do everything in his power for the men.

During the evening a programme of songs, recitations and stories was participated in by Capt. Cluxton, Vet. Lieut. Poole, Capt. Hayes, Col. H. C. Rogers, Capt. W. H. Bradburn, Capt. W. T. Hall, Rev. J. C. Davidson, Lt.-Colonel Edwards, Major Miller and Major Stevenson.

THE STREET RAILWAY.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—Apropos of the transfer which is now pending of the Peterborough Street Railway System, I would like to say a few words.

The proposition, if I am rightly informed, runs thus,—The people of Peterborough are going to turn over to a non-resident corporation for a period of thirty years, their entire Street Railway system, with all the rights and privileges which must inseparably accompany such a transfer.

Now, have they properly considered what this means. Have they carefully weighed the pros. and cons.? That we should have a street railway operating in our town, not alone because of the convenience it brings, but also for the added social status, which it is bound to give us in the eyes of the world, I freely admit, and moreover, that it should have a good, strong management for the skeleton of our first abortive attempt is still in evidence, grinning at us, I will also admit; but at what a price are these blessings purchased?

'Tis well known that more and more every day there is a growing concensus of opinion in advanced communities that the control of all public utilities should rest with the people and not be surrendered to any corporation. Australia and New Zealand, the great social experiment stations, have demonstrated the wisdom of this, and what applies to nations also with equal force to municipalities. Let us look around us, and we have not far to look, for object lessons and let us note the experience of towns that have ignored this truth. New York, Chicago, Toronto, and numberless others, all have erred in this regard, and they are not backward in saying so. Let us profit by their mistakes of the past. Why cannot we maintain the Street Railway, even if a deficit follow for the first few years? Are the people of Peterborough so lacking in faith for its future that they are unwilling to suffer a little present loss for its certain ultimate gain?

Wel, if so, and we must go outside for aid, let us at least make as advantageous a bargain as possible, and make the term not thirty, but twenty years, a very generous concession in my eyes, for who will say to what proportions Peterborough will have grown long ere the lapse of that time. In regard to laying suburban lines, I would beg to suggest the advisability of insisting that the rails be not laid in the middle of the road-bed, as nothing so unfits a road for vehicular traffic.

Thanking you for your valuable space,

Yours Truly,
J. W. FITZGERALD,
Civil Engineer.

OUTDOOR GARMENTS.

Long Coats of Cloth and Silk Are Being Much Worn.

Long coats are much in favor at this time of the year and all through the early spring. Some striking new models are being shown in the shops. One of pearl gray cloth has a cape held in at the collar with pin tucks. The front edge is held down by means of a stitched strap which fastens with a large pearl button. The flaring collar and revers are of fur. Another model formed of black silk is made with herringboned tucks and a bolero ornamented with a conventional figure made of narrow black velvet ribbons appliqued flat. A winter long coat may be made suitable for spring by substituting for the fur collar and lapels shirred chiffon or embroidery.

Very smart short capes for evening wear or to throw about the shoulders at a dance are made of all over lace brocade and even of accordion plaited chiffon. These capes are made with a high standing collar and revers or a full ruching and rounded corners.

Fichu capes harmonizing in color with the gown will be one of the summer novelties.

A striking evening gown of black mousseline de soie over white is shown in the illustration. The waist is cut decollete and is outlined with a twist of pale blue panne. The waist is softly draped into a black velvet belt. There is a bolero effect of narrow black chantilly and velvet. The skirt is entirely trimmed with perpendicular bands of black velvet or crossed with wavy bands of the black chantilly. It is finished with three fluffy ruffles.

FAULTY QUOTATIONS.

Popular Phrases That Are Often Incorrectly Repeated.

Nearly every one is fond of quoting from the poets and dramatists, and nearly every one commits some egregious error in his quotations. All of us say "the even tenor of their way" when what Gray wrote was "the noiseless tenor of their way." "When Greek meets Greek then comes the tug of war" should be "When Greeks joined Greeks then was the tug of war." We say, "Welcome the coming, speed the parting guest," whereas the correct quotation is "speed the going guest."

Butler wrote in "Hudibras," "He that complies against his will is of his own opinion still," but we alter the sense as well as the wording of the passage by quoting continually, "A man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still."

How often we hear people, quoting the passage on mercy from "The Merchant of Venice," say, "It falleth as the gentle dew from heaven," whereas the bard wrote, "Falleth as the gentle rain." We quote with great complacency, "The man that hath no music in his soul," whereas what Shakespeare wrote was, "The man that hath no music in himself." "Fine by degrees and beautifully less," a phrase which has become in popular use, "Small by degrees and beautifully less."

No Time Wasted.

Probably since the world began there was never a period when men wasted their time as little as they do now, says the London Spectator. Whether they use it well or ill, they at least do not let it slip away empty. Never was the fascination of work so potent as at the present moment, and never before were the same keenness and concentration displayed in the pursuit of distraction. Energy is the dominant quality of the Anglo-Saxon race, the quality they love to exercise, the quality they cannot choose but admire. Work is no longer regarded as a necessary evil or even wholly as a means to an end; it is valued for its own sake. The richest men in America work as hard as the poorest, or at least pretend to do so, lest the society in which they move should suppose them men of leisure, a supposition which would be, we understand, against an American, whatever his position in life.

INOCULATION IN ENGLAND.

It Was Lady Mary Wortley Montagu Who Introduced It.

It was Lady Mary Wortley Montagu who first introduced inoculation for smallpox in England. While residing in Belgrade in 1717 she saw the Turks practice "engrafting," as they called it, to produce a mild form of smallpox and stay its ravages. She examined the process and, being convinced of its efficacy, applied it to her three-year-old son. On her return to England she introduced it in London. At that time it was computed that one person in every seven died of the smallpox. Yet she was opposed by the entire medical faculty. By order of government an experiment was made upon five persons then under sentence of death, and it proved perfectly successful.

But instead of Lady Mary being acknowledged as a public benefactor she was persecuted with the most relentless hostility. The faculty rose to a man against her. Even the clergy descanted on the awful impiety of seeking to take events out of the hands of Providence. The common people were urged to hoot her as an unnatural mother who had risked the lives of her own children. However, the Princess of Wales, afterward Queen Caroline, stood her friend, and truth and reason finally prevailed. It was about the year 1752 that Lady Montagu was honored by a monument erected to commemorate England's gratitude to her for introducing inoculation.

Dr. Edward Jenner substituted cowpox inoculation in 1799. He lived to be rewarded by parliament by a grant of £10,000 and later by a second grant of £20,000, and in 1858 a statue was erected to him in London. Only a bare credit was vouchsafed to Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, who bore all the persecution without any of the pecuniary reward she was entitled to and by no means a fair share of the glory.

PRETTY DISTRUSTFUL.

A Case Where Suspicion Might Be Carried Too Far.

"I told the postmaster of a town at the foot of the Cumberland mountains that I proposed a two weeks' trip among the sights and scenes of the big hills," said a Detroiter who roams all over the country, "and asked him if he couldn't give me a writing of some sort that would be a safe conduct in case I met with moonshiners.

"'Yes; I could write something, but I'm afeared it would do no good,' he replied. 'They might read the letter and know I wrote it, but they'd still be suspicious.'

"'Suspicious of what?'

"'Suspicious that you was a spy. They'd be so suspicious that they'd probably draw you up to a limb with a rope around your neck and let you hang for a minit.'

"'Then they'd let me down and believe I was all right, wouldn't they?'

"'I'm afeared not. I'm afeared they'd still be suspicious of you.'

"'Suspicious of what?'

"'Suspicious that you was a revenoo man. Then they'd draw you up again, and it might be two minits befo' they let you down this time. Two minits is a purty long time to be kickin' and chokin'.'

"'But they would finally let me down?' I asked.

"'Yes; I reckon so.'

"'And be convinced that I was no revenue man?'

"'Yes; they might, but that wouldn't end it. They'd still be suspicious.'

"'Of what?'

"'That you was a blamed fule fur bein' up thar at all, and this time they'd pull you up and leave you hangin' fur the best part of a week.'"

Immunity For the Fireflies.

Birds do not eat fireflies, and even bats, which seem to eat everything else that they can chew or swallow, never touch a lightning bug. There must be something distasteful in this insect to the feathered world, and thus the species is preserved, for if it were not so lightning bugs would soon become extinct, as the torch they carry would only serve the purpose of attracting their enemies.

It may be that the uncanny appearance of the insect, giving forth, as it does, a brilliant flash of light every moment or two, deters birds and bats from attacking it, but if a lightning bug were a toothsome morsel to a bird's bill any number of the feathered world would soon overcome their repugnance to the little living torch and go hunting for lightning bugs.

To Clean Silver.

Silver in daily use may be cleaned by immersion in strong borax and water for two or three hours. The water should be boiling when the borax and silver are put in. After it has been taken out and dried rub it with a little plate powder and polish with a chamois. If silver ornaments are not kept in a case, they tarnish very quickly. To brighten them dip the articles in a strong solution of ammonia and hot water. Never rub silver with flannel or cotton cloth. Plate not in general use should be wrapped carefully in tissue paper to exclude light and air, as these are the two factors that cause silver to tarnish.

N.B.—Since the Prospectus of the Company was issued (about the First of April), the Company has received two offers for the purchase of its entire output of paper. These offers are entirely unsolicited, and are from parties whose standing is such as to guarantee the performance of any contract they may undertake. One of these offers covers the first year of production, and the other covers the first three years. Either offer, if accepted, would be sufficiently profitable to assure the payment of the full dividend on the Preferred Stock, provide the amount required by the Charter for a Reserve Fund, and leave a balance sufficient to pay a large dividend on the Common Stock, if no unforeseen contingencies should arise. This does not include profits estimated from the sale of sulphite pulp or from the saw mill, which, it seems reasonable to suppose, would be sufficient to cover all unexpected contingencies.

PROSPECTUS

OBJECTS OF THE COMPANY

The Atlantic Pulp and Paper Company, Limited, has been organized in order to take advantage of the unrivalled facilities for the manufacture of pulp and paper at New Richmond, on the Baie des Chaleurs, and by its charter, has powers of the fullest description. It is confidently believed that pulp and paper can be more economically manufactured there than any other place in America.

The essentials to the success of such a concern are:

1. Cheap and unlimited pulp wood;
2. Adequate water power cheaply developed;
3. Pure water for the manufacturer;
4. Cheap labor;
5. Low transportation charges;
6. Efficient management.

It will be seen that the facilities possessed by this Company assure a point of cheapness in the production of paper never attained before, while the situation of the mills on the Atlantic seaboard makes it possible to ship to all foreign ports by water without trans-shipment. As the Company proposes to confine itself almost exclusively to the export trade, it will readily be seen that this gives it further advantage over all other companies.

1. WOOD SUPPLY.—No paper mill in Canada has greater advantages in point of situation. Many companies do not own their own limits, being entirely dependent on outside purchases, and subject to fluctuations of supply and price. Other companies owning limits have to transport their wood from great distances by water or rail. Thus we find mills at Merriton and Niagara Falls are bringing their pulpwood from Central Quebec. Some prosperous paper companies even buy their pulp in the manufactured state. The mills of the Atlantic Pulp and Paper Company, Limited, will be built about two miles from the limits, where there will also be a very large mill-pond capable of holding several million logs. The Little Cascapedia River flows from end to end through the center of the limits, and the large number of tributary streams does away with the greater part of the hauling usually entailed in getting out pulp wood, thereby greatly decreasing the cost.

2. WATER POWER.—Mr. George F. Hardy of New York, the foremost American authority on this subject, has made a thorough examination of the water power that can be developed on the Little Cascapedia River at a point immediately adjoining the proposed mill site, and his report shows that sufficient power can be developed to run mills of even greater capacity.

This report can be seen at the office of the undersigned, or at any office of the National Trust Company, Limited.

3. WATER SUPPLY.—Pure and clean water is one of the most important factors in connection with pulp and paper-making. The bed of the Little Cascapedia River is rocky, and owing to its crystal-like clearness and purity the water in the river is suitable for making the finest grades of paper without the expense of filtering, which is almost invariably required at other mills.

4. COST OF LABOR.—The labor employed in the mills and woods cost less than probably any other American mill, as far as known, as competent men in this section of the country, on account of the cheapness of living, ask very low wages.

5. TRANSPORTATION CHARGES.—The shipping facilities of this Company are certainly unequalled by any similar enterprise in Canada, the situation of the mills on the Baie des Chaleurs giving every possible advantage for export trade, which is probably the most profitable field. Arrangements can be made with Atlantic steamship lines to run steamers from New Richmond for eight months in the year, as required. During the winter months favorable winter rates have been arranged with the Railway Companies to St. John and Halifax, New Richmond being on the line of the Atlantic and Lake Superior Railway, which will be connected with the mills by a siding.

6. MANAGEMENT.—The Company has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Wm. M. McIntyre, formerly Mechanical Superintendent with the Laurentide Pulp Company, Limited, who will act as Manager of the construction and operation of the mills. Mr. McIntyre has had over twenty years' experience in pulp and paper-making, and is regarded as an authority on the manufacture of pulp and paper.

PROPERTIES

The properties and limits acquired by the Company contain about three hundred and two square miles, or one hundred and ninety-three thousand two hundred acres, more or less. The wood is principally spruce, and there is also a large quantity of cedar, pine, birch, balsam, balm of Gilead, and poplar. The Company has reports on this property made by five different expert Rangers, acting independently. Copies of these may be seen at any office of the National Trust Company, Limited, or at the office of the undersigned.

The following is an extract from one of the reports:

"I have been working in the lumber woods for twenty years or more, and have traveled and examined limits in the State of Maine, New Brunswick, and Quebec, and worked in Wisconsin and Minnesota, and I am sure this is the best pulp limit I have ever seen or traveled over."

On the basis of any one of these reports a conservative estimate shows that there is sufficient pulpwood now on the limits to supply the proposed mills for more than 65 years. As spruce wood will replace itself in from twenty-four to thirty years, it will be seen that there is sufficient wood on the limits to afford a perpetual supply to a mill double the capacity of that now contemplated.

The freehold property consists of twenty acres where the saw mill, dwellings, and office are situated, and 356½ acres on the bank of the Little Cascapedia River, where it is proposed to build the Pulp and Paper Mills.

THE PULP AND PAPER MILLS

It is proposed to erect—

A Paper Mill with a daily capacity of 54 tons.
A Ground Wood Pulp Mill with a daily capacity of 50 tons, and
A Sulphite Pulp Mill with a daily capacity of 40 tons.

Mr. George F. Hardy has estimated the cost of erecting the Pulp and Paper Mills and of developing the water power at $950,000. The balance from the sale of the Preferred Stock will be sufficient to complete the payments for the limits, water power, saw mill, etc., provide working capital, and leave a substantial balance for contingencies.

THE SAW MILL

There is on the property a saw mill, equipped with the latest improved machinery, capable of turning out from 35,000 to 40,000 superficial feet of sawn lumber in ten hours, and is equipped with all necessary power, gearing, shafting, etc., for the installation of another saw, which would double the capacity.

MARKETS

The markets will be chiefly foreign, including the Eastern States and Great Britain. In view of the expected advances in the price of paper in the Eastern States it is probable that the greater part of the output will be marketed there. Situated as the mills will be on the seaboard, paper can be laid down in Liverpool and New York, duty paid, at such a price as to defy competition.

Freight quotations can be seen at the offices of the National Trust Company, or the undersigned.

ESTIMATE OF BUSINESS AND PROFITS

Estimating the cost of pulp wood at $2.25 a cord, careful estimates made for the Company show that the ground wood pulp should not cost over $5.89 a ton, and sulphite pulp not over $16.00 a ton. The actual cost of newspaper from pulp, estimated at these prices, should not be over $16.94 a ton. This is after making all necessary allowance for depreciation and renewal of plant, and all charges of management and selling.

The following estimate of the annual output of the mills has been prepared by Mr. Wm. M. McIntyre, a practical pulp and paper manufacturer, and is believed to be conservative and well within the mark, and includes allowances for salaries and contingencies:

16,902 tons of newspaper at $37.00 a ton f.o.b. at mills	$625,374.00
8,294½ tons of sulphite pulp at $30.00 a ton f.o.b. at mills	248,835.00
		$874,209.00
Cost of producing same:
16,902 tons of newspaper, at $16.94 a ton	286,319.88
8294½ tons of sulphite pulp at $16 a ton	286,319.88
		419,031.88
Showing a profit of		$455,177.12
7 per cent on $1,500,000 Preference Stock		105,000.00
Available for Reserve Fund and further Dividends		$350,177.12

The ground wood pulp and the balance of sulphite pulp will be consumed in the paper mill of the Company.

The estimated profits from the operation of the saw mill are not included in these figures, but owing to the enormous quantities of cedar on the limits, substantial profits should be made from the manufacture of railway ties, shingles, etc. The Laurentide Pulp Company, Limited, in its annual report, June 30th, 1900, stated that the Company's saw mill added to the year's profits an amount equal to its entire cost, although it was operated for only three months of the year, and estimated that the future profits from this source would cover the interest on the entire bond issue of the Company.

ISSUE OF STOCK

For the acquiring of the said property, equipment of the pulp and paper mills, the development of the water power, building the railway siding to the mills, and the furnishing of sufficient working capital, the present issue of Preference Stock is made. The whole of the Seven Per Cent. Cumulative Preference Stock has been authorized to be issued on the following terms:

For every two shares of Seven per cent. Cumulative Preference Stock subscribed and paid for, there will be allotted by way of bonus one share of fully paid Common Stock.

The Seven Per Cent. Preferred Stock is Cumulative, carries yearly dividends, and has priority over the Common Stock as to both divide and assets.

After the payment of the dividend on the Preferred Stock, and before any payment of dividend on the Common Stock, a further sum of one per cent. must be applied to a Reserve Fund, under the charter. This fund will be for the further assuring of the dividends on the Preferred Stock.

Application will be made in due course for the listing of the shares of the Company on the Toronto and Montreal Stock Exchanges.

Applications for Preferred Shares should be forwarded to the NATIONAL TRUST COMPANY, Limited, Toronto, Montreal, or Winnipeg; or to SUTHERLAND & CAMERON, Brokers, Ottawa, Canada.
Checks, drafts, etc., are to be made payable to the NATIONAL TRUST COMPANY, Limited.

If the whole amount applied for be not allotted, the surplus paid on deposit will be appropriated towards the sum due on allotment. Where no allotment be made, the deposit will be returned in full.

Further information and Forms of Application can be obtained at the offices of SUTHERLAND & CAMERON, 48 SPARKS STREET, OTTAWA, CANADA, or the NATIONAL TRUST COMPANY, LIMITED, TORONTO, MONTREAL, and WINNIPEG.

We offer the Preferred Stock for sale on the above terms.

the most fashionable, and Louis Quinze effects will be much worn this spring.

Many of the coat collars are made standing and do not quite meet in front, in order to allow a soft jabot of rich lace to be seen. In many cases these collars are made of embroidery and match the belt with which they are worn. Dressy costumes are trimmed and appliqued with coarse lace.

A thoroughly French costume is shown in the sketch. It is made of brown novelty goods. The waist is made to blouse over a deep corselet band of the lace. There is a front of the lace, and both the wide and the standing up collars are made of it. The sleeves have full puffs reaching to the elbow over a tight fitting undersleeve of the lace. The skirt has five scalloped ruffles. The hat which goes with this is of ecru chiffon and tobacco brown velvet. JUDIC CHOLIET.

Early English Umbrellas.

Two centuries ago the umbrella was known and used as a sunshade. Ben Jonson and Beaumont and Fletcher alluded to it. In 1712 it was used as a rain protector. Gay in his "Trivia" speaks of the "umbrella's oily shed," which was recorded as a kind of sou'wester material more serviceable than gingham or silk, which was used in its construction at that period.

A Ruined Book.

The man who has an old book rebound can never be too minute in his instructions to his binder. Once upon a time, it is said, a tattered "Shakespeare" was sent to the binders for the sole purpose of preserving a number of marginal notes in manuscript. What was the chagrin of the owner when his book came back with the edges neatly pared and gilt and the notes that he treasured half cut away.

Explained.

"And haven't you got any more money?" asked the sweet young thing selling chances at the church fair.

"Yes; I've got a dollar," reluctantly admitted the unfortunate but truthful young man. "But I put it in the sole of my stocking before putting on my shoes so as to have something to pay my car fare home."

White as a Color.

Speaking scientifically, white is a combination of all colors—that is, the pure light of the sun when decomposed by the spectrum analysis shows that it is made up of all the colors. Speaking popularly, white is a color, as a paint, and is not a color, as when we say that a person was "perfectly colorless."

THE DOG'S TAIL.

Its Language In the Chase and When the Animal Is Pleased.

In the case of all hunting dogs, such as foxhounds or wolves, which pack together, the tail is carried aloft and is very free in movement. It is also frequently rendered more conspicuous by the tip being white, and this is almost invariably the case when the hounds are of mixed color. When ranging the long grass of the prairie or jungle, the raised tips of the tail would often be all that an individual member of the band would see of its fellows.

There is no doubt that hounds habitually watch the tails of those in front of them when drawing a covert. If a faint drag is detected suggestive of the presence of a fox, but scarcely sufficient to be sworn to vocally, the tail of the finder is at once set in motion, and the warmer the scent the quicker does it wag. Others, seeing the signal, quickly join the first, and there is an assemblage of waving tails before even the least whimper is heard.

Should the drag prove a doubtful one, the hounds separate again, and the waving ceases, but if it grows stronger when followed up the wagging becomes more and more emphatic until one after another the animals begin to whine and give tongue and stream off in Indian file along the line of scent.

When the pack is in full cry upon a strong scent, the tails cease to wave, but are carried aloft in full view. The moment when the dog most enjoys life is the moment when he sights game. That moment is the time when he wags his tail most vigorously in order to announce his discovery to his fellow dogs.

In this way, by the habit of association, he got to wagging his tail whenever he was pleased. The more pleased he is the more vigorously he wags his tail, so that the wagging of a dog's tail under pleasurable emotions can be traced directly to the time when the dog used his tail as a signal of the discovery of his prey.—D. Provan in Scottish-American.

Character In the Eyes.

Steady eyes are always a sign of sincerity and honor, except when the head is slightly tilted back and the eyes look through half closed lids. Then the possessor does not trust, nor is he to be trusted. Shifting eyes betray a treacherous nature, one thoroughly dishonorable, deceitful, restless and discontented. Clear eyes are a sign of good constitution. Frequently persons in ill health have comparatively clear eyes, but even in these cases they have either great recuperative powers or they have wasted health originally good.

Small eyes are indicative of an alert mind, of cleverness, wit and spontaneity. Large eyes show a quieter nature, one slow to rouse, but more intense when fully wrought upon. Long eyes belong to more poetic temperaments than round eyes. They proclaim more dreamy natures, more contented, less aspiring. Round eyes show ambition. They are sometimes found with unmistakable signs of an artistic nature, which is an indication of a rare combination of a sense of business and a love for art. Deep set eyes show thoughtfulness and logic. Eyes that seem to stand out from the face show love of action.

Bound to Use a "K."

There was once in eastern Tennessee a judge well versed in the law, but entirely self educated, who had this same obstacle of orthography to contend with all his days. In early life he had lived in Knoxville and for a long time insisted upon spelling the name Noxville. His friends at last educated him up to the point of adding the K. So thoroughly, in fact, did he learn this lesson that when a few years afterward he removed to Nashville nothing could prevent him from spelling the name "Knashville."

After a few years' residence there the judge moved again, this time to Murfreesboro. One day he sat down to write his first letter from this place. He scratched his head in perplexity a moment and finally exclaimed: "Well, I'll give it up! How in the world can they spell the name of this place with a 'K?'"

When Finished.

Busy persons, forced to defend themselves from interminable talkers who have little to say, can appreciate a hint to which Henry IV. of France once resorted. A parliamentary deputy called upon him and made a long speech.

The king listened patiently for a time, then he decided that his visitor would do well to condense his remarks. He took him by the hand and led him to where they could see the gallery of the Louvre.

"What do you think of that building? When it is finished, it will be a good thing, will it not?"

"Yes," replied the man of many words, not guessing what was coming next.

"Well, monsieur, that is just the way with your discourse," was the king's mild observation.

He Was Only One.

A soldier who had just enlisted was placed on guard over a cannon. It was not long before he abandoned his post and went to a tavern not far off, where he indulged in the flowing bowl.

"Fellow, why did you abandon your post?" exclaimed the captain, who happened to put in an appearance.

"Captain," was the reply of the incipient son of Mars, "I've tried to lift that cannon, and I'm satisfied no one can carry it away, and if more than one of the enemy comes after it I can't keep them off."

Not Conclusive.

He—I suppose you know I'm singing at your church now.

She—No, I didn't.

He—But surely your brother Jack told you I had joined the choir there.

She—Oh, yes; he did tell me that.

EVENTFUL SNEEZING

HOW A LITTLE THING MAY BE LADEN WITH GREAT RESULTS.

A Sneeze Under London Bridge That Cost Two and Saved Many Lives. A Sneeze That Averted Assassination—One That Caused a Panic.

Exactly at 6 p. m. on the evening of Dec. 13, 1884, a sneeze was sneezed under London bridge which consigned two men to an instant and horrible death.

Their names were Lomasney and Fleming, and they were conspirators. Their mission was to blow up the bridge with dynamite, because it was considered that at that time there would be more people crossing it—workmen, workgirls and others on their way home from business—than at any other and that the loss in human life would be therefore correspondingly more appalling.

All went well at first. The pair of desperadoes dropped noiselessly down the river in a boat, with forty pounds of dynamite in their possession, together with the necessary fuses and detonators. Arrived at their destination, however, they found that the gully hole underneath the southern arch of the structure, wherein it had been their intention to insert the explosive, had been stopped up. Lomasney undertook to remove the obstruction, but it occupied him some little time. The night was bitterly cold, and his comrade got chilled and was seized with a sudden fit of sneezing. In his agitation he dropped one or more of the detonators he was holding, and these, falling on the dynamite which was laying in the bottom of the boat, exploded it, with disastrous results. Doubtless, however, that inopportune sneeze, although it ended the career of a pair of desperadoes, saved London bridge from destruction.

That the Right Hon. W. E. Forster died peacefully in his bed instead of being assassinated in 1882 was due to a sneeze. Three times the conspirators laid in wait for him, but the last attempt was the most determined of them all. Four men armed with heavy caliber navy revolvers were to waylay him as he drove from the viceregal lodge to the castle. Two of the assassins were to fire at him from the first floor window of a house in a certain street, and the other two were stationed at the window of another house a few yards down on the opposite side of the way.

These latter were the "reserves" destined to try their skill should their colleagues miss. Neither of the two firing parties were to show themselves until the near approach of their proposed victim was signaled from the street below. The signal in question was to be the waving of a pocket handkerchief by James Carey, the same man who was afterward killed by O'Donnell.

The plot was excellently planned from the point of view of the participants therein. In fact, so far as human foresight could provide against eventualities the chief secretary seemed as good as dead. Yet it all came to naught and for so simple a reason that the plotters themselves, meeting together afterward at their secret rendezvous in North King street, were fain to laugh at their own discomfiture.

The morning was cold and gusty. Mr. Forster was somewhat late, and Carey, chilled with waiting about, began to sneeze. Instinctively he drew out his handkerchief, the handkerchief that was to give the fatal signal, and in an instant the blustering north wind had flicked it from his benumbed fingers and sent it sailing down the street as a twenty mile an hour gait.

At that very instant the chief secretary's carriage turned the corner and came swiftly toward him. Carey ran to the spot which had been previously agreed upon and tried to make his fellow conspirators understand that their victim was in sight by signaling with his arm and pointing.

The result, however, though exactly what might have been foreseen, hardly came up to his expectations. The four men at the windows were waiting for a man with a handkerchief. Instead, they saw one without any such signaling apparatus, evidently excited and pointing wildly up the street. Instantly they conjured up visions of traitors in their ranks and of detectives on their tracks, and, dropping their weapons, incontinently and hastily fled.

On the evening of Oct. 11, 1878, a policeman on duty near the Coliseum Music hall, Liverpool, noticed an unusual commotion at the entrance. Dishevelled boys and girls, their clothing in many instances torn from their backs and some of them covered with blood, were pouring from the gallery exits, while from within the building came the sound of shrieking and loud cries for help. Realizing something of what was happening, the constable seized an ax and smashed in two of the "extra" doors.

His prompt action undoubtedly saved scores if not hundreds of lives, for by this time the auditorium had become a veritable pandemonium, wherein several thousand people, mad with terror, were fighting and struggling with one another for precedence.

Thirty-seven of the number lost their lives, and more than twice that number were maimed for life. And the cause of the panic was a fit of sneezing into which a number of girls in the front row of the gallery were thrown owing to some mischievous person tossing some snuff into the air.

A number of those behind, hearing and seeing a commotion in front, rose to their feet. Others joined them. Shouts and cries added to the confusion. An alarm was raised that the place was on fire, and a simultaneous rush of hundreds of frightened people for the narrow exit doors was followed by the results chronicled.

Story of a French Cat.

This cat story comes from Pont Ste. Maxence (Oise), and for such a small place it is an extremely tall tale, says the Paris Messenger. It would appear that a resident in the place, who is an enthusiastic angler, used to keep live bait in a small tank on his premises. The angler also had a cat who naturally was fond of fish, raw or cooked. This being so, his owner covered his tank with wire netting to keep pussy out of temptation.

But the cat knew a trick or two and went to the nearest refuse heap for some fowl giblets which were providentially lying there. These she took to the tank, let them hang into the water from the netting and began fishing on her own account. When the fish nibbled at the bait, puss would catch it with a nimble claw! The angler, noticing the trick, threw the bait away, but half an hour later puss was at it again.

We hardly know which to admire most, the cat's ingenuity or that of the concocter of the story.

In Days of Old.

"It must have been kind of nice, though, bein' an old Roman's boys," said little Georgie as he gazed at the picture of Cæsar and Cicero and Cato.

CECIL RHODES' AIM.

HE DREAMED OF A GREAT WORLD'S SECRET TRUST.

The Philosophy of the Man's Life—His Scheme for Universal Peace Among the Nations Unfolded to Mr. W. T. Stead—Warned the British of Wasting Time—He Voices a Grand Idea and Tells the Lesson of Home Rule.

A remarkable document, being nothing less than the political will and testament of Cecil Rhodes, the Empire builder, was given to the world on April 9 by William T. Stead, the close friend of the great Imperialist. Mr. Stead's article, extracts from which follow, sets forth Rhodes' inmost aims, and consists of a free, powerful, explanation of Rhodes' views on the United States and Great Britain.

It was written by Rhodes to Stead in 1890 as a summary of a long conversation held between himself and Stead.

In its three columns of complex sentences the whole philosophy of Mr. Rhodes' international and individual life is embraced. Perhaps it can best be summarized as an argument in favor of the organization of a secret society on the lines of the Jesuit order, for the promotion of the peace and welfare of the world, and the establishment of an American-British federation, with absolute home rule for the component parts.

It was written by himself to W. T. Stead in 1890. For originality and breadth of thought it eclipses even his now famous will, yet it is merely a collection of disjointed ideas, hurriedly put together by the Colossus as a summary of a long conversation held between himself and Mr. Stead.

"I am a bad writer," said Rhodes in one part of what might be called his confessions, "but through my ill-connected sentences you can trace the lay of my ideas, and you can give my idea the literary clothing that is necessary."

But Mr. Stead wisely refused to edit or dress it up, saying: "I think the public will prefer to have these rough, hurried, and sometimes ungrammatical notes exactly as Mr. Rhodes scrawled them off, rather than have them supplied with literary clothing by anybody else."

Mr. Rhodes commenced by declaring that the "key" to his idea for the development of the English-speaking race was the foundation of a "society copied, as to organization, from the Jesuits." Combined with "a differential rate and a copy of the United States Constitution is home rule, or federation." An organization formed on these lines in the House of Commons, constantly working for decentralization and not wasting time on trivial questions, would, Mr. Rhodes believed, soon settle the all-important question of the markets for the products of the Empire.

"The labor question," he wrote, "is important, but that is deeper than labor." America, both in its possibilities of alliance and its attitude of commercial rival, was apparently ever present in Mr. Rhodes' mind. "The world with America in the forefront," he wrote, "is devising tariffs to boycott your manufactures. This is the supreme question. I believe that England, with fair play, should manufacture for the world, and being a free trader, I believe that, until the world comes to its senses, you should declare war (I mean a commercial war), with those trying to boycott your manufactures. That is my program. You might finish the war by a union with America, and universal peace after a hundred years."

But toward this millennium Mr. Rhodes believed the most powerful factor would be "a secret society, organized like Loyola, supported by the accumulated wealth of those whose aspirations is a desire to do "something," and who are spared the "hideous annoyance" daily created by the thought as to which "of their incompetent relations" they should leave their fortune. These wealthy people, Mr. Rhodes thought, would thus be greatly relieved, and be able to turn "their ill-gotten or inherited gains to some advantage." Reverting to himself, Mr. Rhodes said:—

"It is a fearful thought to feel you possess a patent, and to doubt whether your life will last you through the circumlocution of the patent office. I have that inner conviction that if I can live I have thought out something that is worthy of being registered in the patent office. The fear is, shall I have time and opportunity, and I believe, with all the enthusiasm bred in the soul of an inventor, that it is not self-glorification that I desire, but the wish to live and register my patent for the benefit of those who, I think, are the greatest people the world has ever seen, but, whose fault is that they do not know their strength, their greatness, or their destiny, but who are wasting their time in minor or local matters. Even a Labouchere who possess no sentiment should be taught that the labor of England is dependent on the outside world, and that as far as I can see, the outside world, if he does not look out, will boycott the result of English labor."

Once again the personal feelings of the man crop out. "They are calling the new country Rhodesia," he wrote; "I find I am human, and should like to be living after my death. Still, perhaps if that name is coupled with the object of England everywhere it may convey the discovery of an ideal which ultimately will lead to the cessation of all wars, and one language throughout the world, the patent being the gradual absorption of wealth and human minds of the higher order to the object.

"What an awful thought it is that if, even now, we could arrange with the present members of the United States Assembly and our House of Commons, the peace of the world would be secured for all eternity. We could hold a federal parliament, five years in Washington and five in London. The only thing feasible to carry out this idea is a secret society gradually absorbing the wealth of the world, to be devoted to such an object.

"There is Baron Hirsch," interpolated Mr. Rhodes, "with £20,000,000, very soon to cross the unknown border and struggling in the dark to know what to do with his money, and so one might go on and infinitum."

There was Mr. Rhodes' dream of trans-Atlantic greatness. "Fancy," he says, "the charm of young America just coming on, and dissatisfied—for they have filled up their own country and do not know what to tackle next—to share in a scheme to take the Government of the whole world. Their present President (Mr. Harrison) is dimly seeing it, but his horizon is limited to the new world. North and South, and so he would intrigue in Canada, Argentine, and Brazil, to the exclusion of England. Such a brain wants but little to see the true solution.

"He is still groping in the dark, but very near the discovery, for the American has been taught the lesson of home rule and of the success of leaving the management of the local pump to the parish beadle. He does not burden his House of Commons with the responsibility of cleansing the parish drains. The present position of the English House is ridiculous. You might as well expect Napoleon to have found time to personally count his dirty linen before he sent it to the wash and to recount it upon its return.

"It would have been better for Europe if Napoleon had carried out his idea of a universal monarchy. He might have succeeded if he had hit upon the idea of granting self-government to the component parts.

Dealing with the "sacred duty of the English-speaking world of taking the responsibility for the still uncivilized world," and commenting upon the necessary departure from the map of such countries as Portugal, Persia, and Spain, "who are found wanting," Mr. Rhodes said: "What scope! What a horizon of work for the next two centuries for the best energies of the best people in the world."

On the matter of tariffs Mr. Rhodes was characteristically positive.

"I note," he wrote, "with satisfaction that the committee appointed to enquire into the McKinley tariff, reports that in certain articles our trades have fallen off 50 per cent. Yet the fools do not see that if they do not look out they will have England shut out and isolated, with 90,000,000 to feed and capable of internally supporting about 6,000,000. If they had a statesman they would at the present moment be commercially at war with the United States, and would have boycotted the raw products of the United States until she came to her senses; and I say this because I am a free trader. Your people have not known their greatness. They possess one-fifth of the world and do not know it is slipping away from them. Your supreme question at present is the seizure of the labor vote for the next election. Read the Australian bulletins and see where undue pandering to the labor question may lead you. But, at any rate, the eight-hour question is not possible without a union of the English-speaking world; otherwise you drive your manufacturers to Belgium, Holland, and Germany, just as you have placed a great deal of cheap shipping trade in the hands of Italy by your stringent shipping regulations."

Here this "political will and testament," as Mr. Stead calls it, abruptly breaks off. Mr. Stead, commenting on this, says:—

"It is rough and inchoate and almost as uncouth as one of Cromwell's speeches; but the central idea grows luminous throughout. Its ideal is the promotion of racial unity on the basis of the principles embodied in the American Constitution."

"Rolf Boldrewood."

"Rolf Boldrewood," or Mr. T. A. Browne, as he is in real life, has just resigned the Presidency of the Australian Literature Society on the advice of his doctor, says The London Chronicle. He is in his seventy-sixth year, and until about six months ago was in the enjoyment of remarkably robust health for a man of his age. He is a Wessex man by birth, but as a boy of four he accompanied his father to Australia, where he was destined to a chequered career. When he first beheld Melbourne in the thirties it was only a hamlet of a hundred houses. He is now living in its most fashionable suburb, and gazes around on a splendid city of half a million inhabitants. He was in early life a squatter, worth a quarter of a million; then came a succession of disastrous drouths, and he was a ruined man. Entering the Government service as a stipendiary Magistrate and Goldfields Warden, he devoted his leisure hours to literature. Half a dozen of his realistic stories of Australian life and character had been published in the Melbourne and Sydney weeklies before he was discovered by the house of Macmillan in 1888.

Quizzing a Committee.

A short time ago instructions were issued to all commanding officers of regiments calling upon them to report by a certain date, first, whether they were in favor of the substitution of a tail-coat for the present pattern mess-jacket, and, secondly, whether such tails should be red or blue. Among the replies received by the committee was one which ran as follows: "Sir, in answer to your question, I beg to report that (1) I approve the adoption of a tail-coat for mess purposes, and (2) that I consider that one tail should be red and the other one blue."—Manchester Guardian.

The Turquoise.

The turquoise, although not credited with either remedial or protective properties, so far as disease was concerned, was nevertheless regarded as a kind of sympathetic indicator, the intensity of its color being supposed to fluctuate with the health of the wearer.

The latter, however, by virtue of the stone he carried, could, it was said, fall from any height with impunity. The Marquis of Vilena's fool, however, was somewhat nearer the truth when he reversed the popular superstition in his assertion that the wearer of a turquoise might fall from the top of a high tower and be dashed to pieces without breaking the stone.

Genesis of the Horseshoe.

It is known that the hoofs of horses were protected by boots of leather at a very early period in the world's history—at a time which at least antedates Pliny and Aristotle, both of whom make mention of the fact. These leather boots were sometimes studded with metal nails, but more usually worn without extra trimming, the cheapness of that commodity making it possible for the owner of the steed to "reboot" him at any time.

Curiosity.

"I wish I could hit on some scheme," said the merchant, "to make people stop in front of my store as they pass, if only for a moment. I think it would help business."

"I've got it," put in his friend. "Put up a sign 'Look Out For Paint,' and I'll bet my salary against a penny cruller ninety-nine men out of a hundred will stop to see if it's dry."

The Success of De Blowitz.

The secret of the marvelous success of M. de Blowitz as Paris correspondent of the London Times is said to have been due to the absolute and complete confidence with which he inspired the statesmen, the politicians and the diplomats with whom he was brought in contact and which he never betrayed. They all felt that they could depend absolutely on his discretion, no matter how great the temptation from a journalistic point of view to do otherwise.

When the Duke Decazes while playing billiards at the Quai d'Orsay after dinner one evening suddenly received the news of the purchase by the British government of the khedive's stock in the Suez Canal company and, wild with rage, broke forth into frantic threats against the English government, charging M. de Blowitz to make known his indignation and the fact that he was bent on retaliation, the correspondent of The Times, who had been one of the party present, although he saw the value of the news, made no use of it.

The next day he met the duke, who had recovered his senses and who, grasping him by both hands, exclaimed: "I shall never forget what you have done for us. You have sacrificed journalistic success to your sense of duty and to the cause of peace."

The Tall Grass of Yucatan.

The sisal grass of Yucatan is one of the most remarkable vegetable products known. It grows in long blades, sometimes to the length of four or five feet, and when dry the blade curls up from side to side, making a cord which is stronger than any cotton string of equal size that has ever been manufactured. It is in great demand among florists and among manufacturers of various kinds of grass goods, but as soon as its valuable properties become known it will have a thousand uses which are now undreamed of. Ropes, cords, lines of any description and any size may be manufactured of it, and a ship's cable of sisal grass is one of the possibilities of the future. It is almost impervious to the action of salt water and is not readily decayed or disintegrated by moisture and heat and will in time prove one of the most valuable productions of Central America.

The Antiquity of the Organ.

The organ is the most magnificent and comprehensive of all musical instruments. While the pipes of Pan, aside from that mythical personage, indicate a very ancient use of pipes as a means of producing musical sounds, the "water organ of the ancients" furnishes to the student of organ history the first tangible clew regarding the remote evolution of the instrument. In the second century the magripha, an organ of ten pipes with a crude keyboard, is said to have existed, but accounts of this instrument are involved in much obscurity. It is averred that an organ, the gift of Constantine, was in the possession of King Pepin of France in 757, but Aldhelm, a monk, makes mention of an organ with "gilt pipes" as far back as the year 700.

THE LIMIT WAS REACHED.

What Pat Got When He Asked For a Raise In Salary.

A story was often told by the late Charles L. Tiffany of an importunate Irishman who for many years had been employed as a window washer. His pay had been raised quite as often as was consistent with the dignity of his position, but he seemed always hungry (or probably thirsty) for more. At length the firm decided that the limit was reached. Not so Pat. Going one morning to the inner sanctuary, he sought audience with Mr. Tiffany.

"Good mornin', Mr. Tiffany," he commenced artfully, seeking to preface his errand by disinterested conversation.

"Good morning, Patrick," was the answer.

"And how are ye this mornin', Mr. Tiffany?"

"Quite well, thank you, Patrick."

"And how are your wife and family?"

"Quite well, thank you, Patrick. But what can I do for you this morning?"

"Oi've been thinkin', Mr. Tiffany, thot Oi've served ye long and faithful these twenty-foive years and thot Oi sh'ud have a raise in me pay."

"You should be thankful, Patrick, that you have been permitted to serve so distinguished a house as that of Tiffany & Co. for twenty-five years. That, with what we have already done for you, should be sufficient. Good morning, Patrick."

"Good mornin', Mr. Tiffany."

Realizing the futility of further words, he left the room. Reaching the outer office, he was hailed by a chorus from the "boys," to whom his periodical pilgrimages had become a standing joke:

"What did you get, Pat?"

"Faith," was the ready answer, "Oi got permission to kape me job, and Oi tuk it!"

Montefiore's Rebuke.

A man who was once talking with the late Sir Moses Montefiore at a reception found the conversation so entertaining that he completely forgot the race of his companion and made some uncomplimentary remark about the Jewish features of a lady who was passing by. The mistake was no sooner made than it was perceived.

The unhappy man began to apologize profusely. "I ask a thousand pardons. It was so stupid of me to forget. You look angry enough to eat me. I beg you not to devour me."

"Sir," replied Sir Moses, "it is impossible. My religion forbids."

Capacity and Power.

A man is worth to himself just what he is capable of enjoying. This means the utmost enlargement of his capacity. He is worth to the world just what he is capable of imparting, and this means the utmost development of every power. These two, capacity and power, form the truest standard, the most accurate measure, of every man.

"Prays" as It Preys.

Very strange is the insect popularly known as the "praying mantis." Of this insect M. J. H. Fabre, a distinguished French naturalist, made a thorough study. According to him, "its long, pale green wings, like ample veils, its head upraised to heaven, its arms folded and crossed on its breast, give it a false resemblance to a nun in ecstatic devotion."

A ferocious creature it is, ever bent on carnage, the workshops of various burrowing hymenoptera being its favorite haunts, since there it is almost certain to find prey.

"Posted on some bush near the burrows," says Mr. Fabre in his account of the insect, "it waits patiently until it sees some other insect, probably a sphex, returning home. By a sudden rustle of its half open wings it terrifies the approaching insect, which hesitates for a moment, and then as suddenly as a spring the toothed forearm folds back on an arm also toothed, and the insect is grasped between the blades of the double saw in the same manner as the jaws of a wolf trap close on an unfortunate wolf at the instant when it is seizing the bait. Then, without unclosing the deadly machine, the mantis slowly eats its victim."

In Provence this cruel insect is known as "prego Dieou," which means "pray to God."

The Deaf Mute's Story.

"The most pathetic story I ever heard," said Senator Hoar once, "was told by Professor Gallaudet. The professor had a favorite pupil, a little deaf mute boy, exceptionally bright. Mr. Gallaudet asked him if he knew the story of George Washington and the cherry tree.

"With his nimble fingers the little fellow said he did, and then he proceeded to repeat it. The noiseless gesticulations continued until the boy had informed the professor of the elder Washington's discovery of the mutilated tree and of his quest for the mutilator.

"'When George's father asked him who hacked his favorite cherry tree,' signaled the voiceless child, 'George put his hatchet in his left hand'—

"'Stop,' interrupted the professor. 'Where did you get your authority for saying he took the hatchet in his left hand?'

"'Why,' responded the boy, 'he needed his right hand to tell his father that he cut the tree.'"

Virus and Venom.

The difference between venom and a virus is very marked. Both are poisons and both of organic origin, but a venom is produced in secreting organs, commonly called poison glands, and is introduced into the system by means especially adapted for the purpose, such as stings or fangs. On the other hand, a virus is the result of disease or putrefaction and generally possesses the property of exciting in the system into which it is introduced the disease which produced the virus. A virus commonly produces little if any local disturbance. A venom generally causes great pain, often severe inflammation and swelling. Venom has a marked local effect. Virus causes a general disturbance of the system.

An Odd Habit Among Rooks.

Among the odd habits of rooks is the way that members of the same rookery have of intermarrying generation after generation. The males always choose their wives from among their near neighbors, and if one should be so bold as to bring home to his rookery a bride from a distance the other rooks will invariably refuse to receive her and will force the pair to build some way off. In the neighborhood of big rookeries outlying nests of this kind may always be found.

Self Distrust.

"What you lack," said the person who reads your character, "is self confidence."

"I can't help it," said the young man. "You see, I was for a number of years employed in the work of preparing weather predictions."

The Test of Expertness.

"Is he really such an expert stenographer?"

"Expertness is no name for it. Why, just for practice he actually took down a church sewing circle discussion without missing a word."

Forcing a Pension.

When Thomas Snodgrass, ex-collector of Ganjam, Madras, was expelled from the service of the East India company owing to his extravagance, he applied for a pension, but the company turned a deaf ear to him. Accordingly he arrayed himself in tattered clothes and, armed with a broom, set to work sweeping a crossing in Leadenhall street in front of the East India house. Immediately all London was agog with the intelligence that an old and distinguished officer of the East India company who had ruled over 100,000 people and reveled in a palace was now reduced in the evening of his life to the necessity of earning his bread by sweeping the streets. The king was thunderstruck and implored Mr. Snodgrass to take himself and his broom away. This he did when the company gave him his pension.

The Celts and Green.

The early Celts worshiped the dawn and the sunrise. It is more than probable, therefore, that their liking for the color green which we see in their flags, sashes, etc., arose from a mistake among those who had lost a thorough knowledge of the Irish language. The sun in Celtic is called by a word pronounced exactly like our word "green," and it is likely that the Irish fondness for that color arose through the striking similarity of the two words. In the same way, when we talk about a greenhouse we think they are so called because plants are kept green in them during the winter; yet it is far more probable that the word is derived from the old Celtic word for sun, because greenhouses are so built as to catch the rays and heat of the sun and store them for future use.

Eased Consciences.

A well known English dean recently had the misfortune to lose his umbrella, and he rather suspected that its appropriation by another had not been altogether accidental. He therefore used the story to point a moral in a sermon in the cathedral, adding that if its present possessor would drop it over the wall of the deanery garden during that night he would say no more about it. Next morning he repaired to the spot and found his own umbrella and forty-five others.

A SPLENDID GATHERING AT HUSTLING HAVELOCK.

on the continent of North America." (Laughter.)

Well, what have we as the result of the support given by the Government to the Algoma Central Railway? Let me particularize:—

The Sault's Great Works.

1. We have the pulp works, which were to be built before the grant to the Algoma Central was made, at a cost of $400,000, expanded into larger works, costing over $600,000. Without the land grant to the Algoma Central the area for pulp would not have been sufficient for works of the present magnitude.

2. We have sulphide pulp works, not originally contemplated, erected at a cost of $700,000, producing 50 tons of sulphide pulp per day.

3. We have rolling mills capable of producing 600 tons of steel rails per day already in operation.

4. We have the opening of the Helen Mine, which already supplies the smelting furnaces of Deseronto, Hamilton, Midland and the Sault.

5. We have a fleet of eighteen steamers, engaged in conveying the ore from the mines at Michipicoten to the smelting furnaces already named, and elsewhere. When the land grant was made to the Algoma Central it was thought Mr. Clergue had entered into a heavy engagement when he undertook to place two steamers on the northern lakes in connection with his works at the Sault.

6. We have fifty miles of a railway track of the first quality running north from the Sault, and seventy miles graded ready for the rails, with the prospect of seventy more being completed during the present year.

7. We have charcoal works capable of consuming 300 cords of hardwood per day, to be increased to 600 cords.

8. We have car shops that turn out four cars per day, worth $1,000 each, to be increased in the near future to twelve cars per day.

9. We have the foundations being laid for a veneering mill, with a contract already signed with Japan for 600,000 tea chests.

10. We have a company with a payroll amounting to $150,000 a month, employing between four and five thousand men.

11. We have village sites being laid out and houses under construction for settlers on the agricultural lands along the line of railway.

12. We have a company that has expended $15,000,000 on these enterprises, which would have been strangled had Mr. Whitney's views prevailed.

13. And, lastly, the population of the Sault has increased from about 5,000 five years ago to 10,000 and over.

How can a man be trusted to direct the development of Ontario who was prepared to thwart such a vast enterprise as the one I have just described? The land grant to the Algoma Central Railway was the basis of this enterprise, and it was owing to the action of the Government that its success was made possible. (Loud applause.)

Opposed to Progress.

One would have thought that Mr. Whitney's experience with the Algoma Central would have affected his course last session, but such was not the case. The policy of development which he resisted in 1900 in connection with the Algoma Central he repeated in 1902 in connection with the proposed subsidies applied to 302 miles of railway, involving an expenditure of about $700,000. Every one of the railways to be subsidized was designed to open up some part of the Province where it was evident a substantial development was practicable. Some of these reached into agricultural districts, some to timber districts, and others to mineral districts, but in every instance, without railway construction, both settlement and development would be retarded. I need not refer to the stimulus given to old Ontario by railway construction from 1872 to 1885, nor need I remind you that the Conservative party of that day was practically a unit in supporting the policy of the Government in this respect. These were the days of Messrs. Cameron and Meredith as leaders of the Opposition, of men who had mistaken ideas on many questions of public policy, but who were large-minded enough and patriotic enough to join hands with the Liberals in the great work of developing the resources of the Province.

Conditions of Subsidies.

Now, there may be some who object to railway subsidies on principle, just as some people object to bonuses to manufacturing industries. I wish to point out that subsidies granted during the last three years are so conditioned as to protect the public interests at every important point.

1. No subsidy can be paid to any railway company unless the steel rails for the track, rolling stock, cement used in bridges and other supplies are of Canadian manufacture, quality and terms being as favourable in Ontario as elsewhere.

2. Railways subsidized are prohibited from amalgamating with any other railway, and from pooling arrangements as to rates for freight or other charges, except with the consent of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

3. All workmen, labourers or servants employed in the construction of railways subsidized shall be paid the current rate of wages, and shall be protected from contagious diseases by proper sanitary arrangements in the works and in the camps during construction.

4. No subsidy shall be payable to a railway company that does not provide suitable cattle guards and all necessary culverts for drainage purposes.

5. Persons disqualified under the alien labour act from being employed in Canada shall not be employed on the construction of such railways.

6. All railways aided are obliged to carry road-making material for the improvement of highways at the actual cost of handling and carriage.

7. The Government reserves to itself the right to take over any of the railways aided at the end of ten years.

Notwithstanding these reasonable conditions, Mr. Whitney voted against all subsidies proposed by the Government last session, although at previous sessions he voted for much larger sums, without such conditions. It is worthy of notice, however, that four of his supporters protested against their leader's course by voting with the Government. (Applause.)

Temiskaming Railway.

I now come to consider the attitude of the Opposition on the opening up of New Ontario by a railway directly under the control of the Government. I refer to the railway from North Bay to Lake Temiskaming. It will be remembered that the exploring parties sent out in the summer of 1900 reported that north of the height of land and extending westerly from Lake Temiskaming there was a fertile belt containing 16,000,000 acres of good, arable land. The entrance to this district was by way of the Canadian Pacific Railway from the East and Lake Temiskaming. In order to furnish another avenue to the country and to connect the settlements with central Ontario, under conditions as favourable as they were already connected with eastern Ontario, the Government proposed to construct on its own account, what would be practically an extension of the Grand Trunk Railway from Toronto northerly, a distance of at least 100 miles. It was believed to be of the utmost importance that the Government should control the entrance to this great fertile belt, and that settlement could be better promoted by means of a railway in the hands of a Government than in the hands of any private corporation. Accordingly, a vote of $10,000 to survey a route for this railway, was taken last year, and engineers appointed to locate the road. In the session that has just closed a bill was submitted by the Commissioner of Public Works for the construction of a road that was to place 16,000,000 acres, a territory that is as large as the settled portions of old Ontario, within easy reach of every part of the province.

Let me give in detail some of the provisions of this bill. The railway was to be constructed by a commission of not more than five persons, each of whom was to receive an honorarium of $1,000 per annum, and actual expenses. The commission was to locate the road, and to give reciprocal running powers and traffic arrangements to other railways, subject to the approval of the Lieutenant Governor in Council. The cost of constructing the railway was to be met out of the sale of the lands along the line, 20,000 acres per mile being set apart for this purpose. The commission was to have power to issue debentures to meet the cost of construction, the debentures to be a charge upon the lands just mentioned. The railway was to be constructed and equipped with such railway supplies and rolling stock as could be procured in Canada, providing prices were as reasonable as similar stock purchased abroad. No person was to be employed on the railway in contravention of the alien labour law or the provisions of the railway act of Ontario respecting the employment of alien labour. All workmen, labourers or servants, are to be paid the current rate of wages. The books of the commissioners were to be subjected to examination by the Provincial Auditor, and the commissioners were by the statute, forbidden to have any interest in any contract on the road.

Unreasonable Objections.

One would suppose that such a reasonable measure, framed for such an object, would receive the unanimous support of the Opposition. Not so, however. There was carping because fuller information had not been given as to the cost of construction, although a report of the engineer in charge had been laid on the table of the House, setting forth the character of the line, and a map showing the entire route from North Bay to Lake Temiskaming. In no case, until tenders were called for, and the contract actually let, is it possible, except approximately, to estimate the cost of any railway, or for that matter the erection of an ordinary public building. Then it was complained that we had received no subsidy from the Dominion Government for this road. As if we were responsible for the action of the Dominion Government in matters entirely within their own control! And so a vote of want of confidence was moved, in which the lack of information and the absence of a Dominion subsidy were made the grounds for proposing the defeat of the Government. Could any course be more unworthy of a party claiming to be progressive?

Although the railway system of old Ontario, thanks largely to the enterprise of the Ontario Government, was within 100 miles of this fertile belt, Mr. Whitney and his followers, instead of heartily supporting a measure for completing the railway between the two portions of the province, delayed the passage of the bill by criticisms which had no bearing upon the merits of the bill itself, and which could serve only one purpose, and that was the postponement of the opening up of the country. I call upon the young men of the country, who are seeking homes within the boundaries of their own province, to consider whether this policy was in their interests. I ask the manufacturers and merchants if Mr. Whitney's policy of delay and obstruction is in their interest, not alone in regard to this particular railway, but in regard to every progressive business man of the province? Is it not clear beyond the shadow of a doubt that the Opposition has failed, and utterly failed, to connect itself with any large and important scheme by which the province could be advanced, or its great natural resources opened for development by capital, native or foreign? (Cheers.)

Pulp Concessions.

Next in importance to the opening up of New Ontario, is the development of its resources. For thirty years the Government promoted settlement wherever the land was fitted for agriculture. As a result of this policy the population increased from 15,-[illegible] in 1871 to 1,-[illegible]577 in 1901, or an increase of over eight-fold. The greater portion of the land, however, is either mineral-bearing rock, or is covered with pine, spruce and hardwood of various kinds. There was no difficulty in finding a market for [illegible]; in fact, the policy of the Government in recent years has been to dispose of the pine only where it was endangered by fire, or where it was encroached upon by settlements. The mineral resources of the province were more difficult of development, on account of the uncertainty of surface indications and the difficulty of finding capitalists prepared to risk their money in investments of that kind. And this brings me to the subject of pulpwood, so abundant and yet of so little value, unless prepared for the market. Twenty years ago pulp wood lands were regarded as comparatively worthless; now they are looked upon as one of the most valuable assets of the province. It is stated by experts in forestry that Ontario and Quebec contain the largest pulp area in the world. We know that Ontario, from the reports of the explorations made about two years ago, contains at a moderate estimate, nearly 300,000,000 cords. And as the greatest part of this area is beyond the height of land, we can see at a glance what valuable property was saved to Ontario in its successful contest with the Dominion Government for provincial rights twenty years ago.

The first concession for the manufacture of pulp was made to the Sault Ste. Marie Pulp Co in 1894, and was ratified by the House in April, 1895, without division. The second was made to the Nipigon Pulp Company, in March, 1896, and the third to the Sturgeon Falls Company in 1899. In regard to these three concessions Mr. Whitney made no objections. In 1900 there were three agreements submitted to Parliament. Two of them were new concessions, namely the Spanish River concession and the Blanche River concession, the other was an extension of the former agreement with the Nepigon Company, all of which were opposed by Mr. Whitney and his followers, but carried through the House by the usual Government majority. In 1901 an agreement with the Keewatin Power Co. was also opposed. Last session agreements for the further extensions of the concessions made to the Sturgeon Falls Company, the Blanche River Pulp Company and the Nepigon Pulp Company, were ratified by the House without division. But the agreement with the Montreal River Pulp Company was opposed. We have, therefore, the anomaly of Opposition support for three of these concessions without any division, and for the extension of three of the agreements which were originally opposed, also with a division, although the terms of the extension were in all essential respects similar to the terms of the original agreements. Out of seven agreements, including extensions, granted during a period of seven years, Mr. Whitney supported four and opposed three, or an average of one agreement per year, involving an investment of $5,100,000, the employment of 2,440 hands, and the production of 253,150 tons of pulp per annum. Of these seven concessions, two have already manufactured pulp, a third will be in full running order before the year closes, and the other four are bound by agreement with the Crown to complete their works within the next two or three years.

Reckless Criticism.

It is said that in making these concessions we have practically disposed of the greater part of the pulp lands of the Province in the most reckless manner. The Mail and Empire described these concessions as "a criminal disposal of the Province's assets, as an act of shamelessness and without principle or decency." The recklessness of this statement is apparent when I tell you that putting all these concessions together they cover not more than 10 per cent. of the pulp area of the Province. There is still room for fifty or sixty more concessions equal in area to those already disposed of. Or to compare the extent of our pulp lands with the concessions made; it is to be noted that these seven concessions apply to the territory south of the height of land, which contains 66,000,-000 cords of pulpwood. If every pulpmill to which we have given a concession were worked to the full capacity required by the agreements, the seven would consume 320,000 cords of wood per year. At this rate it would take 206 years for the pulpworks already authorized to manufacture the pulpwood growing south of the height of land, leaving the 222,-000,000 cords north of the height of land still untouched and undisposed by the Government. So much for the reckless disposal of our pulp lands. If a mere fraction of them will last over 200 years, according to the concessions already made, even without considering the fact that a pulp forest reproduces itself in twenty-five years, there is no danger of a pulp famine in the present generation at least. (Cheers.)

And here it might be worth while taking a few minutes to consider the terms of the agreement made for the disposal of these pulp concessions:

Points in Pulp Agreements.

Every agreement requires: —

1. The company to invest a given amount of capital varying from $250,-000 in the case of the smallest company to 1 1-2 millions in the case of the Keewatin company.

2. To produce a given quantity of pulp per annum, to employ a minimum number of hands, and to use in the erection of their works machinery and cement manufactured in Canada where the same can be obtained on reasonable terms.

3. The concession to the company gives them no right or title in the land, nor does it guarantee that the concession contains any estimated quantity of pulpwood. The only right the company has is to cut pulpwood on the concession for the use of their works, but they have no right to sell wood to any person or company, or to export any portion thereof to the United States.

4. Settlers have the same right to take up homesteads on pulp lands as they have on any other Crown lands.

5. The concession is limited to a period of twenty-one years and in the case of the Montreal River Company no transfer of the concession is allowed until the works stipulated in the agreement are completed.

Mr. Whitney says that these pulp concessions should be put up at auction, the same as pine lands, and sold to the highest bidder.. This would be impracticable, and for many reasons, if the object is the development of the country. When pine lands are sold by auction they may be kept by the purchaser for a rise in the market, or he may dispose of a certain portion of the pine without the expenditure of any capital, except the bonus paid the Government and the trifling charge of ground rent of $3 per square mile. In the case of spruce or pulpwood concessions, the lessee, as we have seen, has to invest an average of $700,000 in works for the manufacture of pulp, which is a sum largely in excess of any bonus ever paid for pine lands, and he has to run these works for 21 years up to a certain capacity. Moreover, he cannot sell to any other person the pulpwood on the land leased, whereas the purchaser of a timber limit is free to dispose of the pine just as he pleases so long as it is manufactured in Canada. What the Government aims at in its pulp agreements is, first, to convert the almost useless raw material of pulpwood into the valuable manufactured article; second, to give employment to labour, and, thirdly to promote the settlement of the country. We have therefore a triple bonus, capital, labour and settlement, with all the incidental advantages of a market for the merchants and manufacturers of old Ontario. If Mr. Whitney is as anxious to sell pulp lands by auction, how is it that he never objected to the disposal of the pine lands of new Ontario, when the territory was claimed by the Dominion, among his Tory friends by private sale? (Cheers.)

Comparison With Quebec.

It is claimed that pulp concessions are sold by auction by the Province of Quebec and made in that way to yield a handsome bonus to the treasury. It must be noted, however, that under the Ontario system more than the equivalent of a bonus is paid in the form of works and mills, whereas in the Province of Quebec the manufacture of pulp does not necessarily follow on the sale of a concession. Moreover, no lands exclusively pulp are sold in this way, but blocks of land covered with pine, pulp and hardwood are put up at auction just as our pine lands are sold, with a right to the purchaser to keep them for speculative purposes as long as he likes, and with the further right of selling the pulpwood to any purchaser in Canada on the payment of a royalty of 40 cents a cord, or of exporting to the United States on a royalty of 65 cents a cord. As between the two systems, the Ontario method is, in my opinion, much to be preferred. It secures the investment of capital, the employment of labour, the manufacture of our own pulpwood in our own country, and as the royalty required can be increased at pleasure it can be made to yield any revenue which the industry could bear. The Quebec system ties up the pulp lands in the hands of speculators, does not promote the manufacture of pulp, and may ultimately lead to the cutting down of the spruce forests in the interests of the pulp mills of the United States. Now, which do you prefer, a paltry bonus or development; the maintenance of the pulp mills of the United States, or the erection of pulp mills in Canada? The Government has made a choice in this case as in all others of "Canada for the Canadians." (Loud cheers.)

Independent Press Views.

In this connection it may be worth while noticing the opinions of the independent press in support of the view of the Government:—The Canadian Lumberman says:—"The system of disposing of pulpwood, is in fact, simply the logical conclusion and corollary of the general policy of encouraging home manufacture, and the Government is to be commended for the firmness with which it has adhered to the principle, no less than the foresight and fidelity exhibited in providing against any possible abuse of the privileges granted."

The Canadian Manufacturer says: "Only the blindness of partisan prejudice and the mistaken idea that by opposing everything the Government undertakes they can somehow gain political capital could have induced a party which formerly made the development of home industry the leading plank in their platform to offer the violent and unreasonable objections to this agreement made by Mr. Whitney and his followers."

The Toronto News says: — "As between the two policies of selling the spruce limits by auction on a fixed stumpage charge, and retaining power to increase the stumpage dues, there is scarcely room for argument as to which is the better plan for the people." (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Marter's Strong Support.

It is also to be remembered that Mr. Marter, formerly leader of the Opposition, left his party last session in order to support the policy of the Government in the matter of pulp concessions. In his speech in the Ontario Legislature on the 15th of March last, he strongly defended this policy. Quoting his words:—

"I feel so certain that what the Government is doing is in the interests of the business men of this city and the Province generally that I know they will be a unit in saying, 'Yes, give every concession that you can as long as they are guarded by the fair terms contained in this agreement.'" (Applause.)

Again he said:—

"The Opposition make two objections only to the Government's mode of granting concessions. First, they say they should be put up at public competition, which is impracticable, on account of the immense expenses attending the delimitation and estimation.

"Secondly, they claim that the dues should be regulated by the Legislature instead of the Government. If the present dues are not sufficient, is it not the duty of hon. gentlemen on this side to say by resolution what in their judgment they think they ought to be, and which they have not yet done? That is a better way than finding fault with people who are trying to do the country's business. Any man or set of men can pull down and destroy, but it takes wise men to build up. I have got sick and tired of listening to the innuendoes that everybody is a thief and a robber, and so on.

"I am tired and sick of it, I say, sir. And I only ask for the privilege and opportunity of meeting hon. gentlemen who make such assertions when I will endeavour to convince any audience in this country that this is a good business proposition and one free from any wrong-doing." (Loud cheers.)

A Word on Prohibition.

Hon. Mr. Ross, referring to the Prohibition question, said that he had been a temperance man for forty years, and as Minister of Education had introduced the teaching of hygiene and temperance in the schools, and now 200,000 children in the Public and Separate schools were receiving instruction in these branches. At the last session, according to promise to the temperance people, the Government had introduced as complete a measure of prohibition as the Privy Council had decided the Legislature had power to pass. To make such legislation effective, the people should decide whether or not they wanted a prohibitory law, and consequently the law was to be submitted to the people, and if they wanted it, they could have it, and in case they decide they want prohibition, the Government would do their best to enforce it. A law half enforced was dangerous. The great object should be not to get prohibition quickly but to see that the conditions to make it effective were met. For lack of this the Scott Act had been adopted and repealed, as a failure. The Government thought that a majority of those who voted to put a Government in power should be behind a prohibitory law, to make it effective. The same majority that makes or unmakes a Government, may make or unmake prohibition. The Government was asking 57 1-2 per cent., or three out of eight voters, to decide as to prohibition.

Mr. Ross closed his splendid address, which had been listened to with the closest attention and most evident interest by pointing out the greatness of Canada — the greater half of the continent. It was peopled with the best blood of the world, the English, Irish, Scotch, French and German. The story of British history was the story of the world's greatest deeds. If the people of Canada were true to their great inheritance, he had no fear of the future of this great country. Mr. Ross resumed his seat to most enthusiastic applause.

Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Provincial Secretary, was very warmly received. He congratulated the Premier, and Mr. Anderson, upon the splendid gathering of the evening, and referred in complimentary terms, to the presence of the ladies. Mr. Blezard had boasted that he had the ladies with him, and if he succeeded with their help, Mr. Anderson should be encouraged, for it was evident from that night, he had the ladies with him and he would be elected by a large majority. (Applause.) Mr. Whitney and Dr. Ford had spoken at Havelock some time ago, and Dr. Ford had shed crocodile tears over Mr. Blezard being "turned down." But Dr. Ford's sympathy had never found utterance during all the twenty four years Mr. Blezard had appealed to the electors of East Peterborough. In the election contest when the so-called "Equal Rights" cry was an issue, Dr. Ford, when he had had a good opportunity to show his sympathy, had instead shown him if to be a mere partizan—he took the "Equal Rights" candidate to his heart and showed that he was only a party sympathizer. Mr. Whitney had also shown his bogus sympathy for Mr. Blezard, who did not need it for he who would be elected in the present contest. (Applause.) The electors were called upon to decide public questions upon their merits. The financial position of the Province of Ontario was better than that of any other country in the world. (Applause.) It was true the Province had not the surplus of thirty years ago. It had been distributed to the municipalities under the Municipal Loan Fund and existed now in the form of school buildings, town halls, etc., and in the construction of railways, and we stood to-day the first Province of the Dominion and it was the policy of the Government to keep Ontario to the front. (Applause.) This Province had not a cent of direct taxation and no elector would know except through the published public accounts that a dollar had been spent for Provincial purposes. What better municipal, educational or development policy could the Opposition present than had been applied by the Government of Ontario? What better legislation in the

could be presented? Where could the working men of Havelock find better laws in the interests of labour than those which had been passed by the Government of Ontario? Mr. Stratton referred to the position of Havelock—the village was the key to the mining interests of the vicinity. The village needed roads connecting it with the mining regions near at hand, and the people of the village were assured that the Government would deal as liberally with the local interests concerned as the interests of the Province at large permitted. Mr. Stratton referred to the little cries that had been brought against him and the Government in reference to the grant to and the building of the Stony Creek dams, but there was nothing improper in such grants. It was the policy of the Government to help forward every interest of the Province, and in pursuance of this policy it was their duty to assist the great lumbering industry which contributed so largely to the revenue of the country. The Province had received the best prices of any Province of the Dominion for their lumber, and one reason was that the lumbermen knew that the Government would take steps to help them to a market for their lumber, and this was done through the construction of such works as had been criticised. Such a dam had been the Stony Creek dam and such had been twenty-five or thirty dams of a similar character built in Peterborough waters to help the lumbermen to a market. These dams not only helped the moving of timber but they formed reservoirs for maintaining an even flow of water during the drier seasons. He (Mr. Stratton) and the Government, would be open to a charge of neglecting the Interests of Peterborough County,

if they had failed to construct such dams and works, as had been complained of by the enemies of the Government. In regard to the more silly cry, in reference to the Chemong Lake Bridge, Mr. Stratton said that it would be difficult to fix a charge of neglect upon the Government, which had met the deputation from Peterborough county in a most liberal spirit, and had given all the grant that had been asked for. The Government had needed no urging to contribute its share to the bridge, but had, as the premier, could testify, done so willingly. The Government had gone further, and had aided the passage of legislation fixing on an equitable basis, to all the parties concerned, the joint maintenance of the Pigeon Lake and Bobcaygeon bridges. The Government had helped in all these matters willingly, and had deserved credit, instead of blame. Mr. Stratton went on to invite his hearers to contrast the policy of the Government and the Opposition, and there would be no doubt of the choice the elector should, and would, make, in the matter of a Government to serve their interests. Mr. Whitney had appealed to the clergy and religious press to condemn corrupt political practices. Mr. Stratton asked the Opposition not to make charges in this regard only, but

To Prove These Charges,

and then the people would have something tangible upon which to base a choice, as between the two parties. In the past thirty years the Government had spent something like $113,-000,000, and the Opposition had had every opportunity and facility to scrutinize every item of expenditure, and they had failed to show, and could not show, where a single dollar had been improperly or wrongfully spent. In view of facts like this, it had been no wonder that Mr. Marter, a former leader of the Opposition, and a supporter of Mr. Whitney, had declared on the floor of the House, that he was sick and tired of public men being called "thieves and robbers." Mr. Whitney, and the Opposition, had made a great outcry about the corcorruption in West Elgin, but he failed to tell the people that he and his party were responsible for inaugurating this system of corruption which he alleged against the Government. Mr. McDiarmid, a Conservative, had been elected by personation and plugging, and the Conservative candidate in North Waterloo had been elected by bribery and corruption, and in South Ontario Hon. Mr. Dryden had been defeated by Mr. Calder, a partizan of Mr. Whitney, by a system of corruption which involved the expenditure of $7,000. We also knew something about the bribery in the case of Mr. Allen, of North Hastings. To go further back, all had heard of the deplorable political corruption practised by the Conservative Government at Ottawa, and all had in the Mail office, Toronto, to buy up the members of the Legislature, or enough of them, to overthrow the Government, and put the Conservatives in power. Do the people to whom Mr. Whitney appeals to put down corruption forget those things? Had Mr. Whitney, who was so virtuously indignant now ever said one word in condemnation of these terrible acts of corruption practiced by his own party? Not one word. If for no other reason the Opposition should be condemned for their standstill and obstructive attitude towards New Ontario, and he went on to point out what attempts the Conservative Government, with the help of the Opposition, had made to rob Ontario of this territory and to parcel it out among their party followers at three-quarters of a cent per acre, a territory, only a small part of which had yielded a revenue of a million and a half of dollars. After referring to the advantages and benefits of the great development railways the Government had aided in New Ontario, Mr. Stratton went on to speak of the future relations of Ontario and Manitoba. The latter country was forming a centre of attraction for settlement, while Older Ontario had been as thickly settled as it could be expected to be for some time to come, and the present drain of Ontario's sons to the Northwest should be reduced; New Ontario be opened up and settled with people as largely as possible from this Province who would be in sympathy with its progress and help

Develop the Manufacturing Industries

of this Province, which under proper conditions, should supply the wants in manufactured articles of the great Northwest. Every Ontario citizen should support the Ross Government in its policy of settling and building up New Ontario, and at the same time old Ontario and developing trade between the two portions till the Province should grow strong in its manufacturing interests and hold the balance between the different sections of the Dominion, widely separated, and liable to have conflicting trade interests, and to demand varying trade policies. The policy of Ontario should be to build up the Province. That was the policy of the Ross Government and he had no doubt that it would appeal to all progressive electors and he felt sure that the Government would be returned by a very large majority to which East Peterborough would contribute by the election of Mr. Anderson. (Loud applause.)

The meeting which had been the largest and most successful ever held in Havelock, closed with cheers for the King, Premier Ross and Mr. Anderson.

What is He Saying?

The young man is one of those up-to-date clerks. The lady has come to enquire about Church's Cold Water ALABASTINE.

He says, "these goods are superior to anything you can use. Alabastine is a cement for tinting and decorating, that permits of recoating year after year, doing away with the nasty mess of washing and scraping the walls as you have to do if kalsomine is used."

"Walls coated with Alabastine are sanitary, as it admits of the free passage of air, which eminent sanitarians have written is "essential to a healthy home." You may have observed the close, stuffy smell in a papered room. This is because the paper obstructs wall respiration; and then the mouldy paste used to make the paper stick emits an unhealthy odour. Especially is this so in damp weather.

He hands the lady a circular of tints with directions, requesting her to write the Company for further particulars and suggestions how to decorate her home, and gives the names of painters she can rely upon to do first class work such as Alabastine is adapted to.

Follow the Example of the Millions of Women who now use DIAMOND DYES.

It is safe to follow the example of the million of wise women who have made the Diamond Dyes their chosen and only dyes for home colouring. The faith of all is so firmly established in the excellence of the Diamond Dyes that they would not use any other make, even if they were given the common and imitation dyes free of cost. Valuable goods and garments should not be risked with poor and untried dyes. Ruin, loss of money, and bad temper is the sure result.

Mrs. R. F. Swalwell, 108 Harris st., Vancouver, B.C., says, "I have used a great many of the Diamond Dyes and have always had most satisfactory results. I have dyed silks, dresses, men's clothing, curtain and any quantity of wool goods to my entire satisfaction."

His Latin.

"Why do you put so many Latin quotations into your speeches?" asked the friend. "I'm sure most of us don't understand them."

"That's just the point. Misery loves company. I want to be sure there is some one besides myself who doesn't know precisely what I am talking about."

INTERPRETING NATION'S WILL

Denial of the Story That Mr. Steyn Is Coming to Europe to Consult With Mr. Kruger—Boer Agents, However, Renew Their Entreaties That Mr. Kruger Visit the United States.

London, April 26.—Speaking in London last night, Mr. Brodrick, the Secretary for War, said: "We are, perhaps, in sight of peace, but in the interval we are sending out men and material to carry on the war for another year or two, if necessary, that being the only spirit wherein the Government can interpret the will of the nation and approach the arrangements for the conclusion of peace."

Steyn Not to See Kruger.

The Hague, April 26.—The report published in Paris that Mr. Steyn, President of the Orange Free State, is coming to Europe to consult with Mr. Kruger, is entirely without foundation. On the other hand it is true that the Boer agents in America are renewing their entreaties that Mr. Kruger visit the United States next June.

FINNS WON'T ENLIST.

Hence Czar Will Shortly Put Country Under Martial Law.

St. Petersburg, April 26.—A representative of the Associated Press who has just returned from Helsingfors, Finland, interviewed the patriotic leaders and others there, who declared the Government was distorting every report of the disorders in Finland with the view in the near future of proclaiming martial law. This opinion is apparently borne out by the Imperial rescript, signed on Sunday last, in which the period for recruiting is extended, and the Finns are warned against disobeying the military regulations, which will "convince us that the administrative method which became customary in the course of the last century does not guarantee calm progress of public affairs and subordination to the authorities."

Wild Cossacks Rampant.

St. Petersburg, April 26.—During the riots at Helsingfors the Cossacks invaded private houses far from the scene of the disturbances, beating and lashing indiscriminately. They rode through the porticoes of the great Protestant church, forced a physician to jump out of a window of his own home, beat women and children and cripples and nearly killed a cabman who was a mile from the scene of the riots.

How She Voted.

A cynical bachelor listening to some women who were discussing female suffrage was asked by one of them for his views on the question.

He replied thus, with great deliberation: "I once heard of a woman who was asked how she had voted at the recent election. 'In my plum colored gown,' was the answer."

Then the cynical bachelor bowed and escaped.

STOCK MARKETS.

When Down, They are Good to Buy.

New York, April 25th, 1902. — This week's market situation is correctly sized by the head line of to-day's letter Tuesday and Wednesday the reactionists held sway. Stocks proved a good purchase then. Thursday saw them all up again in some instances such as B.R.T. higher than ever. The market is a splendid purchase upon all dips We called attention to the bull side of Brooklyn about 10 days ago in our letter entitled "Someone buying Brooklyn. Why?" This stock is, in our opinion, going much higher. We are as bullish upon it as heretofore. The stocks which were the most depressed in the early part of the week should prove to be the best purchases. Ill. Cen. had a five point fall. Buy it. It will go much higher than before.

All coalers and southern issues are good. The trunk lines and grangers will bear watching, with the view to picking up bargains. The bull market is still with us. We have repeatedly written that frequent reactions were to be expected in the current market, owing to the increased outside interest. They afford excellent chances for an alert trade. The leading Wall street interests are arrayed upon the bull side of the market, and their commitments in new enterprises, such as the Ocean Steamship combination, is a plain proof of their belief in the future. The large interests do not go into new enterprises, if they believe bear times to be ahead. The cinnamon bears that followed the bearish manipulation fell into a trap, and were compelled to take leases on their short sales. Each time the market is depressed, it should be bought, not sold. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. We cannot too strongly or persistently urge our friends to come in to the present market. Avail yourself of the present opportunity while it is with us. It is better than coming in after the bullish procession has passed by. A word as to cotton and wheat. We have been bullish upon these two speculatives, and believe they are still good to buy the former at the present price, and the latter on concessions. — Haight & Freese Company.

Where Dinners Cost Five Cents.

A large proportion of the population of Naples live at public kitchens or cooking stands, which are found on every block in the densely settled portions of the town. They are generally dingy little rooms, the walls blackened with the grease and smoke of generations. In the rear is an old fashioned fireplace with a number of pots and kettles, from which savory steam arises. The largest is always for macaroni, for that is the staff of life. The others contain soup and various kinds of fish and vegetables, while on the counter, which usually projects into the street, the cooked food is spread out in large pans and bowls. The customers come along with pans and buckets, look over the stock and make their selection.

The prices are remarkably low. Fish, vegetables, fruit and macaroni, the chief articles of Neapolitan diet, are cheaper here, it is said, than in any other place in the world, and at one of these cooking shops a good dinner can be obtained for 2 cents and enough for a family for 5 cents.

A Complicated Machine

is an object of admiration, but a complicated medicine is a thing hitherto unknown. Druggist Merrill, of Brantford, has combined iron and herbs and made a wonderful blood-builder and purifier, as well as a tonic for the nerves. Affects a radical cure in stomach, nerve, liver and kidney diseases. Price 50 cents per bottle of 50 doses. Sold at Ormond and Walsh's pharmacy.

Two Expressions of Peel.

Was there ever a more mordant and sardonic stroke of description than that O'Connell gave of Peel's bloodlessness? "His smile was like the silver plate on a coffin."

Less scathing, but less witty also, was his description of a lady of a similar repellant temperament, "She had all the characteristics of a poker, except its occasional warmth."

THE KEEN DISTRESS OF SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

Is Too Well Known to Hosts of Nerve-Exhausted Men and Women —The Fatal Error of Using Opiates.

Mnre Irrefutable Evidence That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Cures Thoroughly and Well Every Symptom of Nervous Exhaustion.

To lie awake night after night, the brain on fire with nervous excitement and thoughts flashing berore the miud in never-ending variety, is the common experience of persons whose nerves are weak and exhausted.

During such nights nerve force is consumed at a tremendous rate.

Instead of being restored and reinvigorated for another day's wear and tear, the body is further weakened and exhausted, and the mind is unbalanced by this terrible waste of energy which the lamp of life is rapidly burning out.

It is in this despairing condition that many men and women attempt to drug and deaden the nerves by the use of opiates. This is a fatal step which hastens nerve decay.

Surely it is wiser to build up and completely restore the nerves by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, a treatment which gets right down to the foundation of the difficulty and effects permanent results by revitalizing the wasted nerve cells.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Sleeplessuess is only one of the many distressing which entirely disappear with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It is a positive cure for weakness of nerves and body, and is specific for women's ills, because they almost invariably arise from exhausted nerves. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Watch the daily papers for further evidence as to the extraordinary curative influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Sophia Street

Mr. Harold Crane, Sophia Street, Peterborough, Ont., and who is Employed in Hall's Store, States:

"I believe the close confinement of shop work was responsible for my becoming very nervous, and as a natural result I did not sleep and at times had severe attacks of splitting headaches. I heard of the good results obtained by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and decided to try it. I can now say that I am more than pleased with the results, as it has benifitted me very much. It built up my system, restored my nerves, and I am now entirely free from headaches. I have every reason to give the credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Aylmer Street

Mrs. F. Turner, 336 Aylmer Street, Peterborough, Ont., and Whose Husband is Employed at the Hamilton Foundry, States:

"For some months past I found myself growing very nervous, and gradually becoming a victim of sleeplessness and subject to frequent attacks of nervous headache. About six weeks ago I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and cannot speak too highly of this medicine. I can sleep well now, the headaches have entirely disappeared, and I believe that my system generally has been very much improved by the use of this treatment."

Bethune Street.

Mrs. S. Berecosher, 495 Bethune Street, Peterborough, Ont., states.

"I was troubled a great deal with nervousness and sleeplessness, and began a treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can say for a certainty that it is a splendid medicine, for besides steadying my nerves, it built up my system wonderfully, and enabled me to sleep and eat well. We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills and Ointment in our family for years, and consider them excellent. For skin diseases I think the Ointment cannot be equalled, and the pills are a most satisfactory laxative."

A Picton Engineer's Terrible Kidney Pain.

Mr. Chas. Welsh, Engineer on the Steamer "Ella Ross," was a Sufferer From Intense Pain in his Back and Kidney.

He Tried Plasters, Pills and Liniments, but They Failed to Help him.

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets Rapidly Relieved and Completely Cured him.

MR. CHAS. WELSH.

Mr. Chas. Welsh, of Picton, Ont., is well known in that town and vicinity.

He is engineer on the Ella Ross, a steamboat plying between Picton and Deseronto.

About a year ago he was laid up with a severe attack of backache and kidney trouble, so bad that he could not get around.

After trying everything he could think of, without obtaining relief, Dr. Pitcher's Backache Tablets, the new, scientific remedy for kidney troubles, was suggested to him.

He decided to try them, and with what results we will allow him to relate in his own words:

"I was ailing with a terrible pain across my back and kidneys. It commenced gradually getting worse, so that I was obliged to stop work. I tried plasters, pills and liniments, until I was almost ashamed to enter a drug store, and they all failed. I came across a man who had been using Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, and he advised me to try them, and while I used them, and ever since I have never known what it was to have a pain or ache in the back or kidneys. Therefore, I would advise any person who is troubled with kidney or backache trouble to use Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets by all means, for I can highly recommend them ahead of anything else I know of, for they have made a sound man of me, when I could hardly walk up the street before I took them."

(Signed) CHARLES WELSH.

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are the formula of Dr. Zina Pitcher, formerly professor of materia medica and genito-urinary diseases, Michigan College of Medicine, Detroit, Mich., which he used with wonderful success for many years in the treatment of kidney, bladder and urinary troubles.

They are rapid-acting and positive cure for backache, lame or weak back, pain in the back or between the shoulders, swelling of the feet and legs, bloating, puffiness under the eyes, puffy and pasty appearance of the face, dropsy, Bright's disease and diabetes (except in the last stages,) gravel, stone in the bladder, brick dust deposits in the urine, scalding or irritation of the urine, frequent call during the day or night, inflammation of the bladder or cystitis, catarrh of the bladder, milky colour of the urine, high-coloured or foul smelling urine, sudden stoppage of the flow of the urine, scanty flow dribbling, rheumatism, neuralgia, pains in the joints or hips, uric acid in the blood, heavy feeling or pain in the head, drowsiness, rapid loss of flesh, great thirst, excessive quantity of urine, specks floating before the eyes, bad taste in the mouth (especially in the mornings,) constipation, torpid liver, dragging pain in the loins, sense of weight or pressure in the region of the bladder, kidney troubles of old people, bed-wetting of children, kidney troubles of women, and all symptomatic indications of kidney derangement.

Price 50 cents a bottle, or three for $1.25, at all druggists, or sent by mail. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

SHAW-LUGARD.

An Interesting Marriage Announcement of Colonial Interest.

The approaching marriage of Miss Flora Shaw and Sir Frederick Lugard is of considerable colonial interest. Miss Shaw has been head of the colonial department of The London Times, and her letters on affairs in the Yukon attracted much attention here. She also gave important evidence before the Committee of Inquiry into the Jameson raid. Her literary work also has a lighter side, and her tales, particularly an Irish story, "Castle Blair," have gained her a host of friends among children. Miss Shaw, representing The Times, was once traveling through Africa in a bullock wagon. The sun was blazing, the bullocks were slow, the dust was indescribable. She was making for a frontier town where she anticipated the comforts of a bath. At the entrance to the place Miss Shaw, dead beat, dusty and irritable, found herself confronted with the ordeal of a public reception. The officials read her a welcome; she was as civil as she could be; then she bolted for the hotel. She gave but one order, "Hot water, quick!" She sat on the edge of the bed and waited. Some minutes passed. At last a black servant entered with a tin vessel in which there was something steaming. Seizing it, Miss Shaw poured out a milky, odoriferous liquid. She turned to the servant for an explanation. The hotel was very short of water; as a distinguished guest, a point had been stretched for her. They had sent her the water in which the fish had just been boiled!

Sir Frederick Lugard's life has been a record of services in the wilder quarters of the empire. He played a part in the second Afghan war, in the Soudan campaign, and in the Burmah campaign, where he gained his D.S.O. Since then his energies have been entirely absorbed by the Dark Continent; he commanded an expedition against the slave traders of Lake Nyassa in 1888, in the course of which he was severely wounded; then for three years he was Administrator of Uganda, and afterwards Commissioner of the Hinterland of Nigeria and Lagos, while since 1900 he has held the post of High Commissioner of Northern Nigeria. In addition to his other titular rewards, the Royal Geographical Society has recently voted him a royal medal for his explorations.

The High Commissioner of Nigeria finds it difficult to leave his post even long enough to get married. Miss Shaw has set out for West Africa, and Sir Frederick Lugard will take "canary leave" to meet her — an expression used as to leave only allowing time to reach the Canary Islands.

Cecil Rhodes and the Kaiser.

At the historic meeting between Cecil Rhodes and the Kaiser the conversation turned on the Jameson raid on the Transvaal and the Emperor's telegram to President Kruger, says the San Francisco Wave. "But why did you send that telegram?" asked Rhodes. "Do you know that telegram was the saving of me? Everybody thought I was ruined. Then your telegram came and saved me." "But why," said the Emperor, "were they so excited about it?" "Oh," replied Rhodes, "it is just like boys at school. When they are whacking a boy, very often every one will join in the cry against him, but they wouldn't let a boy from another school join in. It would create a reaction in favor of the offender. You were a boy from the other school, you see."

General De Wet's Liberality.

A characteristic story of the late Mr. Rhodes and General Dewet is told by the Kimberley correspondent of The Glasgow Herald. "How you must hate Rhodes!" a burgher now on parole remarked to Christian Dewet not long ago. "Not at all," the intrepid raider is credibly reported to have cried. "He tried to patch up matters as long as he could but when things got to a head he sided with his own country, and I should have despised him if he had done otherwise. I, too, have sided with my country and when it is all over I shall not mind shaking him by the hand." This anecdote was carried to Mr. Rhodes, who replied promptly. "I think Dewet must be a very fine fellow."—London Express.

Tallow Candles Have Gone Out.

Fully 65 per cent. of candles burnt in Great Britain are made from paraffin wax, more or less stiffened by varying admixtures of stearine. Then come stearine candles themselves, and finally beeswax, spermaceti and other candles composed of mixtures of more or less rare waxes. We have said "good-bye" to the tallow candle—it is a smoky, smelly, wasteful light—but the beeswax candle still remains with us, the most expensive and luxurious, but quite the most respectable and venerable of them all.—Idler.

Too Many Novels.

"Maxwell Gray," the author of "The Silence of Dean Maitland" and other well known works of fiction, has been telling a King interviewer that it would not matter much if no more novels were written for the next fifty years. She is not alone by any means in this opinion. "People," she said, "write too many novels now, and they write hastily and badly." And again: "Novel-writing has become a trade; it is no longer an art. Writers ought not to live by literature. It should be a staff, not a crutch. The moment an art is pursued for gain it is lost."

Awfu' Smittal.

Two douce auld wives met on the street in Stirling the other day. First—There's an awfu' lot o' trouble gaen about cnoo. Second—Ay. That sma'-pox is geyan' bad yet, I see, an' then there's that new fever. "A new ane, d'ye say?" "Ay, I see'd it in the papers, ping-pong fever I think they ca't, an' they say it's awfu' smittal."—Scottish American.

Its Reason For Being.

"What kind of a society is yours?" asked her father.

"A secret society," she replied.

"But what is its object?"

"Oh, just to have secrets from the other girls!"

None to Spare.

"Beg pardon," said the suspicious looking fellow, meeting Subbubs in a dark street, "but what time have yon?"

"Just enough to catch my train," replied Subbubs as he hastened on.—Exchange.

AFTER

The guests are gone the smile slips from the face of the hostess and she gives up to the pain which racks her body. Many a woman entertains and wears a smile while her back aches and her nerves quiver with pain. Surely any medicine which offers relief to women would be worth a trial under such conditions. But when the woman's medicine, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, is offered with the proof of efficacy in thousands of well attested cures, what excuse can then be offered for suffering longer?

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"It is with the greatest pleasure I write you the benefit my mother has received from your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" says Miss Carrie Johnson, of Lowerville, Amherst Co., Va. "She suffered untold misery with uterine disease and nervousness, and had a constant roaring and ringing noise in her head. After taking six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' she was entirely cured."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets stimulate the liver.

Standing Room Only.

This world it is a fleeting show,
Where some secure the best,
And some encounter "S. R. O."
And never get a rest.

But they who stand in tired array
As well as they who sit
In rapt attention long to stay.
The show has made a hit.

Love Will Prevail.

"Why do you go out between the acts at the theater?"

"Because I fear it would disturb the people if I went out while the act was in progress."

Said she'd waive all prosecution

"Well, I think you can tell more of his wife's character by them."

"She tries not to look it," replied she, "so she must be." Feminine perspicacity transcends masculine reasoning.

"THE SCOTCH RESULT."

Seeing the Point of the Joke In a Plain Story.

William Inglis was a visitor at a Scotch yacht club on the Clyde during a regatta week, and one night he was called on for a story. Knowing, he says, from books and experience the density of Scotchmen to American jokes, he told the broadest, most pointed story he could think of. It was the old chestnut of the inebriated Irishman who met a policeman and asked him the time.

"Three o'clock," said the policeman.

"Oi didn't hear," said the Irishman.

"Three o'clock!" the cop yelled.

"Shure, Oi didn't hear that, either."

The cop then hit him three whacks on the head with his club. "Did you hear that?" he asked.

"Shure," said Pat, "Oi heard that, and Oi do be fur thinkin' it's glad Oi am that Oi didn't mate ye at twilve."

There was not a ripple of appreciation on the rows of Scotch faces before him, said Mr. Inglis. They, one and all, were blank, and slowly each Scotchman drained his whisky to hide the fact.

"Suddenly," said Mr. Inglis, "I saw an old Scotchman in the far corner break into a smile. Slowly he removed his pipe from his mouth and blew out a cloud of smoke. 'Hoot, mon,' he said, 'but ye canna blame the policemon, for a' that. It do be a wee bit hard to be asked the same question three times.'

"That is what I call the Scotch result" Mr. Inglis concluded.

Irritating Pimples and Disfiguring Blotches.

They place many young girls at a great disadvantage in life. The only cure is a blood purifier like Ferrozone. It cleanses the crimson flood of poisons and impurities, renews and strengthens it, and makes lots of red corpuscles that manifest their presence by a ruddy, healthy glow in the cheeks and lips. Ferrozone quickly masters all skin erruptions, builds up broken-down constitutions, and gives to weak, sickly women an abundance of spirits, vitality, energy and beauty. Try Ferrozone, it's all right. Price 50c. per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

One of Travers' Jokes.

When William R. Travers was in the directorate of the New York Central railroad, Jay Gould was running the Erie in opposition, and his management of that system betrayed a constant and intimate knowledge of what was going on in the Central's star chamber. Commodore Vanderbilt was naturally exasperated, and one day, after expressing how helpless he found himself to outwit his rival, he turned to Travers with the query:

"Well, Billy, how can we stop Gould from getting knowledge of what we are doing?"

"W-w-why," suggested the genial wit—"w-w-why d-dont you m-m-make him a d-d-director of N-N-New York C-C-Central?"

The Sufferings of Job.

If the agonies of Job were any worse than the tortures of itching piles from which so many people are now suffering he had much to endure. The difference is that there is no reason for any one to endure the miseries of piles for a single day. Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured tens of thousands of cases and is absolutely guaranteed to cure each and every case of piles. 60 cents at all dealers or by mail from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Heathenising It.

"My friend," said the missionary who was trying to convert the wealthy mandarin, "do you not know that it is easier for the camel to get through the eye of the needle than"—

"Than it is for me," the mandarin interrupted, "to get through the need of an idol eh? Very true."

APHORISMS.

Observe your enemies, for they first find out your faults.—Antisthenes.

Envy always implies conscious inferiority wherever it resides.—Pliny.

The less heart a man puts into a task the more labor it requires.—Amiel.

Evasion is unworthy of us and is always the intimate of equivocation.—Balzac.

The same people who can deny others everything are famous for refusing themselves nothing.—Leigh Hunt.

If there is any person to whom you feel dislike, that is the person of whom you ought never to speak.—R. Cecil.

The chief pang of most trials is not so much the actual suffering itself as our own spirit of reistance to it.—Jean Grou.

There is no beautifier of complexion or form or behavior like the wish to scatter joy, and not pain, around us.—Emerson.

Success is sweet, the sweeter if long delayed and attained through manifold struggles and defeats.—A. Bronson Alcott.

True popularity takes deep root and spreads itself wide, but the false falls away like blossoms, for nothing that is false can be lasting.

Blunders of Painters.

A picture representing the four elements was essayed by an Italian artist, and he selected fish to indicate the sea, moles the earth and a salamander fire. The chameleon was intended as the allegorical representative of the air, but the painter, having no model of this animal and knowing nothing about its shape, contented himself by introducing a camel. He probably thought in his ignorance that from a similarity of sounds they were one and the same animal.

Another painter in a picture of the crucifixion represented a father confessor holding out a crucifix to the repentant thief who was promised a place in paradise by the Saviour.

A Honeymoon Financier.

Judge Edwards of Lee county, who has married over a hundred couples since he has been ordinary, performed the ceremony recently for a runaway couple seated in a buggy in the public road.

The ceremony over, the bridegroom fumbled in his pocket and fished up 36 cents.

"Jedge," he said, "this here's all the money I got in the roun' worl'. Ef you're a mind to take it, you kin, but I'll say straightfor'ards that I'd done set it aside fer the honeymoon expenses!"

Disappointed.

"So you advise me not to sue?" said the client.

"I do," said the lawyer.

"Well," returned the disappointed client, "it seems strange that when a man pays for advice he can't get the kind he wants."

Robert Toombs' Advice.

A lawyer sent to Robert Toombs once and asked what he should charge a client in a case to which Mr. Toombs had just listened in the courthouse. "Well," said Toombs, "I should charge $1,000, but you ought to have $5,000, for you did a great many things that I would not have done."

America's First Lighthouse.

The first lighthouse built on this continent was at St. Augustine, Fla. Its chief use was as a lookout, whence the Spanish people of the town could see vessels approaching from Spain or get notice of the coming of foes in time to run away. The tower attracted the attention of Francis Drake as he was sailing along the coast with his fleet of high pooped ships on his way home from pillaging the cities of the Spanish main. So he stopped long enough to loot the town and destroy what he could not take away.

The Baffled Agent.

"Our improved sewing machine," said the agent as he set the little wonder clicking, "can be handled by a child, it's so easy to run."

"It seems easy," said the wife of the paragrapher as she watched the nimble needle.

Then the agent slowly and sadly loaded the machine back on the wagon and drove away.

An Old Friend in Town.

There arrived this morning at Ormond and Walsh's Drug Store a large consignment of Four T's, that great guaranteed cough medicine, which cured so many people last winter. If you or your children have coughs or colds, don't neglect them but get a 25c bottle of Four T's and be well in two days.

Sharks as Game Fish.

As game fishes sharks do not, I think, stand high. The most common of them, the dusky shark, when hooked, circles round on the surface and usually bites off the lines and escapes. If so hooked that the line cannot be cut, the struggle is furious but short, the shark giving up in much less time than a game fish of half his size, such as the channel bass, salt water trout or snapper would do.

ABOUT SILK

Sewing should be one of woman's greatest pleasures, but it is too often made drudgery by innocently using a cheap and unsatisfactory silk.

Corticelli sewing silk is by far the highest product that can possibly be manufactured although it costs no more than other kinds.

The Artistic Japanese.

The artistic Jap shows nothing in a room, absolutely nothing except a lovely flower and a screen and perhaps a beautiful vase. * * * You would never know from the rooms of a Jap that he was a great picture collector. The wealthy collector keeps all his treasures stowed away in what is called a "go down," his storehouse, and his pictures are brought up one at a time if any visitor is present or expected. Generally a single picture will be brought in and hung up. You enjoy that beautiful picture by itself. It is very much like bringing a bottle of wine from the cellar. No one would want the whole bin at a time.—"Japan: A Record In Color," by Mortimer Menpes.

A Great Sufferer Cured

Mr. Benjamin Dillon, of Leeds, Ont., was cured of Muscular Rheumatism by Polson's Nerviline, and says: "I feel my duty is to proclaim Polson's Nerviline as an infallible cure for Rheumatism; it cured me after 30 years suffering, and nothing I know of can equal its penetrating power. Nerviline simply has no equal in quickly relieving and curing Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, and Lumbago. A trial will convince anyone. Price 25c.

Gale Wrecks Buildings.

Owen Sound, April 26.—Two large brick buildings, belonging to the Sun Cement Company, were partially wrecked yesterday morning by the severe gale which set in about 11 o'clock Thursday night. Shortly before 7 a.m. just as the men were preparing to go to work, the wind lifted the heavy iron roof at the western gable to the kiln house, and forced the greater portion of the heavy brick wall. Then, forging through the building, the east end wall was driven outwards, falling upon and badly injuring the coal, grinding house adjoining. Fortunately, but one man was injured any way seriously, a painter, named Watt, who was on the roof. He was removed to the hospital, and, though severely hurt, is doing well. Ten minutes later twenty men would have been at work inside, besides several painters on the roof, which is in course of completion by the Hamilton Bridge Co. Thousands of dollars' worth of heavy machinery was in both buildings, but, owing to its strength, is practically uninjured, and the actual damage, apart from the delay in operations, will not much exceed $1,000.

Lord Strathcona's Opinion.

London, April 26.—Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, the Canadian High Commissioner in London, said yesterday in an interview that he was disinclined to credit the report that the shipping combine was attempting to secure control of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Even if the combine secured a majority of the Canadian Pacific Railway stock, Lord Strathcona said there is adequate legislation to prevent its influence going beyond a certain point. A rumor is current in Liverpool shipping circles that the shipping combine will pay £70,000 for each thousand-pound share of the White Star.

Electric Strike Ended.

Montreal, April 26.—The strike of the electric workers has been settled. The men are to return to work this morning, except three, to whose dismissal the unions have agreed. The terms will be discussed at a future meeting of the branch of the union. The companies have agreed not to discriminate against any men for their taking part in the strike.

A Dozen Cars Off the Track.

Toronto, April 26.—As a result of a rear-end collision between two Grand Trunk Railway freight trains at Port Credit last night hundreds of travelers missed train connections and were late in reaching their destination, while considerable damage was occasioned to rolling stock. At 7 p.m. a freight train proceeding west collided with a second train going in the same direction. The engine crashed into the caboose of the train with terrific force, throwing fully a dozen cars off the track. The cars were thrown on top of each other, and some were reduced to kindling wood. The work of removing the debris was still in progress at 2 o'clock this morning.

The Queen Sleeps Badly.

Amsterdam, April 26.—In official circles no amelioration of Queen Wilhelmina's condition is admitted, but her doctors' admission that she is sleeping badly is taken as a bad sign. It is alleged that the despatch from the royal family concerning the Queen's condition differs substantially from the medical bulletins on the subject. It is reported that the Queen is restive under the liquid diet treatment and has insisted that her nurses give her solid food.

THAT AWFUL GAS.

For Years This Form of Indigestion had Troubled Mr. Harmer—Now all the Bloating and Belching has Gone.

Indigestion manifests itself in many forms. One of the most trying and unpleasant symptoms is the formation of gas in the stomach, and the consequent belching up, bloating and distress.

This was how it affected Mr. W. H. Harmer, of Avonmore, N.B., and in this way he had been troubled for a long time. Nothing he used as a medicine seemed to improve his condition until he commenced a treatment of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

This favourite remedy once more demonstrated its wonderful curative properties by immediately relieving and in a very short time completely curing Mr. Harmer's trouble.

He has written a letter in which he expresses his gratitude to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets for their prompt and satisfactory cure of his trouble. He says:

"I know of several others here who have used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets with good results."

The evidence of these wonderful cures pour in daily from all parts of the Dominion. From east, west, north and south come grateful letters from people in all stations of life, who had almost given up hope of ever being cured, and who have found in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a remedy they so long had sought.

The wonder is that every Dyspeptic has not already heard of and used this remedy.

One of the serious symptoms of this disease is fear and doubt, and this may account for the fact that there is a single case of Dyspepsia left in the Dominion of Canada.

Surely these earnest, honest letters and statements of living men and women will convince the most skeptical Dyspeptic that to suffer a moment longer when a cure is at hand is unnecessary.

What has cured all kinds of cases, of every conceivable form, in old people and in young people, is surely worth a trial.

If you don't believe, ask these people, or any one else who has given Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a fair trial.

Seemed Reasonable.

Johnny had written a composition in the narrative style and was showing it to his mother for her approval before submitting it to the teacher.

"Here's a sentence that will not do, Johnny," she said as she read it: "'When the man found that he had called at the wrong door, he politely explained himself away.' A man can explain a thing away, my dear, but not himself."

"I don't see why," contended Johnny. "A man can bow himself out, can't he?"

"Certainly."

"Then why can't he explain himself away?"

A Bit of Correspondence.

The following correspondence, ending in true Irish fashion, actually passed between two men in England some years ago:

"Mr. Thompson presents his compliments to Mr. Simpson and begs to request that he will keep his doggs from trespassing on his grounds."

"Mr. Simpson presents his compliments to Mr. Thompson and begs to suggest that in future he should not spell 'dogs' with two gees."

"Mr. Thompson's respects to Mr. Simpson and will feel obliged if he will add the letter 'e' to the last word in the note just received, so as to represent Mr. Simpson and lady."

"Mr. Simpson returns Mr. Thompson's note unopened, the impertinence it contains being only equaled by its vulgarity."

Don't Waste Money.

If you have nerve troubles or dyspepsia, take Merrill's System Tonic. It cures by purifying the blood and regulating the bowels. Then dyspepsia and nervous diseases disappear. This is the scientific and correct way of doing. Get a fifty cent bottle of Merrill's System Tonic, which will last three weeks, at Ormond and Walsh's drug store.

EQUINE INTELLIGENCE.

A Writer Who Believes That Horses Are Capable of Thinking.

There are people who deny that the horse is able to plot, to conceive or reason. Some horses are duller than others, and some apparently are better equipped for thought than the men in charge of them. You teach a horse to start or stop at a word, and acts of kindness or cruelty are seldom forgotten by him. At a farm that we visit a little girl who has given sweetmeats to spirited animals can take the greatest liberties with them. The stranger has to keep a safe distance from their heels, while she may crawl between their legs. They remember her acts of kindness and carefully avoid doing anything to harm her.

We have in mind a stallion who was harshly punished. He treasured up the act of injustice, and the author of his humiliation was compelled to keep aloof from him. His manner plainly indicated that the man would get hurt if he ventured within striking distance. This stallion trusts those who have shown him consideration and in the main is not a bad tempered horse. He appears vicious only to those who have treated him viciously. His knowledge of right and wrong suggests thought. It shows capacity to reason from cause to effect. Teach a horse as you would a child what to fear and what to do, and the lesson will never be forgotten.

Some horses cunningly open their stable doors by removing pegs with their teeth and thus put plan into operation. Their imagination is fired by beautiful scenery. Put one in a paddock where he can look out upon the hills and hear the birds sing and you will quiet his nervous system. In moments of contemplation he has the dreamy look of a poet.

About the only time that a horse forgets to think is when he surreptitiously finds his way to the well filled oat bin. He then does not eat in a rational way, but gorges himself to the danger point. This is an unmistakable evidence of weakness. And yet there are men endowed with intellect who have little or no control over their appetites. Absence of restraint at the feast marks the development of the human as well as of the equine race. In our judgment, the horse sometimes thinks.—Turf, Field and Farm.

SHIP "HARD AGROUND"

A distressing skin disease had well nigh wrecked his good ship "Health," but Dr. Agnew's Ointment came to the rescue and it's timely aid relieved the distress and brought him safe to land.

C. H. Howard, a prominent steamboat man, of Rangeley, Maine, writes:—"Enclosed find thirty-five cents for a box of Dr. Agnew's Ointment. I bought a box in Portland recently for a distressing case of skin disease, and it did me so much good that I want to try another box. It is the only remedy that has ever given me any relief and I believe it will cure me."

Over $0,000.

More than 30,000 invalids have taken Merrill's System Tonic, and the result has proven that this wonderful new medicine is not a doubtful compound, but one which always affects a radical cure of stomach, nerve, liver and kidney troubles. The 50 cent bottles [illegible] Sold by Ormond and Walsh.

WATERFALLS WILL OPERATE MILLS,

And Streams Will Float the Logs for the Pulp to Their Doors.

TEAMING IS TO BE AVOIDED,

And Steamers Will Load Paper at the Adjacent Docks for Shipment to Europe.

Those who are acquainted with the property of the Atlantic Pulp and Paper Co., which is at present offering $850,000 of 7 per cent. cumulative preference stock to the public for sale at par, claim that the company will be able to manufacture pulp and paper more economically than any other company in America. The assertion is based on a number of natural advantages which the company may utilize.

WHERE THE MILLS ARE.

Firstly, the mills will be situated at New Richmond, on the Baie des Chaleurs, and will be within two or three miles of the limits, which contain a practically inexhaustible supply of pulpwood. This circumstance alone gives the company a marked advantage over other companies who have to haul their wood, sometimes, several hundred miles on trains. Besides, the Little Cascapedia river flows from end to end through the centre of the limits, and this, with a large number of tributary streams winding here and there, practically does away with the inconveniences and expense of teaming. At the mills there is a large millpond, capable of holding several million logs.

Secondly, the company have been fortunate in securing a water power on the Little Cascapedia River. Before finally accepting the site the company had the foremost authority on water powers in America. Mr. George F. Hardy of New York, make an examination. The company proposed to build a paper mill with a daily capacity of 54 tons, a ground wood pulp mill with a daily capacity of 50 tons, and a sulphite pulp mill with a daily capacity of 40 tons, and Mr. Hardy was asked if there was power enough. He said there was, and to spare. The cost of erecting the mills and developing the power would be, he said, about $950,000.

FOR FOREIGN MARKETS.

Thirdly, the company's mills are exceptionally favourably situated in regard to transportation facilities. Pulp mills are dependent almost entirely upon foreign markets, especially the European and the Eastern States' markets. Other Canadian companies, to reach these markets, are forced to make a long and costly railway haul with their product. The Atlantic Pulp and Paper Company can, however, make arrangements with Atlantic steamship lines to run steamers from New Richmond for eight months in the year, if required. During the winter months favourable arrangements can be made with the railway companies to St. John and Halifax.

LARGE ANNUAL PROFITS.

The company estimates that it will have an annual profit of over $455,000. Of this amount only $105,000 will be required to pay the dividends on the preferred stock, a portion of which is now being offered for sale. With every two shares of this seven per cent. cumulative preference stock subscribed for, there will be allotted by way of a bonus one share of fully-paid common stock. Further information may be obtained from Sutherland & Cameron, brokers, Ottawa, or from the National Trust Company, Toronto.

PROGRESS OF PEACE.

The Indications in South Africa Are Still Favorable.

London, April 28.—Cabling from Johannesburg, under date of Friday, April 25, the correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that Gen. Delarey, with his staff, arrived at Klerksdorp, Transvaal, yesterday. Special despatch received here from Pretoria show that Gen. Delarey had been in consultation with his commando two days previously, and that the other Boer leaders are still moving about consulting with the burghers. From this it is informed that the prospects for peace are improving.

16 CAPSIZED, 1 DROWNED.

Sam. G. Harstone of Winnipeg a Yachting Victim Sunday.

Winnipeg, April 28.—The yacht "Gracie B.," with a pleasure party of Winnipeggers, 16 in number, capsized at Lower Fort Garry yesterday. The yacht struck an overhanging ferry cable wire, and was overturned. All on board managed to reach the shore, but one—Sam Harstone of the Clarendon Hotel— who was drowned. Harstone was a prominent Winnipegger, for many years a leading figure in curling, having frequently won prizes at the Winnipeg and St. Paul bonspiels.

IN DEADLY PERIL.

Attempt to Wreck Tunnel of Canadian Niagara Power Company.

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 26.— It was discovered by the Canadian Power Company's men, when the day gang was being relieved by the night shift, that two wires had been laid, by some one in the tunnel, near the base of the first shaft.

From the line that connected the blast holes with the detonator, the wires were connected with some 75 pounds of dynamite, which, had it been exploded, would have wrecked all the present construction of the shaft and tunnel, and there would have been a large loss of life and property.

The Canadian Power Company officials claim it is probable an attempt was intended on the plant. However, if such was the case, it was frustrated by one of the men noticing the foreign wire.

Is Still a Mystery.

Niagara Falls, April 28.—The plot to kill 36 men and do thousands of dollars damage by putting blast wires to 75 pounds of dynamite in the Canadian Niagara Power Company's tunnel on Friday night, is still a mystery.

Contractor Douglas inclines to the belief that "Nipper" Clark, a negro employe, did it for a joke, and in order to make himself a good fellow, discovered it. Clark was the first to reveal the plot.

Chief Mains has been examining the men on the work all day, and does not share in the contractor's idea.

Continues Satisfactory.

The Hague, April 28.—Bulletins issued at Castle Loo declare that the condition of Queen Wilhelmina continues to be satisfactory.

Alarming Emigration.

London, April 28.—Emigration from the West of Ireland to America is assuming what is called "alarming proportions." During the last fortnight, hundreds of emigrants have passed through Limerick on their way to Cork. Two special trains from Port Arlington carried nearly 1,800 emigrants, mostly young persons of both sexes. Other lots of 200 or more had already gone on board the steamer.

Americans Buy Canadian Land.

Montreal, April 28.—"Yes, it is quite true, an American syndicate has purchased a large area of land in Assiniboia and Manitoba, half a million acres, and are re-selling it to settlers, who are pouring in from the United States." That is what Mr. Charles Drinkwater, assistant to the president and secretary of the Canadian Pacific, said on Saturday.

First of the Season.

Quebec, April 28.—The R. M. S. Parisian, Allan line, which arrived in port Saturday night, is the first mail steamer from Europe for the St. Lawrence this season.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH CHOIR.

Most Commendable Progress is Being Made by This Organization.

During the past few months the members of St. Andrew's choir, under the skilful and careful training of Mr. Alfred Davies, organist and leader, have been developing excellent musical force, and Friday night was to them the consummation of a winter's constant application to vocal and choral studies.

Notwithstanding a very inclement night, an appreciative audience assembled and the execution of the various choruses and songs certainly reflected great credit on the choirmaster as well as intense satisfaction to the choir itself. The songs, quartettes and choruses were all printed in the programmes, so that it was a great pleasure to follow each number intelligently. All who took part showed that they were complete masters of their work, and gave great delight to every listener. Miss McCrea's rendering of "The Chariot Race" was most cleverly done.

The piano duet by Mr. Davies and Miss Nellie Davies, was heartily received, and Miss Davies' execution of "A Grand Fantasia" on Weber's "Oberan," was a skilful and masterful rendition of that inspiring and powerful production.

Miss Etta Garbutt presided at the piano most efficiantly.

At the conclusion of the programme a hearty vote of thanks was given to the choir and choir leader for the excellent treat given.

THE OPPOSITION AND THE REGISTRATION BILL.

From the Brantford Expositor.

The Expositor has already called attention to the action of Mr. Whitney's supporters in the Legislative Assembly in opposing the amendment made to the Manhood Suffrage Registration Act last session, by which the following clause of the oath is no longer made obligatory, but is only to be administered when an agent for a candidate or political organization, or the registrar himself, deems such a course to be expedient:

> That you have not received anything, nor has anything been promised you, either directly or indirectly, either to induce you to promise to vote, or to apply for registration as a voter, or for loss of time, travelling expenses, hire of team, or any other service connected therewith. So help you God.

The amendment made to the Act puts the Manhood Suffrage Voter upon the same plane as the voter whose name appears on the municipal lists. The latter may be called upon to take an obligation that he has not been bribed to vote, but he is not called upon to take it as a matter of course, and he usually feels insulted when such a demand is made. Why should the man who qualifies under manhood suffrage be dealt with any differently? There is certainly no good reason.

The Government amendment was entitled to the cordial approbation both of the House and of the country. Yet we find the Mail and Empire speaking of it as a law to "promote election crimes," and Dr. Barr of Dufferin, one of Mr. Whitney's lieutenants, opposing it on the ground that "care had to be taken in regard to the floating population, which was GENERALLY OF THE WORKING CLASS AND SOMEWHAT AMENABLE TO BRIBERY. On the other hand, we find the Minister of Education thus reported:

> Hon. Mr. Harcourt thought the clause should go out quickly. The whole trend of the discussion on the part of the hon. gentlemen opposite had been one of want of faith in the masses of the people. The reference to "floating population" could only mean railway employees, men engaged in manufacturing establishments, clerks, etc., and he resented the application of the words "floating population" to them, or the insinuation that they were amenable to bribery.

Mr. Foy and other Opposition speakers, also opposed the change, and Mr. Carscallen alone of the Conservative members, defended the manhood suffrage voter from the aspersions which were being cast upon him. As for Mr. Whitney he maintained a sphinx-like silence, and if he did not agree with the tactics of his followers he certainly uttered no word of disapprobation.

THE "CRY" AGAINST CORPORATIONS.

The Ross Government has been charged with legislating in the interest of corporations as against the municipalities. The accusation that the Government was disposed unduly to favour the corporations, is, in fact, the principal charge brought against them. It is iterated and re-iterated in every possible form. It forms the topic of many of the campaign newspaper articles and addresses. The fact that the Opposition takes this line of attack, that they ring the changes so persistently on the cry, "corporation government," is a high tribute to the integrity, the purity and the wisdom of the Government's administration of provincial affairs. It is always satisfactory to find one's opponent's driven to make appeals to prejudice, to invent unreasonable and baseless charges of this sort, because it is a practical admission that there is nothing in the Government's record to attack.

When the Opposition press repeats the statement that the Government has not adequately protected the rights of the municipalities against the great financial corporations, they should bear in mind that the municipalities have not always been vigilant and alert in protecting themselves. Municipal self-government is a dearly prized institution, but like all free institutions, it entails its responsibilities and has its drawbacks. If municipal bodies in the exercise of their undoubted rights have made bad or ill-considered bargains with financial or other corporations, is it fair to blame the Government or the Legislature? As a matter of fact the Legislature has frequently had to protect municipalities against the acts of their own representatives. Toronto, for instance, has been thus shielded by the Legislature from the acts of the men the city chose to represent them. The Legislature has done much to safeguard the municipalities against injustice at the hands of corporations, wherever it could be done without interference with contracts. To do that of course, would be to go beyond the legitimate sphere of legislation.

The tendency in the direction of municipal ownership is a good one and should be encouraged, but the change can not be unduly forced, and the rights of those who have made large investments in supplying public needs could not fairly be disregarded. If a due amount of public spirit had prevailed in the municipalities when franchises which may have turned out unsatisfactorily later on — were being granted, if the terms of the contracts entered into had been carefully scrutinized and greater caution shown in entering into agreements covering long terms of years many of the vexed questions and conflicts between corporate and municipal interests, which are being used to prejudice the public mind against the Government would have been avoided. The laws of the Province have given municipalities extensive powers with regard to the establishment of what were known as public utilities. The question of a community availing itself of this opportunity rests with the citizens themselves. If they are careless or indifferent, if they elect the wrong men to office they can not reasonably expect that the Government or the Legislature will make or unmake bargains for them to secure them the benefits of municipal ownership.

It is true that corporations, like individuals, sometimes show an aggressive and over-reaching spirit, but the outcry raised against them is generally unreasonable. In most communities it will be found that the leading citizens—the most progressive and enterprising business men are prominent members of joint stock companies. A corporation after all is only an extended partnership. The Legislature has recognized the advantages of the principle of association for business purposes by greatly facilitating the formation of joint stock companies. The business of the Province would shrink into insignificant dimensions indeed, if the great volume now transacted by the producing, manufacturing and trading corporations were eliminated. There is nothing necessarily and essentially bad about a corporation. But it is said or implied that some of these bodies have obtained special privileges from the Government. No attempt has ever been made to bring a specific charge of the kind. The Government gave them nothing but the same strict justice under the law that everyone is entitled to receive.

Have they been wrongfully relieved from the burdens of taxation? No. On the contrary the Supplementary Revenue Act of 1898 imposes heavy additional burdens upon the most prominent corporations. The Railway Companies, Banks, Insurance Companies, Loan Companies, Trust Companies, Express, Sleeping Car, Telegraph and Natural Gas Companies are all subject to special taxation, and the Street Railway, Gas, Electric and Telephone Companies in addition to being made liable to provincial taxes, continue taxable for municipal purposes.

Mr. Whitney shows so much affection and sympathy for these corporations that he has publicly promised to remove from these classes of corporations the taxes the Ontario Government has imposed as a mark of affection—according to the Government's critics. In the face of such facts the cry that the Government unduly favours the corporations is one that need not occasion them any trouble.

The cry against corporations is an imported one. It is a feeble and demagogic echo of the Populist outcry of the United States, where there is much in the formation and grinding character of giant trusts to justify such a feeling. It is an appeal to popular prejudice, which will simply discredit its promoters for as has been shown it has no shadow of foundation.

DRUGS COULDN'T CURE HIM.

James Stevens, Gardner in the Employ of John H. Dunlop, Esq., the Well-Known Florist of Toronto Cured by a new Method.

Suffered 30 Years With a Running Sore—Cured a Year ago and has Since had no Return of This Disorder.

The science of curing has advanced very rapidly lately. With the discovery of the germ theory as a cause of disease, means have been sought to combat these terrible parasites other than the ordinary drug methods which were found ineffectual. Antiseptics came into vogue, but the usual antiseptics were so powerfully injurious to the ordinary tissues of the body that they couldn't be taken internally, consequently their use was strictly limited. Medical science decided that

JAMES STEVENS, Toronto.

Nature herself could vanquish these poisonous germs, as she had always done, and consequently scientific investigation sought to make use of that element which assisted Nature to rid the body of germs and attending disease.

Oxygen or Ozone was found to be the proper element. Since its discovery, medical science has been adopting this element in a great many ways; the most effective and by far the most economical way is as it is used in Powley's Liquified Ozone. At last the unsatisfactory drug methods are being done away with. In Powley's Liquified Ozone a curative agency has been discovered which produces permanent beneficial results.

James Stevens, of 1218 Bloor street, West, was cured of a running sore on his leg which he had had for over 30 years. The condition of the sore was exceedingly bad. It was discharging matter constantly; many times would the pus run into my boots. People who saw it declared that it would be impossible to ever heal it. We published a statement from him that we received a year ago. This statement was corroborated by John H. Dunlop, Esq., the well-known florist of this city, in whose employ Mr. Stevens has been for several years. Now we publish a statement lately received from Mr. Stevens, which speaks eloquently for the permanent character of his cure.

February 28, 1902.

The Ozone Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

My Dear Sirs, — You have asked me if the Eczema on my leg, which I gave you a testimonial of as being cured a year ago, has appeared again. I am glad to state to you that I have had no appearance of the trouble during the past year. Your excellent preparation, which cured me of the awful torturing disease I had for over thirty years, did the work so well that the disease has not appeared since.

I am also pleased to state to you that my general health has been splendid since, showing what a good blood builder you have in Powley's Liquified Ozone.

You have my best wishes for success with your grand remedy. (Signed) James Stevens, 112 Bloor street west, or J. H. Dunlop's Greenhouses, with John H. Dunlop, Florist, Lansdowne avenue and Bloor street.

MR. STEVENS' FORMER STATEMENT.

The Ozone Co., Toronto:

Dear Sirs,—Having under Divine Providence, by the use of your Ozone been cured of a bad leg, that has baffled the skill of the best medical men in three hospitals and one infirmary, beside local skill both in England and here; after thirty-five years of less or more suffering, the last two of which have been the worst in my experience, having through constant discharge brought me very low, and suffering from weakness of the heart's action, which it has apparently cured. I feel it my duty and privilege to return thanks to the great author of all means and to you, sirs, whom he has used as my benefactor, after having passed the age of three score and ten, am now almost to youthful vigour, which I owe to your remedy, Ozone. I have in the past spent fabulous sums on various advertised cures to no purpose, but too often put myself to pain without profit after making it the worse for their use. I, therefore, return you my heartfelt thanks, and pray your life may be prolonged for many years, and that thousands of suffering humanity may be blest as have been, which I feel sure they will by patient perseverance according to your directions. For confirmation of this statement I may be seen at any time in the day in my employment under the, to me, great and good Dunlop, Esq., Florist, Lansdowne ave., north of Bloor, or at my home at night, 1218 Bloor street, west. Yours truly,

(Signed) JAMES STEVENS,
1218 Bloor street, west, Toronto.

MR. JOHN H. DUNLOP'S LETTER.

Dec. 7, 1900.

To the Ozone Co., Ltd., Toronto:

Gents.,—I can cheerfully endorse all that is contained in the testimonial furnished by James Stevens, who has been in my employ since May, 1898. He is a faithful employee and would not exaggerate any statement he might make. I can also say that the sores on his leg (by the way, the worst I ever looked at) are completely healed. He has told me on several occasions that he never expected to have them healed, so many attempts having been made and remedies used without avail, and that he expected to have to bandage and use remedies until his death.

I consider it a wonderful cure, all the more so, from the fact of his advanced age and length of time it has been standing.

Very truly yours, Jno. H. Dunlop,
643 Lansdowne Ave.

The great value of Powley's Liquified Ozone in curing blood and skin diseases is due to its blood-purifying and disinfecting action. By increasing the oxygen-carrying power of the blood the tissues of the body are restored, the skin given back its natural freshness and transparency. Druggists everywhere report an enormous sale of Powley's Liquified Ozone and they state further that they hear the very best posible results from its use.

THE BARKLOW FOUNDERED.

Captain Pardy, His Wife and Stepson Were Drowned.

Cleveland, O., April 28.—A special to The Plaindealer from Sandusky, says: The schooner Barklow, from Marine City, foundered in Lake Erie, half a mile from Put-In-Bay, late Saturday afternoon, and three persons were drowned. The dead are: Captain Robert Pardy of Marine City, his wife and stepson, Alex. Morris, aged 16 years. Duck Burke, a sailor of Port Huron, survived, and was brought to Sandusky yesterday by the life-saving crew from that port. The boat filled with water, and fell over on to her side, throwing the captain, his wife and stepson into the water. Burke retained his position in the rigging.

Three Men Drowned.

Detroit, April 28.—A special to The Tribune says that the schooner Grace E. Gribbie went ashore at Point Pelee at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. There were six men washed ashore on wreckage. One of the men was Captain Tom Wilson, commander of the vessel. The men were unconscious when pulled from the surf by the people on shore; consequently, the names of the drowned could not be learned.

Breakwater Damaged.

Port Colborne, April 28. — The heavy southwest gale Saturday did considerable damage to the new breakwater, washing away a number of the cribs that were ready to be put down, and carrying them on to the reef, east of the harbor, and it is thought some damage has been done to the part of the breakwater already down. The water in the harbor rose over three feet, and boats were not able to canal. The steamers James and Monteagle were windbound.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

The Liberals of London met Saturday night at the committee rooms for the purpose of indorsing the candidature of Col. F. B. Leys in the forthcoming election. Mr. Leys accepted the nomination, which was unanimous.

Officials of the Attorney-General's Department who have looked into the authorities say there can be no doubt that a woman cannot sit as a member of the Legislature. They therefore say that for Mrs. Darwin's name to be placed on the ballot in North Toronto would probably result in the election being upset.

Hon. F. R. Latchford was the chief speaker at a Liberal meeting, held on Wolfe Island, in W. J. Shibley's interests, on Saturday night. He reviewed the work of the administration, and told the Islanders he would do all in his power to aid them to secure better ferry service, for which they had petitioned. E. J. B. Pense, J. L. Haycock and W. J. Shibley also spoke.

Paquette Killed His Friend.

Notch Hill, B.C., April 28.—About 10 o'clock Saturday night Louis Paquette shot and killed Fred Ledger at his house five miles east of here. They have been on the best of terms. Paquette called at the hotel about 6 o'clock yesterday morning and told the hotelkeeper he was going to Kamloops to give himself up.

ELECTION IN FRANCE

The Government Faces Badly in the City of Paris.

NO ABSOLUTE DECISION SO FAR

Sunday's Results Show 156 Ministerialists and 125 Anti-Ministerialists Elected—Ballotes Will Be Required in 123 Cases and Will Be Held May 11—Some of the Prominent Deputies Elected.

Paris, April 28.—Paris has not elected a single Ministerialist to the Chamber of Deputies in the general elections, held yesterday. Eight Nationalists, 6 anti-Ministerialist Socialists, 4 anti-Ministerialist Republicans and 3 Conservatives were returned. It was the worst defeat the Government has ever sustained in Paris.

The Ministerialists lost four seats, and another new constituency was won by the Nationalists. The Nationalists, however, suffered a severe check in Algiers, where M. Drumont, the notorious anti-Semite, was turned out by a majority of 900.

Among the prominent deputies elected to the Chamber are: Count Boni de Castellane (Progressist) from the District of Castellane, Department of Basses-Alpes; M. Ribot (Republican), from the District of Saint-Omer, Department of Pa-De-Calais; M. Maline (Progressist), from the District of Remiremont, Department of Vosges, and M. De Lanessan (Radical), from the District of Lyon, Department of the Rhone.

The polling for the election of new members to the Chamber of Deputies began at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and closed at 6 o'clock yesterday evening. The total number of candidates was 2,515. Of this number, 353 stood in the Department of the Seine. The number of seats to fill is 581.

Re-balloting will occur in 29 districts.

The candidates who secured an absolute majority of the votes recorded, provided such majority be equal to one-fourth of the electors in the register, are returned, and a fortnight hence the battle will be fought out in the constituencies where no candidate has succeeded in getting such a majority on the first ballot. The number of political parties and groups arrayed against each other was larger than ever before. Nevertheless there is, after all, only one real issue—France was asked to vote for or against M. Waldeck-Rousseau, who has been at the helm nearly three years. ... .

A comparison of the state of France to-day with what it was in 1899 furnishes the best defence of his administration.

Later reports are as follows: Ministerialists 165, anti-Ministerialists 125, re-ballots 128.

DISFIGURED BY ACID.

Crown Witness in Toronto Assaulted by an Unknown Assailant.

Toronto, April 28.—Mrs. Lucy Allen, a witness for the Crown in the trial of Mrs. Richard Wolfe, the Yonge street furrier, was badly burned with carbolic acid on Sunday night, while passing along Ontario street. The acid was applied to her face by an unknown person, who slipped up behind her, and the police are working on the theory that the deed was the outcome of Mrs. Allen's giving evidence against Mrs. Wolfe. Mrs. Allen is badly disfigured, but the attending physician is hopeful of saving the sight of her right eye, though the lids are much burned and swollen. The unknown assailant got away before she recovered from first pain of the assault.

Mrs. Allen was to have appeared in the Police Court this morning to put in her defence in the counter charge of stealing furs, preferred by Mrs. Wolfe.

Mrs. Wolfe is awaiting trial at the Criminal Sessions next month on charges of theft and conspiracy to defraud her creditors. In the latter case she is charged jointly with her husband, Max Wolfe, and her brother, David Davis. Mrs. Allen is the principal witness against Mrs. Wolfe in the theft case.

Mrs. Allen will, of course, be unable to appear to-day.

The extreme penalty in such cases is life imprisonment.

A Complicated Machine

is an object of admiration, but a complicated medicine is a thing hitherto unknown. Druggist Merrill, of Brantford, has combined iron and herbs and made a wonderful blood-builder and purifier, as well as a tonic for the nerves. Affects a radical cure in stomach, nerve, liver and kidney diseases. Price 50 cents per bottle of 50 doses. Sold at Ormond and Walsh's pharmacy.

Five Children Cremated.

Winnipeg, Man., April 28.—Word reached this city last night of a terrible disaster near St. Norbert Village. The house of Baptiste Moncham, a butcher, was burned, while the family were asleep, and five children whose ages range from 3 to 15 years, were cremated. The father is seriously burned, and the mother is almost demented through grief. An elder daughter was also badly burned, and may not recover.

To Dine Sir Mackenzie Bowell.

Ottawa, April 26.—The Conservative Senators and a number of the Opposition members of the House of Commons will tender a banquet to Sir Mackenzie Bowell on Tuesday week, May 6. The banquet will be held in the Senate dining room.

Over 30,000.

HON. DAVID REESOR DEAD.

A Pioneer Legislator of Canada Has Been Called Away.

Toronto, April 28.—Hon. David Reesor, ex-Senator, died on Sunday morning at his residence here, after a long illness. He had been an invalid for ten years, but the illness which culminated in his death was contracted about 20 years ago in Winnipeg. At that time, he caught an unusually severe cold, which developed into rheumatism, and finally, locomotor ataxia. Though infirm in body, he maintained his mental faculties unimpaired until the last and it was not until about a year or so ago that he resigned his seat in the HON. DAVID REESOR.

Senate, being succeeded by Mr. L. M. Jones. He has resided in Toronto for the past 25 or 26 years.

Hon. David Reesor was born in the Township of Markham, Jan. 18, 1823, being the son of Abraham Reesor, who located in the township in 1801, coming from Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. In 1856, he published the first copy of The Markham Economist, which he edited and conducted until 1868. He was appointed a magistrate in 1848, and a notary public in 1862. Deceased had a long and honorable career in the local militia. Since 1866, he held the rank of lieutenant-colonel of the reserves. He represented King's Division in the Legislative Council of Canada from 1860 until Confederation, when he was called to the Senate. As a member of the Legislative Council, he moved a resolution to make the Senate of Canada elective. The motion was defeated on a division. He was a Liberal in politics. In February, 1848, he married Emily, eldest daughter of Daniel McDougall of St. Mary's, and sister of Hon. William McDougall, C.B., M.P. His widow, one son and four daughters survive him.

GRAVEL CURED.

Remarkable Case of This Painful Disease.

Reuben Draper, of Bristol, Que., who was a Victim, Finds Relief and a Permanent Cure—He Tells of his Sufferings and how he Left his Trouble Behind

Bristol, Que., April 27th. (Special.)—No disease can cause more severe and dreadful pain than Gravel. Reuben Draper, of this place, was taken ill with this awful trouble about five years ago. He was cured and so many have asked him how it was done that he has decided to give the whole story for publication:

"About five years ago I was taken ill with the Gravel. I suffered great pain, so I sent for a doctor. He gave me some medicine and came to see me twice afterwards, but my disease was not gone, and in a short time I had another very bad attack.

"This time I sent for another doctor with about the same results, only I was getting weaker all the time.

"Then a man advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, for he said they had cured his mother. I thought I would try them and bought a box.

"Just one week after I began the treatment I passed a stone as large as a small bean, and four days later another about the size of a grain of barley—this gave me great relief, and I commenced to feel better and to gain strength right away.

"That was five years ago and I have not had any trouble in that way since. I have the stones in a small bottle and anyone can see them who wishes. Dodd's Kidney Pills certainly saved my life."

The story of Mr. Draper will be good news to many sufferers who may not have known that Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Gravel and Stone in the Bladder.

What has cured this gentleman and hundreds of other very bad cases should cure any one, and those who may be afflicted as Mr. Draper was should try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

How to Light a Solid Body.

Cadogan Morgan was the first electrician to experiment with electric light in solid bodies. This was in 1785. He first inserted two wires into a stick of wood and caused the spark to pass between them. This had the effect of illuminating the stick a beautiful blood red. An ivory ball, an orange or an apple may be lighted in the same manner. Some experimenters prefer the lemon for this purpose, it being very susceptible to the electric discharge, flashing forth at every spark as a spheroid of brilliant golden light. The wires used for this purpose should be brought within about half an inch of each other inside the lemon.

FOUL, LOATHSOME, DISGUSTING CATARRH!

Secure Relief in 10 Minutes And a Radical Cure.

Does your head ache? Have you pains over your eyes? Is there a constant dropping in the throat? Is the breath offensive? These are certain symptoms of Catarrh. Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder will cure most stubborn cases in a marvellously short time. If you've had Catarrh a week it's a sure cure. If it's of fifty years' standing it's just as effective. 33

PROSPECTS OF PROROGATION.

Looks as If the House May Rise During First Half of May.

Ottawa, April 28.—According to gossip in the lobbies there is a possibility of Parliament disposing of the business before it by May 10. This is, perhaps, a more optimistic statement than the facts warrant. A more likely date would be the end of the week following. There is no doubt that the Ontario members are anxious to get away to aid their friends in the Provincial fight, and this will tend to shorten the balance of the session. It is also true that the Opposition have not made the capital they expected out of the investigation into the affairs of the Intercolonial Railway. Had they met with the expected success in their efforts at fishing, an attack upon the Government, followed by a prolonged debate, might have been witnessed. As it happens, however, the Conservatives are probably in the mood to drop the matter. The Cabinet were at work on the supplementary estimates Saturday, and held three sittings, the third lasting from 8.30 until midnight. The supplementaries will probably be laid before Parliament about the middle of the week.

A Marvellous Medicine.

Having a direct and combined action on both the liver and kidneys, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will positively cure many complicated ailments which cannot be reached by any other medicine, and hence its extraordinary success and popularity. Biliousness, liver complaint, Bright's disease, deranged kidneys and stomach troubles are promptly and thoroughly overcome by this great family medicine. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

18,000 ON STRIKE.

Tremendous Importance of the Riots Among Russian Peasants.

St. Petersburg, April 28.—Trustworthy reports received here say 18,000 peasants are participating in the riots in the Provinces of Poltava and Kharkoff alone. The disturbances throughout the Southern provinces were primarily not of a political nature, but began in the efforts of starving peasants forcibly to seize seed corn from the big estates. Agitators quickly took advantage of the situation when the troops began ruthlessly repressing the disorders, and incited the peasants against the authorities. After this, the desparate country folk ravaged every unprotected estate, destroying everything which they could not carry off.

An Old Friend in Town.

There arrived this morning at Ormond and Walsh's Drug Store a large consignment of Four T's, that great guaranteed cough medicine, which cured so many people last winter. If you or your children have coughs or colds, don't neglect them but get a 25c bottle of Four T's and be well in two days.

Under the Crimes Act.

Dublin, April 28.—The first prosecution under the proclamation, issued recently by Earl Cadogan, the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, putting in force three sections of the Crimes Act in many districts of the country, resulted, Saturday evening, in the sentencing of Mrs. O'Mahony, proprietress of The Waterford Star, and H. Lynham, the editor of that paper, to 60 days' imprisonment each. Mrs. O'Mahony and Lynham were convicted upon a charge of intimidation, in preventing tenants from using their farms. Mrs. O'Mahony was admitted to bail in the sum of £200 ($1,000).

THE LATE MR. NOBLE.

He Died at Nicholls Hospital Yesterday Afternoon—A Highly Respected Citizen.

The many friends of Mr. George H. Noble, will regret exceedingly to learn of his demise which occurred at Nicholls hospital at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The late Mr. Noble has been ailing for several weeks. He underwent a critical operation which it was thought would prove successful, but yesterday alarming symptoms set in and the patient passed quickly away.

The deceased gentleman was well known in Peterborough, having for the past 20 years conducted successfully a plumbing business. He was a native of Aberdeen, Scotland, and came to Canada about 40 years ago, settling in Montreal, where he resided for some time, and after living for periods in Quebec and Ottawa he finally settled in Peterborough. He was a highly respected citizen and will be missed by a wide circle of friends. He was a member of the Masonic Order and of Charlotte street Methodist church. The late Mr. Noble married Miss Helen Edgethorn, of Glasgow, Scotland, who, together with two sons and two daughters survive him. The sons are Messrs. J. Noble, of town and Wm. of Pennsylvania, and the daughters are Mrs. John Wood, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. James McAndrew, of town.

The funeral will take place at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon from the family residence, Simcoe street, to Little Lake Cemetery.

The funeral will be under Masonic auspices.

R. Carter.
C. A. Pengelly.
W. C. Inkster.

A large number of citizens were at the C. P. R. station to bid them farewell.

A NEW OFFICE.

The Canadian Pacific Ticket and Telegraph Agency in new Quarters.

The Canadian Pacific Ticket and Telegraph Agency which for some years has been located in the market building at the corner of Charlotte and George streets, has been moved to the Grand Central building at No. 343 George street. Mr. T. E. Boddy, the local agent, is to be congratulated upon the beautiful new quarters he has secured for his company. The apartments are handsome and up-to-date in every respect, being finished off regardless of expense. The large plateglass window is neatly lettered with the words "Canadian Pacific Railway," while on the inside the appearance is in keeping with the general progress of the company. The handsome new counter is of quartered oak and is the product of the Canadian Furniture Company. The walls are attractive looking with the many pictures of Canadian scenery along the road of the C.P.R., whilst the general appearance of the office is most inviting. The heating is by steam and the lighting is of electricity which can be at any time substituted by gas. The new C.P.R. office adds another to Peterborough's list of handsome business quarters.

PRESENTED WITH A WATCH.

Lieut. E. O. Bradburn Remembered by His Friends.

A Pleasing Affair at the Oriental Hotel on Saturday Night—Speeches and Songs.

Lieut. E. O. Bradburn, of the 14th Durham Field Battery, and who now holds a commission in the Canadian Mounted Rifles, which will shortly sail from Halifax for South Africa, was on Saturday night at the Oriental Hotel, presented with a beautiful wrist watch, and a sum of money in gold, by his friends. The affair was very informal, but none the less interesting. The chair was occupied by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner who, after the toast of the King had been duly honoured, called upon Mr. F. D. Kerr to say a few words. Mr. Kerr replied by reading the following address:

Lieutenant E. O. Bradburn, Canadian Mounted Rifles, Peterborough, Ont.:

Dear Ormond,—A number of your many warm friends in the town of Peterborough desire to take advantage of the present opportunity, when you are about departing for South Africa, to show in some small degree the high regard and esteem which they feel for you, and which you have secured by your many good qualities of head and heart.

We do not feel it necessary to enlarge on your qualifications as a soldier, for the splendid state of efficiency of the section of the 14th Durham Field Battery, which you have had the honour to command, speaks of your abilities in that direction, and we desire to simply acknowledge with satisfaction that the military authorities of Canada have recognized that in you they have a brave soldier, a capable officer, and one who will either in the paths of peace, or, if God wills, on the field of battle, do credit to Canada and to the British Empire.

We, who are your intimate friends, have learned more and more to value your sterling friendship, and your true spirit of manliness, and it is with mingled feelings of deepest regret and confident pride, that we see you depart from among us to do what lies in your power, for the cause of that old flag which we all love so well. Though thousands of miles may separate us, we will accompany you in spirit on your long marches, and hope that sometimes your thoughts will turn to the many friends whom you have left behind you, and who await your return to your Canadian home.

You will be missed—missed greatly in every way—not only by those of your own family circle, but by your friends and the townspeople generally. We cannot see you depart without in some small way evidencing the sincere and unbounded friendship which we feel towards you, and we ask you to accept this watch, therefore, as a timely mark of our best wishes and of our friendship.

We wish you honour and fame and a safe return to your home, your friends and to Peterborough.

We are, dear Ormond,
Your sincere friends,
"THE BOYS OF PETERBOROUGH."

The presentation was made by Mr. Dickson Davidson amid much applause.

Lieut. Bradburn, in reply, said he could not find words to express his feelings of appreciation of the kindness they had done him. He appreciated the responsibility that rested upon him in accepting a commission in the Canadian Mounted Rifles, and he assured them that while he was not attached to the Squadron in which the Peterborough boys were, still anything he could do for them, he would do gladly. When on the South African veldt, the watch they had presented him with would bring back to him pleasant recollections of his associations with the boys of Peterborough.

The watch is a handsome gold time piece, with the following words engraved on the back:

"Presented to Lieut. E. O. Bradburn, C. M. R., by 'the boys' of Peterborough, April 27, 1902."

Speeches were made by almost every person present. Songs and recitations were rendered and the affair came to a close by three rousing cheers and a tiger for Lieut. Bradburn.

Those who made the presentation were Messrs. Jas. Hamilton, F. D. Kerr, E. S. Clarry, R. M. Glover, R. F. McWilliams, L. Hall, H. Cluxton, W. H. McCallum, R. E. Layfield, Alf. Terrill, A. H. Mr. Maybee has only been residing in Peterborough for a few weeks, but he has become very popular indeed in that time. He is being replaced by Mr. Jarvis of the London Branch.

Scotchmen of Toronto to the number of about 50 gathered at the Walker House Friday night to show their appreciation of Miss Jessie N. Maclachlan, who is leaving for a holiday in Scotland. The proceedings took the form of a reception and banquet, during the course of which the prima donna was presented with an address and handsome Tara brooch by Mr. James Massie and Mr. Douglas Scott. Speeches were also made by Mr. David Spence, Rev. Dr. Armstrong Black, and Mr. Alex. Fraser, and Mr. John Imrie recited an original poem.

ODDFELLOWS AT CHURCH.

Both the Lodges Attended St. Andrew's Last Night,

And Rev. J. G. Potter Delivered a Very Interesting Sermon to Them—Doing Good Work.

Yesterday was Oddfellows' day at St. Andrew's church. The members of both Peterborough and Otonabee Lodges of I.O.O.F. attended St. Andrew's to the number of several hundred, and heard an excellent sermon delivered by Rev. J. G. Potter.

The brethren assembled at the Oddfellows' hall, corner of George and Hunter streets and marched in a body to the church. There was also a large congregation at St. Andrew's outside of the members of the three-link order. Rev. Mr. Potter assurred them that it gave him great pleasure to speak a word of welcome to them on behalf of the congregation. It was only two years since they had visited St. Andrew's before and their early return was a rather pleasant surprise to him. He trusted that their presence would be of mutual benefit and he congratulated the Order upon their continued prosperity. Proceeding with his sermon, Rev. Mr. Potter delivered a rather short but exceedingly interesting discourse from Matthew 10-14:

"And whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water in the name of a diciple, verily I say unto you he shall in no wise lose his reward."

In the course of his remarks he asked them all to realize the position of ambassadors that they held toward their fellowmen. Christ was a true leader who anticipated many difficulties. He was a provident leader. He called upon His deciples to follow Him. So with a secret and fraternal Order. They realize that there are certain dangers ahead of them. They anticipate such and are more readily prepared to meet them. Referring to the Christian work of the Order, the preacher said that it was their object to give the cup of water to those in need, but the difficulty often is "How shall we accomplish this?" Then the work of the Oddfellows should not be confined to those who are members of the Order, but they should help all classes of people to rise. Because the Order of Oddfellows is not a branch of the church it should not be looked upon as being devoid of Christianity. All will recognize the grand work they are doing. Continuing Rev. Mr. Potter gave many very interesting figures to show the amount of work the society had done in the past year. They had paid out in sick benefits the sum of $52,100. They had given for the relief of the widows and orphans sixty-one thousand dollars, and the assets owned by the Order amounted to one million eighty-one thousand dollars. However, God looks at the heart, and it may not be the man who cries "Lord, Lord," but it will be the one who has been influenced by a desire to do good, that God will look more favourably upon.

Rev. Mr. Potter announced that the collection would be for the Oddfellows' Home Fund, it being the intention to erect, in a short time, a substantial Oddfellows' Home in Peterborough.

AT MR. STRATTON'S COMMITTEE ROOMS.

A Rousing Rally of Workers on Saturday Night.

REPORTS WERE PRESENTED.

Certain Indications of the Candidate's Success.

ADDRESSES DELIVERED.

A Hopeful Outlook in the East and West—And Throughout the Province—Advantages of Having a Live Representative.

A rousing rally of the working supporters of Mr. Stratton was held in the Committee Rooms, Water street, on Saturday evening. The large rooms were crowded to the doors, even standing space being at a premium.

Mr. G. M. Roger, after a brisk period of committee work, took the chair, and introduced several stirring speeches. He said that he had been spending some time in East Peterborough and he was glad to be able to assert that the campaign in Mr. Anderson's interests was progressing in a most satisfactory way. The meetings held were large and enthusiastic. The electors evidently appreciated the importance of the choice they were about to make, and the spirit of the meetings and the reports of feeling in the riding indicated that Mr. Anderson would be returned by a large majority. The farmers especially—the bulk of the electors—felt that a farmer, with the fitness and qualifications of Mr. Anderson, was the kind of representation East Peterborough should have.

HON. MR. STRATTON,

who was most enthusiastically cheered, on rising to speak, referred to the splendid meeting held at Havelock on Friday night in Mr. Anderson's interests. It was addressed by the Premier, Mr. Anderson, Mr. D. O'Connell, Mr. Blezard and himself. It was a large meeting, the largest ever held in Havelock. The Premier's speech was a masterly exposition of the advance policy of the Government, and showed conclusively how greatly the policy of the Government, in regard to the utilization of our pulpwood, was in the interests of the development of New Ontario and of great advantage to the older settled portions. He himself had dealt with the various railway projects of the Government designed to open up the new country to settlement and development, and he indicated on the maps the location of the various pulp works now under operation or in course of construction, enterprises assisted by the Government which would have a great effect in developing and building up New Ontario and the Middle west of the great Dominion. (Applause.) Mr. Stratton then most heartily thanked his supporters present and others, who during the week had done such excellent and energetic work in the cause of good and progressive government. He appreciated to the full the sacrifices many of them were making in giving their nightly and, many of them, their daily, attention to the work of pushing the campaign. But through their work they would be rewarded by the striking triumph in West Peterborough of the cause of good and progressive government. (Applause.)

MR. D. O'CONNELL

said that he had no doubt of the result in this riding. There seemed to be but one opinion in Peterborough and that was that all the interests of Peterborough would be best served by the election of Mr. Stratton. (Applause.) All classes of the community appreciated this. From what he could gather he believed that Mr. Stratton would receive the overwhelming support of the electors who desired to see the best interests of Peterborough subserved. In regard to the East, Mr. O'Connell predicted a triumph there for Mr. Anderson and the Ross government.

MR. R. F. McWILLIAMS said he had been in East Peterborough during the week. While he had done more work in East Peterborough, he was not neglecting the west, for they were all working in the cause of good and go-ahead government, and for the success of the Ross Government, of which there would be no doubt, if the electors appreciated good live government. He felt certain that the two Peterboroughs would send Government supporters to Toronto, and that Mr. Anderson would have a handsome majority. (Applause.)

MR. J. C. SHOOK,

Manager of the Dickson Company, being called upon said he did not come to make a speech. He dropped in to show that his sympathy and support were, and would be, with Mr. Stratton in this campaign. (Applause.) The Government of which Mr. Stratton was so prominent a member, was a go-ahead Government, and it was progress and advancement, and a betterment of even our proud manufacturing conditions, that the town needed. He believed Mr. Stratton had the progressive spirit, and spirit of loyalty, to the town, that would make him the very representative we required to push ahead the material interests of the town. (Applause.) He. (Mr. Shook) had not long been a resident of the town, but he did not think there could, or should, be any doubt of Mr. Stratton's election, for Peterborough's interests would be best served by his election. No one would doubt that this was true, for every elector that had the interests of the town at heart, believed that Mr. Stratton was loyal to the best interests of the town, and would do his best to promote them, and would act accordingly. (Applause.)

MR. R. R. HALL

was called upon and made a capital speech. He said that as bright as the prospects of success had been from the beginning, they were improving every day, as the people came closer to the time when they must cast a vote in the interests of the town and county. Every working man who desired the prosperity of Peterborough and therefore his own prosperity would cast a vote in the town's and his own interests; would vote for Stratton and the Government of progress. (Applause.) Every merchant who desired increased trade would do the same. Every mechanic who appreciated the spirit of development going on in the Province, and the great things this spirit and the results that flowed from it, would mean to him, would vote for Stratton. (Applause.) There was no stagnation in his make-up. He would, as he always had done, keep things moving. He doesn't know what a stand-still, hesitating spirit means. He is looking into the future. His ideas are not small ideas. He believed in Peterborough — believed that it would yet be a fine city and he would do his best to help on anything that would lead up to this result. (Applause.) He had always given his hearty and valuable support to everything that would help the town ahead, and he would in the future do more, for as a member of the Government, he was now in a better position to help the town. The Cordage Company, which by the 1st of July would celebrate Dominion Day by the beginning of operations, which would employ 200 hands, would not have been in Peterborough if it had not been for Mr. Stratton's assistance; for No. 5 dam would not have been developed to furnish power at a cheap rate, had it not been for Mr. Stratton. (Applause.) It was his persistent determination that this power should be developed, and that the conditions to bring this about should be made right. It was his determination that things should go right, it was the knowledge that his sympathy and the influence which his position gave him would be extended to an effort to build up Peterborough that encouraged the company to go on, and, thanks to his efforts, things did come out right, and Peterborough has now one of the most important additions to her manufacturing industries almost ready for work. (Applause.) When other towns held out inducements to the Cordage Works to locate there, it was Mr. Stratton's straight-out demand upon the Dominion Government that gave the company the power on the right terms and enabled the company to cover with brick and mortar, and humming machinery that acre of land in the south part of the town, which stands, and a thriving evidence, too, of the good efforts of the representative of West Peterborough, which would not have been in existence if the Government had not been made pretty plainly to realize that this same representative of West Peterborough was in earnest, and wouldn't take "No" for an answer when the town's interests, which he had at heart, were at stake. (Applause.) It was a big fight. Mr. Stratton was abused by some of the citizens of the town he was helping, and by those interested in retarding the development of cheap power. But now the people could see that Mr. Stratton was right, (applause,) and that the town would realize the advantages it was felt from the start would be the result. What were the practical and immediate advantages? The brick makers and brick layers have been benefitted. The employees of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company and of the Canadian General Electric Company have been benefitted; the working men in all classes have been helped by the employment given in construction operations, and with the works in running order, two hundred hands would be given employment. And this was only the beginning of the results that would follow from the town having a representative with the will, and the ability, and the influence, to help the town. The Government had been induced by his efforts to fix the price of power at such terms which would apply to all the dams on the river, as would permit of their development to supply power for the many additional manufactories that would be attracted to Peterborough. (Applause.)

MR. W. A. STRATTON

congratulated the committees upon the splendid work done during the week. The dates for registration would soon be announced, and he hoped that all who were not otherwise on the the lists, would see that they were registered. Individual electors could greatly assist the committees by taking an interest in their own behalf. The outlook in West Peterborough was favourable for a handsome majority. He urged all electors who were interested in the progress of the town and county of Peterborough, and of the province, to help along the campaign, and make both the local and provincial victory, which was sure to come, as decisive as possible.

The splendid and successful meeting closed with cheers for the King and the candidates.

THE KING WAS THERE

Canadian Lacrossists Win Victory Before His Majesty.

DUKE OF ARGYLL'S TEAM BEATEN

The Game at Lord's on Saturday Was an Easy Win For the Canucks—Englishmen Taking to the Canadian National Game, But They Have a Lot to Learn About It.

London, April 28.—Never in its history has lacrosse attracted such a crowd, even in Canada, as that which gathered Saturday afternoon at Lord's to witness the much talked-of battle between the touring Torontos and the English twelve, playing under the patronage of the Duke of Argyll, who caught the lacrosse fever during his term as Governor-General of Canada.

The day broke clear and fine, and when the match began it was under the most auspicious circumstances. Ten thousand people, from all the walks of London life, crowded the stands and watched with wonder and keen interest the speedy Canadians and the energetic Englishmen combat for a victory that, it was easily apparent, would not be won without a hard fight.

His Majesty King Edward and members of the royal family honored the match with their presence, and it was a proud moment for the young Canadians when they stepped on the crease and saw the monarch of the Empire present to watch them play the favorite game of his premier colony. The King was an interested spectator and showed marked approval of some of the dashing plays.

The Prince of Wales, who was accompanied by the Princess, had seen the game before, and entered into the spirit of the contest with an interest born of experience, and he kept his royal parent and the others of the party in touch with the leading points of lacrosse while the match proceeded.

The Argylls at an early stage showed that the experience gained in other matches with the Torontos had benefited them, and especially was this noticeable in their adoption of the Canadian system of short passes. Hard, close play marked the first half, and at the end the score stood Toronto 6 and Duke of Argyll's team 2.

The Englishmen lost a good deal of their vigor in the last half, and it was an easy task for the Torontos to score. This half saw the Argylls score but once, while the visitors passed the ball between the flags five times, leaving the Torontos victorious by 11 games to 3.

The match was more even than the score suggests.

Eight of the Duke of Argyll's team figured on other combinations that met the Torontos since their arrival in England, and all of them displayed improvements in their play, no doubt as the outcome of the ideas gathered from their contact with the Canadians during the past two weeks.

However, the Torontos have not met so far a team of Englishmen that even gave them a stubborn contest, and it is questionable whether they will run up against such a team during their entire tour through the North of England. Players who have yet to be met are reputed to be faster than the South of England men. In every match the Torontos could have scored double the number of goals that were tallied in their favor if they had exerted themselves.

The Englishman, with his inborn tendency to cricket, has heaps to learn about lacrosse before he will be able to cope with the national game of Canada. At present the playing of the English teams is very ordinary. The Torontos' short passing and quick catching have simply astonished players and spectators, and the Englishmen are already trying to copy these tactics of the Canucks.

Two members of the Stockport team, champions of England, whom the Torontos play at Stockport a week from Monday, had places on the Duke's team.

On Monday the tourists will go to Cambridge, to compete with the university eleven, captained by J. J. Cawthra, an old Toronto boy.

The great crowd at Saturday's match ensures the Torontos returning to Canada with a surplus, after paying all expenses of the trip. The attendance at the other matches has been large, but Saturday's gate receipts will boost the finances away up.

The receipts of the match Saturday will total close upon $15,000.

The English Lacrosse Association gave a banquet Saturday evening in honor of the visiting Toronto team at the Hotel Cecil. The Duke of Argyll presided, and Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, the Earl of Aberdeen and Lord Harris were present.

THE SHIPPING COMBINE.

Morgan's German Agreement—Red Star and Holland-American Lines Join.

Hamburg, April 28.—An official statement of the term agreement between the German Steamship Line and the syndicate formed by J. P. Morgan is published here. The agreement between the Hamburg-American Packet Company and Mr. Morgan, it appears, was concluded last March. The duration of the agreement is limited to 20 years, but either side may terminate it after 10 years, or demand a revision of the contract, and withdraw it if revision is refused.

Twenty Years of Itching Piles.

Sufferings Ended Seven Years Ago —A Permanent Cure by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Mr. Alex McLaughlin is well known and highly respected in Bowmanville, Ont., where he has resided for about thirty years. His cure of itching piles, after twenty years of almost constant and often very severe suffering, is a remarkable one. There can scarcely be a stronger recommendation for Dr. Chase's Ointment, and his letter will be read with interest by many who are still victims of this dreadful malady.

Mr. McLaughlin, writes: "For twenty long years I suffered from itching piles, and only persons who have been troubled with that annoying disease can imagine what I endured during that time. About seven years ago I asked a druggist if he had anything to cure me. He said that Dr. Chase's Ointment was most favourably spoken of, and on his recommendation I took a box.

"After three applications I felt better, and by the time I had used one box I was on a fair way to recovery. I continued the treatment until thoroughly cured, and as that was seven years ago, and I have not suffered any since, I am firmly convinced that the ointment made a perfect cure.

"I consider Dr. Chase's Ointment an invaluable treatment for piles. In my case I think the cure was remarkable when you consider that I am getting up in years and had been so long a sufferer from disease."

It is all nonsense to talk about a surgical operation as the only cure for piles. Scores of people are being cured every day by Dr. Chase's Ointment. Not merely relieved — though relief itself is a great thing to the sufferer from piles — but cured thoroughly and permanently, as Mr. McLaughlin has been. Dr. Chase's Ointment has no worthy rival. It stands alone as an absolute cure for piles of every form; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 12

THE INNS OF CHINA.

Their Cheapness Is About Their One Redeeming Feature.

Chinese inns are without register or clerks. On riding through the gateway your bridle rein is seized by a dirty boy, who helps you to dismount, shouting loudly meanwhile for the proprietor, who presently looms up through the wilderness of carts and mules. Proprietor and boy then hold a parley as to what rooms are eligible, and then a door is pushed open and the traveler is shown to his apartment. It is usually about twelve feet square. The walls and floor are of hard mud, and so are the beds, which extend entirely across the side of the room, with only space enough between them for a small table and one chair. The room is lighted by one window, in which paper takes the place of glass.

The first duty of the proprietor in making a patron comfortable is to stop up the holes in the paper window pane. He never tears the paper off entirely and replaces it with a new one, because the sheet of paper is worth about one-tenth of a cent, and the innkeeper is not wasteful. Indeed he pastes little slips of paper over the holes until all the light that filters through it is of a mottled hue.

At one end of the mule shed is the kitchen of the inn. It is here that the meals for all the patrons are prepared, to be eaten in the rooms. The menu is not elaborate. It consists only of bowls of rice and tea. Should the traveler desire a greater variety of food, he can buy it himself in the market, and his own servant can cook it in the kitchen of the inn. To sleep on the bed of a Chinese inn would be for a foreigner an impossibility were it not that he is always so exhausted at the end of each day's journey that he finds it difficult to remain awake ten minutes after alighting from his pony. He lies down on the mat that covers the hard heap of mud and surprises himself at the soundness of his slumber.

The one redeeming thing about the inn is its cheapness. Just as the traveler is about to depart in the morning the proprietor tells him the amount of his bill. Everything is charged on the "European plan." Every cup of tea, every rushlight candle, the paper window pane, are all itemized in the long list which the proprietor reels off in singsong, but the total is surprisingly low. The cost of food and lodging for one night for a traveler and two servants, with stabling and fodder for his ponies and cart mules, is about 50 cents.

Roasted Too Soon.

The rear end of a Fordham car was congested the other afternoon. There wasn't even "standing room only." A jocular commuter said, "Beware of pickpockets!"

Everybody laughed.

A gentlemanly looking fellow said:

"No man need be afraid of pickpockets if he does as I did. I have a self patented scheme. I have a buttonhole in my vest pocket. I run my chain through it and attach the other end in the usual way. They can't draw that watch through that buttonhole. No pickpockets in mine, and don't you forget it."

The crowd thinned out.

At Wendover avenue the "patentee" said startlingly:

"My watch is gone!"

Somebody had clipped the chain, drawn it through the other way and abstracted the watch.

A Story of Two Necklaces.

When General Weyler was sent by Spain as governor general to Manila, Don Carlos Palanca, the wealthy Spanlardized Chinaman, determined to send Mrs. Weyler a gift, the customary way of obtaining the good will of the Spanish officials. He found at a jeweler's two necklaces, each costing $20,000 and both being so beautiful that he could not choose between them. So he sent them both to Mrs. Weyler with the message that she should make her choice. He received a warm letter of thanks from her, stating that the necklaces were so beautiful that she could not decide between them and hence would keep both, which she did.

Theories About Drowned Bodies.

It was a popular theory in days gone by that the body of a drowned man would float the ninth day. Sir Thomas Browne alludes to it as believed in his time, and in his "Pseudo-doxia Epidemics" there is a discussion on this fanciful notion. It was also believed that the spirits of those drowned at sea were doomed to wander for a hundred years owing to the rites of burial having never been properly bestowed upon their bodies.

A Martyr.

"She is the most sacrificin' woman fer miles around."

"In what way?"

"Waal, whenever they git up a lawn fete or sumpen like for the church in which the expenses are more'n the proceeds the committee alwus sends her up to acquaint the pastor with the result."

A True Philosopher.

The greatest thing we ever saw in the way of a philosopher was a one armed man in a manicure establishment who gloated because he got his work done for half price.

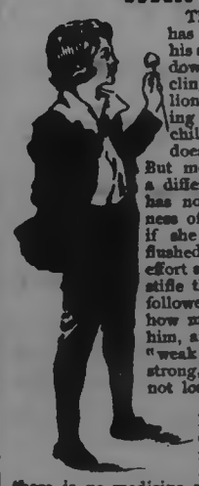
"DOES MOTHER WANT ME?"



The little fellow has blown with all his strength, and the downy tufts still cling to the dandelion stem. According to the oracle of childhood mother does not want him. But mother would tell a different story. She has noticed the weakness of the lungs, and if she saw him now, flushed with his unusual effort and struggling to stifle the cough which followed it, she'd feel how much she wanted him, and wanted those "weak" lungs made strong, that she might not lose him.

For "weak" lungs, obstinate cough, hemorrhage, weakness and emaciation there is no medicine so healing and so strengthening as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is especially valuable for children, building up weak bodies with sound, healthy flesh. It is entirely free from alcohol and narcotics.

"Winter before this, my oldest boy (who is now nearly five years old), had a terrible cough; he had it the whole winter and all summer," writes J. M. Farr, Esq., of Camerun, Screven Co., Ga. "Physicians did him no good and nothing my wife and I could do did him any good. After your 'Discovery' had cured my cough so quickly, when everything else failed, I wrote my wife to bring him back from the country, she having carried him there to see if the change would do him good. We were living in Savannah, Ga., at the time. She brought him back and after giving him your great 'Golden Medical Discovery' for a time, he entirely recovered."

Assuming Husbands' Names.

The practice of the wife assuming the husband's name at marriage, according to Dr. Brewer, originated from a Roman custom and became the common custom after the Roman occupation. Thus Julia and Octavia, married to Pompey and Cicero, were called by the Romans Julia of Pompey, Octavia of Cicero, and in latter times married women in most European countries signed their names in the same manner, but omitted the "of." Against this view may be mentioned that during the sixteenth and even at the beginning of the seventeenth century the usage seems doubtful, since we find Catharine Parr so signing herself after she had been twice married, and we always hear of Lady Jane Grey (not Dudley), Arabella Stuart (not Seymour), etc.

Some persons think that the custom originated from the Scriptural teaching that husband and wife are one.

This was the rule of law so far back as Bracton (died 1268), and it was decided in the case of Bon versus Smith, in the reign of Elizabeth, that a woman by marriage loses her former name and legally receives the name of her husband. Altogether the custom is involved in much obscurity.

Holy Coat of Treves.

The holy coat preserved at Treves, in Germany, is claimed to be the seamless garment worn by Christ and for which the Roman soldiers cast lots during the crucifixion. It is a tunic about five feet long, cut narrow at the shoulders and gradually widening toward the knees. Many miracles are said to have been performed by this robe.

Its history for the last 700 years is clear enough, but darkness shrouds the story of the relic prior to the twelfth century. The Catholic church relies for proof of its authenticity upon a tradition that it was one of a chestful of relics sent as a gift to the church at Treves by the Empress Helena. She is said to have found the coat at Jerusalem while in search of the true cross.

A legend says that in the ninth century the holy coat was concealed from the Normans in a crypt of the cathedral. There it remained forgotten until 1196, when it was rediscovered and placed in the high altar.

An Extraordinary Shower.

Daniel O'Connell, the Irish agitator, once complained in the house of commons of a report of a speech in a London newspaper which, he said, put into his mouth opinions he had never expressed. He vowed that if the editor did not apologize he would move that he be brought to the bar for a breach of privilege.

Next day the reporter of the speech waited upon O'Connell and gave a most remarkable explanation. He stated that during his walk from the house to his office in Fleet street the rain streamed into his pockets and obliterated the notes of his speech.

"I accept the explanation," said O'Connell, good humoredly, "but let me say that it must have been a very extraordinary shower of rain, for it not only washed out of your notebook the speech I delivered, but washed in another of an entirely different character."

The Giant's Organ.

One of the most interesting features of the Giant's causeway is "the giant's organ." This huge "instrument" consists of a group of pillars of various lengths set apart on the side of the main cliff. The larger columns being in the center and the smaller ones tapering off on either side after the fashion of organ pipes admirably sustain the idea which the name "giant's organ" conveys.

An Unconcerned Mother.

A curious incident occurred a day or two ago on an elevated train. Two women and a boy entered and found every seat occupied. A kind hearted young woman, who was seated, took the boy, a sturdy little fellow of five years or so, on her lap, knowing that it is even harder for a child to stand than for a grown person. She held him for some time, and then the mother and friend were enabled to get seats opposite. Naturally the volunteer nurse prepared to resign her charge, expecting that his mother would call him to her lap.

Not a bit of it! The two talked comfortably, without giving a thought to the stranger, who was still holding the boy and was wondering, amusedly, just what kind of mentality was responsible for the mother's singular thoughtlessness.

The Sufferings of Job.

If the agonies of Job were any worse than the tortures of itching piles from which so many people are now suffering he had much to endure. The difference is that there is no reason for any one to endure the miseries of piles for a single day. Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured tens of thousands of cases and is absolutely guaranteed to cure each and every case of piles. 60 cents at all dealers or by mail from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Fresh Paint Stains.

A fresh paint stain on woolen goods will disappear if rubbed against other woolen goods. For instance, if the stain is on the sleeve of a coat take that garment off and rub the paint against the other sleeve. It will disappear and leave no sign. This is easier than applying turpentine and exactly as efficacious, but it must be done while the paint is still wet.

Irritating Pimples and Disfiguring Blotches.

They place many young girls at a great disadvantage in life. The only cure is a blood purifier like Ferrozone. It cleanses the crimson flood of poisons and impurities, renews and strengthens it, and makes lots of red corpuscles that manifest their presence by a ruddy, healthy glow in the cheeks and lips. Ferrozone quickly masters all skin erruptions, builds up broken-down constitutions, and gives to weak, sickly women an abundance of spirits, vitality, energy and beauty. Try Ferrozone, it's all right. Price 50c. per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

MR. LONG'S ENTERPRISE.

He has Just Procured an Elegant Soda Water Fountain for his Restaurant.

Mr. Harry Long, Peterborough's well known confectioner has just added to his restaurant a costly soda water fountain, which is being viewed by many townspeople. Mr. Long must have put a lot of money into his venture judging from the massive looking article that now adorns his store. The bottom is of beautiful quartered oak and on this rests the fountain which is of costly marble and granite. The various blocks of marble so neatly fitted together with their different shades and grains combine to make the entire affair very handsome indeed. On the top of all is a cherry canopy encased in which is a large bevelled plate glass mirror. Hanging out from this is a spray of three coloured electric lights which sends a glow of brilliancy over the entire structure. There are 16 different flavours in the fountain besides two regular taps and a mineral water tap.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. Henry Benoit, of the Sabravois Mission in Quebec, preached a telling sermon in All Saints' yesterday morning. Rev. Mr. Langfeldt preached in the evening on "Cornelius, the Centurion." The anthem, "Saviour, when Night Involves the Sky," was nicely rendered during the offertory in the evening.

Large congregations attended St. Luke's church yesterday. The Rector preached in the morning, and Rev. Henry C. Benoit, from Montreal, preached at night. The members of the Girls' Guild are requested to attend an improtant meeting tonight in the school house, at 8 p.m.

Two young ladies were baptised last evening at the Murray street Baptist church.

IMPORTATION OF REGISTERED SHROPSHIRES AND DORSETS.

Good Breeds, Good Blood, and Good Animals.

The Lethbridge News comments as follows on an importation of choicely bred sheep made by Mr. J. McCaig, formerly of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute staff:

Last week there arrived from the Crest flock of Shrops, as the property of Mr. McCaig, a small importation of choice ewes and rams. The breeder is convinced that there is a promising opening for the breeding of choice mutton sheep on the irrigated lands. In fact the demand for such has as yet no corresponding supply to meet it at all. The range ewes which are chiefly merino stuff, must be crossed with good, sappy mutton rams to produce a good carcass, and the Shrops have above all proved themselves the best of the English breeds for this purpose. They are a snug, hardy, good thriving sheep under ordinary, or even hard conditions, have a dense heavy fleece, are above medium size, and are of excellent quality of mutton. They are quick maturers, and their more general introduction will make it possible to the butchers to furnish to customers tender juicy lamb at six months' old, instead of the dryer two year old wethers.

The irrigated lands furnish all the conditions necessary to producing heavy, fast-growing sheep such as are grown in Ontario. The chief crops necessary are the grains such as oats and peas, good hay, preferably the clovers, rape, and some roots for winter feeding such as turnips or mangels.

The presence of large flocks of sheep to the south makes the demand for good mutton rams a sure proposition and it is safe to say that seven months' old rams bred from good heavy stock, and that are strong and well grown so as to be fit for service by Dec. 1st, will be worth eighteen or twenty dollars each, and the demand at this price will be away ahead of the supply. It is this confidence that Mr. McCaig has in the conditions favourable to the production and sale of this class of sheep that has prompted him to make a trial importation of his favourite breed at considerable expense and risk.

The importation ten in all, consists of a choice breeding pen of five Shropshire ewe lambs and a ram lamb to mate with them every one of which is a choice individual. They have quality, size and strength and are bred in the purple. The ewes are off imported stock and the ram is a grandson of Newton Lord the World's Fair champion of all breeds. These are a beautiful lot of sheep.

There are two Shropshire rams—one a last year's lamb (he other a two year old—which can be bought separately from the others and should be a valuable pair for any one who wishes an infusion of good, fast growing stuff into range stock. The Shropshires are extra heavy fleeced and dense, and are as large now at twelve months old as mature sheep.

The importation includes a pair of nice Dorset ewe lambs. The Dorsets are famous for their prolificacy. They breed two crops of lambs a year in the old country, will breed at any time of year and seldom raise less than twins and frequently three lambs at a time. They are wonderful milkers and are used for the early lamb business in England. They are usually crossed with Shropshire males and the cross is an excellent one. With the high price of meats there it will doubtless pay to raise early lambs about Lethbridge. With ewes of this breed a man could have in January, February or March, lambs weighing forty or fifty pounds that would sell for not less than two dollars and a half a quarter to many a citizen in Lethbridge who is not slow to appreciate and put up for a nice morsel of baby mutton.

The whole importation is to be sold and it is to be hoped that Mr. McCaig's enterprise which is in every respect well-timed and is a distinct benefit to the country will be no disappointment to himself. The sheep may be inspected in Mr. Bawden's stables near the Alberta House.

The Eyes of a Bee.

Every bee has two kinds of eyes—the two large compound ones, looking like hemispheres on either side, and the three simple ones which crown the top of his head. Each compound eye is composed of 3,500 facets—that is to say, an object is reflected 3,500 times on its surface. Every one of these facets is the base of an inverted hexagonal pyramid, whose apex is fitted to the head. Each pyramid may be termed an eye, for each has its own iris and optic nerve.

How these insects manage this marvelous number of eyes is not yet known. They are immovable, but mobility is unnecessary because of the range of vision afforded by the position and the number of facets. They have no lids, but are protected from dust and injury by rows of hairs growing along the lines at the junctions of the facets. The simple eyes are supposed to have been given the bee to enable it to see above its head when intent upon gathering honey from the cups of flowers. Probably this may be one reason, but it is likely there are other uses for them not yet ascertained.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Wearing of Amulets.

Who wore the first amulet it would be impossible to say, but the adoption of a talisman to ward off evil is of very ancient origin.

Phylacteries, the Greek word for amulets, were worn by the Israelites to which allusion is made in the Scriptures. These phylacteries were narrow strips of parchment on which were written passages from the Old Testament. A strip was placed in a small leather box and bound to the left elbow by a narrow strap. There was a smaller phylactery for the forehead, the box for which was about an inch square.

The word amulet is of Arabic origin and implies a thing suspended. Amulets were of various kinds. The moonstone, found in the desert of Arabia, was worn as a talisman against enchantment by the women, who suspended it around the neck. It was a white, transparent stone, the time for searching for it being midnight.

Various Styles of Hairdressing.

The various styles of hairdressing under Louis XVI. were known as the cascade of St. Cloud, the windmill, the sheep and lambs, the hen and chickens, the dog and hare, the peal of bells, the milkmaid, the bob wig, the bather, the kerchief, the oriental, the Circassian, Minerva's helmet, the crescent, the enigma, the desire to please, the turned up calash, the treasurer of the age, the frivolous bather, the rat, the drunken monkey and the lover's snare, the last named consisting of a mass of curls covered with powder, particles of which, deposited on the coat or shoulders of a gentleman, indicated the previous whereabouts of the lady's head.

A Pleasant Prospect.

A young man named Mooney enlisted in the army. After he had been in India for about five months he received a pathetic letter from his parents which said that if he did not send them some money they would be forced to go to the workhouse.

The young man sat down and answered the letter as follows:

"Dear Father and Mother—Try to keep out of the workhouse for six years and seven months until I come home, and then the three of us will go in together."—London Tit-Bits.

Effect of the Sun on Monuments.

The perpendicularity of a monument is visibly affected by the rays of the sun. On every sunny day a tall monument has a regular swing leading away from the sun. This phenomenon is due to the greater expansion of the side on which the rays of the sun fall. A pendulum placed inside, say, Nelson's column, in Trafalgar square, would be found to describe on every clear day an ellipse of nearly half an inch in diameter.—English Mechanic.

Deserted at the End.

William the Conqueror was a man of very gross habit of body and at the siege of Mantes was hurt by the rearing of his horse, the pommel of the saddle striking the king in the abdomen and causing injuries from which he died in a few days. Before his death he was deserted by all his attendants, who stole and carried off even the silverings of the bed on which he lay. The body remained on the floor of the room in which the king died for two days before it was buried by charitable monks

A FARMER FOR FARMERS.

The Lindsay Watchman-Warder has the following to say in reference to the candidature of Mr. J .H. Carnegie, in East Victoria:

"In making his third appeal to the electors of East Victoria, Mr. J. H. Carnegie has certainly a strong case to present. Outside the various issues in the platform of the party to which he owes allegiance, his fitness to represent us is unquestioned. The electoral riding of East Victoria is virtually a rural constituency, and we think that a member of the great farming interests of our province is a fit and proper person to look after the needs of the county in the legislature. We hear the cry often raised that too many professional men get into public life, and the farmers are neglected. We trust that the farmers of Emily and throughout the whole riding, will take advantage of this opportunity to send one of their own number to Toronto to support the new ministry of J. P. Whitney, which, we trust, will soon be inaugurated."

The above remarks, so far as they refer to Mr. Carnegie's superior fitness to represent a rural constituency, apply to Mr. Anderson's candidature in East Peterborough, where he, a farmer, is seeking to represent a riding composed almost exclusively of farmers.

The Review, in pressing the claims of a professional man in East Peterborough, is ignoring the fact, as urged in Mr. Carnegie's case, that, other things being equal, a farmer is the proper person to represent a rural constituency. But this is only true where the farmer candidate possesses the other requisite qualifications, such as Mr. Anderson possesses. It would be pure clap-trap to say that simply because a candidate is a farmer, that he should be elected.

There are many honest and industrious farmers, estimable members of the community, who do not possess any of the other requisites — they may be lacking in education, experience in public affairs, and in the training that would fit them to be efficient representatives. Such a man would self-evidently be almost as much a failure as a representative, as would the average lawyer or doctor, with only his professional experience, be to take such a farmer's place and carry on his work.

In Mr. Anderson we have a candidate who is at once a practical, successful and progressive farmer, and a man who has had a most extensive training in a municipal experience of twenty-five years — a training that admirably fits him to be a practical and efficient representative, especially of a riding composed largely of farmers whose interests are bound up very especially in legislation relating to agricultural matters, and to municipal affairs.

Mr. Anderson has had this long experience. He must have been, and he must be, a most substantial, faithful and reliable man, or the township of Otonabee, the wealthiest township in the county, the largest contributor of taxes, and, therefore, having the most at stake, and requiring the best possible representation in the township and county councils, the township can secure, would not have kept him so long. In a township of more than usual enterprise and intelligence, where there are many clever and progressive men, it is a striking tribute to Mr. Anderson that he should, year after year, have been thought worthy of being elected without opposition, to the highest position in the gift of the municipal electors.

His municipal experience, extending over a quarter of a century, has abundantly qualified him for discharging the duties of a legislator. We have a sufficiency of orators in the House, but there are not many of the members of the Legislature who are better qualified to take part with effectiveness in the more prosaic, but also more important work in committee, where the real work of legislation is done, where the practical experience is applied.

Mr. Anderson as a farmer, with a long and practical experience in municipal affairs, is well fitted for the position of representative of a farming community — not altogether because he is a farmer himself, for farmers could be selected in any riding who would be utterly unfit to represent any class of the population. But Mr. Anderson is a farmer with the necessary experience to deal intelligently with proposed legislation, and with a sympathy with the wants, and a knowledge of, the needs of the farmers, that will make his advice valuable in the consideration of legislation affecting their special interests.

A PROHIBITION VIEW.

Rev. D. Spencer of Brantford, a clergyman who took a very active part in the Federal Prohibition Plebiscite, and is still a prominent worker in the cause, has expressed his views on the situation from a Prohibition standpoint, in a letter to the Brantford Expositor. Mr. Spencer expresses himself as tied to no party, Government position nor clerical place, and free to express his personal convictions and to follow them up by action. In opening, he deals quite frankly with the position of Mr. Whitney and his followers:

"We have two parties in the Legislative Assembly From the Conservative party we cannot, and do not, expect any temperence legislation. Mr. Whitney has stated his position frankly and fully, and we give him credit and thanks for placing himself where we know where to find him. The majority, the vast majority, of his followers, are with him in those deliverances, so that there can be no question that from the Tory party will come no legislation of a prohibitory character. Every elector should note this fact carefully and remember that the pledge of the Conservative party is against the liquor act, against the referendum, and against all the curtailment of liquor interests as practictised by the Ross Government up to date."

The case of those Prohibitionists who are in the field as supporters of Mr. Whitney, are dealt with at considerable length. The writer points out that Mr. Marter was practically read out of his party for his attitude on the Prohibition issue. All Prohibitionists elected to support Mr. Whitney in his present attitude must subordinate their interests to party position. "The anomalous position of any candidate or any elector cannot be mistaken, for, while claiming to be a Prohibitionist, he deliberately votes for men and party pledged to oppose every effort being made to lessen the drink evil." Mr. Spencer goes on to show that the present year is going to mean much for or against the moral, social and industrial well-being of Ontario. No consistent Prohibitionist, in his judgment, can vote for Mr. Whitney's policy. One so voting "had better at once declare himself no longer in harmony with a progressive policy of improvement." In reviewing the results of the Liberal policy, Mr. Spencer points out that thirty years ago there were 6,185 licenses issued, with a population of one and a quarter millions. The number of license has been reduced to 2,950, while the population has increased to two and a quarter millions. This reduction is warmly commended, and the writer emphasized the fact that in a great many localities it has removed, a dangerous temptation from before young men. Her urges the voters in all outlying districts to do all in their power to help the towns and cities to improve the present situation by voting for the best good of their neighbours, as well as their children. The following is his summary of the political situation:

"As to a third party, I am personally inclined to believe that an Independent party might be useful, but not now. We must not swap horses in the middle of the stream. The conventions I have attended and the touch with men here and there only go to show that a third candidate will decrease the Reform vote. An Independent cannot, and is not, going to get one per cent of the Conservative vote, but he may get ten per cent. of the Reform vote. That is the hope of the anti-Prohibitionist party. I sincerely hope that Prohibitionists will not be hoodwinked by any urging in that direction. The hope of the temperance party lies in the Ross Government and not in the present Opposition. Even though the date of the referendum and the conditions thereof are not all that we could desire, strong Prohibitionists must not forget that they are not the only people to be considered. As a worker the last two plebiscites I was sadly disappointed with the numbers, even in Ontario, and if we do no better next time we shall be more ashamed than ever. I want to emphasize as much as possible, the wisdom, the necessity, the policy of sustaining the present party in power. To them we must look for beneficial legislation in the matter under discussion."

Mr. Spencer takes cognizance of the other problems with which the Government must grapple, and gives due weight to many other grounds for sustaining the Ross Ministry. But the conclusion of his letter is reached from a prohibition standpoint, and with a single eye to the advancement of the cause he has at heart. — Globe.

The medicine dealers in this place say that there is no preparation on the market to-day that has anything like such an enormous sale as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Would this extraordinary demand for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills continue and gradually increase if people were not being benefitted and cured by their use? Certainly not. One pill a dose; 25c a box.

Mrs. Turnbull Found Dead.

Orangeville, April 29.—Mrs. John Turnbull of Mono Centre, a village ten miles east of here, left home quietly on Thursday morning early. Search for her had been made without success until Sunday afternoon, when her body was found lying beneath a brush pile near her home. A can containing Paris green was found near her body, showing the manner of her death. The deceased was 50 years of age, and had been melancholy for days.

Princess Again on Trial.

Cape Town, April 28.—The trial of Princess Radziwill, on the charge of forgery, in connection with notes purporting to have been endorsed by the late Cecil Rhodes, but which the latter repudiated, began in the Supreme Court to-day. There are 24 counts in the indictment. Though Rhodes and Schultz, the two principal witnesses, have died since the case was first filed, their evidence, in the form of affidavits, denouncing the signatures on the notes as forgeries, holds good.

THREE VOTES TAKEN

A Trio of Divisions in the House on Last Members' Day.

NIAGARA FALLS POWER CO. BILL

Mr. E. F. Clarke Voices Objections and Moves Amendments Which Were Defeated—The Market Gardeners—Proposal to Increase Their Protection Inopportune—Minimum Government Wages.

Ottawa, April 29.—Yesterday was probably the last private members' day in the House, and it was marked by the somewhat unusual occurrence of three divisions, the subjects being the Toronto & Niagara Falls Power Company's bill, to which Mr. E. F. Clarke desired important amendments; Mr. Leonard's market gardeners resolution, and Mr. Logan's minimum wage resolution. The House rose at 1 a.m.

Sir Richard Cartwright introduced a bill to amend the act respecting the packing and sale of certain staple commodities. It adds the word "dealer" to the persons liable under the act, and deals with penalties to be inflicted on the case of binder twine, not agreeing with the description on the label. The general inspection act will also be amended, to add "binder twine" to the list of articles dealt with by the act.

Sir Richard Cartwright substituted for the Chinese Immigration Act Amendment Bill, a resolution to authorize a change in the proportion of the proceeds of the Chinese poll tax to be given to British Columbia.

Toronto and Niagara Power Co. Bill.

The House went into committee on the bill to incorporate the Toronto and Niagara Power Co., and Mr. E. F. Clarke moved his amendment to clause 11 of the bill to make it clear that the company cannot discriminate against individuals or municipalities in supplying electricity for light, power or heat. The amendment sought to change the word "may" to "shall" in the clause of the bill reading that: "The company may supply hydraulic, electric, or other power, etc." It also sought to make the supply compulsory "to all persons, corporations and municipalities desiring the same along the line of its works, or within a reasonable distance thereof." And further, provided that, as to rates, that if the company and those desiring its power be unable to agree upon rates, the terms may be those ordered by the Railway Committee of the Privy Council.

Mr. Clarke, in support of his amendments, said that the gentlemen who are applying for this incorporation are those who control the Toronto Electric Railway and Toronto Electric Light Company. The franchise of the Railway Company had some time yet to run, but would be a valuable franchise when it came back to the city. If the company was able to discriminate it might render the franchise valueless.

Mr. Archibald Campbell said the bill had received careful attention by the Private Bills Committee, before which the same amendments were proposed, but it was not thought to be in the public interest that they should be adopted. The word "shall" had never been used in conferring power upon any company, it would be going an inordinate length to be so in this case, for, perhaps, the company might be unable to supply all the municipalities desiring power.

Hon. James Sutherland agreed with Mr. Campbell, and said if any such provisions were desirable they should be imposed by a general act applicable to all companies. "Imagine," said the Minister of Marine, "the Canadian Pacific Railway picked out and made subject to regulations fixed by the City of Toronto, while all other railways were exempted."

Mr. E. B. Osler said that this entirely fallacious argument against making exceptions in special cases was the chief argument resorted to in the case of every move made in Parliament to protect the public interest. The Power Company was in the nature of an amalgamation, and he ventured the assertion that in ten or twelve years the entire Niagara power development would be under one control. This company was being granted powers of expropriation, the same as a railway company, and should therefore be equally under Government control. He suggested that at least a clause be inserted in the bill making the company amenable to any general act that might be passed.

Mr. Cowan, chairman of the Private Bills Committee, said that the bill had been considered at a full meeting of the committee, and City Solicitor Fullerton was offered every opportunity of debating the bill. Several of his suggestions were agreed to without a division. Mr. Fullerton was satisfied by the committee that section 90 of the Railway Act applied to this company, thus enabling the city of Toronto to withhold permission from the company if they saw fit to do so, to erect poles or otherwise enter upon the streets of the city.

Mr. Monk supported the amendment, pointing out the exceptional circumstances of this company, which would, he said, be empowered by this bill to hold up the city in respect to power for a municipal railway or lighting plant. Such things had happened in Montreal so it was desirable to provide in this bill that the city of Toronto would obtain power on what might be deemed a legitimate consideration therefor.

After Messrs. Fraser, Wade and Pringle had further opposed the amendment, Mr. Clarke said he had been advised that the municipalities had not the power, under the act cited, to exclude a company from its precincts until it agreed to supply the municipality with power on favorable terms.

Mr. Pringle declared that the act did confer this power.

Mr. Clarke replied that the amendment had been prepared by the City Solicitor of Toronto. He urged that it was not too much to ask that the right of Toronto, comprising one-tenth of the population of Ontario, should have some consideration of this House.

After some further discussion, the amendment was put and lost, then the committee arose and reported the bill adopted without amendment, and, on motion for the third reading, Mr. Clarke divided the House. The third reading carried by 74 to 18.

Protection to Gardeners.

Mr. Leonard (Conservative, Laval) moved, "That it is greatly in the interests of the market gardeners and the farmers that the duties on our Canadian garden products be so adjusted as to guarantee the Canadian farmer an effective protection against foreign competition."

Mr. Leonard, speaking in French, made a strong plea for protection, urging that the tariff be changed from ad valorem to specific.

Mr. Tarte replied in French. He argued that vegetables could not be produced in Canada in winter, and it was in the early spring that vegetables were imported from the States.

Mr. Leonard said that the climate is in favor of the American product.

Mr. Tarte: Well, but even by increasing the duty we can't change the climate. (Laughter.)

Mr. Monk urged the importance of the industry market gardening in the vicinity of Montreal and Toronto, and pointed out that the vegetables imported from the States were grown by negroes in South Carolina and by Chinese in California. He declared that if given adequate protection the market gardeners could raise vegetables for early spring.

Mr. Talbot spoke against the resolution.

Mr. Archie Campbell expressed his regret that the resolution had been brought on at this late stage of the session. Had it been brought on before the budget it might have had some effect, but what possible good could be done by discussing the question after the House had decided by a large majority that there should be no change in the tariff, he asked. If the market gardener had insufficient protection, it was due to the Tory Government, which reduced the duty in 1894. He would like to see the Government increase the duty a little. He admitted there was a grievance, but thought the matter should not be touched until after the coronation conference. It was only to make party capital that the resolution was brought up at present, he thought. He favored such slight increase in all duties as might be necessary "to build up the institutions and develop the resources of the country."

Mr. William Ross (Liberal, Victoria, N.S.), expressed the hope that when the Premier and his colleagues went to the international conference in London they would have more important things to discuss than the market gardening of Montreal. The Government had other interests to protect than those of the market gardeners, namely, those of the consumers.

The Finance Minister said the view of the Government, that no tariff changes should be made this session was no sign of what might happen at a future stage. It would be time enough to discuss it when that stage was reached. Anyway, this duty on vegetables was the same under the Conservatives. He moved that the debate be adjourned.

The House divided on the motion, which was carried by 71 to 83 on a straight party division.

Trackmen's Wages.

Mr. Logan offered a resolution, that, "considering the general prosperity of Canada, the minimum wage to be paid to trackmen and other laborers in the Government system of railways should be at least $1.50 per day."

F. D. Monk, after dwelling upon the inadequate remuneration to postal and canal employes, moved in amendment, to add to the resolution: "As well as all men now employed on the canals of Canada and all stampers, sorters and letter carriers in the service of the Dominion."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that the amendment by Mr. Monk would apply rather to the Postmaster-General's bill regulating the salaries of packers and sorters. The House would be glad to learn that the question of wages of trackmen was now receiving the attention of the Government. Within ten days a deputation of trackmen of the Government railways, in an interview with the Minister of Railways, had presented their claims for increased wages. The Minister of Railways, had presented their claims for increased wages. The Minister of Railways being too busy to attend to the matter at this time, representatives of the men had agreed to have the matter deferred until after the session. The employes admitted they had not fared badly at the hands of this Government, having been given an increase of wages two years ago, and the discussion having served a good purpose, he hoped the resolution would be withdrawn.

Mr. Logan agreed, but Mr. Monk regretted he could not accede to the Premier's request, as the letter carriers of Montreal, Toronto and other delivery cities had a grievance, while the wages paid to the Lachine Canal employes was a scandal to the country.

Mr Fielding moved the adjournment of the debate, and, the yeas and nays being demanded by the Opposition, a vote was taken, resulting in the resolution being squelched by the motion carrying by 54 to 23.

The House adjourned at 1 o'clock.

A Great Sufferer Cured

Mr. Benjamin Dillon, of Leeds, Ont., was cured of Muscular Rheumatism by Polson's Nerviline, and says: "I feel my duty is to proclaim Polson's Nerviline as an infallible cure for Rheumatism; it cured me after 30 years suffering, and nothing I know of can equal its penetrating power. Nerviline simply has no equal in quickly relieving and curing Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, and Lumbago. A trial will convince anyone. Price 25c.

N.B.—Since the Prospectus of the Company was issued (about the First of April), the Company has received two offers for the purchase of its entire output of paper. These offers are entirely unsolicited, and are from parties whose standing is such as to guarantee the performance of any contract they may undertake. One of these offers covers the first year of production, and the other covers the first three years. Either offer, if accepted, would be sufficiently profitable to assure the payment of the full dividend on the Preferred Stock, provide the amount required by the Charter for a Reserve Fund, and leave a balance sufficient to pay a large dividend on the Common Stock, if no unforeseen contingencies should arise. This does not include profits estimated from the sale of sulphite pulp or from the saw mill, which, it seems reasonable to suppose, would be sufficient to cover all unexpected contingencies.

PROSPECTUS

OBJECTS OF THE COMPANY

The Atlantic Pulp and Paper Company, Limited, has been organized in order to take advantage of the unrivalled facilities for the manufacture of pulp and paper at New Richmond, on the Baie des Chaleurs, and by its charter, has powers of the fullest description. It is confidently believed that pulp and paper can be more economically manufactured there than any other place in America.

The essentials to the success of such a concern are:

1. Cheap and unlimited pulp wood;
2. Adequate water power cheaply developed;
3. Pure water for the manufacturer;
4. Cheap labor;
5. Low transportation charges;
6. Efficient management.

It will be seen that the facilities possessed by this Company assure a point of cheapness in the production of paper never attained before, while the situation of the mills on the Atlantic seaboard makes it possible to ship to all foreign ports by water without trans-shipment. As the Company proposes to confine itself almost exclusively to the export trade, it will readily be seen that this gives it further advantage over all other companies.

1. WOOD SUPPLY.—No paper mill in Canada has greater advantages in point of situation. Many companies do not own their own limits, being entirely dependent on outside purchases, and subject to fluctuations of supply and price. Other companies owning limits have to transport their wood from great distances by water or rail. Thus we find mills at Merriton and Niagara Falls are bringing their pulpwood from Central Quebec. Some prosperous paper companies even buy their pulp in the manufactured state. The mills of the Atlantic Pulp and Paper Company, Limited, willl be built about two miles from the limits, where there will also be a very large mill-pond capable of holding several million logs. The Little Cascapedia River flows from end to end through the center of the limits, and the large number of tributary streams does away with the greater part of the hauling usually entailed in getting out pulp wood, thereby greatly decreasing the cost.

2. WATER POWER.—Mr. George F. Hardy of New York, the foremost American authority on this subject, has made a thorough examination of the water power that can be developed on the Little Cascapedia River at a point immediately adjoining the proposed mill site, and his report shows that sufficient power can be developed to run mills of even greater capacity.

This report can be seen at the office of the undersigned, or at any office of the National Trust Company, Limited.

3. WATER SUPPLY.—Pure and clean water is one of the most important factors in connection with pulp and paper-making. The bed of the Little Cascapedia River is rocky, and owing to its crystal-like clearness and purity the water in the river is suitable for making the finest grades of paper without the expense of filtering, which is almost invariably required at other mills.

4. COST OF LABOR.—The labor employed in the mills and woods cost less than probably any other American mill, as far as known, as competent men in this section of the country, on account of the cheapness of living, ask very low wages.

5. TRANSPORTATION CHARGES.—The shipping facilities of this Company are certainly unequalled by any similar enterprise in Canada, the situation of the mills on the Baie des Chaleurs giving every possible advantage for export trade, which is probably the most profitable field. Arrangements can be made with Atlantic steamship lines to run steamers from New Richmond for eight months in the year, as required. During the winter months favorable winter rates have been arranged with the Railway Companies to St. John and Halifax, New Richmond being on the line of the Atlantic and Lake Superior Railway, which will be connected with the mills by a siding.

6. MANAGEMENT.—The Company has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Wm. M. McIntyre, formerly Mechanical Superintendent with the Laurentide Pulp Company, Limited, who will act as Manager of the construction and operation of the mills. Mr. McIntyre has had over twenty years' experience in pulp and paper-making, and is regarded as an authority on the manufacture of pulp and paper.

PROPERTIES

The properties and limits acquired by the Company contain about three hundred and two square miles, or one hundred and ninety-three thousand two hundred acres, more or less. The wood is principally spruce, and there is also a large quantity of cedar, pine, birch, balsam, balm of Gilead, and poplar. The Company has reports on this property made by five different expert Rangers, acting independently. Copies of these may be seen at any office of the National Trust Company, Limited, or at the office of the undersigned.

The following is an extract from one of the reports:

"I have been working in the lumber woods for twenty years or more, and have traveled and examined limits in the State of Maine, New Brunswick, and Quebec, and worked in Wisconsin and Minnesota, and I am sure this is the best pulp limit I have ever seen or traveled over."

On the basis of any one of these reports a conservative estimate shows that there is sufficient pulpwood now on the limits to supply the proposed mills for more than 65 years. As spruce wood will replace itself in from twenty-four to thirty years, it will be seen that there is sufficient wood on the limits to afford a perpetual supply to a mill double the capacity of that now contemplated.

The freehold property consists of twenty acres where the saw mill, dwellings, and office are situated, and 356½ acres on the bank of the Little Cascapedia River, where it is proposed to build the Pulp and Paper Mills.

THE PULP AND PAPER MILLS

It is proposed to erect—

A Paper Mill with a daily capacity of 54 tons.
A Ground Wood Pulp Mill with a daily capacity of 50 tons, and
A Sulphite Pulp Mill with a daily capacity of 40 tons.

Mr. George F. Hardy has estimated the cost of erecting the Pulp and Paper Mills and of developing the water power at $950,000. The balance from the sale of the Preferred Stock will be sufficient to complete the payments for the limits, water power, saw mill, etc., provide working capital, and leave a substantial balance for contingencies.

THE SAW MILL

There is on the property a saw mill, equipped with the latest improved machinery, capable of turning out from 35,000 to 40,000 superficial feet of sawn lumber in ten hours, and is equipped with all necessary power, gearing, shafting, etc., for the installation of another saw, which would double the capacity.

MARKETS

The markets will be chiefly foreign, including the Eastern States and Great Britain. In view of the expected advances in the price of paper in the Eastern States it is probable that the greater part of the output will be marketed there. Situated as the mills will be on the seaboard, paper can be laid down in Liverpool and New York, duty paid, at such a price as to defy competition.

Freight quotations can be seen at the offices of the National Trust Company, or the undersigned.

ESTIMATE OF BUSINESS AND PROFITS

Estimating the cost of pulp wood at $2.25 a cord, careful estimates made for the Company show that the ground wood pulp should not cost over $5.89 a ton, and sulphite pulp not over $16.00 a ton. The actual cost of newspaper from pulp, estimated at these prices, should not be over $16.94 a ton. This is after making all necessary allowance for depreciation and renewal of plant, and all charges of management and selling.

The following estimate of the annual output of the mills has been prepared by Mr. Wm. M. McIntyre, a practical pulp and paper manufacturer, and is believed to be conservative and well within the mark, and includes allowances for salaries and contingencies:

16,902 tons of newspaper at $37.00 a ton f.o.b. at mills	$625,374.00
8,294½ tons of sulphite pulp at $30.00 a ton f.o.b. at mills	248,835.00
		$874,209.00
Cost of producing same:
16,902 tons of newspaper, at $16.94 a ton	286,319.88
8294½ tons of sulphite pulp at $16 a ton	286,319.88
		419,031.88
Showing a profit of		$455,177.12
7 per cent on $1,500,000 Preference Stock		105,000.00
Available for Reserve Fund and further Dividends		$350,177.12

The ground wood pulp and the balance of sulphite pulp will be consumed in the paper mill of the Company.

The estimated profits from the operation of the saw mill are not included in these figures, but owing to the enormous quantities of cedar on the limits, substantial profits should be made from the manufacture of railway ties, shingles, etc. The Laurentide Pulp Company, Limited, in its annual report, June 30th, 1900, stated that the Company's saw mill added to the year's profits an amount equal to its entire cost, although it was operated for only three months of the year, and estimated that the future profits from this source would cover the interest on the entire bond issue of the Company.

ISSUE OF STOCK

For the acquiring of the said property, equipment of the pulp and paper mills, the development of the water power, building the railway siding to the mills, and the furnishing of sufficient working capital, the present issue of Preference Stock is made. The whole of the Seven Per Cent. Cumulative Preference Stock has been authorized to be issued on the following terms:

For every two shares of Seven per cent. Cumulative Preference Stock subscribed and paid for, there will be allotted by way of bonus one share of fully paid Common Stock.

The Seven Per Cent. Preferred Stock is Cumulative, carries yearly dividends, and has priority over the Common Stock as to both divide and assets.

After the payment of the dividend on the Preferred Stock, and before any payment of dividend on the Common Stock, a further sum of one per cent. must be applied to a Reserve Fund, under the charter. This fund will be for the further assuring of the dividends on the Preferred Stock.

Application will be made in due course for the listing of the shares of the Company on the Toronto and Montreal Stock Exchanges.

Applications for Preferred Shares should be forwarded to the NATIONAL TRUST COMPANY, Limited, Toronto, Montreal, or Winnipeg; or to SUTHERLAND & CAMERON, Brokers, Ottawa, Canada.
Checks, drafts, etc., are to be made payable to the NATIONAL TRUST COMPANY, Limited.

If the whole amount applied for be not allotted, the surplus paid on deposit will be appropriated towards the sum due on allotment. Where no allotment be made, the deposit will be returned in full.

Further information and Forms of Application can be obtained at the offices of SUTHERLAND & CAMERON, 48 SPARKS STREET, OTTAWA, CANADA, or the NATIONAL TRUST COMPANY, LIMITED, TORONTO, MONTREAL, and WINNIPEG.

We offer the Preferred Stock for sale on the above terms.

ADDRESSES TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH

In the Interests of the Ross Government.

"BUILD UP ONTARIO."

Distinguished Speakers Will Discuss Public Questions.

THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN.

Addresses by Hon. Mr. Stratton the Liberal Candidate, Hon. R. Hartourt, and Hon. F. E. A. Evanturel.

The electors of Peterborough will be interested in the information that a mass meeting in Bradburn's opera house on Thursday evening, May 8th, will be addressed by distinguished outsiders as well as by Hon. Mr. Stratton, a supporter and member of the Ross Government, and the Government candidate in West Peterborough. There will be ample discussion of important questions at issue in the present campaign, which is to decide the Government of the progressive Province of Ontario for the next four years, and whether this go-ahead town of Peterborough and the important riding of West Peterborough, will again have as representative the progressive member of a progressive Government, who has served the riding so faithfully and fruitfully for the past sixteen years.

Addresses will be given by Hon. Mr. Stratton, whose deliverance will be of special interest to the electors of Peterborough in relation to local, as well as provincial measures, Hon. R. Harcourt, Minister of Education, one of the most effective speakers in the province to-day, and for 24 years continuously a member of the Legislature, and Hon. Mr. Evanturel, late speaker of the Provincial Legislature. Hon. Mr. Evanturel is an eloquent speaker. At the conclusion of the last session of the Legislature, when his term as Speaker came to an end, the leader of the Government and the leader of the Opposition, vied with each other in paying a tribute to the excellently impartial and effective manner in which the retiring speaker had discharged his duties. Hon. Mr. Evanturel's reply was a model, classic in the literary elegance of its language, and in the gallic grace of its neatly expressed sentiments. He speaks fluently in both English and French.

The electors who may attend the mass meeting on May 8th, can count upon hearing instructive and eloquent addresses upon public questions.

MR. D. W. DUMBLE AGAIN ELECTED

President of the Peterborough Board of Trade.

STREET RAILWAY AGREEMENT

Was Passed—Mr. J. Hughes-Charles Expresses his Views on the Matter—A Resolution Unanimously Carried.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Board of Trade was held in the Town Council Chamber last night, when officers were elected for the ensuing year, and discussion of the proposed agreement between the town and the new Radial Railway was taken up.

The chair was occupied by the President, Mr. D. W. Dumble, and there were also in attendance Messrs. T. H. G. Denne, Mayor; Robert McWhinnie, W. H. Bradburn, M. A. Morrison, John Sawers, R. J. Winch, C. N. Brown, W. G. Morrow, R. Fair, T. A. S. Hay, S. D. Hall, Jos. Batten, J. Hughes-Charles, J. Carnegie, W. H. Hill, W. VanEvery, Peter Campbell, W. Aldridge, John H. Smith, Reeve of Ashburnham; Robt. Johnston, councillor, Ashburnham.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and on motion adopted.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. D. W. Dumble, stated that owing to the indefinite date of the annual meeting he had not a report ready, but he would endeavour to review a portion of the work done by the Board during the year. During the past twelve months our town has had a season of prosperity. The enlargement of the Canadian General Electric works, the establishing here of the Cordage Company and the Cereal Company should prove a great boon to the town and the benefits to be derived from their locating here can hardly be estimated. The goods of the Cordage Company wil go all over Canada and the goods of the Cereal Company all over the world, a feature that will tend to advertise the town at a wonderful rate. No other town in Canada can point to such enterprises as the Canadian General, The Cordage Company and the Cereal Company. The presence of these concerns is a quiet and standing assertion that Peterborough is the place for other such establishments.

During the year the Board has been called upon to give an expression of opinion on several important matters and they had, as far as possible, backed up the council in reference to various matters. The President here referred to the effort that was made to establish the beet root industry in Peterborough, and he thought that when the industry grows to any extent in Canada, the advantages that Peterborough offers will result in a factory being located here. The Trent Valley Canal has made slow progress during the past year. The Government, while committed to the scheme, are not going any too fast in the matter, he thought. Mr. Dumble then enlarged on the importance of this undertaking, and he told of the immense traffic that might be diverted down these waters. It will have a larger capacity than the Erie Canal, in fact the capacity of the Trent Valley Canal is unlimited. We should, he thought, continue our efforts towards accomplishing the early completion of the undertaking. Not only has the town been prosperous during the past year, but there is every indication that it will be even more prosperous in the future. We still have power to be utilized, and it is offered at so reasonable rates that it should be an inducement to manufacturers to locate in Peterborough. Our future depends upon our manufactories, and in this regard the President paid a warm tribute to the Mayor and council, who, he claimed, were doing all in their power to promote the interests of the town.

The Secretary's report was presented by Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine. The report was adopted.

The report of the Treasurer was presented by Mr. Robt. Fair.

The election of officers for the ensuing term resulted as follows:—
President—D. W. Dumble.
Vice-President—W. G. Morrow.
Secretary—T. Q. Quartermaine.
Treasurer—Robt. Fair.
Council—To be appointed later.

Mr. Dumble expressed a desire to be relieved of the duties of President this year. The Board had not during the past year been as progressive as it might have been.

However, Mr. Burnham, who moved his election, contended that he was the man for the position, and that very few had more comprehensive ideas of the needs of the town than Mr. Dumble.

After being urged by the meeting to accept, Mr. Dumble did so, amid much applause.

Mr. W. G. Morrow moved, seconded by Mr. Fair, that the usual grant be made to the reporters of the three newspapers. The motion carried.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mr. Elias Thompson, a Well Known Resident of Town.

In the death of Mr. Elias Thompson, which occurred early this morning, at his late residence, No. 891 Water street, Peterborough loses an old and much respected resident. The deceased gentleman was 67 years of age, having been born in Antrim County, Ireland, in the year 1835. He came to this country with his parents in 1849 settling in Peterborough, where he has ever since resided. At a very early age he entered the lumbering business, and was engaged for many years in the manufacture of timber for the European market. His lumbering interests extended over a large portion of Ontario, where he was well and favourably known.

In '59 the late Mr. Thompson married Miss Esther Parnell, daughter of the late Richard Parnell, who, with a family of five children are left to mourn his demise. The sons are R. H., H. L., and Arthur. The daughters are Mrs. R. E. McKee, Smith, and Miss Birdie, at home. In religion the deceased was a Methodist. He will be missed in many circles of life, but more particularly will the loss be mourned in the family circle, where he proved to be a devout and sincere husband, and kind father. The funeral will take place from the family residence at three o'clock on Thursday afternoon, to Little Lake cemetery.

QUESTION AND ANSWER.

The following correspondence explains itself:

Peterborough, April 23, 1902.

J. R. Stratton, Esq., Peterborough, Ontario:

Dear Sir,—We, the Peterborough County Temperance Alliance, would respectfully request definite answers to the following questions:—

Are you a total abstainer?

If elected to the Legislature will you do all you can to secure the enactment and enforcement of legislation prohibiting the traffic in intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes as far as is within the ascertained power of the Province?

Will you also promise to vote for such legislation, no matter which party brings it forward, Liberal or Conservative?

Yours truly,
H. P. LINDSAY, President.
G. G. PRATLEY, Secretary.

Peterborough, April 28, 1902.

Dear Sir,—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your favour of the 23rd, inst.

In reply thereto permit me to say that in all my public career I have made it a policy and a practice to make no specific promises to anybody as to what course I should pursue on any question. I have always given the assurance that I would consider carefully all questions submitted to me by any elector, would judge all questions on their merits, and would take that course which I believed would best serve the interests of the public, and the advancement of the material and moral welfare of the Province at large.

That attitude to the public I shall maintain on all subjects, and I shall take the opportunity at the several meetings I shall address in West Peterborough to state as plainly and as clearly as I can my position upon the questions to which your letter refers, as well as other public questions. The columns of the Examiner since I have conducted it, and my own personal record among the citizens of this town and county for a couple of score of years, will show that I have striven persistently and materially to promote the best interests of the town and county generally. These should furnish a sufficiently satisfactory answer to any questions as to my position or relation to these subjects you refer to, and will perhaps compare favourably with the course and record of those who are using the prohibition question, not altogether in the interests of moral reform but rather in a way to make a little political capital for the party in whose interests they are acting. And some of the politicians including yourself, who are endeavouring to make party capital, are not perhaps taking the best means to advance the interests of prohibition and moral reform. It is to be deplored that there are to be found in this community persons who are willing to use prohibition as a stepping stone to party success, no matter how gravely the cause thus prostituted may suffer at the hands of its professed friends and be discredited in public estimation through the contamination of evil associations. There are even some who, like yourself, are willing to use the organizations of the church to present an ex-parte and virtually political aspect to a question which the Government of the Province has taken every pains and precaution to set above the influence of party, or other, prejudice. Even the sanctity of a church edifice is used, in the ostensible name of a sacred cause, to promote no higher an interest than the success of a political candidate in support of a party whose leader has declared himself in such a way as to show that he has no sympathy with the cause whose claims you are assuming to urge upon those who are too sincere and not worldy-wise enough, perhaps, to detect the underlying purpose sought by some to be effected.

In further exposition of my position I may add that as a member of the Ontario Government I am in full accord with its policy in regard to the liquor traffic—a Government that has done so much to minimize the evils of the traffic through the legislation passed in pursuance of that policy during the past quarter of a century. When the Liberal Government of which the present administration is the successor, began, as far back as 25 years ago, its series of legislative enactments for the regulation and restriction of the liquor traffic, there were issued the large number of 6,125 licenses; in the last license year (1899-1900) the number of licenses had fallen to almost a third less — 2,950 — although in the intervening years there had been a large increase of population. As a matter of fact, though the population has almost doubled since 1875, the number of licenses has decreased nearly one third; certainly a most decided gain. From year to year there has been added a large volume of amending legislation imposing additional restrictions, providing for decrease in the number of licenses issued, generally improving the character of hotels, and having the general effect of decreasing the popular addiction to the intemperate use of strong drink to such a degree that at the present moment there is hardly, if not absolutely, any country where there is less drunkenness or where a generally higher standard of morality and law observance prevails than in Ontario.

The Government has endeavoured to legislate intelligently upon the subject—to so adjust the process of license reform to the progress of temperance sentiment, that public sympathy would be enlisted in behalf of progressive measures of reform. That a very great degree of success has attended the policy of the Liberal Government is shown by the fact, patent to all whose memory carries them back a quarter of a century, that the decrease of drunkenness and increase of sobriety have been as gratifying as they have been remarkable.

The value of the license legislation of Ontario is testified to by the following resolution adopted by the General Conference of the Methodist church:

"Although we cannot accept as righteous absolutely any license law, yet, if we must tolerate some one as the tentative regulator of the evil till we can have it removed, we must regard the Crook's Act as the best instrument for this suppression the Province of Ontario ever had. We would emphatically deprecate and legislation that would impair its efficacy, and we would respectfully recommend our people, where this law obtains, to use their vote and franchise to prevent the control of this license system reverting to the municipalities, where the industrious ward politician and the interested liquor dealer so largely manipulate the election."

This is no light endorsation by high authority of the efforts of the Government to provide effective legislation; and the feature specially commended, that of removal from municipal control, and the admitted evils attendant upon such control, is the principle upon which the Government has acted in relation to prohibition and the referendum. The conditions of the submission of the question are such as to make prohibition the sole issue upon which the people are required to pronounce—to entirely separate it from any political or other consideration that would interfere to prevent the vote on December 4th from being anything but a complete and unbiassed expression of the sentiments of the electorate.

At the request of those interested in temperance, the Government introduced and passed, subject to the people's approval, a prohibitory measure, on the lines of the Manitoba Act, and if the people declare in favour of such a prohibitory law, it will be the duty of the Government, (and the Government will assume the full responsibility of enforcing it,) to give effect to the popular will. Upon this policy the members of the Government are united, and I, of course, am willing to assume my share of such responsibility.

It seems to me superfluous, if not impertinent, to require an answer in regard to my relations to prohibition, while the measure adopted by the Government, is in the will of the people to accept it, and to whose enforcement, if accepted, I, as a member of the Government, consider myself already pledged. Under our constitution the Government is created by the will of the people, and is bound to carry out the expressed will of the people. Both myself and the Government accept the responsibility of our course and are quite willing to accept the verdict of the people.

Permit me to say further, that, while you have been sleeping and dreaming, and apparently dealing with temperance interests in an academic way, or using them, as you seem to be doing, to promote party success, others who have not done so much horn-blowing, have been doing practical work in the promotion of moral reform. In this very county, in this very riding of West Peterborough, as a result of the progressive and progressively restrictive license legislation of the Liberal Government, whose overthrow you are now seeking to bring about, we have to a large extent, practical prohibition. In the Townships of South Monaghan, North Monaghan, Ennismore, Harvey, Galway and Cavendish, there are no licenses issued, and in other townships the only licenses are those to practically summer hotels. This has been accomplished without your assistance, and without, not only the assistance of the political party for which you are working so hard at present, but in spite of the persistent opposition of the Opposition members of the Legislature for a period of 25 years.

Beginning with the introduction of the Crooks Act, the Opposition were, and have continued to be, hostile, both by attitude, expression and vote, to the various measures of legislation in the interest of license improvement and restriction, which the Liberal Government has enacted. And the party you are now so heartily in support of is headed by a leader who has declared his hostility to prohibition and his favour of a license law with further restrictions, and the latter in face of the fact that he and the party he now leads have from time to time bitterly opposed the restrictive amendments proposed, and, in spite of him and his followers, enacted.

The license legislation of the Liberal Government, has not only produced practical prohibition in about half of the West Riding of Peterborough, but has led to this result over a far wider area. Out of 756 organized municipalities in Ontario, there are 141 where no licenses are issued, or twenty per cent. of the whole number; there are 435 municipalities in which one, and not more than two, licenses are issued, and there are 425 municipalities without a shop licenses; and twenty one municipalities where local prohibition is in force, adopted through the local option legislation of the Liberal Government. The people in these places wanted prohibition, and, through the means furnished by the Government, have got it, as the people of the province will have such provincial prohibition as the Legislature has power to give if the people choose to vote for the measure now submitted to them. But there will be no prohibition if the designing politicians persist in making prohibition the football of the party political game, dividing the ranks of the prohibitionists and thus preventing it winning. If the people want prohibition they now have the opportunity of obtaining it, which they can do in the opinion of many prominent clergymen and bona fide temperance workers, if the people in favour of it will act unitedly and apart from the distracting and disuniting tactics of professed prohibitionists, but practically party politicians, similar to yourself.

Permit me to conclude by suggesting that the position and motives of yourself, and of such as are using prohibition as you are doing, are far more fitting subjects for question than the position, motives and record of those who have honestly attempted, and to a large extent, succeeded, in bringing about a decrease of the terrible evils of drunkenness, and promoting provincial sobriety, by prudent legislation adapted to the progressive movement of public sentiment favourable to these conditions.

Yours truly,
J. R. STRATTON,
H. P. Lindsay, Esq., Peterborough.

MR. D. W. DUMBLE AGAIN ELECTED.

sion by reviewing the history of the old Peterborough Street Railway Co. From what he had seen of its operation in the past, and the financial position of the Belleville and other street railways, he did not think that there would be much of a financial return in the present undertaking for capitalists and for that reason he was prepared to give the company the thirty year franchise that they asked for. The success of the venture will all depend upon the growth of the town, and if the town will only grow there is none of us who will begrudge the capitalists a fair interest on their money. The railroad in town might hold its own; that would be about all; but it would be suburban lines that would pay the investors, and it would be the surban lines that would benefit the town the most, by bringing in trade from the shores of Rice Lake and the country to the north.

Mr. John Carnegie suggested that Mr. Hughes-Charles, who was present and who came from Galt, where they had an excellent town and suburban system, might be able to give some information that would be of value.

Mr. Hughes-Charles was very cordially received. He stated that he knew very little of the terms of the charter of the Galt Road. He agreed with the president of the Board that it would be unwise to throw an offer like this away, and it was few companies indeed that would undertake the scheme without a 30 year franchise. There is no doubt that an electric street railway is more popular for suburban lines than a steam railway is. Such a road would bring a lot of traffic to town. We could not expect any company to sink so much money in such an undertaking without obtaining a long franchise. However, they would have to be very particular as to the privileges which were granted the company. They must safeguard the interests of the town as to the maintenance of the roadbed, especially for some inches outside of the rails. Galt is very well satisfied as far as the railway as a public convenience is concerned, but they have had difficulty with the company concerning the keeping up of the roadbed, etc.

Mr. John Carnegie said that the cost of operating would be less in Peterborough than in Galt, as we could supply water power while in the other city they had to use steam.

Messrs. Peter Campbell, Robert Fair and H. LeBrun spoke in favour of granting the thirty year franchise.

Mr. R. B. Rogers thought that we should not go too fast. He would like to study the provisions of the proposed agreement before giving his opinion one way or the other. He thought that the draft agreement should have been published in the local press so that the meeting tonight would have known more about it.

Mayor Deane said that it was doubtful whether it was policy for him to say anything in regard to the matter until it came up in the council. He reviewed the circumstances that led up to the transfer of the line. He was anxious to see the road in operation and he had not met anyone who was not of the same opinion and the only matters that were puzzling the citizens was as to the advisability of granting a 30 year franchise and the matter of the proper maintenance of the road-bed. The old company's franchise was for 20 years and provided that the company should keep the road in condition for 10 inches on each side of the track. However, there was difficulty between the town and the company in this regard. There was also difficulty concerning the snow, but these were matters that could be easily dealt with afterwards. The main question now is whether the company should have a 30 year franchise or not.

Reeve Smith, of Ashburnham wanted to see the Street Railway Company operated. If they decided to extend the line to Ashburnham the village he thought, would grant them the same terms as the town would extend to the company. It would take a long time to get the system on a paying basis, and for that reason the town should deal favourably with them. He was in favour of the mileage system, whereby the town maintained the road-bed and the company paid so much a year to the town for doing so.

Finally the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"That this meeting approves of the council granting to the Peterborough Radial Railway Company a 30 year franchise and freedom from taxes for that time. That the council insist on a proviso in the contract providing that the freight rates shall not exceed the rates on the G.T.R. or the C.P.R. on like freight for the same distance, and that every caution be taken to provide for the keeping the road in good repair and up-to-date."

Mr. W. H. Hill spoke strongly in favour of giving the 30 year franchise, and advanced many reasons for so doing.

Dr. Morrison pointed out many difficulties that lay in the way, regarding the maintenance of bridges, maintenances of tracks, etc. He hoped that they would see that the contract would be such that those who voted for it would not come back in 25 years and say that they made a bad bargain.

The Board then adjourned.

A KINGSTON TRAGEDY

A Boy of 15 Years Kills Girl of Fourteen.

BULLET PIERCED HER TEMPLE

While Leaving School Eric Sharp Drew a Revolver and Shot Beatrice Holland Dead—The Victim Was a Daughter of Mr. Holland, Engineer on the Kingston and Pembroke Railway.

Kingston, April 29.—Just as the children were being dismissed yesterday afternoon at Frontenac School, a shot rang through the building, and a bright, happy girl, aged 14, named Beatrice Holland, fell over and was soon dead. The bullet pierced her temple. Eric Sharp, aged 15, a schoolmate, fired the fatal shot. The girl was cared for and physicians summoned, but she was beyond relief when they arrived. Meantime the boy fled.

At 7 o'clock he gave himself up to the police. He says he knows not how the deed occurred. He said he would shoot the girl, she having tipped his hat in the cloak room. When he pulled the revolver it went off.

Scholars say that Eric told the girl if she did not stop he would shoot her, and he drew the revolver and aimed it at her. The revolver was an American Bull, self-acting. He threw the weapon away.

An inquest will be sammoned today. The families are grief-stricken over the dreadful deed. The victim was the daughter of George Holland, an engineer on the Kingston & Pembroke Railway.

The lad is a son of Henry Sharp, a Princess street grocer. He was a lively lad, fond of cigarettes and novels.

BOY KILLED AT THE JUNCTION.

He Was Caught in an Elevator and Crushed to Death.

Toronto Junction, April 29.—Wellington Lawrence, a lad 14 years of age, who lives at 37 Whitney avenue, Toronto Junction, was killed yesterday morning while working in the factory of the Canada Cycle & Motor Company. There was no one around when the accident occurred, but as he was working on the elevator it is supposed his head got caught between the elevator and the posts and he was dragged up two flights before the elevator stopped. Yesterday was the boy's first day at work. Coroner Clendenen has ordered an inquest.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Is the Only Medicine That can Promptly and Permanently Banish all Wasting and Dangerous Diseases.

It Restores Lost Health When Physicians Pronounce Your Case Incurable.

If, in spring time sick people — young and old — act with promptness, wisdom and decision, suffering, agony and misery would never be carried into the summer months.

To delay the work of banishing disease, regulating the nerves, purifying the blood, and restoring perfect digestion is a serious mistake.

When the blood is sluggish, impure and poisoned, when the nervous system is unbalanced, when digestion is deranged, and the appetite poor and variable, be assured that your condition is critical, and calls for instant attention before the summer months bring additional dangers.

At this time the use of Paine's Celery Compound will do a marvellous work for every run-down, sick and diseased man or woman.

Its life-giving work first commences with the blood, which is made clean and pure; then the nerves are quickly set in order; digestive vigour is fully restored, the appetite is made natural, sleep is refreshing and the desponding heart is made light and joyous.

It is well to bear in mind that Paine's Celery Compound owes its origin to the most distinguished physician that this American continent ever produced, and his marvellous prescription is publicly endorsed by our best and ablest physicians.

If all sufferers who have been disappointed in the past will promptly start with Paine's Celery Compound they will be astonished and delighted with the speed with which this wonderful remedy is able to call a halt to wasting and dangerous diseases. It is now making tens of thousands well and strong and fitting them to enjoy the summer months which, to the well and strong, are pleasurable and happy.

A Wrong Idea of the Nerves.

The Action of the Heart, Lungs, Stomach, Liver and Kidneys Dependent on the Nerve Force—Extraordinary Results From the use of

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

There is not a single organ of the human body that can perform its functions without a liberal supply of nerve force—the motive power of the body.

The nervous system should never be thought of as a separate part of the body. Its branches extend from the brain and the spinal column to the tips of the fingers and toes. Just as the blood is carried by the arteries to every nook and corner of the system, so the nerve force, by means of nerve fibres, is distributed, and nerve force is just as important to life as is good, rich blood.

When the nerve cells are wasted, by over-exertion, worry or disease, more rapidly than they are replaced, the action of the heart becomes slower, the lungs begin to weaken, the stomach fails to do its duty, the liver and kidneys falter in their work as filters, and the excretory organs get feeble and inactive. You may be a sufferer from weakness and exhaustion of the nerves, and may have been attributing the trouble to the stomach, kidneys or other organs. Nervous exhaustion is marked by restlessness, disturbed sleep, languid, weary feelings, headache, dyspepsia and bodily pains, inability to concentrate the thoughts, absent-mindedness, weakened memory, twisting of the muscles and eyelids, sudden startings and jerking of the limbs in sleep, dizziness, irritability and gloomy forbodings.

Through the medium of the nervous system, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food carries new life and energy to every organ of the body. It strengthens the action of the heart, invigorates the stomach, makes the kidneys, liver and bowels more active, and builds up the entire system.

If you experience any of these symptoms of nervous exhaustion, you can rely absolutely on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to cure you. It does not stimulate, but thoroughly cures, by forming new, red corpuscles in the blood and creating nerve force.

Mr. E. Rosevear, a retired school teacher of 2 Markham-place, Toronto, says:

"I am getting up in years, and, as a natural result of severe study, my health has been undermined, and my system very much run down. I got so weak and nervous, and suffered so much from dizziness, that I found it necessary to begin a treatment of some kind. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has been so highly spoken of that I decided to give it a trial, and can now speak of its merits from personal experience. It has built me up wonderfully, and strengthened and restored my nervous system."

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

The Secret

Of womanly health would be esteemed as priceless by thousands of suffering women. Each month sees them moaning in a darkened room. At the best they endure pain every day. At the worst the pain becomes torment.

The secret of womanly health is in keeping the womanly organism in a perfectly healthy state. This can be done by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It regulates the periods, dries debilitating drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Women suffering from chronic forms of disease are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential and womanly confidences are guarded by strict professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Accept no substitute for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There is nothing else "just as good" for womanly ailments.

"I suffered for more than ten years with female weakness of very bad form," writes Mrs. D. Marwood, of Treherne, Macdonald Co., Manitoba. "I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' with good results. I am able to do all my own work now. I do not know how to thank you enough for the kind advice you have sent me by letter. Your remedies did for me more than all other doctor's medicines, and I have taken lots of them."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness.

WHY STAY PALE.

A pity to see pale girls stay pale and dull when it is so easy to get Scott's Emulsion.

One of the best things Scott's Emulsion does is to give rich blood to pale girls.

The result of regular doses of Scott's Emulsion is an increase not only in the red color of the blood and in the appetite but in the good looks and bright manners which are the real charm of perfect health.

THE WORD PARADISE.

Its Earliest Meaning Was an Inclosed Pleasure Ground.

The earliest meaning of the word paradise appears to have been a walled in pleasure ground. In the Hebrew it was "perdes," in the Persian "ferdus," and from one or other of these the Greeks appear to have derived the word "paradeisos," from which we get our own word. We also know that the ancient monarchs of Chaldea and Assyria and also of Egypt constructed vast inclosures of forest land for the preservation of wild animals kept for hunting purposes, and these were also called paradises. Thus, the historical meaning of the word comes to this: A space protected from all incursion from the outer world, in which those who were privileged to enter were able to indulge in such pleasures as pleased their fancy.

It is easy to see the translation from the material to the spiritual meaning, paradise in the latter sense meaning the place of the elect or chosen. This is strikingly borne out by the fact that the favorite battlecry of the Moslems, whose firm belief it is that those who die fighting go straight to heaven, was always "Fight! Fight! Paradise! Paradise!" And the strong probability is that they got the word from the Persian campaigns of the eighth century. The use of the word in its present form in the New Testament is of Greek origin, and its description as applied to the garden of Eden is probably of Hebrew origin, dating from the period of the captivity.

A Forgotten Statesman.

Why is it that Oliver Ellsworth has received so little attention from biographers and historians? asks Frank Gaylord Cook in The Atlantic. He was not born in Massachusetts or Virginia. In Connecticut, like Pennsylvania, the historic field has been meagerly tilled. Moreover, the dramatic and opportune quality of his work has been perceived only through the perspective of subsequent years. To negotiate an unpopular convention for a party just retiring from office in defeat and ignominy is not conducive to immediate fame.

Nevertheless he has not been wholly overlooked by subsequent statesmen. Webster said of him: "For strength of reason, for sagacity, wisdom and sound good sense in the conduct of affairs, for moderation of temper and general ability, it may be doubted if New England has yet produced his superior."

What he said as chief justice of the United States to the grand jury at Savannah in 1796 was the aim of his life, "So let us rear an empire sacred to the rights of men and commend a government of reason to the nations of the earth."

Literary Coffee Topers.

The roll of literary men who have been passionately fond of that

Coffee, which makes the politician wise
And see all things through his half shut eyes, is decidedly shorter than that of the illustrious tea tipplers, although today perhaps the difference is fast disappearing. Voltaire, the king of wits and litterateurs, was the king, too, of coffee drinkers. In his old age he took fifty cups a day, which sadly hurt his digestion and hastened his death. The abstemious Balzac was fond of the same drink, stimulating himself with it from midnight, when he began his literary work, till daybreak, when, starved and self forgetful, he would find himself bareheaded and in dressing gown and slippers, in the Place du Carrousel, ignorant how he came there and miles from home.

The Angler Fish.

A fishing smack had lately a strange catch off the Eddystone lighthouse. It was an enormous specimen of that rare and curious sea monster the angler fish. It measured 4 feet 3 inches long and 3 feet 2 inches broad. The capacity of these fish for devouring large quantities of food is something marvelous, but the peculiar thing is that they change the usual order of things, for instead of the bird catching the fish, in this instance the fish catches the bird and makes a meal of him. Guillemots, seagulls and ducks have been discovered in the stomachs of these gluttons of the deep.

Authors' Temptations.

The temptation to a writer to reveal facts under the cloak of fiction is enormous, but the danger is equally great. There are few successful writers at the present day who have not been accused of "putting people in their books." To a certain class of readers there is an immense piquancy added to any character who may be suspected of being "real," and the success that an autobiographical "society novel" would achieve is too brilliant to contemplate.

Irritating Pimples and Disfiguring Blotches.

They place many young girls at a great disadvantage in life. The only cure is a blood purifier like Ferrozone. It cleanses the crimson flood of poisons and impurities, renews and strengthens it, and makes lots of red corpuscles that manifest their presence by a ruddy, healthy glow in the cheeks and lips. Ferrozone quickly masters all skin erruptions, builds up broken-down constitutions, and gives to weak, sickly women an abundance of spirits, vitality, energy and beauty. Try Ferrozone, it's all right. Price 50c. per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

A Witty Reply of Pope.

As narrated by Edward Walford in his "Greater London," Frederick, prince of Wales, sometimes visited Alexander Pope at his villa. On one occasion when the prince was on a visit Pope, after expressing the most dutiful professions of attachment, gave his royal highness an opportunity of observing very shrewdly that his (the poet's) love for princes was inconsistent with his dislike for kings, since princes may in time become kings. Said his royal highness:

"Mr. Pope, I hear you don't like princes."

"Sir, I beg your pardon."

"Well, then, you don't like kings."

"Sir, I must own that I like the lion best before his claws are grown."

No reply could well have been happier.

Wonders of the Heart.

All the blood in the human body passes through the heart in about three minutes. The heart beats 70 times a minute, 4200 times an hour, 100,800 times a day, throwing out 2 1-2 ounces of blood a second, 656 pounds an hour, 7 and 3-4 tons per day. It is only when supplied with pure, rich, blood that the heart, an organ six inches long by four inches inches wide, can accomplish this enormous amount of work, and rebuild its only wasted tissues. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most effective treatment available for heart affections because it forms new, red blood and gives to it that life-sustaining quality, which is necessary to the health of every organ.

Linseed Tea.

Linseed tea is good for colds and is easily made. Put six tablespoonfuls of linseed and a quart of water into a pan and boil it for ten minutes. Then pour it off and add to it some slices of lemon and brown sugar to taste. If the flavor of licorice is liked, an ounce of it may be added. This is a refreshing and useful drink, especially for children with feverish colds, when there is sure to be much discomfort from thirst.

Short Measure.

"What am I so mad about?" repeated the popular actress, with flashing eye. "I only got three bouquets, that's what!"

"But," said the manager, "you surely didn't expect more?"

"Of course I did. I paid for five."

In witness whereof the corporation and the company have caused their respective corporate seals to be hereunto affixed as testified by the hands of their respective proper officers in that behalf.

THE STREET RAILWAY.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—It was suggested at the Board of Trade meeting last night that the draft copy of the proposed contract of the new Street Railway company with the town, be published in the daily papers so that all the citizens might have an opportunity of seeing exactly what it is proposed to bind the town with for a long period of time. I think this was a most sensible suggestion, and it should have been done before this, and if it had been done, the Board of Trade would have had something before it that could have been discussed intelligently. I think every one will give the council every credit for wishing to do what is best for the town in dealing with the company, but I think that there are citizens outside of the town council that may be able to suggest some very valuable points if they are given an opportunity of doing so. There is one suggestion that I would like to make and that is, that a committee be appointed at once (as I understand the option only lasts for a few days) to go to the places where there are street railways operating under something of the same conditions as our own will be. I think such a committee could get information that would be most valuable to the council in dealing with the company. While we are all most anxious to see the street railway in operation, don't let us pay too dearly for it. "There are as good fish in the sea as ever were caught."

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

MR. BURNETT'S LECTURE

At the Fortnightly Club Last Night—It was Very Interesting.

There was a fair attendance at the meeting of the Fortnightly Club last night to hear Mr. D. R. Burnett's lecture on "Ether, and its Disturbing Agents." It is safe to say that a more interesting lecture has not been given before the club in some time. The chair was occupied by the President, Mr. Sheriff Hall, and the proceedings were opened by a vocal selection excellently rendered by Miss Nellie Davies.

Mr. Burnett spoke on light, visible and invisible, electro-magnetic waves used in wireless telegraphy, and Roetgen waves, etc. He gave many interesting illustrations of wireless telegraphy, showing the principles involved, also of the X Rays, which is used to-day in viewing fractures and displacements of the bones, and also in diseases of the lungs, liver, heart, etc.

The stage of the lecture hall was taken up with various kinds of instruments, that were used by Mr. Burnett to illustrate his lecture, and in manipulating these he was assisted by Dr. Brown and Mr. Hal. Burnham. The walls of the room were covered with maps and drawings of various kinds, indicating the positions of the sun, the moon, and the various planets. The distances of these from the earth were explained by the lecturer, and in fact some exceedingly interesting information was given regarding the physical and climatic conditions of the planet Mars. The many figures that were used by him and the extent to which he asked his hearers to strain their imaginative powers regarding the space of time it would take to travel from one planet to another, was amusing but nevertheless based on facts, and of an educational nature. Perhaps the most interesting portion of Mr. Burnett's lecture was his exhibition of wireless telegraphy, which was applauded most approvingly. At the conclusion of his remarks he was tendered the thanks of the meeting.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

The Director of the Manual Training Schools, Addresses Some of the Toronto Educationists.

Mr. Alfred B. Leake, of Ottawa, Director of Manual Training Schools, was in town, yesterday, and in the evening delivered an address on the merits of the system before a joint meeting of the Board of Education, the Separate School Board and the Ashburnham School Board. A number of teachers were also in attendance.

Mr. Leake in his opening remarks expressed the opinion that the term "Education" as looked upon to-day was a misnomer. It was all right as far as it went, but the confining of study to books alone was a mistake. When Manual Training was taken up the hands and eyes, which were at present neglected, received the attention which was due them with the result that additional faculties were developed and the calling in life to which a child was more particularly adapted could be determined far more easily. The system was taken up in the form of more advanced kindergarten work, the pupils graduating from the cardboard work to actual models and studying together through the public school course. On entering Collegiate Institute, the girls took up Domestic Science and the boys advanced Manual Training.

The introduction of the system into the schools had the tendency, the speaker pointed out, to elevate labour, and the pupils who took the course afterwards looked upon the artizans in a far different light. The skilfulness of the German artisans was a tribute to the efficacy of Manual Training which had its inception in Germany. The system was now in vogue in England, Ireland and Scotland, as well as in the United States. A Royal Commission, after carefully looking into the matter, had recommended the system for Ireland.

At the conclusion of Mr. Leake's address he was tendered a vote of thanks on motion of Mr. J. J. Hartley and Rev. Father McColl.

A committee composed of representatives from the different Boards will visit a number of towns, in the near future, for the purpose of getting an insight into the methods employed.

DOUBLE PRESENTATION.

Mr. J. Jeffries and Mr. Sheriff Hall Remembered.

At the final meeting for this year of Mr. Jeffries' Reading Circle, held at the residence of Mr. T. W. Robinson, George street, on Monday, the leader and Sheriff Hall, viceleader, were presented by the members with handsomely-bound copies of Oliphant's "Makers of Florence and Makers of Venice," and Carlyle's "French Revolution," respectively. This circle has just closed its third year, with a larger and more enthusiastic membership than ever before. Though organized in connection with the N.H.R.U., and remaining in close touch and sympathy with it, it has followed a course of reading quite independent of that prescribed by the Union. This year it has confined itself to the works of Lord Tennyson. The meetings are held bi-weekly at the homes represented by the membership. An hour is spent in animated, helpful discussion of the work in hand, followed by a social half hour or so. An interesting and profitable programme of study is already being mapped out for 1902-3, and a good year is expected. The members are:—Miss L. Davidson, the Misses Morrow, Miss L. Fitzgerald, the Misses Erskine, Miss S. Robinson, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Jeffries, Miss Drummond, Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. T. F. Matthews, Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, the Misses Perry, Miss Fife, Sheriff Hall and Mr. Jeffries. Miss A. Erskine is secretary.

CAPT. H. A. MORROW

Formerly of Town, and now of the Charlottetown Engineers.

The Charlottetown Daily Patriot has the following to say concerning Captain Harold Morrow, formerly of town;

Captain H. A. Morrow is transferred from the reserve of officers to be captain of the Charlottetown Engineers, vice J. Harvey Morris, retired. Captain Morrow, who is on the Engineering staff of the Hillsborough Bridge Construction, is a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston, and was a contemporary of Rev. Leo Williams in that institution. He was an adjutant of the Peterborough Rangers, 57th Regt., for a number of years and was a zealous and capable officer. Lieut. Richards is at present taking a course in mining engineering at McGill, and will spend the summer with his class among the mines of Cape Breton, hence his retirement from military duties. Messrs. Drake and Sprague are well known in this city where they will receive congratulations from many friends on their well merited promotion.

Paddy Donoghue.

Lindsay Post. — Considerable excitement was aroused yesterday afternoon when it became known that the body of Paddy Donoghue, who disappeared mysteriously on March 3rd, had been found alongside a crib of logs near the Kennedy & Davis Co's mill. The news soon spread about town and a large number of citizens gathered at the river bank to see the body taken out of the water.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1902.

BLOWING HOT AND COLD.

Mr. Fraser, the Whitney candidate, in West Kent, has made the taxation of railway corporations a plank in his platform. This is all very well, but Mr. Fraser is the candidate of the Opposition, pledged to support the general policy of Mr. Whitney, the leader. Now, Mr. Whitney is such a friend of corporations, that he declares that, if returned to power, he will repeal the Act passed by the Liberal Government, imposing a tax upon fifteen different kinds of corporations.

How can Mr. Fraser consistently come out as an advocate of taxing railway corporations, when he is pledged to support his leader, who seeks power on the plea that he will remove the tax from corporations, a similar tax to that Mr. Fraser wants to impose?

He advocates a measure whose principle his leader is pledged to oppose. A representative, aside from his personal qualifications, should be elected on account of the policy of his leader. Mr. Fraser's leader is opposed to the tax on corporations, and if Mr. Fraser is elected, he will either have to support his leader's policy, or stand alone, or throw in his lot with the party that favours his platform.

Mr. Fraser of West Kent, is very much like Mr. Miller of West Peterborough, and Dr. Ford, of East Peterborough. These two make prohibition and temperance reform the chief plank in their platform. Yet they are pledged to support to the hilt a leader who declares himself opposed to prohibition and temperance reform. Consistent, is it not?

Mr. Miller and Dr. Ford, if by some miracle they are elected, will have to support their leader's policy, or stand by themselves, in the House, representative nonentities.

Nothing can be more absurd and illogical than the stand of these two gentlemen. They appeal to the electors, as, at the same time, advocates of prohibition, and as pledged thick-and-thin supporters of the policy of a leader who is the most bitter foe of the special plea upon which they seek the votes of the people.

THE OPPOSITION PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

It did not require the resolution passed by the South Brant Conservative Association at their meeting on Saturday to indicate the plan of campaign which Mr. Whitney and his supporters intend pursuing in the pending provincial election contest. So far as it is possible to do so, the eyes of the electorate are to be kept closed to the policyless character of Mr. Whitney and to the wonderful record of the Ross Government since it came into office, while there is to be an everlasting shout of "West Elgin!" and "North Waterloo!" in the hope that the really essential issues of the campaign may be forgotten or overlooked.

The idea of calling upon the clergymen to come to the help of the spotless Conservative party in its efforts to secure purity of elections is a good one, and it might be successful only that the clergy are educated men and keen observers of passing events.

A long list of cases might be mentioned of systematic frauds perpetrated by the Conservative party in election contests, cases in which deliberate efforts were made to thwart the will of the people. Take a few illustrations:

In the North Ontario election of 1896, 21 ballots for Graham (Liberal) were abstracted from the ballot box and 21 substituted for Major McGillivray, the Conservative, who sat in the House for a time as a result of the fraud.

In a South Grey election seven ballot boxes were opened up after the election and envelopes containing the Landerkin ballots taken out, 26 of them abstracted, and 26 forged ballots for Mr. Blyth, the Tory candidate, substituted.

In a West Northumberland election a deputy returning officer, while the ballots were in his custody, took them out of the box and put them in his safe, and while there they were tampered with, some being stolen and forgeries substituted.

In a South Wentworth election the Liberal candidate was the choice of a majority of the voters, but was left at home by 15 good ballots marked for him being conveniently stowed away in the envelopes for spoiled ballots.

In a Chateauguay election the Liberal candidate had a good majority of 275 whittled down to 9 by similar fraudulent practices.

In the Dominion elections of 1896, conducted under Conservative auspices, in 24 constituencies selected there were 3,058 spoiled ballots, as against 541 in the election of 1891. The circular of instructions given to the man Freeborn, a Conservative party heeler, by a man who told him they were given to him by the Conservative organizer in Toronto, throws a flood of light on the system which was being worked. Indeed, it would appear that there were schools of instruction in fraud and up-to-date fraudulent devices in full operation in the Conservative organization.

The following is the Conservative circular:

"We have the printing of the ballots, therefore a sufficient number should be printed extra to enable the deputy returning officer to have them marked for our candidate and ready to use after the count to replace those read out wrongly to the scrutineers. Or the deputy returning officer can have them marked and folded in his pocket, to slip into the box in place of an opposition ballot if the opportunity happens. This of course will occur quite frequently if we have control of both scrutineers.

"To get control of both scrutineers have one of our men, not a prominent one, but a supposed kicker, apply to the opposition to be put on as a scrutineer inside. They are generally short of workers, and a few plausible men will turn the election in a close constituency. Or the man can write to their headquarters for scrutineer papers if he lives in the country.

"Efforts should be made to make these methods work in wards that give the heaviest opposition vote.

"Having control of both scrutineers a large vote can be polled—dead and absent voters, etc., can have their ballots marked. There is no redress — if both scrutineers were present.

"A friendly constable should be present to keep the poll clear of loungers and inquisitive people.

"The deputy returning officer should be a reliable, sharp and plausible man, so that if we do not get control of the opposition scrutineer, he can, when the counting time arrives, ask both scrutineers to take a piece of paper and record the vote of their candidate as he reads the ballots, which have been emptied on the table. He will then have a chance to read out wrongly, so that a majority can be secured for our candidate. The ballots should be put back into the box as quickly as they are read. The extra ballots will do to fix things correctly when he goes home.

"Spoiled ballots can be made sure by a little doctoring. Opposition ballots can be spoiled by the lead out of a lead pencil fastened under the little finger with beeswax drawn across our candidate's name, in opening the ballot.

"If you cannot get control of opposition scrutineers have your deputy returning officer announce that he is against you, so as to lead them astray if possible."

Is there any room for surprise that as the result there should have been so many spoiled ballots in the 1896 election? The people of this country will never know what was the real verdict of the people in that celebrated contest.

Mr. Whitney has been very severe in the House, and upon many platforms, on bribers who happened to be Liberals, but he cannot cite any speech of his in which he condemned the action of Mr. Smith, a Conservative ex-M.P., in South Ontario, who, at the trial of an election petition, admitted under oath that he had distributed at least $1,200 for bribery, whose evidence, Judge Ferguson said, was "the most brazen piece of corruption he ever heard."

If the Conservatives of South Brant desire Christian ministers to speak in condemnation of all such practices as we have above referred to, we hope very soon to hear from them.

The Expositor has no excuse to make for the ballot-tampering which occurred in West Elgin and North Waterloo, but it cannot let the idea go abroad that these are the only constituencies in which such wrongs have been perpetrated, or that Reformers have alone been guilty.

Furthermore, we claim for the Reform party that from it have emanated almost all the laws to secure purity of elections to be found on the statute books, that since 1871 there have been over 900 returning officers and over 55,000 election officials appointed by it, and that in only two or three cases have these officials been shown to have violated their trust; that although members of both parties have frequently been reported for corrupt practices in the past, the Ross Government has been the first to institute prosecutions against political friend and foe alike, and that as a result some 30 persons have been fined upward of $7,500. Also, that no tittle of evidence has been produced to connect any Minister of the Crown or any leading member of the Reform party, with any of the irregularities of which complaint made.

There are only two constituencies regarding which any definite charge has been made of ballots having been tampered with, viz., West Elgin and North Waterloo. In West Elgin the judicial commission appointed to investigate the charges reported that in 32 out of the 38 polling subdivisions no irregularities existed, and that in these the irregularities were not of a character to affect the result of the election. They also reported that the examination of the ballots made at Osgoode Hall did not show that they differed materially from the statements made at the close of the polls, signed, in most cases, by the agents of both political parties. As to Pritchett, who swore that he had "miscalled" 18 or 20 ballots, they reported that his evidence was utterly unreliable, as the investigation at Osgoode Hall showed a difference of only three between the returns made by him and the ballots found in the box. It cannot be said, therefore, that the Opposition lost the seat for West Elgin through fraud, while it is quite clear that but for the irregularities which were committed by misguided Reformers that constituency would have returned a supporter of the Government to the House. With reference to the election in North Waterloo, where there was a Reform majority of 110, only 25 ballots were called into question. It was admitted that somebody had miscounted ballots to this extent. Two men were placed on trial, and were acquitted, and it could not be argued that undue favour was shown them, because the County Crown Attorney and the prosecutor were friends of the Opposition and not of the Government.

It will thus be seen that statements made to the effect that the Opposition lost seats by ballots being changed after they were cast cannot be established—indeed, is quite foundationless.

So much for the charges of wholesale corruption which have been levelled at the Liberal Government of this province. The facts are bad enough, but they are not nearly so bad as has been represented, and they do not show anything like the same measure of political chicanery as that of which the Conservative party has been convicted. Since these occurrences more stringent laws have been enacted, and we are satisfied that a public conscience has been created which will make impossible a repetition of these offences.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In these days a young man can pay eloquent tribute to the value of his girl by assuring her that she is "worth her weight in—beef."

The Mail is trying to make the people believe that the Liberal Government, under the leadership of Sir Oliver Mowat, tried to rob this Province of the territory now known as New Ontario. The Mail will be trying next to persuade the people that the moon is simply a cold storage station composed of green cheese.

When a man boasts of his honesty, get buttons on your pockets. When Mr. Whitney denounces electoral corruption on the part of his opponents, and condones or fail to condemn corruption on the part of his own party, it is reasonable to look out for some sharp game being put up during the coming elections. The man who shouts "stop thief" the loudest has been known to be the acquisitive gentleman himself.

Though the receipts of the Intercolonial Railway have increased two millions since 1896 the expenditure has also largely increased, and the shortage of last year's operations is $488,000. This is caused by the increase in the price of fuel and the increase of wages to employees. It is just like a Liberal Government to look after the working men's interests even if the balance is thereby made a little short.

The Catholic Register, Toronto, says that if people infirm from old age and senile are confined in Toronto jail, it is a disgrace to the municipality, which has done nothing to provide for them. The Register adds:

"Everyone recognizes the zeal and industry of Mr. Stratton in increasing the efficiency of all the public institutions of the province, and what is needed is that his hands should be strengthened so that adequate provision be made in the nearest possible future for the pauper lunatic and other dependent poor creatures, through age and idiocy, either by reform of the law or by largely increased expenditures of money upon such institutions as are provided by the law in its present state."

I Will Cure You of Rheumatism
No pay until you know it.

After 2,000 experiments, I have learned how to cure Rheumatism. Not to turn bony joints into flesh again; that is impossible. But I can cure the disease always, at any stage, and forever.

I ask for no money. Simply write me a postal and I will send you an order on your nearest druggist for six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, for every druggist keeps it. Use it for a month, and if it does what I claim, pay your druggist $5.50 for it. If it doesn't, I will pay him myself.

I have no samples. Any medicine that can effect Rheumatism with but a few doses must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs. It is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that, even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. No matter how impossible this seems to you, I know it and I take the risk. I have cured tens of thousands of cases in this way, and my records show that 99 out of every 100 who get those six bottles pay, and pay gladly. I have learned that people in general are honest with a physician who cures them. That is all I ask. If I fail I don't expect a penny from you.

Simply write me a postal card or letter. Let me send you an order for the medicine. Take it for a month, for it won't harm you anyway. If it cures, pay $5.50. I leave that entirely to you. I will mail you a book that tells how I do it.

Simply state name of your dealer, and address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

ROBERT MURRAY KILLED.

Bad Accident on the G.T.R. at Hamilton —Mr. McGuigan's special Runs Into the Port Dover Mixed.

Hamilton, April 30.—One of the worst railroad accidents that has occurred in this vicinity for years happened last evening on the G.T.R. at the Northern and Northwestern Junction. It happened about 8.30. The mixed train from Port Dover was turning on to the main line, on its way to the Stuart street depot, when a special train, bearing F. H. McGuigan, general superintendent of the road; George Jones, superintendent of the Middle Division, and other officials, who were returning from Niagara Falls, dashed into it. The fast special's big Mogul engine struck the baggage car and tossed it and the two passenger coaches following against the bank. These cars were badly wrecked. The locomotive of the special held the rails, but the baggage car and a passenger coach left the track, and were considerably damaged.

Robert Murray, baggageman on the Port Dover train, was killed. His body was under the car, and up to midnight it had not been gotten out.

The Buffalo-Toronto express followed the special, and was unable to get through. General Agent Wallace soon had a train ready, and passengers were transferred and sent on to their destination with less than 30 minutes' delay. Several of the passengers were injured slightly.

The work of clearing away the wreck was personally directed by Superintendents McGuigan and Jones, and a force of 50 men was at work at midnight. It was expected that the line would be open at 3 a.m. It is possible that others beside Murray are in the wreck.

The loss to rolling stock will amount to about $40,000.

Murray is about 37 years of age, and resided on Wellington street, near Barton. He leaves a widow and three children.

Coroner White visited the scene of the accident at 9.30, and gave the police instructions to remove the body of Murray to the morgue as soon as it is taken out of the wreck. He will open an inquest to-day.

A Great Sufferer Cured

Mr. Benjamin Dillon, of Leeds, Ont., was cured of Muscular Rheumatism by Polson's Nerviline, and says: "I feel my duty is to proclaim Polson's Nerviline as an infallible cure for Rheumatism; it cured me after 30 years suffering, and nothing I know of can equal its penetrating power. Nerviline simply has no equal in quickly relieving and curing Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, and Lumbago. A trial will convince anyone. Price 25c.

CONTRACT IS SIGNED.

The Ross Rifle Co. Will Make Arms For Canada.

Ottawa, April 30.—The contract was signed Monday between the Government and the Ross Rifle Company for the manufacture in Canada of Ross rifles for the Government. As the Minister announces in his statement, the factory is to be situated in Quebec. Between 200 and 300 hands are to be employed at the outset, although it is estimated that in a very short time the number of employes will be fully 1,000. The contract calls for the manufacture of 12,000, but Sir Charles Ross binds himself to supply the Government with all the arms required.

In This Locality

The medicine dealers in this place say that there is no preparation on the market to-day that has anything like such an enormous sale as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Would this extraordinary demand for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills continue and gradually increase if people were not being benefitted and cured by their use? Certainly not. One pill a dose; 25c a box.

The total number of persons entitled to vote on the referendum, as closely as can be estimated, was 70,902.

RAILWAY DISPUTES

Hon. Mr. Mulock's Bill to Settle Labor Differences.

COMPULSORY ARBITRATION.

Provincial and Dominion Boards Proposed—Lock-Outs and Strikes Will Be Illegal After the Passage of the Act—The Admission of Undesirable Immigrants—Mr. Clergue's Steel Rail Contract.

Ottawa, April 30.—Mr. Mulock yesterday afternoon introduced his bill for the settlement of railway disputes, and explained its provisions. In supply, the estimates on capital account on the Government railway were considered, and the contract with the Clergue Company for supplying steel rails was again the subject of criticism. Mr. Barker moved an amendment to reduce the item for steel rails and fastenings for the Intercolonial Railway from $600,000 to $200,000, not for the purpose of reducing the expenditure for that work, but in order that the amount struck off would be charged against working expenses, and incidentally increase the deficit or reduce the surplus as the case might be. The amendment was defeated.

The Finance Minister has given notice of a resolution empowering him to borrow the sum of $15,000,000 to pay the floating indebtedness of the Dominion, and to meet current financial requirements.

The correspondence between the Government, the City of Quebec, and the loyalist associations of Ontario, in reference to the proposal to erect a monument at Quebec to the memory of the American General Montgomery, was tabled in the House yesterday as a return. It appears from the record that the loyalist associations having protested against the proposal of certain United States citizens, chiefly on the ground that Montgomery's position in 1775 was that of a rebel, the City Council of Quebec took action on March 7 last, and passed a resolution rescinding the permission previously given to the United States proposed Sons of the Revolution to erect the monument.

Railway Labor Disputes.

Mr. Mulock introduced a bill for the settlement of railway labor disputes. The measure applies to all steam and electric railways, including the Intercolonial Railway. The bill makes strikes and lock-outs illegal and punishable, and provides for compulsory arbitration. The conciliation boards are provincial and Dominion.

Provincial boards will deal with the railways situated in each province, and the Dominion board will deal with those railways operating in more than one province. It provides for seven provincial boards, each consisting of three members. One member is to be chosen by the railway company, one by the employes and the third by the other two members. If they do not agree, by the Governor-in-Council.

The Dominion board is to be composed of five members, two elected by the seven representatives of the railway owners on the provincial boards; two by the seven employes, representatives on the provincial boards, and the fifth by the other four or by the Governor-in-Council. Each board is to have a permanent secretary.

The measure provides the machinery for the election of members of the provincial boards. The railway owners in the province vote at Ottawa, each company having as many votes as the number of its employes. There will be at Ottawa an officer to be called the registrar, whose duty it will be from time to time to prepare the election registers. For the second class of arbitrators, each employe has one vote. The elections are to be held every three years, that being the length of time which each member of the board may sit.

Mr. Mulock further explained that the bill would not be passed this year. He desired to make the country familiar with its provisions, and to receive suggestions from all parties interested. Next year the measure would be reintroduced and passed to a conclusion with such amendments and alterations as may be found necessary.

Third Readings.

The Unorganized Territories Game Preservation Act and the Dominion Lands Act Amendment Bill were read a third time and passed, as was also the bill to extend the area of Banff National Park.

The bill giving the Yukon a representative in the House of Commons had a clause added to it in committee providing that the election shall be held on or before Jan. 1, 1903. The bill will be further considered before the third reading. The bill to amend the civil service retirement act was read a third time and passed.

The Immigration Bill.

The House went into committee on Mr. Sifton's bill to amend the Immigration Act by enabling the Government by proclamation to prohibit the landing of diseased immigrants.

Mr. Sifton moved an amendment to give the Government power to allow sick immigrants to land for a period of medical treatment.

Mr. Wilson (Conservative, Lennox) advocated a mutual arrangement between Canada and the United States to keep out undesirable immigrants.

Mr. McCreary (Liberal, Selkirk), suggested that the Government take power to deport insane or diseased immigrants within a year after arrival, deportation to be at the expense of the transportation company.

W. F. Maclean read to the House a communication of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council, protesting against the appropriation of $445,000 this year and the expenditure of $2,400,000 in the past ten years, on assisted immigration.

Mr. Oliver (Liberal, Alberta) observed that disease was only a minor and trifling consideration in comparison to the general character of the immigrants. The Chinamen, the Japanese, the Russians might be all very well in their way, but as they were not the class to assist in our national development their presence was a hindrance, and not a help. He dwelt upon the menace to Canada's future of filling up the west with undesirable classes of immigrants. What Canada needed was larger immigration from the Mother Country.

Mr. Clarke quoted from several sources of information to show that Canada was being made the dumping ground for emigrants rejected by the United States inspectors. He deprecated the presence in Canada of 40 of these inspectors.

The Minister of the Interior wholly disagreed with the representations of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council, for it was the mechanics of Ontario who were benefitting most from the immigration into the west, he held, as would be shown by the fact that the bulk of orders received in Ontario for manufactured products was from Manitoba and the Northwest. Mr. Sifton disputed the accuracy of their statements, and added that the labor organizations had failed to give him any proof to substantiate their assertions.

Mr. Sifton made a general defence of the immigration policy of the Government. He denied that Canadian agents encouraged immigrants from Italy.

The bill as amended was reported, and stands for a third reading.

The Intercolonial.

The House went into supply on the Intercolonial estimates.

On the item of $1,975,000 for purchase of steel rails for the Intercolonial, Mr. Blair said Mr. Clergue had not delivered any rails under his contract of last year, but his contract had not been cancelled.

In reply to Mr. Osler, he said that 15,000 tons had been purchased this year in England at about $25.50 per ton. Had Mr. Clergue supplied them the cost would have been $32.60 per ton.

Mr. Osler observed that on this 15,000 tons, the country had evidently saved $7 a ton, or $105,000 altogether.

Mr. Blair admitted this was the fact. He agreed that this 15,000 tons would be taken out of the 25,000 tons Mr. Clergue was to supply this year, leaving him 10,000 to supply.

After some further discussion, the item went through, as did also the balance of the items for the I.C.R., with the exception of the Prince Edward Island Railway vote, which was held over for discussion.

The House adjourned at 1 o'clock a.m.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

The Reformers of East Hamilton nominated Dr. H. S. Griffin unanimously on Tuesday. He will oppose Henry Carscallen.

James A. Clapp, Liberal candidate for the County of Prince Edward, has been compelled to resign, owing to ill health. At the present time he is in a very critical condition.

At Milton Tuesday the Conservatives nominated Dr. Nixon, Reeve of Georgetown, to contest the riding. Lieut.-Col. Kerns moved the nomination and J. C. Ford seconded it.

Bad Wreck at Cayuga.

Cayuga, April 30.—A bad wreck occurred at 10.01 o'clock yesterday morning on the Grand River bridge on the Michigan Central Railway. While crossing the bridge some cars of a freight train, east bound, jumped the track and went down 50 feet. The train was in charge of Conductor J. W. Smith, engine 419, Engineer Edward Wilson. The train consisted of 41 loaded cars. The ten head cars and the locomotive got across the bridge and are safe at Edward's Station. The nine hind cars and the way car can be pulled back off the bridge. Twelve cars are badly broken and hanging over the bridge.

The balance of the train, consisting of ten cars, is in the river.

The bridge is badly damaged and the telegraph wires are down. The west bound track on the bridge is blocked, and the east bound track is badly damaged. The cars were mostly loaded with hay and oats. No one was injured through the accident. The cause of the wreck is unknown. The auxiliaries from St. Thomas and Montrose were sent for, and Supt. Morford and Asst. Supt. Kinnear arrived here on No. 32, M.C.R. express. Traffic will be delayed for some time.

British Columbia Budget.

Victoria, B. C., April 30.—The budget speech was delivered Monday by Hon. J. D. Prentice, Finance Minister. Although there is an overdraft of $1,600,000 the Minister showed the province to be in good shape financially. He proposes to borrow $3,000,000 to retire matured debentures. The principal items in the estimates are appropriations for public works. There was an estimated deficit of several hundred thousand dollars.

Beneficial Rain in India.

London, April 30.—The Viceroy of India, Lord Curzon of Kedleston, telegraphs that heavy beneficial rains have fallen in Bengal and the Assam, and that there have been local showers in Burma and parts of Madras. The prices of grain are generally stationary.

Arrested For Wife Murder.

Winnipeg, April 30.—Gustav Mueller was arrested here last night for the murder of his wife, Elizabeth, on the night of Feb. 4, last. It is alleged that he carried the body to the C.P.R. yards here, and placed it on the track, thinking that after it was struck by an engine, which it was, there would be no suspicion of murder. At the coroner's inquest, Mueller gave his evidence in the coldest manner possible. He maintained his innocence, though he was seen in the C.P.R. yards 15 minutes after the body was found on the tracks.

J. S. Clark Arrested.

Niagara Falls, April 30.—Monday day afternoon, John S. Clark, the negro who discovered the diverted wires, at the tunnel, was taken into custody by Detective W. Mains, as it was suspected that he might be connected in the supposed plot to blow up the tunnel.

DRUGS COULDN'T CURE HIM.

James Stevens, Gardner in the Employ of John H. Dunlop, Esq., the Well-Known Florist of Toronto Cured by a new Method.

Suffered 20 Years With a Running Sore —Cured a Year ago and has Since had no Return of This Disorder.

The science of curing has advanced very rapidly lately. With the discovery of the germ theory as a cause of disease, means have been sought to combat these terrible parasites other than the ordinary drug methods which were found ineffectual. Antiseptics came into vogue, but the usual antiseptics were so powerfully injurious to the ordinary tissues of the body that they couldn't be taken internally, consequently their use was strictly limited. Medical science decided that

JAMES STEVENS, Toronto.

Nature herself could vanquish these poisonous germs, as she had always done, and consequently scientific investigation sought to make use of that element which assisted Nature to rid the body of germs and attending disease.

Oxygen or Ozone was found to be the proper element. Since its discovery, medical science has been adopting this element in a great many ways; the most effective and by far the most economical way is as it is used in Powley's Liquified Ozone. At last the unsatisfactory drug methods are being done away with. In Powley's Liquified Ozone a curative agency has been discovered which produces permanent beneficial results.

James Stevens, of 1218 Bloor street, West, was cured of a running sore on his leg which he had had for over 30 years. The condition of the sore was exceedingly bad. It was discharging matter constantly; many times would the pus run into my boots. People who saw it declared that it would be impossible to ever heal it. We published a statement from him that we received a year ago. This statement was corroborated by John H. Dunlop, Esq., the well-known florist of this city, in whose employ Mr. Stevens has been for several years. Now we publish a statement lately received from Mr. Stevens, which speaks eloquently for the permanent character of his cure.

February 28, 1902.

The Ozone Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

My Dear Sirs, — You have asked me if the Eczema on my leg, which I gave you a testimonial of as being cured a year ago, has appeared again. I am glad to state to you that I have had no appearance of the trouble during the past year. Your excellent preparation, which cured me of the awful torturing disease I had for over thirty years, did the work so well that the disease has not appeared since.

I am also pleased to state to you that my general health has been splendid since, showing what a good blood builder you have in Powley's Liquified Ozone.

You have my best wishes for success with your grand remedy. (Signed) James Stevens, 112 Bloor street west, or J. H. Dunlop's Greenhouses, with John H. Dunlop, Florist, Lansdowne avenue and Bloor street.

MR. STEVENS' FORMER STATEMENT.

The Ozone Co., Toronto:

Dear Sirs,—Having under Divine Providence, by the use of your Ozone been cured of a bad leg, that has baffled the skill of the best medical men in three hospitals and one infirmary, beside local skill both in England and here; after thirty-five years of less or more suffering, the last two of which have been the worst in my experience, having through constant discharge brought me very low, and suffering from weakness of the heart's action, which it has apparently cured. I feel it my duty and privilege to return thanks to the great author of all means and to you, sirs, whom he has used as my benefactor, after having passed the age of three score and ten, am now almost to youthful vigour, which I owe to your remedy, Ozone. I have in the past spent fabulous sums on various advertised cures to no purpose, but too often put myself to pain without profit after making it the worse for their use. I, therefore, return you my heartfelt thanks, and pray your life may be prolonged for many years, and that thousands of suffering humanity may be blest as have been, which I feel sure they will by patient perseverance according to your directions. For confirmation of this statement I may be seen at any time in the day in my employment under the, to me, great and good Dunlop, Esq., Florist, Lansdowne ave., north of Bloor, or at my home at night, 1218 Bloor street, west. Yours truly,

(Signed) JAMES STEVENS,
1218 Bloor street, west, Toronto.

MR. JOHN H. DUNLOP'S LETTER.

Dec. 7, 1900.

To the Ozone Co., Ltd., Toronto:

Gents.,—I can cheerfully endorse all that is contained in the testimonial furnished by James Stevens, who has been in my employ since May, 1898.

He is a faithful employee and would not exaggerate any statement he might make. I can also say that the sores on his leg (by the way, the worst I ever looked at) are completely healed. He has told me on several occasions that he never expected to have them healed, so many attempts having been made and remedies used without avail, and that he expected to have to bandage and use remedies until his death.

I consider it a wonderful cure, all the more so, from the fact of his advanced age and length of time it has been standing.

Very truly yours, Jno. H. Dunlop,
644 Lansdowne Ave.

The great value of Powley's Liquified Ozone in curing blood and skin diseases is due to its blood-purifying and disinfecting action. By increasing the oxygen-carrying power of the blood the tissues of the body are restored, the skin given back its natural freshness and transparency. Druggists everywhere report an enormous sale of Powley's Liquified Ozone and they state further that they hear the very best possible results from its use.

Made a Difference.

A PRESENTATION.

Miss Meharry Remembered by the Staff of the South Central School.

A very pleasing incident occurred in the South Central School this afternoon, when the members of the staff, together with two of the recent members, presented Miss Meharry with a handsome silver tray.

Miss Meharry has been a member of the South Central school for almost five years, and during that time her amiable disposition has won for her the golden opinions of her fellow teachers. Now as Miss Meharry severs her connection with the school, her associate teachers felt that they must make some expression of their respect and affection.

The young lady at the close of the school, was lured into the "Private Room," and the presentation made in the presence of the assembled staff by Mr. H. A. Yenny, principal, and Mr. Sorsoleil.

Miss Meharry made a suitable reply, and after the extension of felicitations on the part of the teachers, the gathering dispersed carrying with them pleasant recollections of the little scene, and the years of association with Miss Meharry.

This is the third teacher gone from the South School staff within a year, and we expect new aspirants for appointments to insist on positions in that school.

PERSONALS.

His Honour Judge Weller and Mr. H. LeBrun leave this evening for Preston Springs.

Miss Olive Bradburn has been home from the Oshawa Ladies' College for the last few days.

Mr. B. O. Britton, of the Gananoque Reporter, and Mrs. Britton, are visiting friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartshorne have returned from New York and are again occupying their summer cottage at Chemong.

Mr. R. A. Dutton left last night for Montreal where he will attend the sale of merchandise of the steamer Jacona, which arrives with over 63,000 boxes of lemons and oranges from Italy.

Mr. John Armour has received a letter from his son, William, who has been with the Canadian Scouts in South Africa, stating he is on his way home and will be a member of the contingent to go to the coronation.

Miss Josephine Hopkins, Park street, left yesterday for Toronto, where she will enter the Toronto General Hospital Training School for Nurses. Miss Hopkins was a valued member of All Saint's choir, where she will be greatly missed. Her friends wish her success.

Mr. Dick Simons, son of Mr. P. Simons, returned to town last evening, after having spent the winter with the Bennet and Moulton Company, with which he has been identified for three years. The season was closed at Atlantic City. Dick looks prosperous and is evidently working up to the top of the ladder in his profession.

M. J. Galvin and his mother left Monday for Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., where they will remain during the hot weather. Mr. Fred Garden has taken charge of the local branch of the International Correspondence Employment Association during Mr. Galvin's absence on a visit to the head office. DIED

THOMPSON — In Peterborough, on Tuesday, April 29th, 1902, Elias Thompson, at the age of 67 years.

Funeral from his residence, 891 Water street.

ROSEBOROUGH — At Smith, on Monday, April 28, 1902, William S. Roseborough, aged 51 years.

OBITUARY.

The Late Mrs. Richard Sheehy.

The Examiner records with deep regret the death of Mrs. Richard Sheehy, which sad event took place at the family residence, 43 Lake street, this morning at 9 o'clock. Mrs. Sheehy had reached the venerable age of eighty years and her death was the result of a brief illness due chiefly to the infirmities of advanced years. For the past three of four days she has been lying in a comatose state, and at the last she passed so painlessly and peacefully away that the time could hardly be perceived when the old life ceased and the new life began.

Mrs. Sheehy was a native of Tipperary County, Ireland, and came to Canada nearly 40 years ago with her late husband and a family of nine children, and took residence in Peterborough where she has since lived an honoured and respected member of the community.

In all the duties of her position she was faithful. As a wife and mother she was affectionate and devoted and deserved the title of a real home-maker in the widest use of that term. As a neighbour and friend the warmth of her Irish nature and the kind impulses of her heart found expression in many thoughtful ways, and she passes away full of years and honour, respected by a very wide circle of friends. Even the children of the neighbourhood where she lived idolised her. When she came abroad, as soon as they saw approach, her figure crowned with its aureole of snowy hair, they would flock around her, attracted through the intuitive perception by childhood of the bosom in which a kind heart beats.

The closing days of her life were cheered by the reflection that she was spared to see the fruits of her training—to see all her children grown up and settled in life prosperous and respected. At the last moment they all were at her bedside except one son, William, resident in Nevada.

Mrs. Sheehy's surviving children are, the sons, William of Nevada; Richard, of Peterborough, and James J., of Chicago; the daughters are, Mrs. Flynn, of Boston; Mrs. John Corkery, Mrs. M. O'Brien and Miss Mary Sheehy, of Peterborough.

The funeral takes place on Friday at 9 o'clock from the family residence, 43 Lake street, to St. Peter's Cathedral.

LAID AT REST.

Funeral of the Late Mr. George H. Noble, Yesterday.

The funeral of the late George H. Noble took place yesterday afternoon from the family residence, Simcoe street, to Little Lake Cemetery. The funeral was conducted under Masonic auspices, the deceased being a member of Peterborough Lodge, A. F. and A. M. Rev. D. O. Crossley, of Charlotte street Methodist church, officiated and the paul-bearers were Very Wor. Bro. H. C. Winch, Wor. Bro. Burett, Wor. Bro. Martin, Right Wor. Bro. Gibson, Wor. Bro. Menzies and Wor. Bro. Carmichael. The Masonic service at the house was conducted by Wor. Bro. Stocker and Wor. Bro. Greer, and at the grave by Wor. Bro. Rossel.

The death of Mr. Noble removes from our midst a prominent and much respected citizen. His demise came as a great shock to his family and friends. He underwent an operation quite successfully and to all appearances was progressing favourably. He saw friends on Sunday afternoon and had been conversing with them when he suddenly expired. Heart failure or some complication of that organ was the cause of death.

A SOCIAL EVENING

At the Epworth League of George Street Methodist Church Monday Night.

A very enjoyable social evening was spent by the members of the George street Epworth League on Monday night being the last of a series of such evenings for the year just closing. A short paper entitled "Lazy Leaguers not Wanted," was read by Miss M. Detcher, after which a quartette, "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," was nicely sung by the Misses Grey and Messrs. Maguire and Doidge. The newly elected president, Mr. Robertson, was called on for a short speech, and Miss Metheral and Mr. Doidge were heard in the duet, "What are the Wild Waves Saying."

After a nicely given recitation by Miss Hazel Pentland, a number of impromptu speeches by Messrs. Warne, Doidge, Galley, Maguire and Pearson, created a great deal of amusement. A short address by the pastor, Mr. Wilson, another selection by the quartette, and a vocal solo by Mrs. Daly, given in her usual pleasing manner, completed this part of the programme. Refreshments were served by the members of the committee and a pleasant half hour was spent.

The League is just entering upon another year's work and extends a very cordial invitation to all the young people of the church and congregation, not now members, to join them.

FORCED TO BOYCOTT

London Express News About Canadian Pacific Railway.

BEAVER LINE IS THE VICTIM

The Canadian Railway Forced to Yield to the Shipping Combine Says the Express—A Question of Carrying Emigrants — The Threat That Is Said to Have Done the Work.

London, April 30.—The Daily Express asserts positively that the shipping combine has forced the Canadian Pacific Railroad to boycott the Beaver Line of steamers by the threat that if the Canadian Pacific Railroad failed to comply with the combine's demand no emigrant carried on any ship under the control of the combine would be allowed to travel over the Canadian Pacific road. At a hurried meeting of the directors of the Canadian Pacific, continues The Daily Express, it was declared that it would be useless to fight the combine. As a result of this action the British agents of the Canadian Pacific road now refuse to issue passages on steamers of the Beaver Line.

To Underwrite the Trust.

New York, April 30.—There is the very best authority for the statement that the $50,000,000 syndicate, which is to underwrite the International Steamship Co., will receive securities of the company in return as follows: $50,000,000 in new 5 per cent. bonds, $2,500,000 new preferred stock, $25,000,000 new common stock. The syndicate will continue operative until January, 1904, unless previously dissolved by the managers.

GRAVEL CURED.

Remarkable Case of This Painful Disease.

Reuben Draper, of Bristol, Que., who was a Victim, Finds Relief and a Permanent Cure—He Tells of his Sufferings and how he Left his Trouble Behind

Bristol, Que., April 27th. (Special.)—No disease can cause more severe and dreadful pain than Gravel. Reuben Draper, of this place, was taken ill with this awful trouble about five years ago. He was cured and so many have asked him how it was done that he has decided to give the whole story for publication:

"About five years ago I was taken ill with the Gravel. I suffered great pain, so I sent for a doctor. He gave me some medicine and came to see me twice afterwards, but my disease was not gone, and in a short time I had another very bad attack.

"This time I sent for another doctor with about the same results, only I was getting weaker all the time.

"Then a man advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, for he said they had cured his mother. I thought I would try them and bought a box.

"Just one week after I began the treatment I passed a stone as large as a small bean, and four days later another about the size of a grain of barley—this gave me great relief, and I commenced to feel better and to gain strength right away.

"That was five years ago and I have not had any trouble in that way since. I have the stones in a small bottle and anyone can see them who wishes. Dodd's Kidney Pills certainly saved my life."

The story of Mr. Draper will be good news to many sufferers who may not have known that Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Gravel and Stone in the Bladder.

What has cured this gentleman and hundreds of other very bad cases should cure any one, and those who may be afflicted as Mr. Draper was should try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

PUT ON ARMED FORCE

A Contractors' War on a St. Lawrence River Island.

AGGRESSIVE GANANOQUE MEN

They Drove Brockville Men From Float Island and Placed an Armed Picket Guard to Prevent Them Landing Again—Both Claim the Right to Work There—The Work Stopped.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., April 30.—Canadian contractors, who are in dispute as to who has the contract for building the summer school on Float Island, in the St. Lawrence River, have seized the island and placed an armed picket guard in possession.

Last fall the Rev. Dr. Ullman, rector of Trinity School, New York City, purchased the island and granted certain contracts to Gananoque builders, who began work at once. Subsequently contracts were given to Brockville builders, who commenced work where the Gananoque men stopped.

The latter learning of the fact, appeared with a force of workmen. They tore down the work being done, drove off the Brockville men, and placed a guard on the island to prevent them from again landing on it.

The courts have granted an interim injunction, the writ being returnable on May 6, and all work is stopped until it is decided who has the right to erect the buildings.

"ACCIDENTAL HOMICIDE."

Verdict of the Kingston Jury in the Sharp-Holland School Tragedy of Monday Last.

Kingston, April 30.—Yesterday an inquest on the shocking school tragedy of Monday was held, when the evidence of school children, teacher, police and doctors was heard.

The lad evidently shot the Holland girl without saying a word. It was shown that he was a lively lad, whose mind was filled with the deeds of dime novel heroes. He was not really vicious, but played smart. The teacher had taken from him the pernicious literature of the Jesse James type.

At the evening session the jury heard the evidence of young McDermott, who denied having purchased the revolver, but it was later established that he had. A second-hand dealer gave evidence, but of no importance.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental homicide. They believed the boy did not think the revolver was loaded. The jury also called attention to the need of closer inspection of second-hand stores, and more stringent enforcement of the law regarding the sale and carrying of weapons.

Says Dreyfus Is Guilty.

Chicago, April 30.—Mr. Hughes Le Roux, the French lecturer, yesterday told the students of Chicago University: "Captain Dreyfus not only was guilty of conspiracy against the French Government, but he confessed to a number of charges, and asked for mercy when signing a petition for a pardon." He further said the proof would be made known to the public in 25 years.

Explosion on Submarine

Philadelphia, Pa., April 30.—The submarine boat Fulton and her two convoys, the yacht Mindora and the tug Storm King, bound from New York for Washington, put into the Delaware breakwater yesterday morning. An explosion occurred on the Fulton a short time after she reached the breakwater. Four of the crew were injured, one of them perhaps fatally.

120 Men Laid Off.

Rossland, B. C., April 30.—The effect of the drop in copper values was felt in this camp yesterday for the first time, when one hundred and twenty men were laid off at the Le Roi Mine. In the course of a few days the services of forty more will be dispensed with. The crew of the mine will then aggregate some four hundred and fifty men.

Attempted Suicide.

Ottawa, April 30.—Alexander MacWhinney, a tinsmith, attempted to commit suicide yesterday morning by jumping from a C.P.R. bridge into the Rideau River. He was rescued and arrested, and will be tried on a charged of attempted suicide. He had been on a prolonged debauch.

Ten Thousand Immigrants.

Winnipeg, April 30.—The number of immigrants arriving from the United States for the month of March was 3,343. The total number of British and American immigrants who have come to Canada this year is 10,069, as against 5,821 for the first three months of 1901.

To Lead Liberal Lords.

London, April 30.—At a meeting of the Liberal Peers yesterday afternoon, Earl Spencer was selected to succeed the late Earl of Kimberley as Liberal leader in the House of Lords.

PRINCESS RADZIWILL'S TRIAL.

She Wrote Dr. Jameson, Claiming That Mr. Rhodes Swore Falsely.

Cape Town, April 29.—At to-day's hearing in the Supreme Court of the charges of forgery brought against Princess Radziwill, the defendant, testifying in her own behalf, swore that the notes were not forgeries and said they were handed to her by Mrs. Schultz, whose husband died since the case was opened.

A quantity of correspondence was read in court. This included a letter from the Princess to Dr. Jameson, dated Feb. 12, 1902, in which she threatened strong measures to prove that the late Cecil Rhodes had perjured himself in court.

Princess Radziwill was subjected to a searching cross-examination. She admitted having wrongly used the names of Mr. Burdett-Coutts, M.P., and B. A. Hawksley, counsel for the British South Africa Company in her correspondence. She answered many of the questions asked her by saying: "I don't remember," or by saying, "I forget." The judge warned her to be careful. The Princess was cool throughout the hearing, and vehemently protested her innocence.

This letter concluded with the words: "A woman can show she can bite."

Continuing her testimony, Princess Radziwill denied having told Mrs. Schultz that she had in her possession compromising letters from Lord Milner, British High Commissioner in South Africa. She said she had compromising letters from Mr. Rhodes, but that Lord Milner's letters were not compromising. The Princess admitted having written to Mrs. Schultz, accusing her, and threatening her a merciless revenge.

Mrs. Schultz was called by the Crown, and denied having given the Princess blank bills signed by Cecil Rhodes.

A Wrong Idea of the Nerves.

The Action of the Heart, Lungs, Stomach, Liver and Kidneys Dependent on the Nerve Force—Extraordinary Results From the use of

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

There is not a single organ of the human body that can perform its functions without a liberal supply of nerve force—the motive power of the body.

The nervous system should never be thought of as a separate part of the body. Its branches extend from the brain and the spinal column to the tips of the fingers and toes. Just as the blood is carried by the arteries to every nook and corner of the system, so the nerve force, by means of nerve fibres, is distributed, and nerve force is just as important to life as is good, rich blood.

When the nerve cells are wasted, by over-exertion, worry or disease, more rapidly than they are replaced, the action of the heart becomes slower, the lungs begin to weaken, the stomach fails to do its duty, the liver and kidneys falter in their work as filters, and the excretory organs get feeble and inactive. You may be a sufferer from weakness and exhaustion of the nerves, and may have been attributing the trouble to the stomach, kidneys or other organs. Nervous exhaustion is marked by restlessness, disturbed sleep, languid, weary feelings, headache, dyspepsia and bodily pains, inability to concentrate the thoughts, absent-mindedness, weakened memory, twisting of the muscles and eyelids, sudden startings and jerking of the limbs in sleep, dizziness, irritability and gloomy forbodings.

Through the medium of the nervous system, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food carries new life and energy to every organ of the body. It strengthens the action of the heart, invigorates the stomach, makes the kidneys, liver and bowels more active, and builds up the entire system.

If you experience any of these symptoms of nervous exhaustion, you can rely absolutely on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to cure you. It does not stimulate, but thoroughly cures, by forming new, red corpuscles in the blood and creating nerve force.

Mr. E. Bowyear, a retired school teacher of 2 Markham-place, Toronto, says:

"I am getting up in years, and, as a natural result of severe study, my health has been undermined, and my system very much run down. I got so weak and nervous, and suffered so much from dizziness, that I found it necessary to begin a treatment of some kind. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has been so highly spoken of that I decided to give it a trial, and can now speak of its merits from personal experience. It has built me up wonderfully, and strengthened and restored my nervous system."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 1

A COMPLETE REPLY.

Premier Ross in His Brampton Speech Showed Results of Efforts of a Canadian in His Country's Development.

Brampton, April 29.—Premier Ross addressed a meeting here last night, which for enthusiasm and zeal for the cause of good government has probably never been equalled in the county town of Peel. The Town Hall, where the meeting was held, could not hold half those whou sought admission. The audience gathered early, and from the first to the last they manifested alike their interest in and their appreciation of the various points made. Peel Liberals are on their mettle, and the enthusiasm displayed last night by those who had come from a distance as well as the townspeople promises well for the result on May 29th. The Premier, who was in excellent form, delivered one of the best speeches of the campaign. His particular theme was a recital of what had been accomplished along the lines outlined in his inaugural speech at Whitby, criticism of which has been attempted by Mr. Whitney. The Premier's speech last night was a complete reply to his critics, and, as he modestly put it, showed the result of the efforts of a Canadian in the development of his country. The reception accorded both to Mr. Ross and Mr. Smith, the candidate, was of the most gratifying character.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

At a well-attended meeting in St. Paul's Hall, Toronto, Monday night, Mr. G. F. Marter, in the course of his speech, said that in regard to the differences between him and his party, in his opinion, he was right and the party wrong. That was a big thing to say, but there never was any principle in their course of action, and he was standing to his old principles of justice and honesty, and fair play to everybody alike.

Mrs. Darwin, the nominee of the Canadian Socialist League for North Toronto, and who, it might be stated, is a relative by marriage of the propounder of the celebrated theory of evolution, states that the Socialists have nominated her simply as a protest against the position in which the women of to-day were being kept. They are not chattels, nor the slaves of men. Mrs. Darwin is a thorough believer in theosophy and reincarnation, and the law of Karma. She is also a firm believer in the Darwinian theory.

NO TRUTH IN THE STORY.

Montreal Star's Story of the Premier's Health a Romance.

Ottawa, April 29.—The Montreal Star has surpassed all previous attempts at romancing by its statement yesterday afternoon that the Premier intends to retire after the coronation ceremonies. There is not a title of foundation for the story, which can be characterized as a pure fabrication. Had The Star made inquiries in the proper quarter it could easily have obtained evidence of the falsity of the story, but apparently it has given currency to the report without the slightest attempt at investigation. No member of the Government or of the House has been more faithful in the discharge of his Parliamentary duties during the present session than Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Early and late he has been in his seat, and has promptly responded to the incessant demands upon his time and attention. This of itself should be a sufficient answer to the statement that he is not equal to the cares of office. But as a matter of fact there has never existed any cause for anxiety as to the Premier's health; and, so far from entertaining any desire to withdraw from public life, he has been occupied with plans for the future which indicate his wish to remain at the head of public affairs as long as the people continue to honor him with their confidence. The Star's report may therefore be classed as wholly imaginative and utterly lacking in any element of truth. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's health during the session has not been as good as usual, but the Premier intends to take some rest at an early date, and he is satisfied that this little rest is all that he needs and all that he will have.

PICKED UP IN QUEEN'S PARK.

Twelve New Smallpox Cases Reported—Settlers For Temiskaming.

Toronto, April 29.—W. A. Parks has a good lot of exercise ahead of him in investigating the fossils of Western Ontario for the Bureau of Mines. He will start by walking between Hamilton and Sarnia.

At the Provincial Health Office yesterday, twelve new cases of smallpox were reported in the province from the following places: Osnabruck Township, Stormont County, four; Draper Township, Muskoka, three; Desbarats Township, Algoma, two; Plantagenet Village, one; Brockville, two.

Prof. Lougheed of the Guelph Agricultural College states that the first consolidated rural school in Ontario will be built near the college and convenient to the Macdonald School for the study of nature.

Sixty-three settlers took up homesteads in the Temiskaming district during March, totalling 10,080 acres. This is an unusually large number for March, in view of the difficulty from freshets, in going up there in that month.

Gold Royalty Reduced.

Ottawa, April 29.—The Government will reduce the royalty on gold in the Yukon to 2½ or 3 per cent. At present the royalty, if not paid in Dawson, will be collected at the boundary when the gold is exported. Those who wish to escape the export duty will have to produce a certificate that payment was made in Dawson. The reduced royalty will be applicable to all gold produced in the Yukon, and there will be no exemptions.

of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. There is only one DODD'S. Dodd's is the original. Dodd's is the name to be careful about—

Wonders of the Heart.

All the blood in the human body passes through the heart in about three minutes. The heart beats 70 times a minute, 4200 times an hour, 100,800 times a day, throwing out 2 1-2 ounces of blood a second, 656 pounds an hour, 7 and 3-4 tons per day. It is only when supplied with pure, rich, blood that the heart, an organ six inches long by four inches inches wide, can accomplish this enormous amount of work, and rebuild its only wasted tissues. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most effective treatment available for heart affections because it forms new, red blood and gives to it that life-sustaining quality, which is necessary to the health of every organ.

Piecing.

That's a word which may not be in the dictionary in this sense of its use, but which is in very common use in some sections of the country. "She's always piecing" they say of the woman who runs to the cupboard at irregular hours and eats a piece of pie, cake, or some other dainty. This irregular eating is one of the chief causes of dyspepsia and "weak" stomach.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are completely cured by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the supply of rich, pure blood, and gives the body vitality and vigor.

"A year ago I was feeling very badly," writes Mrs. Lizzie Abrams, of 158 Johnson Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y. "Had a very poor appetite and when I sat down at the table I could not eat, but would have to go away without even tasting the food. Chancing to hear from a friend who used your 'Golden Medical Discovery' for a disease similar to mine, I thought I would give the medicine a trial, and I can hardly express the benefit received from it. The first dose seemed to do me good. My appetite returned and I was able to eat heartily. I have improved so much since taking the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I do not look like the same person. Am to-day well and strong—the result of taking six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

STOCK MARKETS.

Drenching Western Rains Improving Market Situation.

New York, April 28.—Reports from the west show that section to be enjoying drenching rains. This will assist the crops, protecting same from draught. Good crops mean much for the future of stock values. Intensely exaggerated reports of damage to crops by draught and heat were circulated freely last week with the view to temporarily depressing stock values, so as to allow certain western manipulators to pick up shares from previous buyers who were over enthusiastic and bought too heavily on their capital. These operators met with more or less success in the operation, but the little fellows who were induced to sell short in the general weakness were losers. We again repeat our advice to buy stocks whenever they are depressed. These are bull times and this a bull market.

The steel trade is in the most magnificent condition. The late Jay Gould used to say, "Always buy and hold stocks when the iron and steel trade is buoyant. This advice is apropos today.

The U.S.S. corporation are about to bring about a successful issue their change of part of the prfd stock into five per cent bonds. By so doing, the the company will provide itself $50,000,000 additional capital, reduce its div. and interest payments $1,000,000 annually, and make it possible for them to add ten million dollars yearly to their net earnings. Both the com. and pfd stock of this Co. are immensely cheap at present writing, and should enjoy quite an extensive advance. The pay to their owners, whether bought upon margin, or paid for in full. A splendid return upon the investment, the shares have just commenced to feel the stimulation of the market and have commenced to advance. Early buyers who are patient holders, will be the ones to secure the largest profits. We heartily and earnestly recommend the purchase of both the prfd. and com. issues. Last year the common went above 75pt. should do even better than this time. The prefd. ought to reach 110 on absolute merit, the fact that the president of the company owns one hundred thousand shares of the stock indicates his opinion as to its value.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

New York, April 29th.—We notice today some excellent points from the New York Stock Holder, they are well worth perusal that paper says. The disposition to call stocks high, emanates from sources that disregard the factors influencing values, and the elements of the situation as those compared existing when they called values low. All points considered, stocks were dearer than at the lower prices, than they are to-day. They are getting smaller dividends, in many instances skinning the properties to keep their heads above the financial surface. The credit of the country was being bolstered up in various ways, while the financial and business worlds were facing what looked to be a sea of trouble. Insolvencies of properties were frequent, and distrust prevailed. The speculative and investment world was too poor to buy. Our products were not saleable up to the amount of production, and we could not utilize what we were producing. Seven or eight millions of pig iron were a burden, while coal was arbitrarily reflected in productions. Banks were choked with money for which there was no use, which would lead to the remark that some people who view with alarm the comparatively small surplus reserves of the banks to-day, might profitably look up the records of 1894, when they were topped one hundred millions. Stocks are higher in price now because in demand, and they are in demand because they are worth something. Stand for something at present prices and for greater possibilities. But as to being dear, St. P., R. I., N. W., etc. do not yield large incomes, but they must be measured by what is being earned for them 12 to 20 p. c., and not only by what they are yielding. Government Bonds and City Bonds would not sell so high, were the low returns the limit of earning power. But all stocks are not on this high plane as yet. Mop. can be bought to yield 3 p.c. while earning 12 p.c., L. N. about 4 p.c. and earning 9 p.c., Reading 4 1-2, Erie 4 1-4, and there is a choice of many more. Not only are the stockholders' remarks pregnant with meaning, and their selective illustrations most excellent, but many issues are at present earning more than sufficient to pay good divs. though yet uncommenced. They must expand in value also. Kt. shares enjoyed a continuance to-day of yesterday's boom. Inside buying was in evidence, these shares are going higher. Wheeling advanced 2 points. A goodly line of business was transacted in U. P., So. Pac., and N. Y. C. without material change in prices.

THE NORWOOD BUDGET.

What is Going on in the Village to the East.

Mr. James Anderson left on Monday morning for Cleveland, Ohio, where he intends to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Fowlds, of Hastings, were in town on Monday.

Mrs. Wilson, of Duluth, is spending a few days here as the guest of Mrs. W. Finlay.

Mr. G. B. Cameron of Peterborough, and Mr. Bert Lyall of Montreal, were in town on Monday as the guests of Mr. W. E. Roxburgh.

Mr. G. M. Roger and Mr. R.F. McWilliams were in this district on Monday looking after the interests of Mr. Wm. Anderson, the Liberal candidate for East Peterborough.

Our local golf enthusiasts have been scouring the country looking for a suitable place for their links. They have marked out now what they claim to be the best in Canada.

The High School Football Team drove to Hastings on Friday last, and played a friendly game with the village team. Although the Hastings team were very much heavier than the school boys our lads succeeded in defeating them by 1—0.

On Friday evening the "Old Maids" drove to Hastings and presented the play, "The Spinsters' Convention," in the Town Hall there in aid of the India Famine Fund. On account of the very disagreeable weather, the attendance was small, but those present thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment. In spite of the wet weather they report having had a fine time, for they say "All ducks like the rain."

It is our sad duty this week to record the death of Mrs. Jas. Raddon, who passed away at her home on Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock. Though Mrs. Raddon had been confined to her home for a few days, no one expected the sad end, and the onw of her death came as a shock to her many friends. Quiet and unassuming, gentle and kind, Mrs. Raddon won for herself a host of friends, who not only respected but loved her, and by her death Norwood loses one of its most esteemed citizens. She leaves a husband, a daughter and two sons to mourn her loss and in this sad hour they have the deep, heartfelt sympathy of the whole community. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon to the Norwood cemetery, and was largely attended. The pall bearers were Messrs. W. R. Waters, Jno. Knox, John Finlay, W. E. Roxburgh, Thos. Waller and Jas. Calder.

ASHBURNHAM LIBERALS.

An Organization Meeting of the Supporters of Mr. Anderson.

A number of the supporters of Mr. William Anderson, Liberal candidate in East Peterborough, met in the committee rooms, Ashburnham, last night, and effected organization for the coming campaign.

The chair was occupied by Mr. W. Feint, who explained the object of the meeting, after which the following officers were elected;

Chairman Village Association — W. Scott.

Chairman South Ward — William Feint.

Chairman North Ward — R. Sheridan.

Secretary Village Association — R. M. Glover.

Committee rooms have been opened in the shop formerly occupied by Mr. P. Glover as a butcher shop.

TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL.

Completing the Organization—The Gurney Co. Difficulty.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Peterborough Trades and Labour Council, was held in the Central Labour Hall on Wednesday evening. There was a good attendance of delegates, and the meeting was an important one.

After the ordinary routine business was disposed of, the president called upon the members to appoint two committees — a Credential and Organization Committee, and a Municipal and Legislative Committee. A ballot was taken, when the following members were declared elected;

Credential and Organization Committee — C. F. Browne, W. R. Turner, Hugh Robertson.

Municipal and Legislative Committee — Thos. Richardson, Thomas Stenton, F. F. Garden, S. W. Lowry, John Murray.

The organization having thus been successfully completed, a committee was appointed to frame bylaws for the Council. The following members were selected for this purpose;

Bylaw Committee — The President and T. G. Anderson, W. Menzies, and C. H. J. Mitchell.

On account of Mr. G. F. Gerrard, one of the auditors, having left the town, Mr. Chas. H. J. Mitchell was elected to fill the vacancy.

Eight of the unions forwarded their preliminary assessment for the working expenses of the Council, and a motion was passed requesting each union to pay an additional fifty cents per month until the Council got fairly under way, after which a merely nominal tax would be necessary.

A communication from the Toronto Executive Committee on the Gurney Co. labour difficulty, was reported on, and a resolution was passed in relation thereto. A special committee was also appointed to look after the local aspect of this matter, consisting of T. Richardson, H. Robertson and John Murray.

The delegates from the Bartenders' Union, reported a grievance to the Council verbally, and the Council asked for a written statement, officially signed, to be presented at the next meeting.

The Council then adjourned.

A THIRD CONSIGNMENT OF

BLENHEIMS

—AND—

TAFFETAS

Came to hand yesterday—Blenheim and Taffeta Dress Goods stand for what is best in fifty cent, seventy-five cent and $1.00 dress materials. Although having bought assuredly and heavily in these three cloths, we have nevertheless had to repeat and then repeat again. This makes the third lot we have received this season, and although we have a good big case of these goods, full 25 per cent. are already spoken for.

Black and Coloured Taffetas, 42 inches wide, clean, firm and light weight, lifey cloths, suitable for dresses, separate skirts or waists, decidedly the best 50c cloth in the market today. Shades of old rose, dark rose, grey, brown and black, all pure wool, per yard ..... .50

Black Blenheims, 46 inches wide, pirlie finish, warranted not to spot or cockle with the rain, a beautiful weave, a splendid finish, a fair weight and all wool, at per yard ..... .75

Blenheims at $1—This 50 inch Pirlie Finished Cloth stands without an equal at the price, and compares very favourably with $1.40 and $1.50 cloths in appearance. It's firm enough and heavy enough to make up unlined skirts—it's dressy enough to go into any bride's trousseau. This cloth is unspottable, is wear-resisting, and it has a permanent finish. It's OUR cloth for Peterborough. Speak quickly if you want any of these shades. We have to-day the colours we here mention—black, grey, castor, cardinal, myrtle, mauve, v. rose and navy, price per yard $1.00

A Job of 50 Pieces of Broadcloths, Amazons and Venetians, in this season's correct colourings. This lot of agent's cut pieces. Lengths run from 3 to 24 yards. Prices run in worth from $1.25 to $1.75, and the price at which we can sell them is $1.00 And they shouldn't last more than a week.

CHOPPED THE COAT.

A Schoolboy's Action at Victoria Park.

Mr. Benj. Cooney, the caretaker of Victoria Park, complains very bitterly of the action of certain young school boys, who persist in making trouble about the park, at noon hour or during recess. This morning Mr. Cooney had a boy up for mutilating his coat with an axe. The coat, with a gash or two in it, was produced in court as an exhibit, and about the only defence the young lad had was that he saw the coat hanging on a post and the axe alongside of it. It occurred to him that he would like to see how near he could come to the coat with the axe without hitting it. He came so near to the garment, however, that he damaged it considerably.

The Magistrate gave him some good sound advice and allowed him to go on this occasion.

G. W. GREEN FORGING AHEAD.

Pump Works and Machine Shop Improvements—Business Brisk.

Since Mr. G. Walter Green became the proprietor of the valuable property known as the Ontario Foundry, on McDonel street west, the premises have undergone many important improvements. The principal change has taken place in the western portion of the building, where the blacksmith shop and storage rooms were situated. This section has been entirely remodelled and fitted up in a very convenient manner with labour-saving machinery for boring and turning pumps. Additional new devices have been installed, so that in this section Mr. Green can now boast of having a most complete equipment for turning out work more rapidly than heretofore. The machine shop has also been overhauled and put into condition for more efficient service. Mr. Green continues to do a thriving business in windmills. This week he is erecting a Brantford New Imperial Steel Mill at Gore's Landing for Mr. Ed. Harris. This is a very powerful windmill and has a 70 foot tower, and 12 foot wheel, and is required to force water through nearly 2,000 feet of piping.

DEATH OF MR. CHAS. MILLS.

Mr. Charles Mills of the Township of Emily, died at his late residence on Saturday morning last, after a lingering illness of about seven months. His illness was brought on by a kick from a horse, and he continued to get worse, although at times he seemed a little better, but gradually got weaker, until on Saturday night he passed away.

Mr. Mills was very highly respected by all his acquaintances. He was born within a mile of where he died. He was an adherent of the Methodist church at Bethel, an affectionate husband, a loving father, and kind neighbour.

He leaves to mourn his loss, a wife, two sons, George and Charles at home, and six daughters, Mr. J. H. Harvey, Dauphin, Manitoba, Annie, Lily, Eva, Olive and Florence, at home.

The heartfelt sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved relatives.

The Cause Removed.

In curing a disease its only a waste of time to treat the symptoms. The medicine must reach the cause. Merrill's System Tonic does this. It purifies the blood, builds up the system, strengthens the nerves and is the only positive cure known for Constipation, Dyspepsia, Nerve Troubles and Kidney Disease—all disappear when it is taken. Three week's treatment for 50c. Sold at Ormond & Walsh's.

AN OLD PICTURE

Which has Been Donated to the Victoria Museum.

The Victoria Museum is indebted to H. St. George Baldwin, Esq., Toronto, for a picture which will be a reminder for old timers. It is a copy of a photo by Ewing, taken in 1865, from the Court House hill, looking across and down the river, taking in the old wooden bridge to Ashburnham, with Little Lake in the distance. Mr. Baldwin was at the time Teller in the Bank of Toronto here, and will be kindly remembered by a few of the older customers. The picture is quite large and is nicely framed.

MR. BARBER'S REFORMS.

If Elected For Halton Will Press For Them—Mr. Davis Speaks.

Milton, May 1.—Mr. John R. Barber, ex-M.P.P., of Georgetown, was yesterday unanimously chosen by the Liberals of Halton as their candidate in the approaching election. In accepting the trust reposed by the meeting, Mr. Barber outlined two reforms which he proposes to press for if returned: first, a revision and increase of the Dominion subsidy, and second, legislation for the assistance of forestry on the farm. Hon. E. J. Davis, who was present and spoke for an hour, took occasion to reply to some Opposition criticisms of the volunteer land grants, and dealt with general issues in his well-known vigorous and lucid manner.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

James Reid is again the Conservative candidate for Addington.

Premier Ross will speak at St. Catharines on May 6, Cornwall on May 8, and Alexandria on May 9.

The Socialist party at London, Ont., has definitely decided to put in nomination Mr. Fred. Hazelgrove for the city and Mr. Henry Wade for East Middlesex.

The Ontario Prohibition Campaign Committee has disbanded, having decided that there is no need for its existence, in view of the organization of the Union Campaign Committee.

Messrs. C. Berkeley Powell and Dennis Murphy were chosen by the Conservative convention Wednesday night to be the Conservative candidates for Ottawa in the approaching provincial general elections.

Mrs. Darwin has dropped out as candidate of the Socialist League in North Toronto, and Miss Hulle, secretary to H. Gaylor Wilshire, Socialist candidate in West Kent, will take her place. The League nominated on Wednesday night S. A. Corner in South Toronto.

The convention of the Liberal-Conservative party for the nomination of candidates for East and West Hamilton Wednesday night nominated Henry Carscallen, K.C., for East Hamilton, and Mayor John E. Hendrie for West Hamilton. Mr. E. A. Colquhoun, the recent member for West Hamilton, says he has been unjustly treated, and that he will run against Mayor Hendrie. The vote was taken, and Mayor Hendrie was declared elected by an overwhelming majority.

FISH ALIVE! Mackeral, haddock, lobsters, trout, shrimps, salmon, white fish, pike, finnan haddie.—R. A. DUTTON, 418 George street. Phone 304.

Catching Cod.

Once begun codfishing on the Banks is incessant, and when the fishing is good the men rarely ever sleep. Awakened at 2 a. m. to fill their bait "kids," or tubs, they start at daybreak to lift these trawls and remove the overnight catch, rebaiting the hooks again. There are about 3,000 hooks to handle, and this often occupies until eventide, when the boats row back. After unloading the deck is piled high with the glittering mass of fish. To eviscerate this and stow it in the hold keeps them until midnight, when they snatch an hour or two of sleep.

Some can go without sleep for a week. Others will rub wet tobacco in their eyes so that the pain may keep them wakeful a few hours longer. Others again will work till they drop from sheer exhaustion and sleep as they lie until aroused by comrades. A Chinese torture is to keep men without sleep, and "banking" does this to an extent to satisfy even the most exacting Celestial. The men sleep in their underclothing. When above decks, they can never leave off their oilskins, for on the Banks it is rarely fine. Mist and murk prevail, and the rigging and sails drip water always.

Window Blinds, Poles, etc.

The prices we specialize this week will be welcome at this season of shifting, moving and housecleaning. Every new style, with a great display of window blinds and cornice poles, will help you to select quickly, because prices and general effects invite irresistibly. Two hundred and fifty curtain poles, assorted woods, any finish, brass trimmings, complete, regular 30c., for 19c., this week only. A lot of old newspapers for sale for laying under carpets, wrapping purposes, etc. A. H. Stratton & Co.

A Genuine Triumph

in the medical line is that made by a Brantford druggist, called Merrill's System Tonic. It embodies an idea long thought of but just recently made chemically possible. When system Tonic is taken the old blood is purified, new rich blood is made, while all the principal organs in the body are toned and new tissue constructed. The result is perfect health. Sold in 50c. bottles, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1902.

A QUIET ELECTION CONTEST—WHY?

Everybody who keeps in touch with current events through the press and otherwise, remarks the quietness of the election contest throughout the country. There is absolutely no excitement. There is no firing of the heather; no breathless runner is passing the firey cross to another breathless runner in token of a terrible danger to the country. The course of business moves on as usual, employer and employed are busy reaping the harvest of the prevalent prosperity. Buying and selling is going on as usual. The market place has its usual quota of attendants, as quietly attending to business as if the province was not on the verge of ruin and only to be saved by the desperate exertions of Mr. Whitney and his followers.

There is no excitement such as there would surely be if the people took the least stock in Mr. Whitney's frenzied clamours that the liberties of the people are in danger; that the canker of corruption is eating out the vitals of the country; that our affairs are mismanaged; that financial and industrial ruin is upon us; that direct taxation is not only staring us in the face but digging into our pockets, and that unless he and his band of political purists, progressive statesmen and—office seekers—are not put into power, that on May 30th there will be a Provincial cataclysm, an earthquake compared to which that of Pompeii was but the tremor of an eyelid.

If the people took the least stock in the cries of Mr. Whitney and his followers, would we not expect to see the country ablaze with excitement, the very earth tremulous with the tread of excited feet hastening to the councils of the party that is going to avert these catastrophies that exist only in the political ghost stories of Mr. Whitney and his coadjutors?

On the contrary there is no excitement. The people feel that the country is safe under the present Government. They believe that the splendid administration of our affairs the Province has flourished under a quarter of a century, will be continued under the Ross Government, and that the policy of the Ross Government — go-ahead, progressive and admirably adapted to our conditions—is the only policy now before them that can give the province the full benefits of the tidal wave of prosperity that is rolling over the Dominion from sea to sea—the only policy that meets the aspirations of the people of the most wide-awake and progressive province of Canada. The people don't want a change — especially for the worse. If the electorate at large wanted a change there would be some evidence of it in some popular clamour, some popular outcry, some popular demand, for concerted action, to "save the country."

The only cry for a change we hear comes from the political candidates and political workers, who demand a change from Opposition to office, from journals in the same interests, or from some disgruntled "Grit," who in the vulgate of the street, has failed to "work a graft."

"Let well enough alone," is a proverb the people take to heart. Mr. Blezard represented East Peterborough well for twenty-five years, and the electors did not clamour for a change — it was only when he wanted a rest and leisure, in his advancing years, that he retired from public life; not because anybody wanted to make a change. Mr. William Anderson represented Otonabee well for twenty-five years, in the township and county councils, and nobody demanded a change. He could, doubtless have continued to serve in these capacities, but a worthy successor of Mr. Blezard was wanted, and Mr. Blezard himself nominated, and the Liberals approved, the man whom he, and they, felt would "fill the bill," as he will fill Mr. Blezard's seat in the next Parliament.

If these gentlemen had not given faithful and satisfactory service, would not the people have cried out for a change, and made a change, as the people made a change in 1896, when the long career of a corrupt and time-serving Government at Ottawa, gave authority and substance to a demand for a change?

The Ross Government has served the province well for three years, and they present to the people a policy that is in keeping with the enterprising instincts of the people of the province, one which will build up the province, and the people quietly accept that policy, and the record of the Government, unstirred, unexcited by the outcry of the Opposition.

Would the people go on their way so quietly, buying and selling, the women house-cleaning, if they thought their dearest civil rights were in danger; if the abyss of provincial ruin yawned at their feet?

If the people believed a tenth part of the platitudinous philippics, the hysterical horn-blowing, the blue-ruin pessimism, of Mr. Whitney, would they go on their way so serenely? They would stay awake nights—they would tear their hair by day, they would call out the military, declare martial law, put Ross, Gibson, Harcourt, Dryden, Davis, Stratton and Latchford, in irons, and raise the mischief generally.

And the people know a good thing when they see it—appreciate a good Government when they have it; they are contented to let, not only well enough, but very good, alone, and are not disposed to waste lung power in crying for a change, where there is no need for, and will be no change. There are good reasons for a quiet election contest.

CONSERVATIVES GAVE CONSENT

The charge repeatedly made by the Conservative speakers and Conservative press, is that the Liberals, led by the Government of this province, have been giving away large pulpwood areas, and that the agreements in regard to them were secretly made.

What are the facts?

The concession to the company does not give it any right to a title in the land. The only right the company has is to cut the pulpwood within a certain area for the use of its works, which must be contiguous. The company cannot sell the pulpwood to any other person or export it.

The land is subject to settlement by any who are desirous of homesteads.

The concession is limited to twenty-one years, and is not subject to transfer until the works referred to in the agreement have been completed.

The agreement, on the side of the company, is very binding. It involves the investment of a sum, varying from a quarter of a million in the case of the smallest company to one and a half millions in the case of the Keewatin Company. It requires that a certain amount of labour be done each year, with Canadian hands, implements and supplies.

The wood is not given away. The wood, twenty years ago, before it was sought as now for paper making, was considered worthless. Ten years ago the price was put at twenty cents a cord, to which price Mr. Whitney and his associates, gave consent. In 1900 the price was doubled. If Mr. Whitney thought forty cents per cord was not enough he should have moved a resolution and fixed the price at what he thought it ought to be. He knows that the companies cannot speculate on the concessions, that they must spend a certain amount of money, hire a certain amount of labour, and do a certain amount of work in a certain time or forfeit the privileges they have received. Moreover, Mr. Whitney and his friends know that the price of pulpwood can be increased from time to time as the circumstances warrant. Not a stick of it is given away.

Were the agreements secretly made?

The first was entered into with the Sault Ste. Marie company in 1894, and ratified by the house in April, 1895. The second, with the Nepegon company, was made in 1896, and the third with Sturgeon Falls company, in 1899. To all of these the Opposition gave their consent. In 1900 three agreements were submitted to parliament. Two of them were new concessions, those of the Spanish River and Blanche River companies. Last session the Montreal River company obtained its concession. The Conservatives opposed all of them, and all of them were ratified in the Legislature. So that every agreement was publicly effected, and of no avail until publicly endorsed. But mark this: The Opposition, as Mr. Ross has pointed out, supported three of the concessions—said of one, the Sault Ste. Marie, that it was the proper thing—and let the extension of three agreements, which were originally opposed, go without a division, though the terms of extension were in all essentials respects similar to the terms of the original agreements.

So that several things have been made clear:

1. No pulpwood areas have been given away.

2. There was not a secret agreement in respect to any one of them.

3. The Conservatives gave their consent to six out of seven of them, and moved no amendment to the seventh when it was under discussion.

THE BEEF QUESTION

Discussion on Army Beef Contracts of Great Britain.

CANADIAN MEAT IS BEING USED

This, Too, Notwithstanding the Rule Restricting the Contracters to Home-Bred—Mr. Fisher's Satisfactory Explanation of All the Circumstances—R.M.C. Cadets and the Coronation.

Ottawa, May 1.—The House made good progress in supply yesterday, the bulk of the amount required for the postoffice outside service being voted. Before going into supply Mr. E. Gus Porter advanced the claims of the cadets of the Royal Military College to be permitted to send a detachment with the coronation contingent. The Minister of Militia replied that the G.O.C. has advised that it was not advisable to comply with the request. Mr. N. Boyd submitted an amendment censuring the Government for not having made timely representations to the British Government with a view to securing the withdrawal of the provision in contracts requiring the beef supplied to the Imperial army on duty in the British Isles to be home-bred. Hon. Mr. Fisher denied that the Government had been negligent; on the contrary, he hoped the vigorous measures they had taken would shortly be crowned with success. The amendment was defeated by a majority of 47. After routine a number of Government bills, including the Yukon and Northwest Lands Acts' amendments, were put through the final stages.

Mr. Fielding then moved the House into Committee of Supply, whereupon E. Guss Porter, asked an explanation of the course the Minister of Militia was adopting toward the Royal Military College cadets, in refusing them representation on the coronation contingent.

The Minister of Militia replied that there was never any intention or promise that a representation would be sent from the Royal Military College. No doubt, however, there would be among the officers and men of the contingent, gentlemen who had graduated at the Royal Military College. Major-Gen. O'Grady-Haly strongly advised against sending the young gentlemen over as a unit. If they went, they would have to go in the ranks, which was undesirable. If, too, these cadets were sent, the Government could not refuse to send also cadets from other schools. He protested against any "cheap attempt" to show that either he or the Government were not doing the utmost to promote the welfare of the college.

After some remarks by Mr. Lennox, the subject dropped.

War Office and Canada's Beef.

Mr Boyd, Conservative M.P. for Marquette, brought up the subject of the refusal of the War Office to accept Canadian beef for army contracts. This, he said, was but an order of the War Office and not a law. He read a letter dated Jan. 4, 1902, written from Liverpool, which stated that about 40 per cent. of the Northwest cattle used to be consumed for the British army contracts, and the change had done injury to the Canadian cattle.

The contract form provided that all beef for the army must be "home-bred," and a label attached certifying to that effect. Notwithstanding this blow at Canadian trade, the Canadian Government did not seem to be aware of it.

He concluded by moving the following resolution in amendment to a motion to go into supply:

"It appears from the form of tender and contract called for by the British Government for the supply of beef to the British troops in Great Britain and Ireland, contractors are not allowed to supply Canadian beef for that purpose. That although this exclusion has prevailed since the month of June, 1901, this House regrets that no steps have been taken by the present Government to redress this grievance by making timely representations to the British Government with a view of securing the protection of the interests of the farmers and cattle dealers of Canada."

Mr. Fisher's Reply.

Hon. Sydney Fisher regretted that Mr. Boyd had made the motion as a vote of censure, and in placing it before the House had gone farther than justified by the facts. At the outset Mr Fisher explained that he was in England when the regulation complained of was imposed, and it did not come under his attention until the early part of this year. The regulation was of such a nature that it was not published, and the Government had not received copies of the contracts issued in the past. Mr. Fisher quite appreciated the injury which had been done to the Canadian industry by the exclusion of Canadian meat from the contracts for Great Britain. Immediately the matter came to the knowledge of the department representations were made to the War Office by Lord Strathcona that the regulation was unfair, but no reply has yet been received. The department was in a somewhat peculiar position, however, as since this regulation was made contracts have been made in South Africa in which the War Office has accepted Canadian beef. Through representations made by his department contracts have been sent to Canada for supplying both the army and navy, and Canadian contractors have been put upon the list, and contracts have been filled by Canadian contractors with Canadian meat. The Department of Agriculture has been endeavoring for some time past to secure contracts for Canadian contractors to supply what is wanted for the Imperial service, and he hoped, from the representations which have been made already, and which are now being made, the disability would soon disappear, as he was confident Canadian cattle were as good as any other. With regard to the removal of the embargo upon our cattle entering England, from the repeated refusals given by the Imperial Minister of Agriculture to the requests of Canada, and even of the London Butchers' Association, he feared there was no hope of success at present.

The House then divided on the motion, which was defeated by 98 to 51, on a straight party vote.

Mr. Bourassa gave notice that on the next motion to go into supply he would move that at the Colonial Coronation Conference the Premier would endeavor to have the embargo against Canadian live cattle in Great Britain removed.

P.E.I. Railway.

In Committee of Supply the estimates for the Prince Edward Island Railway were taken up, and on the vote of $600,000 for the Murray Harbor Branch and Hillsboro Bridge, Mr. Blair explained that the whole work would cost $2,600,000, of which $1,100,000 was for the bridge, the province contributing as its share of the cost $10,000 a year to be taken from the annual subsidy.

Having passed estimates amounting to $3,646,000 for outside postal service, the committee rose and the House adjourned at 11.55.

Your Blood in May Must Produce True Vitality or Disease.

Paine's Celery Compound

Expels all Winter Impurities and Poisons From the Blood and Builds up the Entire System.

True health can only be maintained by keeping the body free of acid and sluggish blood and morbid waste matters. The blood that is pumped by the heart to all parts of the body, carries nourishment and health, or poison and the seeds of death.

Close confinement in badly ventilated offices, stores, and workshops during the winter months, has lowered the vitality of tens of thousands. Poisons and impurities have been implanted in the blood; these agents of death must be expelled, if health would be maintained during the coming summer.

The month of May should be renovating and building-up time with the vast army of weak, debilitated and broken down men, women and young people.

If the work of purifying and vitalising the blood be longer deferred, eruptions, blotches, sores, eczema, scrofula, erysipelas and other dangers are sure to be your portion.

Paine's Celery Compound meets successfully at this season all unhealthy conditions of the blood. It is the only medicine that can guarantee perfect purification of the vital fluid; that can give true nutriment to the nerves and tissues, that can bestow new life, vigour, and strength for the enjoyment of summer and the prosecution of life's duties. Mr. D. McMahon, Peterborough, Ont., says:

"I have great pleasure in testifying to the fact that Paine's Celery Compound has caused a remarkable change in my condition. I was troubled with a very bad type of eczema on my face and in patches over my body for four years, and was under the treatment of three doctors at different periods. I had also tried other remedies but all proved useless. At last I bought a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and put in Iodide of Potassium, as recommended on the label. The one bottle did me so much good that I bought five bottle more, and now am happy to say I am perfectly cured, and completely free from the troublesome disease."

NATIONAL TRUST COMPANY, Limited, Toronto, Montreal, and Winnipeg.

N.B.—Since the Prospectus of the Company was issued (about the First of April), the Company has received two offers for the purchase of its entire output of paper. These offers are entirely unsolicited, and are from parties whose standing is such as to guarantee the performance of any contract they may undertake. One of these offers covers the first year of production, and the other covers the first three years. Either offer, if accepted, would be sufficiently profitable to assure the payment of the full dividend on the Preferred Stock, provide the amount required by the Charter for a Reserve Fund, and leave a balance sufficient to pay a large dividend on the Common Stock, if no unforeseen contingencies should arise. This does not include profits estimated from the sale of sulphite pulp or from the saw mill, which, it seems reasonable to suppose, would be sufficient to cover all unexpected contingencies.
